RETAIL CODE PROPOSED TO GIVE WORK TO A MILLION

Representatives of Majority of Lines Suggest 40-Hour Week, With 48 for Food Stores, and Wage Close to President's Plan.

RADIO PROPOSAL IN; SHOE MEN PRODDED

Latter Asked to Reconcile Differences by Tomorrow—Johnson Watching Labor Policies in Auto, Coal and Steel Agreements.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Immediate application of parallel codes of competition for retail trade, under which food dealers' help would work 48 hours and that of all others, except drugs, 40 hours a week, was asked of the Recovery Administration today by representatives of a majority of retail lines. Hugh S. Johnson, the administrator, took the proposal under advisement and promised an early answer so that the millions of retail establishments throughout the country might use their code terms, if approved, in place of those laid down in the President's voluntary agreement. This procedure has been provided for specifically in the regulations promulgated regarding the temporary agreement.

The food dealers' representatives satisfied Deputy Administrator A. Whiteside that a 48-hour work week was necessary in groceries and related establishments, but he would not give them final word until Johnson himself had spoken. Whiteside expects a definite proposal from druggists by Monday.

Under 40-Hour Plan.

The ones subscribing to the 40-hour plan are National Retail Dry Goods Association, National Retail Furniture Association, National Retail Hardware Association, Mail Order Association of America, National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers and National Shoe Retailers Association.

Several of those taking part in the conferences indicated minimum wage levels were in close conformity with the $15 to $12 minimums which the blanket agreement prescribes for different cities on the basis of population.

Those represented in the submission of the 40-hour code said their plan would reduce working hours by from 23 to 40 per cent and employ at least a million more workers.

Radio and Retail Codes.

A proposed code has been submitted by the Radio Manufacturers' Association estimated to re-employ 10,000 persons and increase payrolls $3,000,000 annually. For a [illegible]-hour week, barring child labor, the minimum scale would be 40 cents an hour unless this rate was lower on July 15, and in no case would the rate be less than 30 cents [illegible] hour.

A code has been submitted by the Cement Gun Contractors' Association, with headquarters in Pittsburgh, providing a wage ranging from 40 to 75 cents and maximum hours of 37 per week. Cement gun contractors employ hydraulic pressure guns to force concrete into crevices difficult to reach.

Shoe Men Asked to Act.

Instructions went forth today to shoe manufacturers to attempt to reconcile their differences by Monday on a code of fair competition for that industry. A deadlock has arisen between Eastern manufacturers and shoe men from the South and Mid-West. The chief point at issue is understood to be the problem of wage differentials.

For two days officials of the National Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' Association have been in conference with Deputy Administrator [illegible] C. Williams on a tentative code reported to provide a 40-hour week and a minimum wage of $14 weekly with no differential between New England and manufacturing centers in the South and West.

Meanwhile, in St. Louis, plans have gone ahead for the organization of a separate trade group under the name of the "American Shoe Manufacturers" and presentation of an independent code. This group is reported to be contemplating a code providing a 40-

MATTERN PLANE FORCED DOWN

He and Pilot Uninjured in Accident Near Toronto.

By the Associated Press.

TORONTO, Ont., July 29.—James Mattern, returning to New York after his unsuccessful effort to establish a round the world flight record, made a forced landing at Lionshead Bruce Peninsula today. Neither Mattern nor his pilot, Pat Reid, was injured. The landing was made necessary by a cracked cylinder head.

Mattern said he would continue to Toronto in an automobile and would take off from here for New York tomorrow morning.

NEW YORK, July 29.—Plans for a City Hall reception for James Mattern were announced today. The flyer will be received Monday noon by Mayor John P. O'Brien. He will be met at Floyd Bennett Field on his arrival fro mCanada tomorrow by a reception committee headed by J. Thomas Fox, confidential assistant to the Mayor. The committee will escort him to the Coney Island Hotel where he made his headquarters before his takeoff on June 3.

Wife Shot to Death When Husband Calls, "Stop."

By the Associated Press.

PICHER, OK., July 29.—Mrs. Mae Sinn, 38-year-old wife of Charles Sinn, a miner, was shot to death shortly after midnight by one of two automobile thieves who took her coupe. Mr. and Mrs. Sinn were in bed when they heard a car start in their driveway. Running to the front porch, Sinn shouted "Stop" at the robbers. The answer was a rifle shot, which struck Mrs. Sinn in the chest.

The robbers escaped with the coupe.

NEW U. S. ISSUE OF BONDS; SOME AS LOW AS $50

Secretary Woodin Announces Books Will Be Open Tomorrow; Half Billion for Investment.

'ORDINARY EXPENSES WITHIN REVENUES'

Treasury Chief Hopes Public Will Recognize Offering as Evidence of Better Conditions.

By the Associated Press.

EASTHAMPTON, Long Island, N. Y., July 29.—In order to give the public a wider opportunity to participate in the Government's recovery program, the United States Treasury is planning for next month a $500,000,000 bond issue in denominations as low as $50.

Making this announcement from his home today, William H. Woodin, Secretary of the Treasury, said the issue "marks a further step in placing Government finance on a broader and more stable basis."

The Treasury Department head, who has been here several weeks recovering from illness, explained the August financing program also will include a smaller amount of short-term obligations. He said details would be announced tomorrow at Washington.

"Not Large But Important."

Woodin added that the bonds would be the first issued by the Government since 1931. He said the issue is "not a very large one but it is an important one," and continued:

"The President in his address over the radio last Monday night made it clear that the success of the Government's plans depends upon the fullest possible co-operation from all the people.

"It is a source of satisfaction that the improvement in banking and financial conditions and the greater assurance as to the future now makes it possible for the Government to issue a security which will be attractive to individual investors as well as to financial institutions.

"The coming issue will be made available in denominations as low as $50 so that people with limited amounts to invest, as well as large investors, may buy them.

"Attractive Investments."

"The amount of the issue, the rate of interest and the maturity, which will be announced from the Treasury Department tomorrow, will make the bonds attractive investments.

"Congress and the administrative departments have made remarkable headway in reducing ordinary expenses which have been brought within current revenues.

"New sources of revenue have been provided for interest on and repayments of funds borrowed for emergency purposes.

"These emergency expenditures are esesntially of a constructive character and are being administered with a view to promoting a maximum of improvement in employment and in economic conditions generally. A considerable part of the funds so expended will eventually return to the Treasury.

Books Open Tomorrow.

"I am confident that tomorrow's offerings of bonds will be recognized by individual and corporate investors, large and small, as tangible evidence of improved economic conditions and as an opportunity for investment.

"The subscription books will be opened Monday and may be closed at any time. Applications for the bonds of the new issue should be made promptly. Banking institutions generally will be in a position to inform purchasers as to how to proceed."

STORMS AND FOG AGAIN DELAY BALBO'S TAKE-OFF

Italian Seaplanes Still Expected to Fly to Ireland from Shoal Harbor, N. F.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

SHOAL HARBOR, N. F., July 29.—Gen. Italo Balbo announced tonight that his fleet of 24 Italian seaplanes would not take off tomorrow, as he had so confidently hoped during the afternoon. His decision was made when newer weather reports advised him fogs had been rising again in the path of his scheduled flight and that storms were raging near Ireland.

The General would not commit himself as to his destination but the belief existed that he would head his squadron for Valentia, Ireland, an 1800-mile hop.

BLACK ROSE DRAWS CROWD TO GARDEN IN GERMAN HARZ

Produced in Sangerhausen Rosarium, Endowed by Milwaukee Woman.

By the Associated Press.

SANGERHAUSEN, Germany, July 29.—Flowering under the watchful eyes of numerous park attendants, the world's first black rose, pride of the great Sangerhausen Rosarium, is drawing throngs of visitors to this small Harz town.

The flower, the creation of which was recently announced, is a cross between two extremely dark varieties of roses, "Chateau de Clos Vougeot" and "Lord Castlereagh." It is of a velvety deep black-red hue, so dark, especially in dry hot weather, that it may be described as black. The fragrant petals show no shading whatever. The bush buds freely, and its leaves are dark green.

The new bloom is the reward of five years' of experiment by Max Krause, a rose grower.

An American horticultural firm has undertaken to introduce the new rose into the United States next year.

MOTHER RIDES WITH POSSE TO SAVE LIFE OF HER SON

'I Can Make Him Surrender,' She Tells New Mexico Sheriff After Deputy Is Shot.

By the Associated Press.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., July 29.—To save her son's life, a mother rode tonight with a Torrence County posse.

She is the mother of Jack Layman, former convict, for whom the "dead or alive" order went out last night after he allegedly shot and probably fatally wounded Bill Meador, 20 years old, Deputy Sheriff.

The posse, one of several combinations of Texas and New Mexico officers engaged in "cleaning up the bad lands," announced they would show no quarter to Layman, but his mother, after appealing to Sheriff Rex Meador, father of the gunman's alleged victim, was allowed to join them.

"I can make him surrender," she told Sheriff Meador today as the Sheriff came to Albuquerque with his wounded son.

She also asked for a note from the Sheriff to the posse, guaranteeing protection for her son from mob violence and in return promised to use her efforts in attempting to locate her son and bring about his surrender. She was accompanied by her daughter.

KING WIELDS PICKAX ON JOB

Afghanistan Ruler Helps 20,000 Volunteers on Building.

By the Associated Press.

KABUL, July 29.—The King of Afghanistan and his only son, Prince Muhammad Zahir Khan, made history here when they took pickaxes and worked on the leveling of a site for a new military academy.

The selected site was a great mass of debris and mounds and engineers found about 12,000,000 cubic feet of earth would have to be moved. The magnitude of the task did not deter the Afghans. More than 20,000 of them, including the entire army, volunteered to level the site and in a fortnight the job was finished.

SEIZES WILD TIGER BY TONGUE

Young Man in India Holds Animal Until It Is Killed.

By the Associated Press.

CALCUTTA, India, July 29.—Banshi Mukherji, a young Bengali villager in the district of Bankura, is the hero of this tiger story.

Villagers had gone out to corner a man-eater which had been terrorizing the district and forced the tiger to take refuge in a tree. Banshi threw a lance, the tiger leaped, Banshi thrust his hand down its throat and grasping its tongue held on until the villagers killed it with cudgels. The tiger measured 7 feet, 6 inches, the villagers said.

The paint was worn off the hull of their boat, "Trade Wind," which had stopped last at the Canary Islands on June 5. Several times, the brothers said, the vessel leaked and the water had to be bailed out by a hand pump.

RESIGNED OFFICER OF STANDARD TO BE OIL DICTATOR

Roosevelt Reported Ready to Name J. A. Moffett, Who Gave Up $100,000 Job Defending Policy.

BREAK WITH TEAGLE CAUSES WITHDRAWAL

Fight Between Major Companies Over Federal Regulation Apparently Developing.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—James A. Moffett of New York, who resigned yesterday as vice-president of Standard Oil of New Jersey, was pointed to authoritatively today as the man who will enforce oil production control.

He quit his $100,000 a year job yesterday because of a disagreement between himself and other officers over President Roosevelt's oil policies.

From Hyde Park, where the Chief Executive rested over the week-end, came word that the administration has not been satisfied with the attitude of some officers of the New Jersey company, of which Walter C. Teagle is president and W. S. Farish chairman of the board.

Teagle, chairman of the advisory committee aiding Hugh S. Johnson, the industrial administrator, and Farish have been at odds with Moffett, who was senior vice-president of the company, opposing Moffett's view that the Government should supervise the oil industry and its prices.

Moffett resigned yesterday after Teagle had told him he either would have to resign from the company or reject an offer of appointment to the Johnson advisory committee. Teagle was reported to have asked the board of directors of the company to accept Moffett's resignation.

Plans Under Way.

Establishment of a special administrative agency to enforce oil production control was understood in informed quarters to be planned by President Roosevelt, with the expectation that Moffett would be active in its supervision.

Whether such an agency would be set up in the Recovery Administration under Johnson or in the Interior Department was a subject on which no one would comment, but President Roosevelt was thought to want control under the Interior Department.

Should enforcement of production and refining proposals that will be put forward in a trade practice plan for the industry now being formulated by Johnson, Interior Department officials and other agencies, be assigned to the Interior Department, Secretary Ickes probably would be designated Oil Administrator with Moffett to aid him.

This decision rests with President Roosevelt. He has called in Moffett in the past for his views on oil problems and possible solutions, and both he and Secretary Ickes have shown high regard for the oil executive.

28 Years With Standard.

Quiet and friendly, Moffett is 47. He is recognized among oil men as an authority on its problems. He has been 28 years with the Standard of Jersey, with which his father served about 40 years, part of the time as president.

Moffett said yesterday he was in full accord with the President's policies, and added:

"My views as to the policies to be pursued apparently are not in accord with those of the board of the New Jersey company."

Teagle and Farish maintained an absolute silence. Meanwhile, Secretary of Commerce Roper, chairman of the Cabinet Advisory Committee assisting Johnson, sought to allay the friction between Teagle and Moffett.

Roper said he had asked Moffett to sit on the advisory board and intended to have his appointment approved, but that he hoped Teagle would remain. Some observers thought that Teagle might resign because of the sharp conflict between his views and those of Moffett.

Oil Fight Brewing.

Moffett's resignation was looked upon in oil circles as bringing into the open a contest between the major oil companies over price regulation and Federal supervision of the industry.

K. R. Kingsbury, president of the Standard of California, Harry F. Sinclair, of the Consolidated Oil Corporation and a wide section of

84 METEORS AN HOUR NOTED AT MT. WILSON

Webster Groves Youth Making Observations Says Total in Three Nights Sets Record.

By the Associated Press.

PASADENA, Cal., July 29.—A group of scientists returned here from Mount Wilson today after three nights on top of the 6000-foot peak watching the meteors known as the Delta Aquarids.

J. Wesley Simpson, Webster Groves, Mo., youth who is regional director for Missouri and South Central Illinois for the American Meteor Society, said the count of the meteors was the "highest in our records."

The observations were the first Simpson had made from the site of the observatory. Heretofore, observations had been made at points in the Midwest.

Simpson said 300 meteors were counted last night in a space of four hours, the greatest fall occurring between 2:45 and 3 a. m. when 21 were counted. The average was 84 an hour. On the night of July 26 and the morning of July 27, Simpson said 300 meteors were counted, averaging 60 an hour.

Cloudy weather hindered the observations July 27, about 40 meteors an hour being recorded, the heaviest fall being around midnight.

Simpson's records showed his largest previous count was in Missouri, when the fall averaged 26 meteors an hour.

"The observations at Mount Wilson eclipsed anything I've seen," Simpson said. "The stars were much brighter than in the past and we estimated the brilliance of two very bright meteors as greater than that of the planet, Venus. Altogether we counted 742 meteors in nine hours.

"This is much more than in recent years, according to our previous records and observations. The only explanation I can offer is that the visibility from so elevated a point as Mount Wilson may be much better than at points where observations have been made in other years."

Simpson will remain here for several weeks to study further showers of other meteor groups.

WIFE OF OIL MAN SUES HIS PRIVATE SECRETARY

Mrs. Leonard P. St. Clair Seeks $150,000 Alleging Alienation of Affections.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 29.—Accused of alienating the affections of Leonard Pressley St. Clair, president of the Union Oil Co. of California and president of the Independent Oil Producers' Agency, while she was his private secretary, Miss Lucretia V. Goode was sued today for $150,000 by the oil man's wife, Mrs. Annastatua St. Clair.

Miss Goode began her efforts to win her employer's affection in October, 1930, and succeeded in causing him to leave his home last July 16, Mrs. St. Clair alleges in the suit.

PRESIDENT RELAXES AT HYDE PARK HOME

Greeted by Neighbors on Arrival for Short Stay—To Have Office in Poughkeepsie.

By the Associated Press.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., July 29.—President Roosevelt came here today for a short stay, arriving after a slow night ride from Washington on a special train. He smiled happily as his old friends and neighbors cheered him on his first visit to his home as President of the United States.

His mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt, got the first handshake and greeting at the small depot. Then there were handclasps all around. This old Republican county was out in force for its native son. Hyde Park streets were lined and children stood by the road waving flags as Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt motored to Krum Elbow, the ancestral home overlooking the Hudson River.

Corn stalks were waving in the broad reaches between the home and the Albany post road. Roosevelt said it was "just enough to feed the cows."

In Poughkeepsie, the streets were decorated with flags and bunting. Huge signs saying "Welcome Home, President Roosevelt," were stretched out. Crowds lined the main thoroughfare. The President has established an office in Poughkeepsie with Marvin H. McIntyre, his secretary, in charge.

He spent the morning unpacking and went late in the afternoon for a swim in the pool several miles away where his wife has a cottage and workshop.

Removing his straw hat for some pictures on the doorstep of the home, the President showed a suntanned face, the result of weekends on the water.

A few local officials who went as far as the residence with him observed to newspaper men that their big surprise was his excellent physical condition despite his strenuous days at the Capitol.

The President clamped on "the lid" for the week-end, denying himself to callers and to business. However, he expects to keep the closest tab on the progress of the national recovery campaign. Cabinet officers will be called in as situations arise. Secretary of State Hull is expected here next week on his return from the London economic conference.

About Aug. 10, Roosevelt will return to Washington to supervise the reorganization of the Government which becomes effective at that time.

Krum Elbow is at a bend in the Hudson River, four miles north of Poughkeepsie and a mile south of the village of Hyde Park. The 1200 acres of the farm are on both sides of the Albany post road.

The newspaper men with the President will live at Poughkeepsie, where the executive offices will be maintained. They will see the President at Krum Elbow and otherwise maintain contacts with him and with the White House through Secretary McIntyre.

DEMONSTRATORS AT JAIL ROUTED BY THE TROOPS

Santa Clara Instructors Had Marched to Prison to Protest Against Earlier Arrest of Several of Their Number.

SOME HURT BY POLICE MACHETES

School Workers Had Demanded Back Salaries and Pensions Before Their Gathering at Theater Was Broken Up.

By the Associated Press.

SANTA CLARA, Cuba, July 29.—At least 15 persons were wounded late today when police and soldiers fired into a group of unpaid school teachers who paraded to the local prison to protest against the arrest of several teachers a few minutes earlier.

The firing occurred as an aftermath to a meeting of teachers at a theater here to demand payment of back salaries and pensions.

Authorities dispersed the assembly at the theater after a large crowd had gathered in front of the building and was refused permission to enter.

The gathering in and outside the theater was dispersed by police and soldiers who used their machetes. No shot was fired there, but several persons were injured by the machetes, which were used as club-like knives.

Several persons including some teachers were arrested and taken to jail, whereupon parade of demonstrators marched to the prison in protest.

To disperse this parade to the prison, police and soldiers fired into the crowd, wounding 15 or more persons.

Order was quickly re-established and the wounded were taken to the hospital as the crowd dispersed.

Twenty or more persons, about half of them women, were treated at the hospital. Most of the injuries were not serious.

Troops patrolled the city tonight.

Protest Meeting Also Broken Up at Camaguey.

By the Associated Press.

CAMAGUEY, Cuba, July 29.—A meeting of public school teachers held here this afternoon to protest against the non-payment of back salaries was dissolved by soldiers and policemen.

Several women teachers were bruised and scratched.

About 2000 persons gathered at the local railroad station today to welcome 10 former soldiers who, serving prison terms following their conviction of opposition activities, regained their freedom in Havana yesterday under the new amnesty bill.

There were cries of "down with the Government" as the train bringing the former soldiers pulled into the station.

HAVANA, July 29.—Loud denunciations of any possible mediation efforts by the United States were shouted by a Havana crowd of several thousand persons late today after revolutionary speeches from two students who returned here yesterday under the new political amnesty bill.

The disorders occurred just before Sumner Welles, United States Ambassador, received representatives of the opposing political groups in his daily conference designed to conciliate differences and bring governmental reforms to the Island.

The crowd gathered at Colon Cemetery to exhume and re-inter the body of Juan M. Gonzales Rubiera, 18-year-old student, who was killed by police in December, and was addressed by speakers who assailed the Machado regime and the

CHICAGO'S MILK AREA PUT UNDER FEDERAL LICENSE

"BIG STICK" USED TO STABILIZE INDUSTRY

Principal Object to Increase Income of 18,000 Producers — Penalties for Violations.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Beginning Tuesday noon every producer and distributor of fluid milk in the Chicago metropolitan area will do business under a blanket Federal license issued without application by the Department of Agriculture.

The blanket license for Chicago milk handlers, the first issued under the agricultural adjustment act, will be the "big stick" for enforcing a milk market agreement approved today by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

The Chicago agreement, the first of its kind, is expected to stabilize prices, practices and conditions in the Chicago milk shed. The principal objective, according to Department of Agriculture officials, is to increase the income of at least 18,000 milk producers in the Chicago area by about $10,000 a day or $300,000 a month.

The price schedule carried in the agreement ratifies increases which have been in effect since May 16. The general price to consumers of 10 cents a quart of milk is one cent a quart above the price prior to May 16, but is one cent under the price nine months ago. Two-thirds of the increase will go to producers, officials said, adding that the agreement is designed to end the long era of milk-price wars, violence and chaos in the Chicago market.

Indicates Racketeer Penalties.

Charles Brand, co-administrator of the agricultural adjustment act, when asked whether the approved prices would permit racketeers to continue operations in milk distribution, said that there had been an especially difficult problem in Chicago. He explained that so far as the pay to wagon drivers was concerned the agreement just about maintained the status quo. He indicated but did not say that other provisions of the agreement would have a directly adverse effect on the activities of the racketeers.

Under the agreement, every milk producer and distributor, the latter including all retail stores handling milk, must buy and sell milk at a stipulated price. If any person violates the agreement by underselling or by unfair practices named in the instrument his license will be revoked, and if he continues in the milk business will be liable to a fine of $1000 a day for each day's violation.

Brand revealed today that the department had revised its recently announced decision to license all milk producers and distributors in the United States. He said that investigation had disclosed that Federal licenses would not be necessary in some milk sheds. He said that "an overwhelming majority" of producers and distributors in the Chicago area had asked for the blanket license.

St. Louis producers and distributors, who are now working on a marketing agreement, have not asked that the license feature be applied to their operations, officials said.

Not Regarded as Model.

Brand emphasized that the Chicago agreement, while the first of its kind, would not be the model in all details for agreements in other regions. This was particularly true, he said, regarding retail prices differentials between store purchases and home deliveries. In some regions milk purchased at stores is cheaper than that delivered at the doorstep. In Chicago the price is the same. Brand said that distributors in various regions would be expected to work out this point for themselves.

A newspaper man asked Brand by what authority the Federal Government undertook to license a Chicago distributor who handled milk obtained from a producer whose operations were entirely within the State of Illinois. Brand replied that the fact that the Illinois milk was sold in competition with milk from other States related it to interstate commerce. When asked whether the same argument could be applied to milk sold in San Francisco, where virtually all the milk produced is from California, he said that he wasn't so sure that all the milk sold in San Francisco was produced intrastate.

Brand said that violations of the agreement would be prosecuted by Federal district attorneys in the several regions. He explained that final plans had not yet been drawn up for policing the Chicago agreement, and added that there might be a general licensing commission which would have authority over milk along with other agricultural products. Perishable fruits are already under such a commission.

Illustrating how price provisions of the agreement would be enforced, Brand said that after Tuesday noon if a dealer sold milk at a price lower than the agreement, the agricultural administration would revoke the license. The dealer would then have a chance to appear before an administration agent, probably the licensing commission, to explain his action. If after the hearing, the administration held that the license should remain revoked, the dealer would be prohibited from continuing in the milk business. Then if he sold milk even at the agreed price he would be liable to the $1000 a day fine.

Minority Opposes Provisions.

A minority of milk interests operating in Chicago opposed many provisions of the agreement, but they will be required to abide by them as well as members of the majority group which submitted the code of competition.

Administrators estimated the agreement will stabilize the income of about 18,000 dairy farmers in Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin supplying milk for the Chicago market.

Twenty-two practices were listed as unfair, including misrepresentation of the article sold; payment of any rebate or the making of special inducements to customers to stimulate business; payment of premiums or allowances of discounts to new customers; offering or giving of prizes to employes for obtaining new customers; the giving away of goods without consideration; the hiring of any person as an employe while such person is in the employe of another distributor; the making of special deliveries to retail customers.

Johnson Speaks at Cleveland

SLEEPING PORCH IS BOMBED, MAN, WIFE AND SON HURT

Columbia, (Mo.) Rooming House Woman Too Ill From Shock to Be Questioned by Police.

COLUMBIA, Mo., July 29.—Mrs. Mildred Brink, Columbia rooming house proprietess was too ill from shock today to be questioned about a bombing early today of the sleeping porch which Mrs. Brink shared with her husband, Turner Brink, janitor at Hendrix Hall, a dormitory for women at the University of Missouri here, and their 15-year-old son, Harold.

Mrs. Brink, though only slightly hurt, was under a doctor's care at a hospital. Her husband and son, cut slightly by flying glass, were questioned by police last night. Brink, awakened by the blast, was not certain that his wife was in bed. Mrs. Brink had filed suit for divorce, but withdrew it, police learned, and Brink said today they had been living happily together recently. The police said Brink carried $3000 life and accident insurance payable to his wife.

Bolt Kills Youth, 9 Injured.

By the Associated Press.

ANTON, Tex., July 29.—Lightning struck twice at a race track here late today, killing Derwood Murrell, 18 years old, of Amherst, Texas, and injuring nine persons. J. T. Peters, 16, and Jack Cundiff, 13, were knocked unconscious, and half a dozen other persons were injured slightly when the first bolt struck a concession stand. Arthur Couch, 24, was injured in the second bolt.

the industry favoring price regulation, are opposed by the Standards of Indiana and New Jersey, the Royal Dutch Shell, the Texas Company and the Gulf Oil Company.

In recent sessions of oil men here in connection with formulation of a trade code for submission to Johnson, Sinclair and Kingsbury lined up as leaders of the campaign for Federal regulation, while spokesmen for the other companies voted against them.

The emergency national committee of 54, set up under the trade practice plan drawn at Chicago under auspices of the American Petroleum Institute, officially voted here a few days ago, 27 to 18, in favor of price regulation.

Line-Up On Regulation.

Those voting for regulation included: Kingsbury, Sinclair, Frank Coates of H. L. Doherty and Co.; Henry M. Dawes of the Pure Oil Co.; William F. Humphrey, Tide Water Associated Oil Co.; E. B. Reeser, Barnsdall Oil Co., and Ralph T. Zook, president of the Pennsylvania Grade Crude Oil Association.

Against regulation were recorded: C. B. Ames, The Texas Co.; C. E. Arnott, Socony-Vacuum Corporation; George A. Hill, Houston Oil Co.; W. M. Irish, Atlantic Refining Co.; J. Howard Pew, Sun Oil Co.; E. G. Seubert, Standard of Indiana; W. E. Smith, Standard of Kentucky; W. S. Farish, Standard of New Jersey; J. C. Van Eck, Shell Union Oil Corporation.

Price Fixing Out of Code.

Price fixing for and licensing of the petroleum industry were understood authoritatively tonight to have been eliminated from a proposed marketing code.

Likewise, it was said in reliable quarters the plan would prohibit the "lease and agency" system, under which retailers are bound to handle exclusively the products of one distributer.

Hugh S. Johnson, the Industrial Administrator, was described as considering these three to be contrary to the spirit of the recovery act and to have ordered them "out" of the oil picture.

The subjects were excluded by Johnson from the formal consideration of a special committee composed of leaders of factions within the industry which completed its work today on approximately 30 marketing rules and handed its report to Johnson.

The rules agreed upon, it was said authoritatively, are in substance about the same as those proposed in the marketing section of the trade code formulated recently at Chicago under auspices of the American Petroleum Institute.

Price regulatory provisions to insure against sales at less than cost of production and a reasonable profit were included.

A prohibition against trade inducements such as stamps, premiums for buying in large quantities and the like was written into the committee's program.

Moffett, Old Friend of Roosevelt, Has Advised Him on Oil.

NEW YORK, July 29.—James A. Moffett, who walked out of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey and into the limelight as a probable Federal supervisor of oil production long has been a believer in Government intervention to stabilize the industry.

Since the World War days, Moffett has known President Roosevelt. Then, the oil man was a purchasing agent for the Allies and the President was Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

The friendship continued and it was understood that when President Roosevelt called the oil state Governors into conference last March, he acted upon Moffett's suggestion.

It is the view here that the ways of Moffett and Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard of New Jersey, have parted constantly since the November election.

Teagle was characterized in Wall Street as a "Hoover Republican," while Moffett was a strong supporter of Roosevelt. His contributions to the Democratic campaign were said to approximate $12,000.

Until the differences on management became apparent recently, Moffett was always considered as the logical successor to rule the New Jersey Standard.

RUSSIA SENDING 41 EXPERTS TO U. S. TO "SHOP AROUND"

Soviet Union to Purchase $75,000,000 of Industrial Equipment for Immediate Needs.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 29.—Two developments in Russian trade were learned tonight:

1. The U. S. S. R. is sending 41 technicians into the United States within the next few weeks to "shop around."

2. The Soviet Union has decided on the purchase of $75,000,000 of industrial equipment for its immediate needs.

The technicians in no sense will serve as purchasing agents for the Soviet "trusts." Instead, in their study and inspection of American plants, they will "shop around" for materials best suited to the Soviet needs—and its purse.

Not in two years has the Communist nation sent such a large group of technicians into this country. All of them obtained visas for their passports in Berlin and they will be apportioned in these fields: Industrial equipment, aviation design and engines, deep oil well drilling, coke and gas plants, automobiles and cotton.

Much of the industrial equipment needed by Russia for immediate use is of a kind supplied in the past, to a great extent, by the Germans. The German government has for several years granted a guarantee on Soviet sales.

To allow American industrialists to meet the German competition, negotiations are underway to obtain aid in long-term financing from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Within the last few days, these negotiations have centered concretely around an order for rolling mill equipment to the value of $9,000,000 and a $1,000,000 order for tools.

Indications are that both these contracts will be signed shortly. Tools are a prime need in the U. S. S. R. and the million dollar order would be an August shipment.

During the coming week, it was expected, the last of the cotton purchased by Russia, through Reconstruction Finance Corporation financing of approximately $4,500,000, will probably be loaded. Three shiploads are en route. Two more vessels are loading.

The fact that two of the technicians coming to this country will center their activity in cotton lends credence to reports that a much larger cotton loan soon will be extended by the Federal agency.

SAID TO HAVE GOT CHILDREN TO WRITE EXTORTION NOTES

Philadelphian Under Bond Reported to Have Given Prizes for Best Copies.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, July 29.—Extortion letters supposed to have been written by school children for prizes were under investigation by police today and a man is held under bail charged with sending the missives.

Police said Stephen Crispino, 45 years old, under $5,000 bond for a further hearing, gave school children prizes for making the best copies of the letters which were sent to South Philadelphia storekeepers, demanding money under threat of death or injury.

Meanwhile, police endeavored to obtain threatening letters received by John M. Disilvestro, Supreme Venerable of the Sons of Italy in this country, whose home was bombed last January, in order to check the handwriting with those received by the South Philadelphia storekeepers.

Mrs. Disilvestro was killed and four children were injured. Disilvestro is in Italy now.

Crispino denied sending any extortion notes, but detectives said they found a little girl who told them she wrote such a letter at his dictation.

250 GERMAN COMMUNISTS ARRESTED IN NAZI RAIDS

Surprise Drive in Berlin and Other Cities in Effort to End Secret Activities.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, July 29.—In an effort to put an end to secret Communist activities, police in Berlin and other German cities today made surprise raids, resulting in about 250 arrests, including several women.

Police said they had discovered the Communist party was secretly reorganized in many places and that leaders kept in touch by couriers.

At Hamburg 93 Communist leaders were arrested and plans for reorganization of the party in northern Germany were alleged to have been discovered. In similar raids 100 were seized at Leipzig, 23 at Stadthagen and 14 at Breslau. In these cities police said they found quantities of weapons, explosives and subversive material.

SAYS JEWS ARE NOT WANTED AT GERMAN SUMMER RESORT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BERLIN, July 29.—Jews will not be desirable visitors on the Island of Norderney, a big German summer resort in the North Sea, Minister of Culture Rust declared today in a speech at the island watering place. He said:

"You have made me an honorary citizen of Norderney, but that does not satisfy me, for I must demand that Norderney decide either for Judea or Hitler.

"Shall the Jew rule here or shall the German again feel himself at home on this beautiful island in the North Sea? The time when Norderney was a citadel of the Jews is past. The brown shirts want this island for themselves."

MAN'S BODY FOUND IN SEA

Believed to Have Been Killed Before Entering Water.

By the Associated Press.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., July 29.—The theory of foul play was held tonight as police sought to identify the body of a partly clothed man found in the sea a half-mile off Bass Rock today.

Dealers' marks on the coat, shirt and necktie of the man indicated they were purchased in Philadelphia. Two cards of matches found in a pocket bore the name of a Philadelphia hotel. No one has been reported missing in this section. Medical Examiner Ira B. Hull said there were indications that the man died before his body entered the water. There was a gash on the top of the head. The man was described as 60 years of age; five feet, eight inches tall, and weighing 180 pounds.

Senator Borah Out of Hospital.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, July 29.—Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, who underwent a major operation at Johns Hopkins Hospital several weeks ago, returned to Washington today. His physicians described his condition as "very good." Senator Borah said he would stay in Washington for several days, then go north for a short trip before starting for Idaho.

Steel Hearing Expected to Give Recovery Program Crucial Test

Outcome May Show How Far Government Will Go to Insure Success—Miss Perkins To Attack Labor Provisions

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 29. — One of the most crucial phases of the industrial recovery program will be reached Monday morning, with the opening of public hearings on the proposed code of fair competition for the iron and steel industry. Close observers believe the outcome of this conflict between capital and labor will clearly indicate to what extent the program will succeed, and will disclose the lengths to which the administration will go to insure its success.

The code in its present form, as submitted by the employers, was a bitter disappointment to recovery officials, and provoked vehement protests from labor. It would require the Government to sponsor "company unions," controlled by the employers; would reinstate a modified form of the "Pittsburgh plus" price system — outlawed several years ago by the Federal Trade Commission—and would prohibit the introduction of new devices reducing the cost of production.

"Apparently Haven't Learned."

"Apparently they haven't learned anything at all from the depression," one high official said. "In the invitation to submit a code, they see nothing except an opportunity to grab a lot of special privileges for themselves." He predicted that President Roosevelt and Administrator Hugh Johnson would "never stand for such a code."

Likewise, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, after examining the terms of the document, made a personal visit to steel mills in Pennsylvania and Maryland, where she interviewed hundreds of steel workers for the purpose of ascertaining their feeling about the proposed code. She retained Prof. Paul Douglas of the University of Chicago, noted authority on industrial problems, to prepare a brief attacking the code.

The writer learned tonight that Miss Perkins returned from her trip "loaded for bear," and that she already has asked and obtained permission to take the floor against the labor provisions of the code as soon as they have been read Monday morning. Other members of the Labor Advisory Committee are expected to follow her. It is plain that a terrific assault on the labor provisions has been planned, with labor opening up with its heaviest artillery.

Miss Perkins Astonished.

Secretary Perkins, it was learned, was deeply aroused when she found steel workers laboring in the Pennsylvania mills under conditions resembling medieval serfdom. In one town where the Mayor opposed her request for the use of a public park for a meeting for steel workers, she promptly announced that the meeting would take place in the postoffice, and it did.

Members of her party reported their astonishment over the attitude of the steel operators. The latter, they said, talked and acted as if the economic situation had not been affected by the passage of the Recovery Act, and apparently expected that, with certain minor adjustments, business would go on as always. They prophesied that the operators would be shocked when they arrived at Washington and recognized the real temper of the Government.

The steel hearings, held in the auditorium of the Commerce building, will nominally be conducted by Deputy Administrator Kenneth Simpson, although, if past experience is any indication, their actual control will be mainly in the hands of Gen. Johnson and Chief Counsel Richberg.

15 WOUNDED WHEN CUBAN SOLDIERS FIRE AT TEACHERS

activities of Ambassador Welles to restore political peace.

Policemen Fires Over Heads.

Following the funeral services, several hundred students from the cemetery throng came to uptown Havana and launched a noisy attack on Policeman Luis Roble. Roble fired over the demonstrators' heads and when reserves rushed to aid him seven students were arrested.

Ruben de Leon and Rafael Escalona, students who returned to Havana yesterday by airplane following their liberation from the Isle of Pines prison under the amnesty, were the most violent in attacking the Government and Ambassador Welles at the cemetery demonstration.

"We want nothing to do with mediation," Escalona cried, amid cheers from the crowd. "We want revolution! A new revolution of the youth of Cuba will come to end this tyranny!"

Leon echoed these sentiments, and scenes of confusion ensued as one shouting group after another cried defiance to the rule of President Machado.

Little news of an official nature thus far has come from the Welles conferences, but apparently well founded reports say that the initial session Thursday brought agreement that further amnesties for political offenses should be prohibited in the revised Constitution.

All agreed that the rights of individuals should be further safeguarded, it is reported, and the opposition consented to make assassination of the nation's chief executive punishable by death.

Prisoners serving terms in Cuban jails for political offenses today continued returning to their homes as courts applied the amnesty bill as fast as they could.

Shooting Is Reported.

Among those granted amnesty were 12 former soldiers and 10 other political prisoners whose homes are in Camaguey, and Mario Cuellar, brother of Senator Celso Cueller, who last month shot and killed Representative Oscar Montalvo inside the new capitol building.

The newspaper Informacion printed today charges made by Juan M. Alfonso of Camaguey to the effect that soldiers fired without provocation on his brothers Elias and Lionel at their Camaguey Province farm Thursday, killing Elias and seriously wounding Lionel.

Reports to the Interior Department filed by the rural guard captain at Marti, in Camaguey Province, said that the soldiers shot the two brothers after the soldiers had been attacked by them.

Alfonso came to Havana, Informacion said, to protest to Ambassador Welles. The paper added that Alfonso would call at the United States Embassy Monday to give Welles further information, including the names of several persons he alleged had mysteriously disappeared from the vicinity of his farm.

FORD IS 70 TODAY; 'LOOKING FORWARD'

To Observe Birthday Quietly—"Spent," Didn't Lose $70,000,000 in Year.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., July 29.—Henry Ford tomorrow will observe his seventieth birthday, but there will be no celebration of the occasion and aside from going over the usual great number of congratulatory messages that come to him on his natal day, the automobile manufacturer expects to spend the day quietly with his family at Fairlane, his estate in Dearborn.

Ford's seventieth milestone finds him enjoying unusual good health and as energetic and active as he was 10 years ago. A keen eye and quick step testify to the alertness and agility that has been characteristic of Ford throughout his career.

"My preference," he said today, "is to look forward. I have been doing that all my life." In these words he dismissed "retirement" talk.

Ford spent part of today, as he spends every day he is in Dearborn, at his offices in the engineering building of the Ford Motor Co. He is considering the industrial code that virtually all other automobile manufacturers have agreed on. He has not yet signed it. The trouble is, Ford says, that the present code is such that his company would have to live down to it.

Ford said that he was asked recently "about the $75,000,000 we are supposed to have lost last year."

"We did not lose it," he said. "We spent it, most of it went into wage envelopes; the rest for taxes; but we did not lose it—we used it. If we had dropped it in the stock market, that would have been losing it. But I was never lured into that game."

At the moment one of Ford's chief endeavors is the development of his idea of a closer co-ordination between agriculture and industry, the placing of small manufacturing units in closer proximity to the source of supply from the soil. One instance of what is being done in this connection is the cultivation of many thousands of acres of soy beans, from the oil and meal of which Ford is producing materials for several parts that go into the automobile.

Still Raided Near Capital.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 29.—Three generations of Schaeffers were arrested today when Federal prohibition agents raided their home here and found what they described as a 400-gallon liquor still in operation. Because of his age, Mose Schaeffer was not taken to jail, but the agents locked up his two sons, Rudy and Raymond, and a grandson, Elmer. Rudy took full responsibility for the still.

CHARGES UNFIT FOOD HAS BEEN DUMPED IN CITY

Health Commissioner Exposes Interlocking Rings, Including Broker, Wholesaler, Jobber and Cafe.

WARNINGS ISSUED, NO PROSECUTIONS

Thousands of Pounds of Spoiled Canned Goods Found, Some of Them 'Exploding Like Artillery.'

Interlocking "rings" dealing in spoiled canned goods have been uncovered since June 16 and tons of unfit goods condemned, Health Commissioner Bredeck announced yesterday.

"We've hardly begun," he said to a Post-Dispatch reporter. "There must be five or six other rings, including broker, wholesaler, jobber and restaurant or bake shop. St. Louis seems to have been a dumping grounds for canned goods unfit for food, just as it was for obsolete second-hand pasteurizing equipment.

"So far there have been no prosecutions. We believe in enforcing health measures through co-operation rather than through the courts. But every one in these food rings knew the stuff was bad. They were preying on people who couldn't protect themselves — dumping rotten foods on those who couldn't afford better products.

No Further Temporization.

"They've all been warned now and we'll temporize with them no further. Repeaters will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law and interstate violations will be reported to Federal authorities." City ordinance provides $50 to $500 fine and official publication of the names of persons offering unfit foods for sale, and the State law provides a maximum of $500 fine and six months in jail for each violation.

This month 100,000 pounds of spoiled canned cherries have been condemned, reported Dr. J. S. Koen, chief of the food control section. Half the 100,000 pounds was found in one establishment last Friday, with cans exploding "like artillery," he commented.

"We thought stains on the wall were caused by the cherry juice," he related. "An employe informed us they were caused by water before he went to work there. He had worked there 10 years. Dirt and grease on the wall was an eighth to a quarter of an inch thick."

More than 1000 pounds of spoiled cherries were found July 7 at a South Broadway store. They were traced to a jobber who insisted he had not directly handled goods or money and, on further investigation, to a brokerage house described by Dr. Koen as "one of the best in the city."

Finding Links In the Chain.

A week later inspectors made a return visit to the brokerage concern and found that the balance of that lot of cherries had been taken from stock for condemnation. They also condemned 3889 pounds of fruit, 2640 of vegetables and 274 of fish.

Inspectors crossed the trail of the spoiled food ring June 16, he related, when they began to investigate the supply of three Market street restaurants feeding about 4500 persons a day at 10 to 15 cents a meal. Discovery of spoiled canned carrots and sauer kraut in one of these restaurants led to similar discoveries in the other two, and, in two weeks surveillance, to a cafeteria, a salvage company, a grocer and two jobbers as links in the chain.

It was July 6 when they came across a main cache, 1584 pounds of spoiled kraut hidden in a closet which had been overlooked in early inspections of a restaurant. On the same day they found one of the jobbers in the Franklin avenue section, and learned his store was headquarters for about a dozen jobbers.

How Deals Are Put Over.

"The method of their operating," reported the inspectors, "is as follows: A condemned lot of goods is located at either an auction sale, a salvage house or a wholesale grocery or brokerage company. The jobber takes several samples and offers them to restaurants and bakers. When a sale is made he carries goods in his car direct to purchaser, collects and the transaction is completed — or he takes purchaser to source and has him pay wholesaler and carry it himself."

Sought since June 16, the second jobber was found July 12 in "a little shop hardly noticeable to the average passerby" in South St. Louis. "This shifty individual," the inspectors commented, "moves frequently and lets few people know his whereabouts, and is reputed to be the largest dealer in swelled can goods."

Two inspectors searched the "little shop" for more than an hour. They were about to leave when they noticed a pile of rubbish, boxes, barrels and ladders. The proprietor gave an unsatisfactory answer about the purpose of the ladders. The inspectors tossed the junk aside and found a trapdoor

How Deals Are Put Over.

"The method of their operating," reported the inspectors, "is as follows: A condemned lot of goods is located at either an auction sale, a salvage house or a wholesale grocery or brokerage company. The jobber takes several samples and offers them to restaurants and bakers. When a sale is made he carries goods in his car direct to purchaser, collects and the transaction is completed — or he takes purchaser to source and has him pay wholesaler and carry it himself."

Sought since June 16, the second jobber was found July 12 in "a little shop hardly noticeable to the average passerby" in South St. Louis. "This shifty individual," the inspectors commented, "moves frequently and lets few people know his whereabouts, and is reputed to be the largest dealer in swelled can goods."

Two inspectors searched the "little shop" for more than an hour. They were about to leave when they noticed a pile of rubbish, boxes, barrels and ladders. The proprietor gave an unsatisfactory answer about the purpose of the ladders. The inspectors tossed the junk aside and found a trapdoor leading to a dugout containing spoiled goods including 1940 pounds of vegetables, 260 pounds of meat, 340 pounds of fish and 480 pounds of fruit. The proprietor said it was intended for hog feed.

Put Out of Business.

"We sprayed it plentifully with coal oil and had the proprietor chopping cans glumly all afternoon," the inspectors reported. "He insists he is through with this business and is to open a butcher-shop. Further calls show no activity and signs of hurried moving."

On July 6 they had learned that a brokerage concern offered to sell a large lot of canned sweet potatoes to the cafeteria which they had found to be a distributing center. An 11-day search led to condemnation of the supply July 17 in a grocery concern where 2100 cans had been condemned in June.

Suspecting the concern, they combed its seven-story building from top to bottom without success. About to depart, they observed a third floor companionway to an adjoining building. They crossed over it, and on the second floor of the other building found 2730 pounds of potatoes in cans swollen and unlabeled.

Last week they condemned 8800 pounds of candy marked in lots for auction in bankruptcy of a manufacturer. It was found wormy and dirty—"leading to the assumption that almost daily food unfit for human consumption is offered for sale at auctions where inspectors rarely visit," inspectors reported. "This phase of our work will now be watched."

RETAILERS APPLY FOR CODE TO GIVE JOBS TO MILLION

hour week and a sliding wage scale with minimum pay running from $10 weekly in small communities to $12 in large cities.

John J. Mara, president of the Boo tand Shoe Workers' Union, has announced that labor will demand a minimum scale of $18 weekly for unskilled workers, with a scale providing $30 for minor operation, $35 for semi-skilled workers and $40 weekly for skilled operators.

Johnson on Labor Policies.

Administrator Johnson came back to Washington today with a code for the automobile industry and predicted a full measure of success for President Roosevelt's re-employment campaign.

Receiving newspaper men, Johnson asserted that the open shop provision 1 nthe trade practice code submitted by thet autotmobile men—with Henry Ford not yet indicating his attitude—seemed to be in accord with the industral law's labor requirements.

A hearing on the steel code is to begin Monday. This code specifies the employes' representation plan as fulfilling the intent of the law for collective bargaining and the coal agreement stipulates that an employer should deal only with his own employes.

"No one can modify the plain intent of Congress," Johnson said, when asked whether he would accept these two provisions. Labor is prepared to oppose both. There is a general feeling that neither provision will appear in the codes as finally promulgated.

How Retailers Here Would Be Affected.

The necessity of signing President Roosevelt's voluntary blanket re-employment agreement will be eliminated for several hundred St. Louis concerns if Administrator Johnson quickly approves codes of the retail trade he now has under advisement, Frank M. Mayfield, president of the Associated Retailers of St. Louis, said last night on his return from Washington.

The codes cover department, dry goods, hardware, clothing and shoe stores and may be made to include grocery and drug stores, Mayfield said. At the hearings which he attended, Mayfield said, it was stated the codes would create 900,000 new jobs and increase payrolls $500,000,000 a year.

Mayfield was unable to give figurges on the employment and payroll effects in St. Louis.

For St. Louis, the code would provide a 40-hour week with the exception of three weeks during each six-month period when 48 hours would be permitted. Department stores here now work 61 hours a week during the winter and 48 during summer months.

The wage scale for St. Louis would provide a minimum of $14 a week for experienced employes and $12 a week for "junior" employes. No person under 16 years old could be employed.

A tentative code for retailers drafted in June provided for a 48-hour week and for St. Louis would have set minimum wages of $10 a week for "junior employes," $11 for women, and $15 for men.

Women's Club Leader Asks Members to Aid Campaign.

A letter circulated by Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, urges all members not to patronize, as far as possible, establishments "who seek a temporary advantage by failing to sign the President's re-employment agreement."

Intended to direct the 2,000,000 members to stores displaying the "blue eagle" insignia of the recovery administration, Mrs. Poole's letter says:

"The Government's most vital undertaking is the administration of the National Recovery Act which calls upon all industry to provide a scale of minimum wages which will assure to every class of labor a modest standard of living, which will greatly increase the combined purchasing power of all working men and women, and which will immediately convert the worker himself into a consumer.

"At the same time, the act calls upon industry and labor to arrange a limited length of work—the maximum number of hours—thus to provide re-employment to millions of people. They in turn are also converted into purchasers.

"There is really no sacrifice in this, simply common sense, self-preservation on the part of industry, and a valuable service on the part of our clubs will be to spread this doctrine.

"First of all, we ask that you point out to your members the advantages of supporting the stores and other establishments which are listed as members of the NRA, and, as far as possible, not to favor those who seek a temporary advantage by failing to sign the President's re-employment agreement.

"To co-operate is to be patriotic."

Indianapolis News Publisher Signs; to "Co-operate Fully."

INDIANAPOLIS, July 29.—Warren C. Fairbanks, publisher of the Indianapolis News, announced today that his newspaper had signed the President's emergency re-employment agreement. A telegram was sent to President Roosevelt by the News saying it has signed "with a disposition to co-operate fully with its high purpose."

"The News is pleased to announce that it has signed the President's emergency re-employment agreement and is making such adjustment of operating methods as will enable it to report to soon as possible that it has complied with the provisions," Fairbanks said, in an announcement published in his newspaper today.

CHARITY WORKER KILLED IN HEAD-ON AUTO COLLISION

Arlo L. Hasselbring, Investigator for Provident Association, Fatally Hurt at Magnolia and Alfred Aves

Arlo L. Hasselbring, an investigator for the Provident Association, was injured fatally last night when his automobile collided head-on with another at Magnolia and Alfred avenues.

Hasselbring's car, westbound in Magnolia, was struck by one driven by a man who said he was Morris Beisman, 5575 Delmar boulevard. Beisman told police he swerved into the path of Hasselbring's car to avoid collision with another which turned into Magnolia from Alfred avenue.

Taken to City Hospital with a fractured skull, Hasselbring died there at 7:30 o'clock, two hours after the accident. He was 38 years old and lived at Times Beach, on the Meramec River near Eureka.

Thomas O'Brien, 24 years old, 3824 Evans avenue, died at the hospital last night of a skull fracture suffered early Friday when an automobile in which he was riding upset after colliding with another car at Page boulevard and Whittier street.

O'Brien was in the automobile of Charles Droke, 2222 Dodier street. The other car was driven by Henry Murphy, Negro chauffeur, 3916 Cook avenue. Both were placed under bond for the Coroner.

Youth Killed When Thrown From Motorcycle Being Towed.

Oscar Frick Jr., 18-year-old Maplewood High School graduate, was killed yesterday afternoon when he was thrown from his motorcycle, which was being towed by an automobile, into the path of another car on Highway No. 40 near St. Peters, Mo.

The accident happened about 4 p. m. Frick died of a skull fracture at St. Joseph's Hospital, St. Charles, about five hours later.

Frick and a companion, Paul Robyn, 18, 3116 Bartold avenue, Maplewood, were returning from an intended trip to Wyoming which ended at Junction City, Kan., when their motorcycle gave out. They had to be towed all the way home. A passing motorist picked them up at Warrenton, Mo. Robyn rode with the driver, Frick on the motorcycle in tow.

Near St. Peters the driver was forced to make a sudden stop for a bus which, witnesses said, was parked on the pavement. Frick crashed into the rear of the machine and was thrown to the left side of the pavement. A westbound automobile was unable to stop before it hit him. Larry Finn, who resides at the downtown Y. M. C. A., was the driver.

Frick was the son of Oscar Frick, a live stock dealer living on Clayton road near Chesterfield, St. Louis County. He is survived by his parents, two sisters, and a brother.

French Unemployment Shrinks.

PARIS, July 29.—Unemployment is slowly but steadily dwindling in France. There are now only 246,198 persons receiving the dole, official statistics show, as compared with 331,826 in March, 1933, the peak figures, representing a decrease of 24.9 per cent.

WHAT IS BEING DONE TO ORGANIZE GARMENT UNIONS

International Agent Says 1100 of 3000 in St. Louis Have Signed Up — Tells of Low Wages.

Efforts to organize more than 3000 St. Louis workers in the women's apparel industry and to combat what he describes as "low wages and miserable working conditions" were discussed last night by Ben Gilbert, local manager for the International Lady's Garment Workers' Union.

About 1100 workers have joined the union, Gilbert said, since it established three new locals in May. The cloak makers' local, with about 150 members, was already in existence. The new locals are the dressmakers' for women, the pressers' for men and the carders' for men.

Gilbert said a union survey of the industry indicated that women dress and cloak makers doing piecework on a 10-hour day could not earn more than $10 a week except in unusual instances. Those making silk dresses, he said, averaged between $7 and $8 a week with the year's work not exceeding 44 weeks, while operators making cotton dresses averaged between $5 and $6. Cloak makers, he said, averaged between $7 and $8 weekly with their working year not exceeding 36 yeeks. With the working season over about 20 per cent of the workers were forced to apply for charity, he estimated.

Two Strikes in Progress.

At present two strikes are in progress, one of about 45 cloak makers at the Supreme Cloak Co., 808 Washington avenue, and the other of about 48 dress makers at the Lang & Kohn Dress Manufacturing Co., in the same building.

Gilbert said the Lang & Kohn workers walked out because they said 13 of their number were laid off after they attended a meeting at a worker's home to discuss joining the union. Employes of the Supreme Cloak Co. went on strike in protest against unsatisfactory wages and working hours, he said.

With a new offer of increased wages from the Supreme company last night, indications were that the strike would be settled within a few days. Various groups performing separate operations in making a coat had been receiving a total of $1.10½ per garment, Gilbert said, whereas the strikers were asking for a total of $2.45. The company's first offer of $1.40 was increased last night to $2.20 with rates for certain individual operations still in controversy. The company, he said, had offered an 8-hour day.

In union cloak shops, he said, the pay had been between $3.90 and $6.20 per garment and the working week had consisted of 44 hours.

A Comparison of Wages.

In dress factories, Gilbert said, the pay varied between 91 cents and $1.30 per dozen cotton dresses and between 15 cents and 50 cents a dress for silk dresses. Workers had been able to make between $14 and $45 a week in 1929, he said, as contrasted with the usual maximum of $10 under present conditions. He conceded that the decrease in pay had followed lower prices but said that the decline in wage rates had been proportionately larger than the price decline.

He said that a recent increase of 5 per cent in wage rates at some dress factories actually amounted to a cut since more opeartions were required to finish the dresses and consequently the workers could not make as many garments. He said he had been informed that some factories had discharged some slow workers, apparently anticipating adoption of a code stablishing a minimum wage.

The union has called a mass meeting of workers for next Friday night at Carpenters' Hall, Grand boulevard and Easton avenue. The workers will be asked to approve wage and time demands to be presented to manufacturers on behalf of dress makers, carders, pressers and finishers in the silk and cotton dress industry.

"We ask only the right to organize," Gilbert concluded, "with peaceable adjustment of wages and working conditions as our objective."

The International Lady's Garment Workers' union is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, Gilbert said.

"THERE'LL BE NO DOG RACING," ST. CLAIR SHERIFF ANNOUNCES

Despite Injunction Granted He Says He Will Raid Track If It Tries to Open.

"There will be no dog-racing in St. Clair County," Sheriff Jerome Munie announced at Belleville yesterday afternoon after conferring with State's Attorney Zerweck about the injunction that dog racing interests got against the St. Clair County officers last week from City Judge Borders of East St. Louis.

"Despite this injunction," he continued, "we will raid the dog track Tuesday night if there is any attempt to run races. We're officers. We can't be restrained from enforcing the law.

"There will be deputies at the dog track Tuesday night to make arrests if there's any effort to run the races. Gov. Horner has vetoed a bill legalizing dog-racing and that's that."

Earlier in the day Zerweck announced that he would file a motion with Judge Borders tomorrow to dissolve the injunction which was obtained by groups seeking to open the former Mississippi Valley Kennel Club track. The injunction was obtained by the Mid-West Kennel Club, the Illinois-Missouri Greyhound Breeders' Association and the Cahokia Amusement Co. The track, at Cahokia, is the only one in the county.

THREE ST. LOUISANS INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT IN ILLINOIS

Two Are in Hospital at Joliet; Driver Who Sideswiped Car Fails to Stop.

By the Associated Press.

JOLIET, Ill., July 29.—Three St. Louis residents suffered cuts and bruises when an automobile in which they were riding plunged into a ditch after being sideswiped by another car on a highway six miles north of Wilmington today.

The injured are: S. A. Sperber of 2925 Milton boulevard, driver, deep cut on jaw, facial lacerations, torn ligaments in left arm; Miss Louise Ennee, 43, 4419 Lafayette avenue, badly cut nose; E. D. Ennee, her father, minor injuries only.

Sperber and Miss Ennee are in Silver Cross Hospital here. Miss Edna L. Ennee, a sister, Mrs. T. A. Waldau and two children, who were riding in a car which followed the Sperber car, decided to remain here with the injured. The driver of the automobile which sideswiped the Sperber machine did not stop.

Surviving are her sons, Alderman Ralph Eilers, and Roy Eilers, an attorney, and three brothers, Upton, Horace and Lee Coudy. The funeral will be held at Third Baptist Church, Grand and Washington boulevards, probably Tuesday.

GIFT OF $58,500 TO WASHINGTON U. MEDICAL SCHOOL

Fund Provided by Rockefeller Foundation for Study of Physiology of Nervous System.

Announcement of a grant of $58,500 by the Rockefeller Foundation to the Washington University school of medicine for a study of the physiology of the nervous system was made yesterday by Chancellor Throop of the university.

The fund will provide for a five-year research program, expanding work on which several departments of the medical school have been co-operating for several years. The university described this as "one of the most ambitious research programs ever undertaken by a medical school in the United States."

Members of the faculty who will have charge of the research are Dr. George H. Bishop, professor of biophysics, and Dr. S. Howard Bartley, research associate in biophysics and psychology. Laboratories in the Oscar Johnson Institute for Research, one of the units of the medical school group, will be used.

Dean W. McKim Marriott of the medical school said yesterday:

"The work which is now to be undertaken is based on the fundamental series of investigations on the nature of nervous activity carried out by Dr. Joseph Erlanger and Dr. Herbert S. Gasser and their associates in the department of physiology of the school of medicine. Drs. Erlanger and Gasser were successful in perfecting a new method for the study of activity of the nervous system through measurement of the minute electrical currents associated with the nervous impulse. Early in the course of this investigative work it became evident that a correlation of the studies in pure nerve physiology with structural and microscopical observations of the nervous system with psychological, biochemical, pathological and surgical observations would be advantageous.

"The field of investigation was accordingly broadened through the participation of members of a number of departments in the school. So fruitful have been the findings that the time has now come when further expansion is distinctly desirable. The facilities offered by the new Oscar Johnson Institute, together with the grant from the Rockefeller Foundation, have made this extension of the work possible.

"Much of the ground work in the analysis of typical nerve activity has been done and the remainder will be carried out as occasion arises. The next step is to study not merely nerves, but nervous function in the living body and the ways in which such function is disturbed as the result of injury and physical or mental disease. While the experimental approach is from the side of nerve function, the possible ramification of such problems are very extensive."

WIFE SAID TO HAVE CONFESSED HUSBAND KILLED HER BABY

Body of Three-Weeks' Old Child Found Buried in Lard Can.

By the Associated Press.

CHARLESTON, Mo., July 29.—Cecil Watson, 28 years old, was charged with murder and his wife, 22, was charged as an accessory, after discovery today of the body of Mrs. Watson's three-weeks' old baby buried in a lard can in a small cemetery four miles west of their farm home.

Prosecuting Attorney Frank Ashby issued the warrants after, he said, Mrs. Watson had confessed orally that her husband had given an overdose of turpentine to the baby and told where the body would be found.

Watson was not the baby's father, Ashby quoted Mrs. Watson as saying. Watson, who returned to his wife about two months ago after a separation, denied any knowledge of the baby's death, declaring it had been left on a door step in Flat River.

The couple disappeared from their home, nine miles south of Charleston, about July 15 and left notes indicating intention to commit suicide by drowning. They were found Thursday with relatives and questioned about disappearance of the baby.

BEER AND REPEAL FIGHT TO MISSOURI SUPREME COURT

State Drys Appeal for Mandamus After Circuit Judge Denies Writs to Block Two Measures.

SECOND MOVE FOR REFERENDUMS

Anti-Saloon League Trying to Force Acceptance of Petitions, Which Were Turned Down.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 29. — Petitions by the Anti-Saloon League designed to block a State vote on Aug. 19 on the repeal of the eighteenth amendment to the Federal Constitution and to suspend operation of the Brogan-Roberts 3.2 per cent beer law were denied today by Cole County Circuit Court.

Judge Nike G. Sevier denied two applications for writs of mandamus to compel Secretary of State Dwight Brown to accept and file petitions invoking the referendum against the beer law, and against the Weeks act prescribing procedure for a State election and State convention on ratification of the twenty-first (prohibition repeal) amendment to the Federal Constitution.

P. A. Tate, Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, who had filed the referendum petitions and the mandamus actions, and Gus O. Nations, attorney for the League, both of St. Louis, immediately applied to the Supreme Court for a writ of mandamus to compel Judge Sevier to issue an alternative writ of mandamus against the Secretary of State.

Contention in Supreme Court.

Chief Justice Ernest S. Gantt of the Supreme Court allowed Nations until Monday to file a brief in support of his application for a writ of mandamus, after Nations asked for early action. Judge Sevier will have three additional days in which to file a reply. As a result the Supreme Court will not pass on the matter for at least a week.

The application to the Supreme Court for a writ against Judge Sevier was filed on the theory Judge Sevier had no discretionary power to refuse to issue the alternative writs. Had he issued the alternative writs, their effect would have been assumption of jurisdiction of the cases by the Circuit Court. The two cases then would have been set for hearing, on their merits, to determine whether the alternative writs should be made final.

Secretary of State Brown refused to accept the referendum petitions, when they were filed last July 21, on the ground neither act was subject to the referendum. He took the position the beer law had been in force since last April 7, under an emergency clause, and that the Weeks act, relating to ratification of an amendment to the United States Constitution, was not a legislative act of the class subject to the referendum. Both acts were passed by the 1933 Legislature. The Weeks act became effective last July 24, ninety days after adjournment of the Legislature.

Had Brown accepted the petitions and formally filed them, the beer and Weeks laws would have been suspended automatically until they were ratified in a referendum election. The referendum could not be held until the general election in November, 1934, unless the Legislature were convened in special session and called a special election.

Arguments by Nations.

Nations, in arguments before Judge Sevier today, contended the only ground on which the Secretary of State could refuse to accept the petitions was failure of the petitions to conform to the statutory requirements, or an insufficient number of signatures to the petitions. He asserted the Secretary of State had exceeded his statutory authority in setting up other legal grounds.

The Attorney-General, who acts as legal adviser for the Secretary of State and other State officials, did not appear in opposition, since, under the procedure, the Secretary of State would not be required to file an answer to the applications until alternative writs were issued.

State Representative H. P. Lauf of Jefferson City, attorney for the Crusaders and other anti-prohibition organizations, opposed issuance of an alternative writ. He declared it was not mandatory for the court to issue such writs, as argued by Nations, and contended the two laws were not subject to the referendum.

About Congressional Districts.

He said there were no legal congressional districts in Missouri, at the time the referendum petitions were circulated and presented for filing, and that sponsors of the petitions therefore had not complied with the legal requirement that the petitions bear the signatures of 5 per cent of the qualified voters in two-thirds of the congressional districts.

Nations replied that the former law, designating 16 congressional districts in Missouri, was in full force in Missouri until a new law, creating 13 districts under a reapportionment by Congress, became effective last July 24. He said the Attorney-General had ruled the old districts were in existence legally, for the purposes of initiative and referendum petitions, until the redistricting act went into effect.

Lieut.-Gov. Harris, acting Governor while Gov. Park was attending the annual Governors' conference in California, recently issued a proclamation under the Weeks act, designating Aug. 19 as the date for election of delegates to a convention on ratification of the repeal amendment and Aug. 29 as the date of the convention to be held in Jefferson City.

Only Those Registered May Vote on Repeal in St. Louis.

St. Louisans must be registered as voters to cast ballots in the special election Aug. 19 on the prohibition repeal issue, the Board of Election Commissioners holds. This interpretation of the election laws was announced yesterday by the board's chief clerk, Alfred Rottman.

It is at variance with an opinion given by Attorney-General McKittrick at Jefferson City to W. W. Graves Jr., chairman of the Kansas City Board of Election Commissioners. The opinion, written by James L. Hornbostel, an assistant Attorney-General, was to the effect that any persons who had become of age, or otherwise qualified as voters, since the last registration, should be permitted to vote if able to prove their qualification, although not registered.

There will be no new registration in St. Louis before the election. Voters who have moved from one precinct to another within the city, however, may have their names transferred at the Election Board's office on or before Aug. 9.

The St. Louis County Board of Election Commissioners will open its books at Clayton tomorrow for the registration of new voters. The books will be open from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. daily through Aug. 4. Transfers may be made on or before Aug. 9.

MILITIA ON JOB IN PENNSYLVANIA COAL STRIKE ZONE

Miners Stay Home as National Guardsmen Patrol Towns in Area Where 12,000 Are Out.

SHERIFF INSISTING ON HIS AUTHORITY

Head of Frick Coal Company Denies Charge That Hired Gunmen Were Brought From New York.

By the Associated Press.

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., July 29.—Pennsylvania National Guardsmen, ent by Gov. Pinchot to preserve peace in the soft coal fields, detrained late today in the heart of he area where 12,000 miners are striking for union recognition.

The troops, 250 strong, were met by a silent crowd of about 500 persons, including several miners, who watched them form into ranks and march off to West's Field, one mile east of Brownsville, to pitch camp.

The camp, just outside the mine village of Thornton, is 3½ miles from Grindstone, scene of most of he strike strife.

Colonial Mine No. 3, where four pickets were wounded this week, is t Grindstone and is owned by the H. C. Frick Coke Co.

Quiet During the Day.

The rest of the troops, 75 in number, are moving into the strike area by motor. The soldiers were ordered here from their encampment at Mt. Gretna, about 25 miles east of Harrisburg.

Quiet prevailed during the day the many mining settlements hat dot Fayette County after the Governor ordered the soldiers to he area because Sheriff Harry E. Hackney refused to withdraw eputy sheriffs who had been instructed not to allow pickets to ssemble in groups.

More than 20 mines, many of hem owned by the Frick Co., a ubsidiary of the United States teel Corporation, suspended operations.

Governor Pinchot, directing Maj. Kenneth W. Momeyer to lead the econd Battalion, 112th Infantry, o mine fields, expressed the hope hat "not a single shot will be fired r will need to be fired."

Avoids Martial Law Term.

His order authorized military trol over the strike zone. Constitutional lawyers said the order ad the effect of creating martial aw, though the Governor avoided se of the term.

Sheriff Hackney disputed the Governor's order, and said that he till was the civil authority in Fayette County, and that the troops vere subordinate to him. He indicated he would co-operate with the roops if they co-operate with him.

The coal strike, in which the miners are asking recognition of e United Mine Workers of America, is the latest of a turbulent eries of developments which have ncompassed a greater part of Pennsylvania. Strikes have affected the hosiery and textile mills f Eastern Pennsylvania, milk producers, glass and silk workers and ven the pretzel-making trade. Many disturbances have marked e situation.

No fatalities have been attributed to the strike by police. Early esterday two strikers, who, a companion said, had been drinking, rgued over who had the most "blue lood" in his veins and one of them as shot to death by the other.

How Strike Has Spread.

The Fayette County strike has pread to mines in adjoining Washington and Greene counties. At e Mather, Pa., mine of the Pickands-Mather Co., 500 men joined movement after 200 strike sympathizers had warned them not to nter the mine.

Sporadic rifle and pistol fire has arked the walk-out in the vicinity of Uniontown. Ten persons were jured in clashes between pickets nd deputies in the last four days.

After hearing that troops were oming, many of the miners spent e day quietly at their homes. here was some picketing, on a mall scale. Miners in groups ched along the highways, some arrying American flags and others ho were near the mines held banners reading: "Stop and present our credentials."

Avoids Martial Law Term.

His order authorized military patrol over the strike zone. Constitutional lawyers said the order had the effect of creating martial law, though the Governor avoided use of the term.

Sheriff Hackney disputed the Governor's order, and said that he still was the civil authority in Fayette County, and that the troops were subordinate to him. He indicated he would co-operate with the troops if they co-operate with him.

Miners in groups marched along the highways, some carrying American flags and others who were near the mines held banners reading: "Stop and present your credentials."

U. S. Conciliator on Job.

Fayette County is the principal source of bituminous coal for the nation's greatest steel center—Pittsburgh. It nestles in a mountainous country, in the far southwestern corner of Pennsylvania, about 60 miles from the steel capital.

William Feeney, president of District 4, United Mine Workers, said the miners "welcomed with open arms" the Governor's action in ordering out the militia.

A strike of radiator and glass workers in Washington County was settled only yesterday by H. D. Friel, U. S. Department of Labor conciliator. Friel today came to the Fayette fields to study the coal situation.

Governor Pinchot stressed the constitutional rights involved in his orders to the military. He said:

"The miners have the right to organize and to picket peacefully and to free speech and assembly.

"The mine operators are entitled to have their property protected from damage. This right is fully established in the laws of Pennsylvania."

The Governor advised Major Momeyer that officers of the United Mine Workers had given him "their solemn pledge" to keep members from participating in violence. He urged "calmness and cool thinking."

Denies Using Gunmen.

Earlier, John L. Lewis, national president of the union, charged the Frick Co. with "fomenting increased trouble through the importation of gunmen." Governor Pinchot, too, in his first message yesterday to Sheriff Hackney asking him to withdraw his deputies, said "I am reliably informed that the Frick Coal Company, with your co-operation, is importing gunmen from New York." This statement was promptly denied both by Thomas Moses, president of the Frick Company, and Sheriff Hackney, both of whom described the charge as "wholly without foundation."

Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, wife of the Governor, recently marched with strikers in the textile centers and campaigned against sweatshops. Her friend, Miss Charlotte E. Carr, was appointed state secretary of labor and industry as successor to Dr. A. N. Northup after the latter accused Miss Carr of fomenting strikes.

This is the first time since 1922 that national guardsmen have been sent to a strike zone in Pennsylvania.

Relief Workers Say 8400 Families Are in Need.

By the Associated Press.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., July 29.—The State moved today to provide food for the families of between 12,000 and 15,000 striking miners in the southwestern Pennsylvania coal fields.

After a tour of 28 communities in the strike area, Stephen Raushenbush of the State Department of Labor and Industry reported to Gov. Pinchot that 8400 families were in immediate need of aid.

Labor Charges Attempt to Violate "Spirit and Letter" of Act.

WASHINGTON, July 29. — Representatives of organized labor today charged attempts to thwart the "spirit and letter" of the Industrial Recovery act were the cause of strikes in the Western Pennsylvania coal fields. They said the same attempts were responsible for the open-shop clauses in several of the bituminous industry's codes of fair competition.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, said "a campaign by the H. C. Frick Coke Co., a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation, among their employes intended to discourage their affiliation with the United Mine Workers of America" was directly responsible for the strife.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, foresaw a dispute over the open-shop clause in the code turned in yesterday by operators of non-union mines and said organized labor would oppose the operators' proposal.

"It violates both the spirit and letter of the Industrial Recovery law," he said. "It is intended to set up company unions and to deprive the miners of the support they might get by joining others."

Tear Gas in Court.

POMEROY, O.—Justice of the Peace Walter McCullough's court was in the midst of a trial when a tear gas bomb fell from an officer's pocket. The Justice, the defendant, witnesses and spectators made a hasty exit and the trial was concluded on the sidewalk.

Hiking to Fair, Bale of Cotton on Back

DALLAS TO CHICAGO; 123 POUNDS ON BACK

Son of South Carrying Lightened Cotton Bale Admits Job Is Losing Charm.

Cotton is the world and all to a Southern farmer. That is why Cecil Burns, who comes from the South and who is carrying a bale of cotton on his back from Dallas to Chicago, can call himself the "Texas Atlas."

The bale, although it is the regulation size, only weighs one-quarter of the regulation 500 pounds. To be exact, it weighs 123 pounds. Yesterday Burns and his cotton and his manager, who precedes him in an old coupe, came through St. Louis on his forty-fifth walking day out of Dallas.

During the winter Burns plays professional football. During the summer there is nothing to do and when one of his old friends from Simmons College thought up this stunt for him he accepted. He walked the streets of Dallas three weeks practicing. In an incidental way he is advertising cotton products, and he makes a little money by doing local advertising as he trudges through a town and by selling souvenirs—miniature bales of cotton—for 25 cents.

"After the first few days I thought I'd picked a job I couldn't finish," he said. "My feet swelled up so much my toes didn't touch the floor. At night I just kept rolling around in bed, thinking all the time I still had the bale tied to me."

But by now he has mastered his job and he shows little, if any, effects of his long walk. He is careful to walk on the outside of his foot with the toes straight forward. And every morning and night, he doesn't like to think of it, he must take setting up exercises. He drinks much milk and a little beer and eats spinach.

He'll admit that it isn't a very charming task any more. But he's somewhat philosophical about it. He's started it and he's going to finish it. He is even affable when, for what must be the millionth time, he is asked, "How much does the bale weigh?"

ESCAPED CONVICT'S LETTER FAILS TO FREE SUSPECT

Testimony of 25 Oklahoma Citizens in Bank Holdup Case, However, Saves Youth.

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., July 29.—One Black Rock, Ark., bank robbery suspect was freed and another was held at a habeas corpus hearing today, in which a letter signed by five escaped Kansas convicts, professing to take the blame for the holdup, was barred from evidence.

Thelbert Brady, El Reno, Ok., youth, was freed by District Judge Sam Hooker after 25 El Reno residents had testified he was in El Reno, June 16, the day of the robbery. E. J. Wyatt, an older man, was denied freedom after a Black Rock Deputy Sheriff had identified him as the man who emerged from the First National Bank door with a money sack at the time of the robbery. Wyatt's extradition has been authorized.

The convict letter, signed and finger-printed by Wilber Underhill and four other Kansas prison fugitives, was sent to an Oklahoma City newspaper. It declared both Brady and Wyatt innocent. All the Kansas fugitives are under long terms. The letter said they obtained $4000 in the robbery.

CULBERTSON'S BRIDGE TEAM 7120 IN LEAD

One English Player Ill, May Withdraw; Seesaw Contest at Night.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 29.—The American bridge team led by Ely Culbertson tonight had lengthened its advantage over the British to 7120 points with the conclusion of 100 boards of play.

The match was threatened with disruption by the physical state of Lindsay Mundy, the British leader, who was playing against a doctor's orders. Mundy was said to have collapsed after last night's session suffering from bronchitis.

Culbertson, on learning of the British player's condition, said the contract required continuance of play, but offered to permit Mundy to name a substitute if the Americans were allowed the same privilege.

Culbertson later explained the reason for this stipulation was that Mrs. Culbertson, who has been playing solidly for three weeks, was continuing on nerve alone and was very tired.

Tonight's play developed into a seesaw fight, with the American four once forced down to a 5630 point lead after having previously boasted a margin of 6640 points. But a strong finish enabled the Americans to swing far ahead, the score at the end of 100 boards standing at 43,590 for Culbertson's team to 36,470 for the Britons.

The Americans amassed an even 1000 plus on the following tricky deal in which the British were led into over-bidding.

NIGHT CLUB WAITERS AT WORK

Had Been Out on Wage Strike Since July 21.

Fourteen waiters employed at Villa Venice, a night club at 7200 Olive boulevard, University City, returned to work last night following settlement of a strike over wages July 21. Conrad Schott, secretary of the waiters' union, said Mrs. Elsie Rothchild, proprietor, had agreed to pay them $12 a week instead of $4.66, as formerly.

Most of the waiters' income is said to be derived from tips. The night club, which occupies quarters at the old Garden Theater, employed Negro waiters during the strike.

Packing Plant Employe Retired.

Thomas L. Pratt, superintendent of the East St. Louis plant of Swift & Co., meat packers, was retired on pension this month when he became 65 years old. Pratt had been with the company for 40 years, 28 of which were spent at the East St. Louis plant. He formerly lived at the Branscombe Hotel here, but has moved to California.

NEW MOVE MADE TO REDUCE WORLD WHEAT ACREAGE

Secretary Wallace Asked to Delay Fixing Domestic Allotment Pending Negotiations.

(Copyright, 1933, by the Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Hopes of the Roosevelt administration for an international wheat agreement were revived today after a cabled appeal to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace from delegates to the London wheat conference to withhold his decision on acreage reduction here.

It was said authoritatively Wallace was notified that a new and informal effort to reach an agreement is being undertaken, although delegates at London representing the United States, Canada, Australia and Argentina recessed their conference Thursday until Aug. 21.

Farm administrators were said to have notified the London conferees informally that in event of an agreement they will be willing to curtail acreage here up to 15 per cent. Otherwise, they plan to require acreage reduction of only 10 per cent by farmers who join in the voluntary domestic allotment plan and who will receive cash payments for their production curtailment.

Soon after the conference recessed Thursday, Wallace indicated he was unwilling to wait longer for an international agreement. He said that within 10 days he would announce the percentage reduction farmers would be required to make to qualify for payments up to a maximum of 20 per cent.

Dumping Threat Renewed.

At the same time, Wallace renewed his threat made at Chicago recently to sell surplus American wheat in foreign markets at less than domestic market prices.

He said that farm administrators are prepared to finance from portions of wheat processing tax proceeds a movement of wheat from the Pacific Northwest to the Orient. He added that anti-dumping restrictions in Europe would prevent it from being marketed there but that this country could offer wheat in Chinese markets for as little as 50 cents a bushel.

His decision to proceed without an international agreement prompted the new effort at London to reach an informal "gentleman's agreement," which would be formally promulgated when the conference reconvenes late in August.

Previously the United States had indicated its willingness to reduce acreage 10 per cent or more provided other of the chief producing nations would cut their production similarly or limit their exports proportionately.

Canada and Argentina delegates have expressed a similar willingness, with only Australian assent lacking.

Wallace Withholds Decision.

On the success of the new negotiations will depend Wallace's final decision as to acreage reduction. Most of the machinery is ready for beginning the campaign among farmers to obtain agreements to limit their production.

Farm administrators reason that if other nations do not reduce production at the same time as this country, the cut here should be less, and that this country "should not shoulder the burden of ridding the world of its surpluses."

George N. Peek, chief administrator, has taken the position that development of foreign markets for American wheat is not complete and that a program for paying bounties on exports could be undertaken successfully at once.

Detectives Indorse Roosevelt Move.

CHICAGO, July 29.—Indorsement of President Roosevelt's "unrelenting war on all crime, particularly kidnaping and racketeering," was pledged today in a telegram sent to the chief executive by the World Association of Detectives, an association of private investigators, in convention here. Harry Lewis of Sioux City, Ia., newly elected president, said special racket and kidnap divisions would be formed in the four territorial departments of the organization.

"Torch" Slayers Get 99 Years.

CLOVIS, N. M., July 29.—Leonard Beck and Roy Reed, convicted of second degree murder by a jury yesterday in the murder of Lee Marshall, Quay County homesteader, were sentenced to 99 years in the State penitentiary today by District Judge Harry L. Patton. Marshall died of burns suffered at the hands of two men who set his clothing afire in a vain effort to force him to give them money last February.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT CONGRATULATES MOLLISONS

Says Achievement Will Be Engraved in Annals of Aviation Progress.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 29.—Capt. and Mrs. James A. Mollison received a letter from President Roosevelt today congratulating them on their flight from Wales which ended at Bridgeport, Conn., a scant half hour's flying time from New York.

"It is with great pleasure that I congratulate you and Mrs. Mollison," said the letter to the captain, "in the name of the American people on your splendid nonstop flight across the Atlantic from Pendine, Wales, to the United States.

"The simplicity with which you view your flight is indeed a token of distinction. As time passes, your courageous achievement will be engraved in the annals of aviation progress and in that, there is satisfaction.

"Wishing you a speedy recovery from your mishap at Bridgeport, Conn., and with every good wish for a splendid sojourn in the United States, I am,

"Faithfully yours,

"FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT."

The Mollisons, who are passing the week-end at Rye, N. Y., will receive a civic reception Tuesday after a parade from the Battery to City Hall. They are guests at Rye of Amelia Earhart Putnam.

CURTAIN AND CAP MANUFACTURERS SIGN CODES HERE

10 Concerns in First Group Cut Hours From 52 to 40, Increase Minimum Pay From $8 to $13.

Two St. Louis trade organizations announced yesterday that their members had signed President Roosevelt's voluntary blanket reemployment agreement and explained in terms of increased employment and compensation what the effect would be.

They were the Associated Southern Curtain Manufacturers, representing 10 concerns employing 700 persons in the St. Louis district, and 12 cap manufacturing companies, with about the same number of employes, who are forming an organization, as yet unnamed, to formulate a permanent code for the industry.

Curtain manufacturers recently have been working 52 hours a week and in several cases working overtime shifts of three hours, four nights a week, according to John D. Crabtree, secretary of the association. By the reduction of hours to 40 a week—permitted by the President's code for a period of six weeks, after which the maximum is 35 hours—and the reduction of overtime, 200 additional jobs will be created, Crabtree said.

Raise From $8 to $13.

Most of the curtain factory workers, Crabtree said, have been receiving $8 a week. These will be raised to a $13 minimum provided in a code for the industry now pending before the national recovery administration, the amount being $1 a week higher than the minimum provided by the President's code.

An exception in the minimum wage provision of 40 cents an hour is made by the President's agreement in the cases of concerns which paid less than that on July 15, 1929. In such instances employers must pay the rate of that date but in no event less than 30 cents an hour.

Employes formerly receiving more than $13 a week will be given a 10 per cent increase in pay. The effect, Crabtree said, will be to increase payrolls by about 30 per cent. The new wage scale will restore all reductions made since 1929, he added.

The cap manufacturers will cut hours from 50 a week to 35, Edward Greensfelder, their attorney, said, and workers who have been receiving as low as $8 a week will be raised to $12. Hyman Rabushka, one of the manufacturers, estimated a 40 per cent payroll increase would result, but said the number of jobs created would depend upon the market.

4167 Signed Copies Received.

The St. Louis office of the Department of Commerce received 2634 signed copies of the President's agreement in yesterday morning's mail, bringing the total since distribution started Thursday to 4167.

No further deliveries were made to the office yesterday afternoon and Thomas L. Gaukel, district manager, said he expected a much larger number Monday, due in part to interpretations and clarifying statements made by the administration Friday.

Among those who sent in signed agreements yesterday were: Wolf-Tober Shoe Co., with 725 employes; Samuel Shoe Co., 695; Bertrand Shoe Stores, 350; General Grocery, 300.

Request to Coal Dealers.

Local retail coal dealers have been asked by the Coal Exchange of St. Louis, an organization of dealers, to refrain temporarily from signing the blanket code pending receipt of information from Clarence V. Beck, executive director who is in Washington in connection with the national code for retail coal merchants.

Beck is expected to return from Washington tomorrow and officials of the Exchange said a meeting of members would be called on his return to determine on action regarding the blanket code. Officials said there would be no objection to signing the blanket code, but that they hoped the national code for coal dealers, which was submitted last Wednesday, might be approved at an early date.

Postmen virtually completed distribution of the blank agreements to employers yesterday. The main postoffice and the 11 branches in St. Louis and St. Louis County will be provided with the blue eagle insignia for distribution beginning Tuesday to employers who file certificates of compliance stating they have signed the President's agreement and have put its provisions into effect. Owing to limitation of the present supply they will be given only half the number of posters and stickers which they will be entitled to receive. Others may be had when the Government printers catch up.

A statement pledging the public schools system to co-operation in the recovery drive was issued yesterday by Dr. David C. Todd, president of the Board of Education. He declared the abolition of child labor in the blanket code to be President Roosevelt's greatest accomplishment. Although school employes are excluded from the code, they can be of great assistance in informing the public as to its significance, Dr. Todd added.

Action of the Missouri Associated Dailies, organization of 20 newspaper publishers, will await that of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, directors of which now are in session in New York, Fred Naeter of Cape Girardeau, president of the Missouri organization, said last night. Members of the Missouri Associated Dailies met here yesterday.

400 to Attend Meeting.

About 400 civic, business and labor organization leaders have been asked to attend a meeting of the St. Louis Committee of the National Recovery Administration to be held at 3:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at City Hall. Harry Scullin, named by Mayor Dickmann as chairman of the committee, said plans would be made for conducting a campaign similar to the Liberty Loan drives of the World War in order to induce employers to sign the President's agreement.

Scullin also said his committee was considering asking employers to report to his committee information as to two significant facts—how many additional persons will be given employment and how much actual increase there will be in the payroll. This information is not available from any central source.

Scullin will discuss the campaign at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon over Station KSD.

Steel Policy Protested.

A telegram protesting against the omission of St. Louis as a basing point in the pending code for the iron and steel industry was sent to the National Recovery Administration yesterday by Jacob M. Lashly, chairman of the board of the Chamber of Commerce.

Lashly protested that St. Louis consumers as well as steel manufacturers are placed at a disadvantage with like industries located in cities designated as basing points, because of the effect on the delivered price of steel. St. Louis steel manufacturers say the code as it now stands virtually introduces the old "Pittsburgh plus" plan under which steel industries located in cities other than basing points were penalized to the extent of the difference in freight rates between the basing point and cites excluded.

Drug manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers of St. Louis, Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois have been asked by Drug Center, organization of St. Louis retailers, to attend a meeting at the Mart Building Aug. 9. Representatives of Drug Institute, national organization, will explain a tentative code prepared for the industry.

St. Louis window shade manufacturers will consider a code drafted by a committee headed by O. L. Mersinger at a meeting in the offices of M. Rosentreter & Co., 2910 Locust street, Thursday night. A meeting of the national organization of the industry will be held next week in Chicago and the St. Louis code will be offered as a suggestion in preparation of a national code.

A code will be considered by manufacturing jewelers at a meeting at the Mark Twain Hotel, Tuesday night. S. J. Arnold is secretary.

Other Meetings Scheduled.

Other meetings to discuss codes will be held this week as follows: Retail furniture merchants of the St. Lous district, 6 p. m. Tuesday at Hotel Coronado; restaurant executives, 2 p. m. tomorrow, Benish Restaurant, Eighth and Olive streets; St. Louis Stewards' and Caterers' Association, 8:30 p. m. tomorrow, American Hotel Annex; workers in automobile assembly and construction plants, 8 p. m. tomorrow, Carpenters' Hall, 3606 Cozens avenue.

County Organization Being Formed; Officers Named.

The St. Louis County Organization for Business Recovery is being organized to carry out the campaign of the National Recovery Administration, Boyle O. Rhodes, chairman of the board of directors of the St. Louis County Chamber of Commerce, announced yesterday.

The officers are: Asa B. Wallace, president; Glen Mohler, vice-president, and Girard C. Varnum, secretary and campaign director. Judges of the County Court and mayors of the 20 incorporated towns will assist in the organization.

Heads of civic, business, agricultural and labor organizations will be named as a general committee from which sub-committees to direct the work will be chosen.

FOUR CHILDREN DROWNE

Makeshift Raft Turns Over in Co ment Plant Pond.

By the Associated Press.

NAZARETH, Pa., July 29.—Four children were drowned tonight after a makeshift raft overturned in the deep part of the Nazareth Cement Co. pond, eight miles northeast of Easton. The children were identified as Mildred Rutt, 12 years old; her brother, Charles, 10; Joseph Winters, 15, and Joseph Seip Jr., 8. All the bodies were recovered. Playmates told the police the four had planned to swim in the dam. Parents and neighbors found the children's clothing along the bank. Police said the raft apparently started to sink and the children dashed to the one end, causing it to turn over.

MAYOR CALLS ON ALL TO SUPPORT ROOSEVELT

Proclamation Urges 'Ceaseless, Unrelenting War on Forces of Depression.'

A proclamation issued yesterday by Mayor Dickmann calls on all citizens to join President Roosevelt "in a ceaseless and unrelenting war upon the forces of depression, to the end that we may again become a happy and prosperous people."

The text follows:

"WHEREAS, the nation is now and for some time has been passing through a period of economic distress when national and individual credit became in danger of being impaired, business and industry was greatly stifled and retarded, and unemployment with its inevitable accompaniment of misery and suffering became wide spread and acute, which might have resulted much more disastrously but for the fine spirit of co-operation, courage, forbearance and patient suffering manifested by the great body of the people most directly and keenly affected, and,

"WHEREAS, the factor most greatly contributing to these conditions has been the disposition on the part of some to misconceive the spirit of liberty to be synonymous with a jealousy of their own particular rights to do whatever they wished to do rather than to do what they may, consistently with the interests of humanity at large, and,

"WHEREAS, the nation is now and for some time has been passing through a period of economic distress when national and individual credit became in danger of being impaired, business and industry was greatly stifled and retarded, and unemployment with its inevitable accompaniment of misery and suffering became wide spread and acute, which might have resulted much more disastrously but for the fine spirit of co-operation, courage, forbearance and patient suffering manifested by the great body of the people most directly and keenly affected, and,

"WHEREAS, the factor most greatly contributing to these conditions has been the disposition on the part of some to misconceive the spirit of liberty to be synonymous with a jealousy of their own particular rights to do whatever they wished to do rather than to do what they may, consistently with the interests of humanity at large, and,

"WHEREAS, the Congress and the President of the United States have enacted and approved the NATIONAL INDUSTRIAL RECOVERY ACT as a part of a well-rounded program and determined purpose to restore this Nation to its rightful status, intended for it by is founders, as a wise and frugal government that will leave men free to regulate their own pursuits of industry and improvement so long as they do not injure one another and so long as they do not take from the mouth of labor the bread that it has earned, and,

"WHEREAS, the said NATIONAL INDUSTRIAL RECOVERY ACT is now the law of the land and depends for the success of its enforcement upon the observance by all the people of that same spirit of co-operation, courage and valor which has always characterized and distinguished them in every national crisis, and,

"WHEREAS, the problems with which the Nation is now beset are as great as any with which it has ever been confronted:

"NOW, THEREFORE, I, Bernard F. Dickmann, Mayor of the City of St. Louis, do hereby proclaim every day of every week in every month henceforth to be a period for the promotion of national recovery, and I do call upon the citizens of St. Louis individually, and collectively as representatives of all business, industry and labor in the City, to join with the President of the United States and those he has entrusted with the responsibility of administering the NATIONAL INDUSTRIAL RECOVERY ACT in a ceaseless and unrelenting war upon the forces of depression, to the end that we may again become a happy and prosperous people."

R. F. C. AUTHORIZES PURCHASE OF STOCK IN PLAZA BANK

Will Take $100,000 Worth of Preferred if Reorganization Goes Through.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Purchase of $100,000 of preferred stock in the proposed Plaza Bank of St. Louis was authorized today by directors of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, contingent on the subscription of $100,000 in common stock by private persons.

F. R. Von Windegger, president of the Guaranty-Plaza Trust Co., 1230 Olive street, said its directors had considered eliminating its trust business, which would involve organization of a new bank to be known as the Plaza Bank.

There has been no definite decision, he said, but sale of preferred stock in the new bank to the R. F. C. had been discussed and he assumed the authorization meant that the R. F. C. would take the stock if the new bank were organized. Guaranty-Plaza Trust Co. has been open on an unrestricted basis since the termination of the banking holiday in March.

TWO NORTH CAROLINA BANK OFFICERS SHOT BY ROBBERS

Recovery of Either Said to Be Doubtful; Two Suspects Captured by Posse.

By the Associated Press.

TAYLORSVILLE, N. C., July 29. Two officers of the Merchants' & Farmers' Bank here were shot today in an attempt at robbery by four men who fled without any loot. Within a few hours, two suspects were captured, and officers believe they were close on the trail of the others.

Whether either of the bank officials, T. C. Barnes, the cashier, and Solon Little, the assistant cashier, will recover is doubtful, hospital physicians said. The bullets which struck Barnes passed entirely through his body.

One of the suspects captured said he was R. E. Black of High Point, and officers quoted him as admitting he was involved in the attempted holdup and as saying he had three companions. The other prisoner was a man of apparently foreign extraction. The pair were captured by a civilian posse near Wilkesboro.

Ritchie Weak From Nose Bleed.

By the Associated Press.

OCEAN CITY, Md., July 29.—Still somewhat weak, Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, today was "taking things a little easy" after suffering a hemorrhage of the nose late yesterday. The Governor is spending the week-end at the beach cottage of State Comptroller William S. Gordy Jr. The Governor was unable to stop the bleeding by remedies usually resorted to. The nose bleed continued for about 15 minutes.

CONSPIRACY TO KIDNAP DE LORE CASE CHARGE

Warrants to Be Issued Tomorrow Against Three Men Held in Plot.

Warrants charging conspiracy to kidnap, a misdemeanor, will be issued tomorrow against three men held on a charge of plotting to abduct C. P. DeLore, wealthy paint pigment manufacturer, Prosecuting Attorney Rosecan announced yesterday.

The men were arrested Thursday after an unwilling participant in the plan had told police of the plot and had kept them apprised of developments in the days preceding the arrest, during which DeLore was guarded constantly, both at his home at 6336 Forsythe boulevard and at his plant at the junction of the Mississippi River and River Des Peres.

Arrests were made Thursday after police concluded the plot was not to be carried out. Those held for action of the Prosecuting Attorney are Clarence Hale, Nick Tomevich and Thomas Hamilton. Maximum penalty for conspiracy to kidnap is a year in the jail or workhouse and $1000 fine. Immigration agents are investigating the citizenship status of Tomevich, a native of Austria, and of Hamilton, a Mexican.

WOMAN SHOOTS SELF TO DEATH WITH RIFLE

Mrs. Fay Fisher, 44, Leaves Note Giving Directions for Funeral.

Mrs. Fay Fisher, 44 years old, shot and killed herself yesterday at her home, 3943 Blair avenue, with a rifle which she laid on a bed with the muzzle against her breast.

She had been ill recently, according to her husband, Charles D. Fisher, an unemployed spice miller. Fisher said he and she and their son, William, had been about to drive to a postoffice to mail some packages yesterday morning, when he went out to the garage, where the son was getting the automobile ready.

As he re-entered the house, Fisher said he heard his wife scream. He found her lying on the floor beside the bed, against which she had apparently been kneeling. A note found in the bedroom gave directions for her funeral and listed the women's organizations to which she belonged.

THE REV. J. L. DELK FREED

KANSAS CITY, July 29.—A charge of violating the city ordinance against fortune telling against the Rev. James L. Delk, a candidate for Governor before the Democratic primaries, was dismissed here today. Police charge he had preyed on women by pretending to tell their fortunes. Delk said today:

"I do not believe in fortune telling and do not practice it. I have not been preying on women through fortune telling."

The evangelist produced certificates to show he was ordained in 1921 at East St. Louis by a group of Baptist churches and again June 16 by the Christian Spiritualist Church here.

We do not sell
"Talking Points."

Henry Ford
Dearborn, Mich.

When customers write in, as many are doing these days, stating that they have found the Ford V-8 better than we said it was, that is how we prefer it to be.

I say this for the benefit of a Ford dealer who chides me for not claiming all that might be claimed in favor of our car.

If the people who use our cars every day are not praising them, it matters little what we may say. The last word must be spoken by the car itself, and the owner who tells his next door neighbor how his car behaves in actual service is the only effective advertiser.

That is why we do not stress "talking points" in our car. The Ford V-8 is built on principles, not on "points." Most of the "talking points" in motor cars are of little or no importance to the performance or value of the car.

Take weight, for example. It is not just a "talking point" with us; it is a basic principle which we keep constantly in mind when we design a car.

Weight has much to do with the cost of the car. It costs us money to remove excess weight. It costs you money if we leave it in.

When people talk about the cost of running a car—or, to put it in advertising language, "economy of operation"—why do they not give more thought to weight?

The more dead weight a car drags around, the more it costs to run.

To carry passengers costs very little. It is car weight that runs up the gas bills. If we design an economical engine, and then waste the economy in moving a mass of unnecessary car weight, what has been gained?

By keeping weight where it belongs—as trainers do with a race-horse or an athlete—the horse-power per pound of car remains high. To get the most miles and most power out of a gallon of gas, a car should not be over-heavy for its purpose. A quick, responsive pick-up and reserve speed—which means reserve power—requires careful attention to car-weight and strength.

The Ford V-8 is not a light car—it is as heavy as its design requires, and much stronger than it need be for safety. But it has no useless weight. Strength has been obtained without dead heavy bulk.

What we offer is a car, built to do certain things, and sure to do them.

N. A. D. A. Calls Dealer Session For Formulating Industry Code

Meeting for Eastern Missouri Auto Men Will Open at 10 O'Clock Tomorrow Morning in St. Louis—Plan to Complete Organization of Motor Car Retailers.

A meeting at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Coronado Hotel has been called by the National Automobile Dealers' Association. All automobile dealers in this city and Eastern Missouri are invited to attend.

"This meeting," says F. W. A. Vesper, president of the association," is to complete the organization of all the dealers in this territory, so that the industrial recovery code, now under consideration, can actively be administered in the territory.

"This meeting will not only be for organization, but the dealers will be given an opportunity to discuss the provisions of the code soon to be submitted by this industry of automobile retailing to Washington.

To Elect to National Board.

"This is one of the 30 meetings held throughout the United States. Western Missouri dealers held a meeting in Kansas City on July 21. The dealers from Southern Illinois will be called to Springfield soon.

"The Greater St. Louis Automotive Association, who meet regularly every Monday, have recalled their meeting for this week and will meet as a body with the dealers from the eastern section of the State.

"At this meeting, a representative from his district will be elected to the National Emergency Committee—a committee to be made up of one dealer from each of the 30 districts in the United States, who will constitute the governing board for this industry."

Importance of Meeting.

In a letter to dealers, Vesper says:

"Whenever the code is approved by the Government, transgressors will be punished by fines and imprisonment. The Government may even resort to licensing dealers and suspending licenses of dealers who do not abide by it.

"Your self-interest makes it important for at least some dealers in each community to attend. Dealers attending may report back locally the results of the meeting and perfect their local organization, which will be the self-regulating body to enforce the provisions of the code locally."

Wiley Post's Plane Used Mobiloil and Mobilgas on Flight

Executives of the Lubrite Refining Corporation and its affiliated companies followed Wiley Post's record-breaking flight around the world with even more than the general public interest, according to H. T. Ashton, president of the Corporation. Post's ship, the "Winnie Mae", was fueled and lubricated with Scocony-Vacuum petroleum products, which are distributed throughout this territoy by Lubrite.

"When Post made preparations for his record-breaking solo flight, he chose Gargoyle Mobil Areo H and Mobil grease to lubricate his plane, and aviation grade Mobilgas Ethyl for his fuel," said Ashton. "The established dependibility of these products was one of the important factors that led to Post's selection. Another consideration was their world-wide distribution by the Socony-Vacuum Corporation, with which Lubrite is affiliated. This assured Post of a supply of uniform products at practically every stop he made on his flight around the globe.

"Since the Mobilgas and Mobilgas Ethyl made at Lubrite's East St. Louis refinery are manufactured by the same processes and from the samec rudes, we naturaaly were intensely interested in the remarkable performance of Post's "Winnie Mae."

De Luxe Terraplanes Have Built-In Radio And Airwheel Tires

Shipments have started from the Hudson factory of the de luxe model Essex Terraplanes said to be the first providing radio as standard equipment. The receiving set is built into the car at the factory, and has a generator designed to prevent battery drainage.

The de luxe cars, which come on the six and eight-cylinder Terraplane chassis, have air wheels and tires and special painting, the fender colors harmonizing with the body finish and the radiator grille chrome plated. The painting is a two-tone combination with the fenders carrying the same two-tone coloring as the body.

Plymouth Brakes Like Those on Taxis and Heavier Trucks

The type of hydraulic brakes standard on all Plymouth cars is the only brake of its kind used in commercial service throughout the world.

It is the same type of hydraulic brake which is giving millions of miles of successful service on the nation's leading taxi fleets and used on heavy duty commercial vehicles and many of the latest airplanes.

This was stated here today by H. E. Heath, director of service of the Plymouth Motor Corporation. Heath said that the Plymouth type of hydraulic brake was also standard on many of Europe's most expensive motor cars.

New Vacuum Power Brake for Ford Cars Introduced in St. Louis

A new brake, operated by vacuum from the motor intake manifold, has just been introduced by the Velvet Power Brake Co. of Detroit, maker of power brake equipment. The Velvet Power Brake Distributing Co., 2815 Olive street, is distributer in this city. At present this brake is applicable only to the Ford car. No changes in the brake mechanism of the car are required.

"These brakes have been tested in practical use for more than a year," says N. S. Reynolds, president of the distributing firm, "and have proved very efficient and satisfactory in operation.

"By harnessing a part of the unused vacuum of the motor, the brake assures positive control of the car at all times. Effort is practically eliminated, and the action is smooth and soft. This is accomplished with no change in the present mechanical braking system, which operates as before. The installation of the Velvet unit simply adds power to the driver's effort, assuring a quick stop without causing the brakes to 'grab.' Foot pressure is reduced substantially.

"The distinct trend today toward the use of light, fast cars has made better, easier braking an ever-increasing problem. Having been among the pioneers of vacuum power brakes for trucks and trailer, we have adapted this principle to the Ford car.

"The installation of the unit is easily made and in no way requires any disassembling or changing of the braking equipment on the car. It is equally easily removed when the car is sold or traded in."

U. S. Rubber Products Executives on Visit To St. Louis Branch

Frank Harkins, advertising manager of United States Rubber Products, Inc., New York, and representatives of the Campbell-Ewald Co., advertising agency, stopped off in St. Louis Wednesday to visit Matt. J. Herold, district manager of tire sales.

The U. S. Rubber system is one of the largest advertisers in the country and periodically Harkins takes to the field to seek new ideas in the study of the various markets, of which St. Louis is one of the most important.

The St. Louis branch, according to Herold, is exceeding all previous sales records, and the recent price advances have stimulated tire buying by motorists and truck operators over the entire country.

More Engine Power And Streamlining in New Oldsmobile Cars

Added engine power and streamlining which reduces air resistance, are the two major factors responsible for the performance credited this year to the new Oldsmobile six and straight eight.

"They accelerate rapidly and they are fast on the road," says C. L. McCuen, director of engineering for Oldsmobile, "first of all, because they are generously powered. The six develops a full 80 horsepower while the straight eight develops 90. The result is a high proportion of power to weight. Quick, noiseless, shifting through the syncromesh transmission permits gear ratios to be employed by the driver in rapid succession, giving the cars an almost uninterrupted acceleration into their high speed ranges."

Ford V-8 Averages 22.5 MPG in Test Conducted by A. A. A.

Uses Gallon of Oil Every 3182 Miles in Run Attested By Contest Board.

"An official test of the gasoline and oil economy of the new Ford V-8 has just been concluded in Washington where a Ford car was run 5022 miles entirely under direction of American Automobile Association Contest Board officials," says M. N. Johnson, St. Louis manager of the Ford Motor Co.

"The certificates signed by Col. E. V. Rickenbacker, chairman of the contest board, attests that the Ford V-8 averaged 22.532 miles per gallon of gasoline and consumed one gallon of oil every 3182.57 miles."

Under the rules of the AAA contest board, the car was a stock car, picked at random off a Ford dealer's showroom floor. The rules further require that a licensed A. A. A. driver only may be at the wheel during a test and that A. A. A. officials only be in charge of the car at all times during a test.

The 5022-mile run was over the streets of Washington, D. C., and the Mount Vernon Memorial highway.

Sent on its way by Senator R. R. Reynolds of North Carolina, the crew drove the car day and night for more than seven days on Washington streets and the highway which connects the capital with Mount Vernon, the colonial home of George Washington on the bank of the Potomac River.

"During the entire run the Ford functioned perfectly," Johnson said. "No mechanical adjustments were required. The crankcase was filled with new oil after every 1000 miles, but no more oil was required. After the first filling at the start of the run no more water was required in the radiator.

"The contest board's certificate shows that the run was made at an average speed of 27.468 miles per hour. The speed was less in city streets and greater on the highway.

"The capital test only served to confirm the results in similar dealer runs during the last few weeks in many parts of the United States. In these tests, sometimes in heavy traffic, Ford V-8 cars averaged fuel economy ranging from more than 18.5 miles per gallon to 20.25 miles per gallon. In all cases the only oil required was the regular change each 1000 miles.

"Fuel economy results in these different runs varied slightly because of the difference in the terrain covered and the speeds at which the runs were made. Some of these results were:

Place.	Mileage.	Fuel. Consumption.
Buffalo, N. Y....	10,000	18.51 M.P.G.
Philadelphia, Pa.	9,680	19.20 M.P.G.
Des Moines, Ia...	10,000	19.66 M.P.G.
Bartlesville, Ok.	10,054	18.8 M.P.G.
Omaha, Neb. ...	10,148	20.25 M.P.G.

"Other such demonstrations are in progress at Dallas, Tex., and Seattle, Wash. The Ford in the Dallas run already has completed 30,000 miles, covering a route touching 55 dealer points in surrounding cities. A total of 1008 miles is covered every 24 hours. To maintain this schedule the test car must average 60 to 65 miles per hour during part of each day. Despite this, no additional oil is required except the regular filling every 1000 miles."

Buick-Olds-Pontiac Session in Chicago Will Begin August 7

The Buick-Olds-Pontiac Sales Co. will hold one of the largest automotive conventions in Chicago Aug. 7, 8 and 9, as a climax for its "On to Chicago" contest, for May and June. The convention was promised to the organization for securing the national quota for the two months. "The results of the contest were beyond expectations," says Mr. W. A. Blees, general sales manager, "as shown by the record of 153½ per cent of quota."

More than 500 guests, representing the eight sales regions into which the country is divided and the company's 38 zones and branch zones, will join the district representatives at the meeting, which will include officials from the home office at Detroit and General Motors executives from New York.

Rockne Cars Win All Awards in Road Contest in Belgium

The Studebaker Corporation states that the highest awards and all competitive trophy cups in the recent running of the Dumonceau Trophy Tour in Belgium were won by Rockne Six cars.

The Dumonceau Trophy Tour, which is staged annually by the Dutch Motor Club, is one of Europe's most difficult tests for stock automobiles. It includes speed runs, hill climbing trials and acceleration "proofs." Great stress is put upon the endurance and reliability of the competing cars.

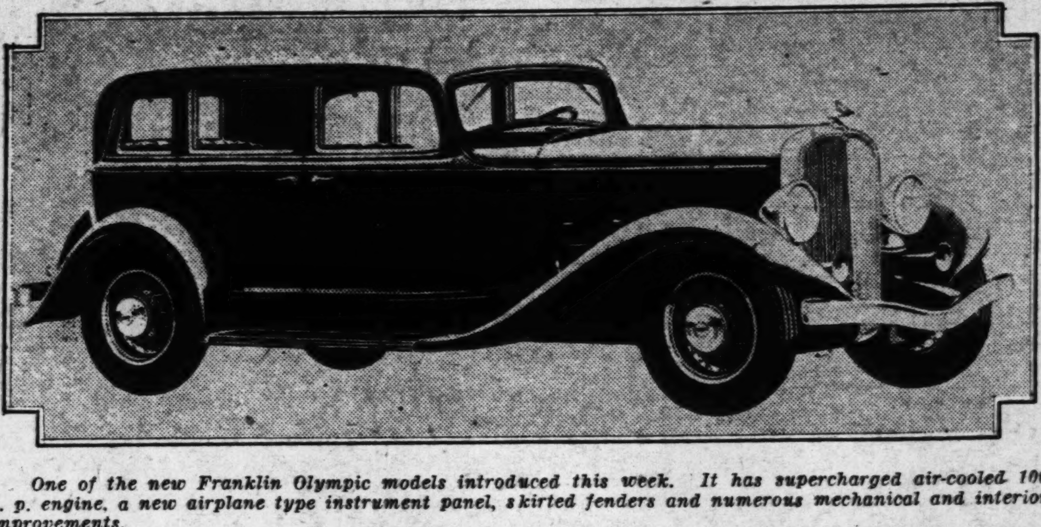
New Franklin Olympic Model



One of the new Franklin Olympic models introduced this week. It has supercharged air-cooled 100 h. p. engine, a new airplane type instrument panel, skirted fenders and numerous mechanical and interior improvements.

For Delivering Beer

GRIESEDIECK BROS.

New Air-Cooled Franklin Olympic Models Shown Here

Engine, of 100 H. P., Has Supercharger — Many Improvements — Price Unchanged.

New models of the Franklin Olympic line are being shown by the Southwest Willys Co., distributer, and associated dealers, together with the new Franklin 12-cylinder and 16-cylinder lines.

Without any change from the basic factory price of $1385, the new Olympic cars are powered with the same 100 horsepower supercharged, air-cooled engine used in the more expensive Franklin Airman series.

Heat is literally wiped away from the engine by a blast of air from a powerful turbine fan keyed to the crankshaft. This cooling system can not cause trouble as there is nothing connected with it that requires adjustment, repair or replacement. Cooling air at as high a speed as 110 miles per hour passes over the cylinders. The warmed air is directed to the ground, so that the foot boards and dash remain as cool on the hottest days as if there were no engine in the car.

Franklin leads in introducing a supercharger at no extra cost in a medium priced car. This device packs the mixture evenly into all cylinders, improving gas economy and performance, both on hills and at high or slow speeds. The Franklin supercharger is similar to the one used on the latest and fastest commercial airplanes.

High Power to Weight Ratio.

Supplying one horsepower for every 35 pounds of weight, the new Olympic gives outstanding performance. The reserve power could take care of an extra 1000 pounds of car and still give creditable performance.

The new Olympic, in appearance, retains its original identity, which, however, has been accented by the new design of front fenders incorporating a well proportioned skirt of the style originated on the Franklin "12." Running boards are wider and of fuller sweep with over-all corrugated rubber mat. Rear fenders are of increased dimensions. Front and rear bumpers of improved design are in keeping with the new exterior ensemble, as are the slenderized lamps.

The 150 h. p. 12-cylinder Franklins have a "double high" gear, which can be changed at will to provide exceptional acceleration and power for hill climbing and traffic driving or to give relatively low engine speed and consequent gasoline economy on the open road.

Goodyear Service Puts Work Hours on Code Basis Tuesday

All employes of Goodyear Service, Inc., will go on a new schedule of working hours under the provisions of the President's industrial code Tuesday morning. The work week will be shortened to 40 hours and there will be no reductions in dollars of pay received each month—in effect, a salary increase.

This was announced Thursday night by George H. Kemmerer, St. Louis manager, at a meeting of employes. Kemmerer said that six extra employes already had been hired for the St. Louis store.

A letter from P. W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., said that, in addition, Goodyear Service, Inc., would in no case reduce store or service operation below 52 hours a week. The letter remarked that the President's appeal found Goodyear policies in step with the code in wage rates and factory working limits and generally. It noted that the company had at no time tolerated child labor.

Goodrich Tire Test Cars Run 5,467,888 Miles with 20 Mishaps

From Jan. 1, 1930, to July 1, 1933, the B. F. Goodrich Co.'s Silver Fleet, engaged in testing tires, covered 5,467,868 miles with only 20 accidents of any type, an average of 273,394 miles traveled for each accident.

There were only four accidents involving more than $100 property damage, or an average of 1,376,222 miles for each of this type.

Only one injury, and that slight, to anyone except a Goodrich driver occurred in 5,467,888 miles. Only one day was lost by any Goodrich driver in the 30-month period because of accident. That was caused by a driver getting something in his eye when passing another car on a slushy pavement.

Chrysler Institute Of Engineering Gets Charter from State

For the first time in this country, it is said, an industrial corporation has been granted a state charter to conduct recognized school and college courses and grant degrees upon their completion. This privilege has just been conferred upon the Chrysler Corporation by Michigan in a charter incorporating the Chrysler Institute of Engineering in the Engineering building of the Corporation at Highland Park.

Announcement of the granting of this charter was made at graduation exercises of the corporation's department of education, which has been in experimental operation for nearly two years.

In connection with the granting of the charter to the Institute, Walter P. Chrysler said:

"In the graduate school, none but top-notch men from the graduating class of accredited technical schools have been accepted. These young men have been selected in rigid tests and have then entered upon a two-year course of theory and practice. In the latter they have been rotated through our various engineering departments, of which we have forty-odd, and upon completion of the course they are absorbed by the particular department into which we feel their talents best fit them."

TRANSIENT FAMILIES PROBLEM IN ST. LOUIS

They Arrive Seeking Work and Become Destitute — How Cases Are Handled.

What to do with transient families who come to the city ostensibly to find work and soon become destitute continues to be a problem of the relief agencies. Peter Kasius, general manager of the Provident Association, says several hundred of them arrive each month, by rail or on the highways, driving their own worn-out cars or thumbing their way.

The policy of Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment has been to care for these families only until arrangements can be made to return them to their former homes, but in some cases their stay here may be prolonged for a month or two, and then transportation costs must be borne by the St. Louis agencies. Special appropriations from Federal relief funds are soon to be made available for the care of transients.

Kasius recalled that one man had recently brought his wife and three children in a wagon drawn by a mule to St. Louis, where he sold the mule for $20. With $15 of that he acquired a shack on the river front, and with the other $5 started housekeeping. Not long afterward he was applying to a relief agency for help, but after a time was able to provide for his family in some fashion through his own efforts.

The modest requirements of such families are illustrated in the case of one from Arkansas whose resources when they established a home in St. Louis consisted of a supply of flour, beans and lard. But they told a relief worker who called on them, all they needed in addition was some salt and pepper.

Some time later, when the relief worker called, the man in the family told her they had been living on chicken and dumplings. The chickens, he explained, had been given to them by a friendly neighbor. All had been eaten except one hen, which was being saved in the hope it would raise a brood.

J. EDGAR HOOVER RETAINS U. S. INVESTIGATION UNIT JOB

Renamed by Attorney-General in Consolidation of Two Government Bureaus.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 29. — J. Edgar Hoover will remain at the head of the Federal Government's busiest crime detection agency after the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice absorbs the investigation activities of the Prohibition Bureau on Aug. 10.

The man who for nine years has directed the criminal investigations of the Department of Justice today was named by Attorney General Cummings as director of the division of investigation created under the President's executive order consolidating the two detection agencies. The other activities of the prohibition bureau will be transferred to the division of internal revenue.

Hoover joined the Bureau of Investigation in 1917 during the world war when William J. Burns headed it. In 1924, he became chief of the organization.

Through his agents in every part of the nation he established an identification system to enable police to trace any criminal who has previously been arrested. He also has brought the Government's finger print system to a high state of efficiency.

POLICEMAN KILLS HOLDUP MAN AFTER FATALLY WOUNDING SELF

Kansas City Policeman Shot With Own Pistol in Scuffle With Robber.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 29.—A robber who lined up employes of a Kansas City Gas Co. office, took $100, the day's receipts, and then strolled into a nearby drug store for cigarettes and a drink, was killed here today by a police sergeant who died getting his man.

Two shots were fired during a soda fountain scuffle when Morris Bigus, the policeman, attempted to arrest a man pointed out by Ray Nichols, grocery employe who had watched the robber leave the gas office and enter the drug store.

The alleged robber, wrestling with the policeman, twisted the officer's gun arm, broken in four places in a recent motor car accident, until a shot from his own weapon gave Bigus his fatal wound. But a second shot killed the other, later said by police to have been identified as William H. Obermeyer.

Bigus died at a hospital. Money taken in the robbery was recovered.

EXTORTION PLOT DISCLOSED

Kansas City Druggist, Once Kidnaped, Gets Demand for $60,000.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 29.—Police disclosed today that an extortion plot in which $60,000 was demanded under threat of injury to members of their family had been directed against Michael and Isaac Katz, druggists.

The demand for the money was received by the brothers Monday in a letter addressed to both of them. An attempt to trap the writer by police and postal inspectors failed. It was announced today. Michael Katz was kidnaped in 1930 and it was reported $100,000 was paid for his release.

For the first time in this country, it is said, an industrial corporation has been granted a state charter to conduct recognized school and college courses and grant degrees upon their completion. This privilege has just been conferred upon the Chrysler Corporation by Michigan in a charter incorporating the Chrysler Institute of Engineering in the Engineering building of the Corporation at Highland Park.

Announcement of the granting of this charter was made at graduation exercises of the corporation's department of education, which has been in experimental operation for nearly two years.

In connection with the granting of the charter to the Institute, Walter P. Chrysler said:

"In the graduate school, none but top-notch men from the graduating class of accredited technical schools have been accepted. These young men have been selected in rigid tests and have then entered upon a two-year course of theory and practice. In the latter they have been rotated through our various engineering departments, of which we have forty-odd, and upon completion of the course they are absorbed by the particular department into which we feel their talents best fit them."

ALBANY HEARS RUMOR OF O'CONNELL'S EARLY RELEASE

Young Man Was Kidnaped 23 Days Ago—Optimism at District Attorney's Office.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 29.—Reports, unsubstantiated in official circles, were freely circulated tonight that John J. O'Connell Jr., would be released by his kidnapers before Sunday morning.

As several times before there was an air of optimism around the office of District Attorney John T. Delaney, but none of the city or country officials would confirm the rumors.

The uncles of the kidnaped National Guard officer, Ed and Dan, political powers upstate, said they "hope the reports are true." Ed O'Connell is Democratic county chairman and head of the city organization.

O'Connell, 24 years old, was abducted on July 7. His kidnapers demanded a ransom of $250,000. On the demands of the abductors, communicated by mail, the O'Connells submitted 34 possible negotiators. The first two lists of 11 names each were rejected. The gang ordered that the names be published in newspapers in code.

Throughout the 23 days since O'Connell disappeared his uncles and father, John J. Sr. (Solly) have refused to aid the authorities, afraid the gang would carry out its threat to kill their prisoner if the police were called into the case.

5 LEADERS OF UNEMPLOYED LEAGUES HELD AFTER STRIKE

Two Women Among Those Arrested at High Point, N. C., on Conspiracy Charges.

By the Associated Press.

HIGH POINT, N. C., July 29.—Five leaders of unemployed leagues in this section, including two women, were arrested today on charges of conspiracy to incite to riot in connection with the strike of some 200 Federal relief project workers here last Saturday. Police lodged the complaints. Bonds of $2000 each were set, but were not made and the five were placed in cells.

Those arrested are: Larry Hogan, president of the North Carolina League of Unemployed and organizer for the American Federation of Full Fashioned Hosiery Workers; I. M. Ritchie, secretary of the Central Labor Union of High Point and member of the Piedmont Textile Council of North Carolina; W. E. Presswood, president of the High Point League of Unemployed; Miss Beulah Carter of Durham, third vice president of the National League of Unemployed; Miss Hazel Dawson, High Point labor leader.

Between 200 and 300 Federal project workers were forced from their jobs last Saturday and police allege those arrested were ring leaders in forcing the cessation of work.

FACTORY EMPLOYMENT RISES

7.2 Per Cent Increase in June Reported to Board.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 29.—A 7.2 per cent increase in employment during June in factories reporting to the National Industrial Conference Board was announced today. "If this rate prevailed in all manufacturing industry," the board said, "the 6,189,000 workers computed to be occupied in May, 1933, were reenforced in June by about 442,000 additional workers. Hours of work for old and new workers increased 10 per cent from May to June. With practically the same hourly earnings in the two months, the weekly pay envelope contained 10 per cent more in June than it did in May."

In June earnings for an average week of 41.2 hours were reported as $18.49 for skilled and unskilled workers of both sexes. The purchasing power was 95.5 per cent of that of 1923, the board announced.

ALLEGED BARROW GANGSTER FACES CHARGE OF MURDER

Aubert Bleigh Is Accused of Killing the Marshal at Alma, Ark.

By the Associated Press.

FORT SMITH, Ark., July 29.—Hubert Bleigh, 26 years old, alias Herbert Blythe of Tulsa, alleged member of the Barrow gang, faced murder charges at Van Buren, Ark., five miles from here, tonight after he was taken to Van Buren by Sheriff Albert Maxey of Crawford County, from Oklahoma City. Bleigh waived extradition.

Bleigh is charged with the killing of Henry G. Humphrey, Alma, Ark., Marshal, on the night of June 23. Marvin Barrow, who died early today at Perry, Ia., from wounds received in a fight at Dexter, Ia., confessed to Sheriff Maxey before dying that he and another man killed Humphrey, after Humphrey and a fellow officer, Deputy Sheriff A. M. Salyer, sought to arrest them for robbery. Bleigh was captured at Smomac, Ok., near Seminole, Thursday and taken to Oklahoma City yesterday.

Salyers and Webb Wilson, both of whom accompanied Maxey today to bring Bleigh to Van Buren, identified him as the man who was with Marvin Barrow at the time of the slaying, Maxey said. Barrow had confessed he shot the Marshal with a shotgun while his companion was firing an automatic rifle, officers said.

R. E. Vetterli, in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation at Kansas City, said yesterday Bleigh had been positively identified as the third man with the Barrow brothers and two women in the fight at Platte City, Mo., in which three officers were wounded.

GIRL WHOSE BROTHER KILLED FORMER SUITOR IS MARRIED

Rose E. Allen, 19, of Philadelphia, Wed to Kenneth Coolbaugh of Merion, Pa.

PHILADELPHIA, July 29.—Rose E. Allen, whose brother was acquitted of killing her friend two years ago, and Kenneth Coolbaugh, of a socially prominent Merion, Pa., family, were married today.

Because of the death of the bride's father last Tuesday only a few friends and relatives attended the ceremony which was performed in the bridegroom's home by the Rev. Dr. Gibson Bell, rector of All Saints Episcopal Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Coolbaugh left for their honeymoon immediately after the ceremony and on their return will live in a suburban apartment. Coolbaugh is in the insurance business here.

The bride was given in marriage by Nelson Billington, of Merion.

Two years ago Francis Donaldson III, member of a prominent family, was shot and killed by Rose's brother, Edward H. B. Allen, in a suburban hotel after a quarrel with Donaldson over his attentions to Rose Allen. He was acquitted.

Mrs. Coolbaugh is 19 years old, her husband 22. They met several months ago while she was working in a gown shop. She had taken the position after her brother's trial.

Cigarette Causes Fatal Explosion.

By the Associated Press.

OWENSBORO, Ky., July 29.—B. Y. Willis, 30 years old, automobile dealer at Glasgow, Ky., and former manager of the Centre College football team, was burned to death in his wrecked automobile near here. Willis was en route to Glasgow when his car left the road on a curve and overturned in a ditch. After receiving medical attention Willis returned with Dr. A. J. Gordon to the wrecked car to recover his coat. He crawled into the car with a cigarette in his mouth, Dr. Gordon said, and an explosion resulted. Dr. Gordon was unable to rescue him.

INSURANCE FRAUD CHARGED; FIVE HELD

Arrests Follow Exposure of Alleged Blackmail Plot at Lebanon, Mo.

By the Associated Press.

LEBANON, Mo., July 29. — Five persons, one of them a woman, were under arrest today while officers investigated an alleged extortion plot and an alleged attempt to defraud an insurance company.

Olney Jackson, 21 years old, and Oliver Jackson, 19, are in the Laclede County jail here accused of attempting to extort $250 from Roy Main, 60.

Main, his young wife, and L. D. Jackson, 43, father of Olney and Oliver, are held in jail at Waynesville, in connection with the alleged insurance fraud plot. Officers also are seeking Dewey Clark, 35, and E. P. Land, 35, of Hazelgreen.

Officers said Main received a letter ordering him to place $250 in a can under the Hazelgreen Church under threat of blackmail. Main, who with his wife, had received $1000 from an insurance company for injuries allegedly received in a motor car accident last January, notified Sheriff Sam Allen, Lebanon, of the letter.

Marked money was placed at the designated spot and Sheriff Allen said when the two Jackson brothers attempted to spend part of the money they were arrested. Sheriff Allen then began an investigation of the motive for the letter.

Officers said the alleged insurance fraud plot involved the motor car accident last January in which a machine allegedly driven by the elder Jackson collided with a car said to have been driven by Clark, who, officers said, was accompanied by the Mains and Land. Sheriff Allen said Clark, the Mains and Land sued the insurance company with which Jackson carried liability insurance for $10,000. They settled for $2,500, officers said, and the Mains received $1,000, Land $1200 and Clark $300.

Sheriff Allen said Main had admitted no one was in the Clark car when the Jackson car collided with it. Sheriff Allen said when the impact of the collision failed to overturn the Clark car, it was deliberately overturned.

TONG MEMBER SHOT DOWN IN NEW YORK CHINATOWN

Heavy Detail of Police Guards Against More Killings That Are Feared.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 29.—After a member of the On Leong Tong was shot and killed in Chinatown early today, police sent a heavy extra detail into the Mott street section to stamp out any flareup of tong killings. Assistant Chief Inspector John J. Sullivan said strife might result over gambling and narcotic traffic.

Wing Ginn, an On Leong Tong man, tumbled down the rickety stair of a Doyers street house, six bullets in his body. A Chinese was seen by witnesses to dart down the darkened stair, hurdle his victim and scamper down the street. Police said the building was once used as headquarters for the Hip Sing Tong.

Sing Lee, secretary of the On Leong Tong, told the police: "There is trouble in Chinatown."

KILLS EX-PARTNER, SHOOTS WIFE AND THEN ENDS LIFE

Oklahoma City Restaurant Man Was Enraged Over Division of Profits.

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., July 29.—Enraged at what he considered an unfair division of profits from the sale of fixtures in a restaurant he formerly operated, C. E. Davis, 53 years old, fatally wounded his former partner, W. A. Green, shot down Green's wife, Mrs. Irene Green, 35, and then killed himself early tonight in the office of the Green Royalty Co. here.

Green and his wife were rushed to a hospital, where he died within a few minutes. Mrs. Green, shot through the abdomen from behind as she fled, was not expected to live.

Carl Manning, employe in the realty office, and his brother-in-law, W. A. Roberts, told officers Green had just ordered Davis out of his office when the latter started firing.

CLAIM FOR $2,261,128 FILED

Action Taken by Purchaser of Part of Edith Rockefeller Estate.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 29.—A claim for $2,261,128 was filed against the estate of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick today by Maurice B. Rissman, who bought the interest of Edwin D. Krenn, protege of the society woman and her principal heir.

Loans of stocks and cash which Krenn purportedly made to Mrs. McCormick between December of 1930 and May 13, 1932, along with other loans to the Edith Rockefeller McCormick trust, are cited in the petition. The trust was formed by Mrs. McCormick, Krenn, and Edward A. Dato, Krenn's partner, to deal in lake shore real estate in Chicago suburbs. Left five-twelfths of Mrs. McCormick's estate, Krenn sold a half interest in his share to Dato on Dec. 12, 1932, the petition reported. Last March he sold the remaining interest to Rissman, who subsequently bought up the claims of Dato and his wife.

STEERS AND HEIFERS RULE SHARPLY LOWER

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, July 29.—(United States Department of Agriculture)—Declines ranging from a shade lower to 50c lower and declines of 75c in some instances were the result of liberal receipts this week. Receipts for the week approximated 16,000, as compared with 15,110 for the preceding week and 14,646 during the corresponding period in 1932. Compared with the close of the preceding week, choice steers sold a shade lower, other steers 25@50c lower; mixed yearlings and heifers 50c lower, spots down 75c; cowstuff and stock steers steady; sausage bulls 10@15c lower; vealers 25c lower. Tops for week: 1080-lb yearlings $7, 1210-lb matured steers $6.85, 1496-lb heavy steers $6.60, 550-lb heifers $6.50, cows $4, sausage bulls $3.40, vealers $5.75, stock steers $4.75. Heavy steers, averaging 1308-1496 lbs, ranged from $5.85 to $6.60, bulk at the extreme prices, while mediumweights, scaling 1102-1293 lbs, ranged from $4.60 to $6.85, bulk $5.40@6.55. Lightweight steers and yearlings bulked at $4.75@6.40, within a range of $3.50@7, while bulk of all steers brought $4.75@6.50. Most good and choice steers earned $5.75@6.75; similar quality mixed yearlings and heifers, $5.25@6; medium fleshed mixed yearlings and heifers, $4.25@5; cows, $2.50@3.25; low cutters, $1.50@1.75; stock steers, $2.75@4. The period closed with top sausage bulls $3.15, top vealers $5.50.

Bulk and top prices the corresponding week last year were as follows: Steers, $6.25@9, top $9.75; good and choice mixed yearlings and heifers, $6.75@7.25, top $7.75; medium fleshed mixed yearlings and heifers $5.50@6.50, cows $2.50@3.25, low cutters $1@1.75, top sausage bulls $3, top vealers $5.50, stocker and feeder steers $3.35@4.50, top $5.85.

Hogs Off for the Week.

Rather violent fluctuations featured swine trade this week, but the depressing influence of increased supplies more than balanced any bullish factors and values wound up 15@20c lower than the close of last week, all weights and classes sharing the losses to about the same extent. Receipts this week figured around 61,300, compared with 55,514 last week and 48,697 similar week last year. Top prices ranged from $4.50 to $4.90 this week, with packers making their purchases at the low time mostly at $4.35 and below. The Saturday session was steady to 5c lower than Friday, with later bids off more. A top of $4.60 was registered with shippers and small killers buying most of the better 170 to 250 pound weights at $4.50@4.60. Heavies were lacking, but were selling during most of the week not more than a dime below desirable light weights. Packers bought a few hogs late at $4.45. Desirable 140 to 160 pound light lights sold in odd lots at $3.50@4.40, with 100 to 130 pounds pigs largely $2.50@3.25. Packing sows ranged from $3.40@3.75, the majority $3.50@3.65.

Fat Lambs Down.

Increased receipts exerted a bearish effect on fat lamb prices and quotations were adjusted downward 50 to 75 cents. Throwout lambs continued at the low prices in effect during the last two weeks and fat ewes were scarce and also held steady. Friday's prices were practically at the low point of the week. Supplies this week approximated 22,500 head, compared with 18,560 last week and 22,002 same week last year. During the early part of the week the top reached $8.25 on a few occasions but during the last half nothing was able to pass $8, this price being paid on Thursday and Friday sparingly by all interests. Bulk of desirable lambs sold all week at $7.50@8, with the late bulk at $7.50@7.75. Medium sorts sold around $5 and common throwouts mostly $3.50. Buck lambs were in all cases discounted $1 from the prices paid for ewe and wether lambs. Fat ewes ranged from $1@2.75. the majority $1.50@2.50.

Horses and Mules.

NATIONAL STOCK YARDS, July 29.—There was a broad demand for horses and mules here the past week and commission supplies of 500 horses and 100 mules were easily cleared. Range horses, especially colts, showed an improved tone and there was more mule trade than usual at this time of the year. The demand for work horses tapered off slightly.

NATIVE HORSE QUOTATIONS.

Good to choice draft, $100@125; medium to good draft, $70@90; good to choice chunks, $65@80; smooth-mouthed chunks, $40@55; young farm mares, $60@90; Southern mares, $30@55; small cheap horses, $15@25.

MULE QUOTATIONS.

Farm mules, 15.2 to 16 hands, $85@115; colt mules, good size and bone, $60@90; colt mules, small, $35@90; draft mules, $110@125; mine mules, 15.3 to 16 hands, $100@115; mine mules, 14 to 15 hands, $60@75; choice cotton mules, 15.1 to 16 hands, $100@120; choice cotton mules, 14.2 to 15 hands, $65@90; small green mules, over 3 years old, $30@40.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY STOCK YARDS.

Mississippi Valley Stock Yards at St. Louis officially reports the market as follows:

HOGS—Receipts Saturday, 500. Prices 5@10c lower than Friday's average; active; small bunches 190-200 lbs., $4.60; extreme top; practical top, $4.55; bulk 170-300s, $4.45@4.55; 140-160s, $3.35@4.35; 100-130 pigs, $2.65@3.15; packing sows, $3.40@3.65. Compared with last week's close, 25@35c lower.

Oil Price Increased.

By the Associated Press.

OIL CITY, Pa., July 29.—Coincident with the announcement of a 15-cent increase in the price of all grades of Pennsylvania oil, South Penn Oil Co. officials said they will continue normal production in all Eastern fields. The increase means $2 oil in the Bradford-Alleghany field and $1.92 oil in the Oil City field, the highest prices since April 25, 1932.

New York Bank Statement.

NEW YORK, July 29.—The weekly statement of the New York Clearing House shows: Total surplus and undivided profits, $736,497,500, unchanged; total net demand deposits (average), $64,078,000, decrease; time deposits (average), $1,271,000, decrease. CERTAIN ARTICLES EXEMPT FROM PROCESSING TAX

Secretary of Agriculture Relieves Cotton Waste and Its Manufacturers From Levy.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—The Department of Agriculture today issued a regulation exempting waste materials, secondhand cotton articles and articles manufactured from these materials from the floor stock taxes on cotton which will go into effect on Tuesday when the 4.2 cent a pound processing tax will be assessed against the staple.

The group of materials exempted include: Motes and fly, flat strips, comber waste, slasher waste, cuttings, rags, and other waste, not including sub-standard products and short-length piece goods.

The processing tax will be in effect on lint cotton, net weight, when it becomes effective, to defray costs of the cotton acreage reduction program, cotton materials held in stock by spinners, manufacturers and wholesalers also will be taxed.

The tax rate in the case of these products will be established by weight at a slightly higher rate, about 4.46 cents a pound.

Stocks held by retailers are exempt from taxation for 30 days, but if unsold at the end of that period are subject to the floor tax.

STOCKS CALM DOWN UNDER 3-HOUR DAY, 5-DAY WEEK

On Sales of 17,101,307 Shares Compared With 44,645,243 Preceding Week, the Average Regains 5.7 Points of Previous Six Days' 17.05 Drop

STOCK EXCHANGE WAS CLOSED SATURDAY; REGULAR ORDER MONDAY

THE New York Stock Exchange and other securities markets, including the St. Louis Stock Exchange, were closed Saturday. New York initiated the move to enable members to clean up back work.

All will continue to close on Saturday up to and including Sept. 2.

All securities markets will return to normal trading hours Monday.

The Chicago Board of Trade and Merchants' Exchange will go back to regular hours.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 29.—The financial and economic doctors this week used homeopathic applications to cool the "heated brow" of speculation and, apparently, their efforts met with success.

Inauguration of the three-hour day and the five-day week in the security markets not only enabled harried brokers and their employes to dig out from under huge piles of work that had accumulated during the recent wild sessions, but brought calm out of near-chaos in stock price movements and gave winded traders a breathing spell. Regular five-hour sessions will be resumed Monday but no business will be done on Saturdays through Sept. 2.

The grain market at Chicago also received soothing ministrations in the shape of restrictions on price fluctuations. In the early part of the week no sales were permitted under the closing prices of Thursday, in the previous week. Later this rule was shelved and daily fluctuations of 5 cents a bushel, either way, were allowed in wheat, rye and barley, 4 cents a bushel in corn and 3 cents in oats.

Stocks Recover Some.

The results were about all that had been hoped for. Stocks recovered some of their past week's severe losses in a quite orderly manner. Bonds also came back for moderate gains. Grains ran up sharply at Chicago, and then lost considerable in the last two days. The Winnipeg market showed somewhat wider changes, but its trend was similar to that in the United States. Commodities generally followed grains.

The return to normal was exemplified by the number of shares that changed hands during the week. Stock sales totaled 17,101,307 shares, compared with 44,645,243 in the previous hectic week, and the Associated Press-Standard statistics average for 90 selected issues, at 82.8 was up 5.7 points compared with a net loss in the previous six days of 17.5. Total bond sales dropped to $65,637,000, par value, against $108,749,000 the week before and the average here closed half a point higher.

United States Steel and Bethlehem reported net income from operations with the best second quarterly statements since 1931. The first 50 railroads publishing their statements for June disclosed net earnings some 250 per cent ahead of the same month last year. (Conditions were slow years ago.) The upward industrial trend was aptly illustrated by the General Motors report for the second three months of 1933, which showed a profit of 90 cents a common share, or about 13 times more than in the 1932 quarter.

Dollar Rallies Sharply.

The dollar rallied sharply against sterling and European gold currencies, but just how much effect this had on the markets here was debatable. The pound lost 12½ cents on the week and the French franc was off 13⅛ of a cent. The dollar, in terms of the gold franc, was valued at about 74 cents, compared with slightly more than 68 cents a fortnight ago. Growing commercial demand and European short covering and intimations from abroad that America might slow down on currency depreciation activities were credited with the dollar's recovery. In addition, foreign purchases of American securities and the buying of dollars by Great Britain, both here and in Paris, supported the upward movement.

Wheat, on the week, was up 4⅞ to 6⅛ cents a bushel, corn gained ⅝ to 3⅞ cents, rye was 2 to 5⅞ cents higher and oats lost 5⅛ to 6⅛ cents a bushel. Cotton held a net advance of $1.15 to $1.60 a bale. Bar silver was unchanged at 35½ cents an ounce. Copper was steady at about 9 cents a pound. Rubber and silk prices were lower.

WEEK'S NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

SPECIAL ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.

NEW YORK, July 29.—Total stock sales for the week (5 days) on the New York Stock Exchange amounted to 12,877,237 shares, comaper with 42,409783 a week ago and 10,452,367 a year ago.

Following is a complete list of transactions during the week giving sales, high, low, closing prices and net changes:

U. S. DOLLAR COMPARATIVELY STEADY IN EXCHANGE MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 29.—The American dollar was comparatively steady in foreign exchange markets today with trading lighter than usual.

The British pound sterling was off ½c at $4.51½ for cables, French francs were unchanged at 5.30c and Swiss francs and Belgian belgas held at their quotations of yesterday. Dutch guilders eased .02 of a cent at 54.63c, German marks were slightly lower, as were some of the Scandinavians. Canadian dollars firmed ⅛ of a cent at 93c.

With the security markets closed, there were few bids and offers for exchange either here or abroad.

Oil Price Increase.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, July 29.—An increase of 5 cents a barrel in the price of Corning grade Pennsylvania crude oil was announced today by leading purchasing agencies. The new price is 95 cents. Other grades were increased 15 cents yesterday.

Wall Street Considers Code.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 29.—With the New York Stock Exchange closed today for the first of a consecutive run of Saturday suspensions which will extend into September, brokers had more time for consideration of the possibility of a code for Wall Street employes under the national industrial recovery act.

The association of stock exchange firms through its counsel, brokers were informed, has been in touch with the Recovery Administration authorities.

U. S. Dollar 73.96 Cents.

NEW YORK, July 29.—The dollar, in terms of the French gold franc, closed today with a value of 73.96 cents, the same as yesterday, compared with 77.20 cents a month ago.

Boston Wool Market.

BOSTON, July 29.—(United States Department of Agriculture.)—Demand for wool in the Boston market tapered off to a marked degree in the past week. The slower business in wool was considered by trade members as a natural development in view of the heavy buying in the past few months and the readjustment that will be necessary under the pending industrial code for wool textiles. Prices were mostly very firm. Fine French combing territory wools were inclined to sell at the low side of last week's price ranges, but a few advances were realized on medium fleeces.

WHEAT FUTURES AT CHICAGO AND HERE OFF 5 CENTS

Maximum Declines Allowed for One Day Reached in Late Session — Selling Stampede at Other Center

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, July 29.—Wheat futures fell the 5c permitted at one session, under the new trading rules, late in the weekend market. A loss of almost as much was recorded Friday. Declines in cash wheat were even greater, extending to 6⅞c.

The local setback accompanied Chicago wheat prices broke 5 cents. On top of a similar dip at previous session. There were unofficial crop estimates in the market that sometimes would have brought upturns.

Winnipeg wheat closed 2⅛@2⅝c net lower.

Liverpool closed 1d to 1⅜d lower.

September wheat opened at 99c, off 3c, and December wheat $1.02, down 4⅛c.

Local wheat receipts which were 147,000 bu., compared with 244,500 a week ago and 93,800 a year ago, included 74 cars local and 24 through. Corn receipts which were 123,000 bu., compared with 198,000 a week ago and 95,200 a year ago included 47 cars local and 25 through. Oat receipts which were 66,000 bu., compared with 94,000 a week ago and 50,600 a year ago included 33 cars local.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

In the cash grain market Saturday, soft wheat was 5⅜@6⅞c lower. Hard wheat was nominally 5½c lower. Demand was slow and about 20 cars were carried over. Corn was 4½@6c lower. About a third of the offerings sold in a slow market. Oats were 4½@7½c lower. Demand was slow, with only two cars selling. The declines in the spot market were greater than the limits set in the future market.

Sales of cash grain made on the floor of the exchange Saturday, were as follows:

WHEAT—No. 2 red winter, 94⅝@95c; No. 3 red winter, 93⅝c; No. 2 red garlicky 92⅝c; No. 2 red smutty, 88c No. 2 mixed, 92¾c.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 29.—It was practically impossible at times today to sell any future delivery of grain in Chicago at any price allowable under rules.

Frightened by unfamiliar regulations intended to prevent runaway markets either up or down, many grain traders engaged in excited efforts to get rid of speculative possessions wholesale. The result was an extraordinary general selling stampede that for the second day in succession plunged all grain values down to the lowest limits allowed under new emergency rules.

Ten cents a bushel thus was slashed from the value of wheat as compared with 48 hours ago. The markets ended for the time being in a state of virtual paralysis, nothwithstanding that crop news was of a character which under usual conditions would have led to eager purchasing and to sharply higher quotations.

Wheat especially closed demoralized at the day's bottom figures, with wheat, rye and barley each 5 cents under yesterday's finish, corn and oats, respectively, down 4 cents and 3 cents, and provisions showing 5 to 35 cents decline.

Business came to a dead halt after the grain market today had hit the bottommost level allowed. They continued prostrate in the last 30 minutes of the day until the clanging of the Board of Trade's big bell cleared the brokers out of the pits. Acute weakness of prices had been evident at the outset, and wheat fell 4 cents in the first few minutes, influenced largely by reports of some moisture relief in Canada, with cooler temperatures there. Transient vigorous rallies of 3 cents a bushel, however, followed owing largely to authoritative crop reports indicating new curtailment of 1933 yields both in this country and Canada.

Unusually rapid fluctuations with trading on a big scale ensued nevertheless, after the 3-cent rally. Approaching the final half-hour, the market became less two-sided, and then suddenly turned into a rout, with every factor apparetnly forgotten except that a huge selling flurry had developed, and that there was need of haste if buyers were to be found before emergency limits could be enforced. No other reason for the extreme downward plunge of the market was evident beyond indications that masses of speculative owners had lost confidence for the moment, and were determined to liquidate.

Grains also closed at the lowest prices for the day at Winnipeg, Liverpool and other market centers in the United States. In Chicago July wheat fell to 94 cents, September to 97⅛, December to $1.00¾ and May to $1.04⅞.

Corn, oats, rye and barley paralleled the action of wheat.

Provisions gave way with hog values and with grains.

Starting Monday, the Board of Trade will return to regular trading hours, 9:30 a. m. to 1:15 p. m. (Central Daylight Time). The limits of fluctuation in grain prices will remain in effect until further notice.

Canadian wheat crop unofficial estimates showed reduced figures. The United States corn crop was estimated by one observer as 511,000,000 bushels lower than last year.

Heavy pressure to sell wheat at the outset resulted from advices of rain in Canada, some places reporting downpours of several hours' duration, with temperatures cooler. On the other hand an estimate of Canadian crop damage was larger than heretofore, one observer placing the 1933 probable yield of the prairie provinces at only 225,000,000 bushels, comparable with 408,000,000 bushels harvested last year.

Helping to rally wheat prices from early downturns was an unofficial domestic crop summary by a Chicago observer. This summary estimated the United States total wheat crop this season at 467,000,000 bushels, against the July 1 Government forecast of 496,000,000 bushels and last year's harvest of 726,000,000 bushels.

Domestic spring wheat was unofficially figured as only 138,000,000 bushels, with the heaviest deterioration in Northern North Dakota and Pacific Northwest.

LOCAL STOCK PRICE CHANGES ARE MIXED

There was a small increase in aggregate business on the St. Louis Stock Exchange last week, but more than one-half of the period's trading took place at one session. Prices were mixed, declines generally, being wider than changes upward. The week was shortened.

On the lower side were McQuay-Norris, Missouri Portland and Rice-Stix among others.

In the bond section United Railways 4s sold down 1 at 21 and City & Suburban 5s were off 2 at 20.

There was no session Saturday.

Regular trading hours will be resumed Monday.

ZINC ORE SHIPMENTS LARGEST SINCE FEB. 4

By the Associated Press.

JOPLIN, Mo., July 29.—Value of zinc and lead shipments in the Joplin district this week continued to climb, reaching a total of $282,940, the largest since Jan. 3, 1931. Shipments of zinc, totaling 6812 tons, were the largest since Feb. 4.

Zinc concentrate stocks in the Tri-State area were reduced approximately 2000 tons this week, leaving the surplus at less than 15,000 tons, the smallest in years.

Prices for ores were unchanged, with zinc bringing $35 a ton and lead ranging from $50 to $55 a ton. Demand remained good for both ores.

BUSINESS NOTES

NEW YORK, July 29.—The steadily advancing trend in shoe prices has been halted temporarily. Quotations now are 20 to 25 per cent higher than earlier in the year, as a result of the sharp increase in hide prices.

Officials of the New York Furniture Exchange, Inc., estimate that buyers' attendance at the fall exhibit, which now is closing, will show a gain of 25 to 30 per cent over the figures of the 1932 show.

LOCAL STOCK PRICE CHANGES ARE MIXED

There was a small increase in aggregate business on the St. Louis Stock Exchange last week, but more than one-half of the period's trading took place at one session. Prices were mixed, declines generally being wider than changes upward. The week was shortened.

On the lower side were McQuay-Norris, Missouri Portland and Rice-Stix among others.

In the bond section United Railways 4s sold down 1 at 21 and City & Suburban 5s were off 2 at 20.

There was no session Saturday. Regular trading hours will be resumed Monday.

ST. LOUIS STOCKS

ZINC ORE SHIPMENTS LARGEST SINCE FEB. 4

By the Associated Press.

JOPLIN, Mo., July 29.—Value of zinc and lead shipments in the Joplin district this week continued to climb, reaching a total of $282,940, the largest since Jan. 3, 1931. Shipments of zinc, totaling 6812 tons, were the largest since Feb. 4.

Zinc concentrate stocks in the Tri-State area were reduced approximately 2000 tons this week, leaving the surplus at less than 15,000 tons, the smallest in years.

Prices for ores were unchanged, with zinc bringing $35 a ton and lead ranging from $50 to $55 a ton. Demand remained good for both ores.

BUSINESS NOTES

NEW YORK, July 29.—The steadily advancing trend in shoe prices has been halted temporarily. Quotations now are 20 to 25 per cent higher than earlier in the year, as a result of the sharp increase in hide prices.

Officials of the New York Furniture Exchange, Inc., estimate that buyers' attendance at the fall exhibit, which now is closing, will show a gain of 25 to 30 per cent over the figures of the 1932 show.

COTTON RALLIES, CLOSES MIXED AFTER DECLINE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 29.—A decline of approximately $1 per bale in cotton early today under renewed liquidation and Southern selling was followed by rallies on trade buying and covering. December, after selling off from 10.84 to 10.60, closed at 10.82. The general market finished steady net two points higher to two points lower.

Week-end crop reports from the Southwest contained unfavorable features but evidently had little effect on the market and in some quarters were considered less discouraging than expected.

Cotton futures closed steady, 2 higher to 2 lower. October, 10.60@63; December, 10.82@84; January, 10.92; March, 11.03@07; May, 11.21@23; July, 11.38n. Spot quiet; middling, 10.50. nNominal.

Offerings were not heavy, but demand was limited and prices worked off after the opening. December sold down to 10.64c cents, or 3 to 6 points net lower on the general list. Failure of the relatively firm Liverpool cables to inspire more active buying was attributed to a feeling that differences between the two markets yesterday had been too narrow. Houses with Liverpool connections were sellers here during the early trading. There was also some scattered selling from Southern sources, but the market was fairly steady before session had gone far, and a point or two up from the lowest on most positions.

FINANCIAL NOTES

NEW YORK, July 29.—New York security markets were closed today, but will resume their regular hours of trading next Monday.

A survey of the dairy industry by Dun & Bradstreet says that drouth conditions in many producing centers and a decrease in the size of herds due to better livestock prices have lowered the milk supply for the seven months of the current year. The average decrease in production is estimated at 5 to 10 per cent from the first seven months of 1932.

The New York Federal Reserve Bank today reported withdrawal of $12,054,300 from earmarked gold stocks for shipment to France.

Two shipments of gold, withdrawn from earmarked stocks and aggregating $7,500,000, went forward to Europe today on the liner Aquitania.

Interests who attach barometric significance to scrap steel markets say the situation points to well maintained demand for steel products. Most of the leading scrap markets continued strong around the recent high levels.

Warehouse stocks of cocoa beans have risen to a new high total of 821,198 bags. The spot product remains quiet.

Price confusion has been lessened by publication of differentials on some grades of fine cotton goods. Business generally continues to mark time pending completion of other price schedules under the textile code.

NEW YORK, July 29.—Unfavorable dividend changes in the past week totaled only 10, the smallest number for any week since February, 1930, says Standard Statistics Co. One dividend was passed and nine were reduced. In the previous week there were 17 unfavorable revisions. Favorable changes totaled 13, one less than a week ago. Three payments were increased, seven were resumed, two extras were voted and on initial dividnd was declared.

Chain store sales in this Federal Reserve district last month virtually equaled those of a year ago, the most favorable year-to-year comparison since June, 1931. Department store sales were 5 per cent under last year, while total sales of wholesale firms making reports to the local Federal Reserve agent rose 23 per cent over June, 1932, the best gain on record.

Sugar melt of 13 American refiners from Jan. 1 to July 22 aggregated 2,220,000 long tons, against 2,150,000 in the same 1932 period. Deliveries of 2,005,000 tons, compared with 2,000,000.

REVENUE CARLOADINGS 708 UP FOR WEEK, 147,002 FOR YEAR

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—The American Railway Association announced that loadings revenue of freight for the week ended July 22 were 648,914 cars, an increase of 708 cars above the preceding week and 147,002 cars over the corresponding week last year.

The small increase over the preceding week was spread over all commodities except grain and grain products and miscellaneous freight. Every classification showed increases over the corresponding week last year.

Miscellaneous freight loaded was 235,074, a decrease of 4091 below the preceding week, but an increase of 57,489 over 1932; less than carlot merchandise, 171,468, increase 802 and 3972; grain and grain products, 48,904, a decrease of 2485 below the preceding week, but 7718 over last year; forest products, 28,704, increase 629 over the preceding week, 13,055 over 1932 and 1571 over 1931; ore, 26,248 cars, increase 2628 and 19,629; coal, 116,399, increase 2961 over the preceding week, 39,691 over 1932 and 4231 over 1931; coke, 6464, increase 148 over the preceding week, 3993 over last year and 1409 over 1931, and livestock, 15,653, increase 116 and 1458.

WEEK'S METAL REVIEW

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 29.—In contrast with quiet conditions prevailing in most of the non-ferrous metal markets this week, fairly substantial sales of zinc were reported for delivery over the remainder of the year at steady prices. Smelters were said to have good orders on books and were not pressing for sale. Some disposition was noted to widen premiums for later deliveries. Activity of steel and brass manufacturers accounted for the demand.

Copper was quiet. Declines in European prices made domestic buyers cautious, but producers firmly maintained asking prices at 9 cents for electrolytic, Connecticut Valley points. Their firm views were attributed to expectations of higher production costs when a code is formulated for the industry under the Recovery Act. Conferences were said to have been in progress at Washington, but no announcements were made.

Tin was irregular as a result of the fluctuations of the dollar in terms of sterling. Consequently, consumers who supplied needs liberally several months ago held off the market. Tin plate operations continued at a reported 95 per cent of capacity.

Consumers limited purchases of lead to small lots for nearby needs. With the London market at or sometimes below the American equivalent, buyers were cautious on expectations that possibilities of foreign lead being attracted here would cause domestic smelters to lower prices.

Antimony was dull, with the undertone somewhat easier as a result of increased pressure to sell in the face of poor demand.

Steel ingot production tapered off slightly to an estimated 57 per cent of capacity, attributed partly to seasonal influences and resistance to recently advanced prices. However, producers were said to be well supplied with orders on books. Elimination of all price commissions was said to be in prospect. Pig iron was steady, with moderate demand at the recent advance.

Tobacco Auction Tuesday.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 29.—A $9,000,000 tobacco crop—60,000,000 pounds averaging 15 cents a pound—was forecast in South Georgia today with warehouses crammed in readiness for the auctions starting Tuesday.

Advices to J. F. Greer, director of the State Bureau of Markets, agreed the prevailing price would be about $15 per hundred. Warehouse men at Blackshear went even further than that and advanced prediction of $20 a hundred or 20 cents a pound on their floors.

About all the experts who have ventured forecasts place the harvest in the neighborhood of 60,000,000 pounds. From Douglas came reports it would be fully that much and maybe 75,000,000 pounds.

BICKERING DELAYS TRIAL OF DU QUOIN MEN AT JONESBORO

ONLY TWO WITNESSES HEARD AT SESSION

State Policemen Are Examined for Four Hours — Court to End "Frivolous" Questioning.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JONESBORO, Ill., July 29.—Trial of five young Du Quoin men for the murder of the school girl daughter of a United Mine Worker will be resumed Monday with counsel on both sides seated further from the jury box after personal bickering between attorneys reached such a point at a half-day session yesterday that Circuit Judge Spann intervened.

These side issues keep us from getting anywhere," Judge Spann observed, after about four hours had been consumed in questioning two State policemen, both of whom had testified during the jury's absence while a hearing was being conducted on admissibility of statements elicited by State police from four of the five defendants.

Judge Spann indicated that attorneys on both sides appeared to entertain mutual suspicion of improper conduct after counsel for the State objected to a remark they were alleged to have overheard made by Carl Preihs, chief of the defense staff, in the hearing of the jury as Walker Butler of Chicago, heading the prosecution, left the court room for a moment.

The Lie Is Passed.

When Roy Arnold, a special investigator assigned to the prosecution, repeated to the Court what he alleged he had overheard, Preihs jumped to his feet and exclaimed, "Arnold's a liar, if he says I said that."

Judge Spann then obtained order and said that he "did not propose to stand for any such remarks," whereupon Preihs apologized to the Court. The jury had left the room when the exchange took place just prior to adjournment.

The Judge informed the attorneys that on Monday their seats would be placed further from the jury box.

Some of the questions during the session dealt with the activities and companions of the lawyers during the previous evening.

During a long cross-examination by defense attorneys of Clarence Robinson, a former State patrolman, Judge Spann sustained several objections by the prosecution and then announced that he intended "to sustain objections to this frivolous questioning."

Defense May Offer Alibi.

Only six witnesses are scheduled to testify Monday before the testimony given during the three-day absence of the jury virtually will have been repeated.

Contents of the statements obtained by police on April 7, last, the day after the shooting, then will be divulged to the jury, with certain modifications. Statements were obtained from Emery Albers, Robert Shingleton, Barney Bosseto and Otis Battalgia. Sam Ferro, the other defendant did not sign a statement.

Much of the State's case rests on the contents of the statements although after they have been read to the jury presentation will be begun of a chain of circumstantial evidence.

About 40 witnesses remain to be called by the State. The defense has indicated that it may offer an alibi for its clients.

Federal Court Supports Proceeding in Drive Against Racket-Controlled Breweries.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, July 29.—Testimony obtained by a grand jury may be revealed in another legal proceeding if the evidence is vital to the interests of justice, Federal Judge William H. Kirkpatrick ruled today. He denied the contention of the Union City (N. J.) Brewery that use of such testimony violated the rule of grand jury secrecy.

Government attorneys, who used such testimony in hearings on the revocation of the Union City's permit, regard the ruling as important point in their drive against breweries alleged to be racket-controlled.

The Union City Brewery is one of several whose permits for manufacturing beer the Government seeks to revoke, on the ground they were obtained by fraud. The Government contends the names mentioned as owners on the applications for permits were false and that the breweries were really all in one chain operated by Max Hassel, slain Reading beer baron, and his associates.

PARAGUAY SAYS GERMAN KEEPS CHACO WAR GOING

League of Nations Told Bolivia's Mercenary General Will Use Poison Gas.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Switzerland, July 29. —Paraguay lodged charges with the League of Nations today against Gen. Hans Kundt, head of the Bolivian army, alleging that he is preparing to use poison gas in the conflict over the Gran Chaco territory.

Despite the fact that he is a naturalized citizen of Bolivia, it was further charged by Paraguay that Gen. Kundt is a mercenary determined to continue the Gran Chaco war.

Gen. Kundt, a native of Germany, reorganized the Bolivian army prior to the world war. Returning to Germany for that conflict he rose to major general in the Imperial Army. He was given high command in Bolivia early in the recent war with Parguay. The latter country claims that he assumed supreme power himself and ignored the Bolivian government.

DECLINE OF THE DOLLAR HELPS ARGENTINA TO PAY ITS DEBTS

Country May Even Balance Budget as Result of U. S. Departure From Gold.

By the Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, July 28.—Departure of the United States from the gold standard is likely to enable Argentina to balance its budget for the first time since the budget system was installed.

The 1933 budget of 820,000,000 pesos ($277,000,000) set aside 27 per cent of the estimated revenue to pay principal and interest due during the year on some $490,000,000 owed abroad. Of this more than $250,000,000 was owned in the United States, and for every dollar of debt service payable this year the budget appropriated 3.88 pesos.

Since the United States forsook gold it takes less than three pesos to pay a dollar in debt service, so the treasury will need about 20 per cent less than the appropriation to pay its dollar debts.

TO OPPOSE INJUNCTION WHICH WOULD LET DOG TRACK REOPEN

State's Attorney Zerweck of St. Clair County to Introduce Motion.

A motion to dissolve the injunction granted last week by City Judge Borders of East St. Louis to groups seeking to reopen the former Mississippi Valley Kennel Club dog track will be filed in Judge Borders' court tomorrow by State's Attorney Zerweck of St. Clair County.

The State's Attorney said yesterday he would follow the argument used by Gov. Horner of Illinois in vetoing a dog racing bill recently. Failing to have the injunction dissolved, Zerweck said he would confer with Sheriff Munie to determine the steps necessary to keep the track from reopening.

The injunction, obtained by the Mid-West Kennel Club, the Illinois-Missouri Greyhound Breeders' Association and the Cahokia Amusement Co., is directed against the State's Attorney and Sheriff, both of whom have declared they would not permit dog racing in the county. The former Mississippi Valley track at Cahokia is the only one in the county.

BACKS CODE WITH ICE SUIT

Arkansas to Enforce Anti-Trust Law Unless Firms Sign.

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 29. Attorney General Hal L. Norwood filed suit in Chancery Court today against eight ice manufacturing and delivery companies under the State anti-trust laws, seeking penalties aggregating $250,000 unless the companies adopt a code under the National Recovery Administration acceptable to the Government. At the same time 36 independent ice dealers filed a separate suit seeking to force the eight defendant companies to continue selling them ice at wholesale price for resale purposes.

Norwood wrote Donald R. Richberg, general attorney of the National Recovery Administration, that, if the companies adopted an acceptable code, he would dismiss the suit. "I will not invoke our anti-trust laws against any business that complies with the provisions of the National Recovery Act," Norwood wrote.

Irony From Restaurateur.

SAN FRANCISCO.—William B. Nelson, president of the California Restaurant Protective Bureau, presented Albert C. Kasper, president of the California branch, American Pharmacists' Association, with some chemicals. Nelson urged that the pharmacists, in annual convention, ban the sale of lunches at drug store soda fountains. Kasper presented Nelson with a loaf of bread and said he would call the matter to the convention's attention.

Program News, Network Gossip.

THE new KSD Monday night program for which Gus Haenschen's orchestra; Ohman and Arden, the two piano team; Conrad Thibault, the baritone; Arlene Jackson, singer; Arthur Boran, mimic; the Songsmiths male quartet and the Nightingales women's trio, are billed, is set for 8:30 tomorrow. Boran is to imitate Jimmy Durante and Maurice Chevalier. Thibault is well known to KSD listeners. "Scrappy" Lambert is a member of the Songsmiths quartet. . . . George Frame Brown, whose "Real Folks" series had a long run on the networks, will begin a new weekly sketch, "The Optimistic Mrs. Jones," at 5:45 tomorrow on the WEAF net. . . . The first of a twice-a-week series, featuring Ted Husing, Leon Belasco's orchestra, Barbara Maurel, contralto, and the Hummingbirds women's quartet will be broadcast over KMOX and the CBS chain at 8:30 Tuesday night. The second performance will come at the same time Thursday. . . . The Skippy sketches will shift to 3 o'clock daily except Saturday and Sunday, beginning tomorrow. . . . The Moonshine and Honeysuckle cast is on a theater tour. . . . Singin' Sam and Edwin C. Hill will be featured together in a five-nights-a-week series on the CBS chain and KMOX in September. Singin' Sam meanwhile will continue his Monday night programs. . . . Fred Allen's new program will replace the Musical Grocery Store featuring Tom Howard and Jeannie Lang on KSD and the WEAF chain Friday nights, beginning this week. Allen will be supported by his wife, Portland Hoffa, and Ferde Grofe's orchestra. . . .

What's Coming in Radio Music.

FULL hour concerts by Edwin Franko Goldman's Band will be carried by the WJZ network, generally including KWK, beginning today. Tonight's concert is set for 7:30, the program including music from Verdi's "Aida"; Liszt's Second Hungarian Rhapsody, the "Barcarolle" from "The Tales of Hoffman" and Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Song of India." . . . The Wednesday Goldman Band concert will run from 7 to 8:30. . . . "The Geisha," a musical comedy popular a generation ago, will be revived in the light opera program at 4 o'clock today on the WJZ chain. Muriel Wilson, who is the Mary Lou of the Capt. Henry's Show Boat broadcasts, will sing the role of "Mimosa San." . . . A concert by the National High School Orchestra and Band will be broadcast from the camp at Interlochen, Mich., at 9:30 Thursday night over the WJZ net. . . . The premiere of Charles Wakefield Cadman's "Dark Dancers of the Mardi Gras" is planned for the concert from the Hollywood Bowl next Saturday night on KSD, Raymond Paige, who directs the California Melodies broadcasts, conducting. . . . Gladys Rice, who has sung on so many NBC network programs, has gone over to the CBS chain. She will sing with Andre Kostelanetz's orchestra at 8 o'clock Monday night, Aug. 7, and on her own program with Howard Barlow's concert orchestra at 8:45 Thursday nights, starting Aug. 10. . . . Tamara, the Russian singer, is to be starred on the Manhattan Merry-Go-Round programs at 7 o'clock Sunday nights on KSD and the WEAF net.

Old Time Light Opera Broadcasts.

THREE old light operas of note will be performed over the WJZ chain of 6 o'clock Tuesday nights. The first, on Aug. 1, will be "Rose of Auvergne," by Offenbach, composer of the opera, "Tales of Hoffman.' The second, set for the night of Aug. 8, will be "Trial by Jury," one of the Gilbert and Sullivan works. The third, scheduled for Aug. 15, will be Carl Milloecker's "The Beggar Student," which was widely popular in Germany and Austria half a century ago.

KSD Program News and Notes.

A PERFORMANCE by the St. Louis Radio Guild of Checkoff's play, "The Boor," will be broadcast by KSD from 6:30 to 7 o'clock tomorrow evening. "The Boor" is an intense drama of a Russian woman and a domineering officer. . . Col. Harry Scullin general chairman of the St. Louis committee co-operating with the National Recovery Administration, will be the speaker during the Community Council program on KSD at 5:30 today. . . .The School and Community period on KSD at 4:30 Wednesday will be Dr. Joseph C. Todd, dean of the Indiana School of Religion at Bloomington, Ind. He will discuss "Religious Education".

Petey Knox, singer and piano monologist, who has been broadcasting over KSD since Monday, has been engaged for a regular six-days-a-week series at 5:45 afternoons. He came to St. Louis from the Pacific Coast, where he broadcast for a number of weeks. He also has broadcast over WTAM, Cleveland, and other NBC stations.

Comedy to Continue to Dominate Radio.

APPARENTLY comedy still is to predominate to an extent in the new radio programs the coming season, the Associated Press reports. At the same time there is an indication that there will be more of the variety type, with half a dozen or more different types of entertainers thrown together. Apparently, too, there will be more 30-minute programs, so far as the musical show is concerned. In stressing the fact that comedy is to have a prominent place again this year, broadcasters point out that quite a few of the programs in prospect are reserving spots for funny men or women even when the general layout of the period is of a variety type. Some program builders also have declared they see a strong swing toward emphasis on the romantic.

Commission to Curb Radio Stock Promoters.

TO STOP the use of radio, with other advertising media, for the promotion of blue sky securities and other questionable stocks, the Federal Trade Commission announces that it will soon promulgate a new set of regulations under the powers conferred upon it by the Securities Act of 1933. Complaints of wild-cat stock schemes promoted by radio have been received by the Trade Commission, whose chairman, Charles H. March, says that there is no question that the commission has authority to assume jurisdiction in such cases since radio is a medium of interstate commerce. Chairman March said that some of the radio complaints had to do with stock promotions on Mexican stations along the Rio Grande and these were being watched. Radio stations in the United States that broadcast wildcat stock schemes are liable to penalty not only from the Trade Commission under the Securities Act, but from the Radio Commission, which can revoke their licenses.

Canadian Commission Takes Over Station CKGW.

CANADA'S recently established Radio Commission is building up its own broadcasting system, proceeding cautiously but definitely to the point where it may nationalize Dominion broadcasting in compliance with its instructions from Parliament. Government ownership and operation are delayed because of lack of funds, the $2 a year license fees from Canada's 700,000 registered set owners being insufficient to pay the commission's expenses and enable it to take over stations and compensate their owners. Having recently purchased three stations from the Canadian National Railways at a reported price of $50,000, the commission has also taken over CKGW, Toronto, under a lease from its private owners, and has changed its call letters to CRCT.

Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the German Reischbank, will be interviewed by William Hard in a broadcast from Berlin, scheduled at 12:15 noon today, on KWK and the WJZ chain.

A concert from Bayreuth, Germany, will be carried by the WEAF chain, presumably including KSD Friday afternoon. Richard Strauss will conduct the orchestra, which will play the third and fourth movements of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony.

Mrs. Roosevelt Breaks Radio Precedent.

THE smiling informality of the Roosevelts continues to charm broadcasting officials here. In radio, as in other things, they insist on breaking precedents. One of the most firmly established radio precedents was broken by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt last Monday. Instead of broadcasting directly from the White House, as is customary, Mrs. Roosevelt appeared for a scheduled talk over an NBC chain at the studios in the National Press Building. She arrived unaccompanied, with neither secretary nor secret service men at her side. She was presentd to the radio audience by Dr. Louise Stanley, chief of the Department of Agriculture Bureau of Home Economics. Offered a hookup from the White House, Mrs. Roosevelt declined, saying she could just as easily come to the studios. It was the first such visit by the wife of a President. When her son, James, broadcast over the CBS a few night before, he went to the studios in Washington.

A program on the anniversary of the formation of the Coast Guard will be broadcast over the CBS network at 9 o'clock Friday night. It will begin aboard the Coast Guard cutter Tampa, which will be steaming up Long Island Sound, then will switch to Washington, where Admiral H. G. Hamlet, commander of the Coast Guard, will speak. There will be music by the Coast Guard Band.

Hans Kindler, the 'cellist, who is director of the National Symphony of Washington, will direct the symphony concert from Philadelphia that will be carried by KMOX and the CBS network at 6:30 Saturday night and the concert Sunday evening.

An exchange of programs between the CBS net and stations controlled by the Canadian Radio Commission has been arranged. The "Andre Kostelanetz Presents" program next Monday night and the concert by Nino Martini and Howard Barlow's orchestra the following evening will be sent over the Canadian chain weekly. The Canadians will send a "Singing Strings" concert to the CBS chain at 8:30 every Saturday night, starting next week.

A broadcast from the International Boy Scouts' Festival is scheduled for the WJZ chain, probably including KWK, Wednesday morning. Admiral Horthy, Sir Baden-Powell and Count Paul Telky will speak.

GULDAHL PLAYS HERE TOMORROW IN P. G. A. TRIAL

By W. J. McGoogan

Ralph Guldahl, professional of the St. Louis Country Club, will make his first appearance in competition here since he finished second to Johnny Goodman in the national open, tomorrow, when he plays in the 36-hole sectional qualifying round for the National P. G. A. tournament, at Normandie.

The trial was changed from Algonquin to Normandie, and in addition to Guldahl, John Manion, Sunset, Jim Fogerty, Osage, and Jim Cockburn, Westwood, will compete for the one place allotted to this district for the tournament, which will be held in Milwaukee next month.

The first round tomorrow will start at 9:30 a. m. and the second round at 2 p. m. The low scorer for the 36 holes will qualify for the national.

Jimmy Cochran, brother of Bob Cochran, St. Louis district champion, yesterday won the championship of the printers of St. Louis when he defeated James Kelleher at Forest Park, 3 and 1, in the 36-hole final of the first annual tournament of the St. Louis Printers' Golf Association.

The association was formed just this year and 27 entered the first tournament.

Cochran also won the national printers' tournament at St. Paul last year and will defend the title at the event this year, which is to be held in Detroit, next week.

It is the plan of the printers to hold two tournaments each year here, one in the spring and one in the fall, after their national event, which is held each year in connection with their convention and baseball tournament.

It is expected that six or seven other St. Louis printers will accompany Cochran to Detroit this year.

A. R. Nicolay was elected president of the St. Louis organization, with Cochran vice-president and Oliver Sweeney secretary.

Champions Star In Tourney of Checker and Mill

Defending champions were successful in retaining four of their eight titles in the annual checker and mill tournament which came to a close on the public school playgrounds yesterday. Three of the four titleholders who repeated their victories of previous seasons played in the girls' division, while only one of the four boy champions of 1932 came through with another title.

The competition began on July 18, with each of the 46 public school play centers being represented by a team, and came to a conclusion with the playing of the final round at Wyman School playground yesterday afternoon.

Dora Leiderman of Hempstead School playground, winner of the junior girls' checker title in 1930 and 1931, and chamipon in senior checkers in 1932, made it four in a row when she defeated Edith Burrs of Lindenwood. Phyllis Rau of Sherman School playground chalked up her second consecutive senior girls' mill title when she successfully defended her championship against Mary Francis Skinner of Blewett in the final round. Third of the defending champions to win was Ruth Hagemeister, representing Mason School playground, who trimmed Esther Scharfenberger of Ashland for her second consecutive title in the junior girls' mill. In the junior checkers competition for girls, Dorothy Faerber of Fremont defeated Sedwig Jacunski of Walnut Park in the final round.

In the boys' group, the only champion to defend his title successfully was Frank Schuster, winner of the mill championship for junior boys in 1929, 1931 and 1932, who stepped up a notch to take the senior boys' title this season at the expense of Joe Gyarmatty of Mullanphy. Schuster represented Walnut Park School playground. Hempstead School playground made a clean sweep in the senior checkers division when its representative in the boys' group, Edward Duncan, defeated Edward Lazarus of Pestalozzi in the final. Milton Harris of Emerson trimmed Harry Weinberg of Sherman to take the junior boys' checkers' title, while Abner Silverman of Buder won out in junior mill at the expense of Birchard Niel of Baden.

Champions and runnersup in all divisions will receive points toward a trophy awarded each season to the public school playground which achieves the best record in all activities. The public school playgrounds are under the direction of Rodowe H. Abeken, supervisor of recreation for the Board of Education. Miss Corinne Hachtman was in charge of the checker-mill tournament.

Gilbert Hall in Final.

By the Associated Press.

WESTFIELD, N. J., July 29. — J. Gilbert Hall of Orange defeated Ralph McElvenney of New York, 6—3, 6—4, today in the semifinals of the North Jersey tennis championship and will play Donald Hawley of West Orange tomorrow for the title. Hawley reached the finals by defeating the No. 2 seeded Frank Bowden of New York, 0—6, 6—4, 6—4. Hall is seeded No. 1.

CREWS OF FOUR ST. LOUIS CLUBS DEPART FOR THE CENTRAL STATES

Oarsmen from the four active St. Louis clubs will depart today for Chicago, where, beginning Tuesday, they will compete in the annual Central States regatta.

St. Louis crews competing will be: North End's eight-oared crew, St. Louis Club's eight, Central's four, Western's barge, Central's doubles and two singles, and Western's two singles.

The boats were loaded at the Carr street tracks yesterday afternoon, but only after some difficulty encountered by the oarsmen in rowing some of the boats to the shipping point. Both North End's eight-oared shell and Central's four-oared shell were overturned in the water, due to heavy rollers on the river. The oarsmen turned immediately into the role of swimmers and pushed their craft ashore.

All crews, with the exception of the St. Louis Club's eight, are composed of the same line-ups that competed in the annual Municipal regatta. St. Louis moved five members of its barge crew into its eight in an effort to strengthen that crew.

ST. LOUIS EIGHT-OARED CREW—Bubsh, bow; A. Zachies, R. Horner, Max Schwenne, H. Seiter, G. Pertl, Kahler, W. Roland and J. Addelsberg, coxswain.

NORTH END EIGHT-OARED SHELL—Jim Pyrse, bow; A. Banach, F. Kurtsky, G. Vierling, W. Murphy, A. Bozick, O. Wade, G. Szczepan and Ray Costello, coxswain.

CENTRAL SINGLE SCULLS — Nick Kausch, H. Buss.

WESTERN SINGLE SCULLS — Adolph Kreuder, Orville Teltborst.

OFFICIAL STARTER—Artie Ellers of St. Louis.

LEAD AT STAKE IN UNIVERSITY CITY MUNY LEAGUE GAMES TODAY

First place will be at stake for all four teams in the University City Municipal League this afternoon, when the Knapps meet Cliff Brady's Burkes, and the Hellrungs oppose McDermott's Wolfs. For the second time in the past three weeks the four clubs find themselves all tied up in a knot for first place honors, each having won two and lost two, in the second half of the split season.

The Burkes and Knapps will play the feature game on Diamond No. 1 in Heman Park. An interesting pitcher's battle is in prospect with Wolf, southpaw, serving them up for Cliff Brady's aggregation, opposed by Gruenwald, star righthander for the Knapps.

The winner of the second half, should it be one of the teams other than Hellrung, will meet the first half winner in a three-game series for the league championship, and the right to represent the league in the national tournament in St. Louis during September.

WATER POLO GAME AT LORELEI FRIDAY

A water polo game will be played Friday night following the Western A. A. U. city championship swimming and diving meet at the Lorelei Swimming Pool, 4525 Olive street.

Fairground pool and the Meramec River Patrol are the teams which will meet in the coming game. Each team has played numerous practice games. Seven swimmers are on each side and two seven-minute halves constitute a contest.

Al Hoppin, manager of the meet, is arranging six races and diving events for men, women, boys, girls and life guards for the coming meet. The outstanding race on the coming water program will be the 160-yard relay race for men. Each team will have four swimmers and each swimmer will paddle 40 yards.

The Lorelei pool has been the scene of three titular meets this summer and all of them were won by Westborough. However, in the coming meet Lorelei, Tower Grove, Fairground and Marquette promise to enter their strongest teams. One of the largest crowds to witness a local swimming meet was on hand last Friday night.

LUCKEN TO MEET NELSON WEDNESDAY

Duke Lucken, Mississippi Valley A. A. middleweight champion, and Jackie Nelson, clever Belleville, Ill., fighter, have been signed for a rematch on Matchmaker Elmer Koehler's boxing card Wednesday night at Battery A.

Missouri Trapshoot.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 29. — Professionals and amateurs from St. Louis, St. Joseph, Jefferson City and other Missouri towns were to enter competition today at the opening of the Western Missouri Zone Trapshooting tournament. The tourney will continue through today and tomorrow.

Lighter-Than-Air Craft Part of U. S. Naval Def Commander Ros

By CHARLES E. ROSEND
Lieutenant-Commander U. S. Navy, Former ships Los Angeles and Akron, Survivor
Disaster and Noted Expert on Lighte

IN NOVEMBER, 1917, the High Command detachment of its colonial troops in Germ surrounded by the British and must sur soon. To send a relief expedition out by the possible. Italy, Serbia, Rumania lay to the and French Asia Minor beyond; the Allied terranean, the Suez Canal and the Red Sea.

"Send a Zeppelin," the High Command ordered.

The L-59, newly completed, was quickly cut in two and lengthened by the addition of two gas cells, making it almost as large as the later American Los Angeles. Flown by night to Bulgaria, a German ally, it was loaded with fuel and supplies, including 18,000 pounds of machine-gun ammunition and 8000 pounds of medical supplies.

Taking off at daybreak from Jamboli, Bulgaria, the ship crossed the Mediterranean between Crete and Rhodes, flew across the Sahara in a storm and reached the head waters of the Nile at Khartum the second evening.

Turned Back by False Report.

There the radio operator intercepted a British message. Deciphering it, the captain learned that it announced the surrender of the force he was sent out to rescue.

There was no point in going on. So he turned his ship about, retraced his course and landed safely at his starting point in Bulgaria with two days' fuel supply remaining, having made a nonstop flight of 4225 miles, for many years a world's record for all aircraft.

That the surrender message was false, sent out by the British in the hope of drawing the ship back, detracts nothing from the performance of the airship.

Many other stories, little known or half forgotten, could be told of the exploits of wartime airships. The L-59 flight is selected as indicating that certain military movements can be executed by rigid airships and by no other military craft.

It is not difficult to picture applications to our own American possessions—Honolulu, the Philippines or the Panama Canal.

Something that would require the quick delivery of ammunition, supplies, medicine, technical material, a company of soldiers, an army commander and his staff, the airship could do better than any other vehicle.

Meets Misapprehensions.

The most common of many misapprehensions concerning the airship is that because of its size it has no military value. It is a huge target, such critics point out. Apparently, such persons reason, all you have to do is to shoot a hole through it from a man o' war's deck or a soaring airplane and down it comes, just as a toy balloon goes pop and is gone when you touch your lighted cigarette to it. This isn't true.

The airship is amphibian, indifferent to whether it flies over land or water. It is not compelled to stop at land's ends or coast lines, as are surface men of war and armored land-going tanks and army weapons. But its principal job in the navy is not to bomb fortified points over land. Its business is at sea as a unit of the fleet.

Bombing raids were only an incidental use for Zeppelins during the war. Intended to slow up the manufacture and shipment of war supplies and to hold large forces in England for home defense, these ends they indisputably accomplished. Furthermore, it is conceivable that had Germany held its hands until it had accumulated a sufficient number of submarines and Zeppelins it might have struck a decisive blow with them, might have won the war.

CREWS OF FOUR ST. LOUIS CLUBS DEPART FOR THE CENTRAL STATES

Oarsmen from the four active St. Louis clubs will depart today for Chicago, where, beginning Tuesday, they will compete in the annual Central States regatta.

St. Louis crews competing will be: North End's eight-oared crew, St. Louis Club's eight, Central's four, Western's barge, Central's doubles and two singles, and Western's two singles.

The boats were loaded at the Carr street tracks yesterday afternoon, but only after some difficulty encountered by the oarsmen in rowing some of the boats to the shipping point. Both North End's eight-oared shell and Central's four-oared shell were overturned in the water, due to heavy rollers on the river. The oarsmen turned immediately into the role of swimmers and pushed their craft ashore.

All crews, with the exception of the St. Louis Club's eight, are composed of the same line-ups that competed in the annual Municipal regatta. St. Louis moved five members of its barge crew into its eight in an effort to strengthen that crew.

ST. LOUIS EIGHT-OARED CREW—Bubsh, bow; A. Zachies, R. Horner, Max Schwenne, H. Seiter, G. Pertl, Kahler, W. Roland and J. Addelsberg, coxswain.

NORTH END EIGHT-OARED SHELL—Jim Pyrse, bow; A. Banach, F. Kurtsky, G. Vierling, W. Murphy, A. Bozick, O. Wade, G. Szczepan and Ray Costello, coxswain.

CENTRAL SINGLE SCULLS — Nick Kausch, H. Buss.

WESTERN SINGLE SCULLS — Adolph Kreuder, Orville Teltborst.

OFFICIAL STARTER—Artie Ellers of St. Louis.

LEAD AT STAKE IN UNIVERSITY CITY MUNY LEAGUE GAMES TODAY

First place will be at stake for all four teams in the University City Municipal League this afternoon, when the Knapps meet Cliff Brady's Burkes, and the Hellrungs oppose McDermott's Wolfs. For the second time in the past three weeks the four clubs find themselves all tied up in a knot for first place honors, each having won two and lost two, in the second half of the split season.

The Burkes and Knapps will play the feature game on Diamond No. 1 in Heman Park. An interesting pitcher's battle is in prospect with Wolf, southpaw, serving them up for Cliff Brady's aggregation, opposed by Gruenwald, star righthander for the Knapps.

The winner of the second half, should it be one of the teams other than Hellrung, will meet the first half winner in a three-game series for the league championship, and the right to represent the league in the national tournament in St. Louis during September.

WATER POLO GAME AT LORELEI FRIDAY

A water polo game will be played Friday night following the Western A. A. U. city championship swimming and diving meet at the Lorelei Swimming Pool, 4525 Olive street.

Fairground pool and the Meramec River Patrol are the teams which will meet in the coming game. Each team has played numerous practice games. Seven swimmers are on each side and two seven-minute halves constitute a contest.

Al Hoppin, manager of the meet, is arranging six races and diving events for men, women, boys, girls and life guards for the coming meet. The outstanding race on the coming water program will be the 160-yard relay race for men. Each team will have four swimmers and each swimmer will paddle 40 yards.

The Lorelei pool has been the scene of three titular meets this summer and all of them were won by Westborough. However, in the coming meet Lorelei, Tower Grove, Fairground and Marquette promise to enter their strongest teams. One of the largest crowds to witness a local swimming meet was on hand last Friday night.

LUCKEN TO MEET NELSON WEDNESDAY

Duke Lucken, Mississippi Valley A. A. middleweight champion, and Jackie Nelson, clever Belleville, Ill., fighter, have been signed for a rematch on Matchmaker Elmer Koehler's boxing card Wednesday night at Battery A.

Lucken and Nelson met last Thursday night in Belleville, Ill., and Nelson won.

Missouri Trapshoot.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 29. — Professionals and amateurs from St. Louis, St. Joseph, Jefferson City and other Missouri towns were to enter competition today at the opening of the Western Missouri Zone Trapshooting tournament. The tourney will continue through today and tomorrow.

Lighter-Than-Air Craft Vital Part of U. S. Naval Defense Force, Commander Rosendahl Says

Chief Value Is In Scouting, But He Explores Its Possibilities Under Fire and As Aid in Warship Maneuvers.

By CHARLES E. ROSENDAHL,

Lieutenant-Commander U. S. Navy, Former Commander of the Airships Los Angeles and Akron, Survivor of the Shenandoah Disaster and Noted Expert on Lighter-Than-Air Craft.

IN NOVEMBER, 1917, the High Command at Berlin learned that a detachment of its colonial troops in German East Africa had been surrounded by the British and must surrender unless help came soon. To send a relief expedition out by the ordinary means was impossible. Italy, Serbia, Rumania lay to the south, with British Egypt and French Asia Minor beyond; the Allied fleet guarded the Mediterranean, the Suez Canal and the Red Sea.

"Send a Zeppelin," the High Command ordered.

The L-59, newly completed, was quickly cut in two and lengthened by the addition of two gas cells, making it almost as large as the later American Los Angeles. Flown by night to Bulgaria, a German ally, it was loaded with fuel and supplies, including 18,000 pounds of machine-gun ammunition and 8000 pounds of medical supplies.

Taking off at daybreak from Jamboli, Bulgaria, the ship crossed the Mediterranean between Crete and Rhodes, flew across the Sahara in a storm and reached the head waters of the Nile at Khartum the second evening.

Turned Back by False Report.

There the radio operator intercepted a British message. Deciphering it, the captain learned that it announced the surrender of the force he was sent out to rescue.

There was no point in going on. So he turned his ship about, retraced his course and landed safely at his starting point in Bulgaria with two days' fuel supply remaining, having made a nonstop flight of 4225 miles, for many years a world's record for all aircraft.

That the surrender message was false, sent out by the British in the hope of drawing the ship back, detracts nothing from the performance of the airship.

Many other stories, little known or half forgotten, could be told of the exploits of wartime airships. The L-59 flight is selected as indicating that certain military movements can be executed by rigid airships and by no other military craft.

It is not difficult to picture applications to our own American possessions—Honolulu, the Philippines or the Panama Canal.

Something that would require the quick delivery of ammunition, supplies, medicine, technical material, a company of soldiers, an army commander and his staff, the airship could do better than any other vehicle.

Meets Misapprehensions.

The most common of many misapprehensions concerning the airship is that because of its size it has no military value. It is a huge target, such critics point out. Apparently, such persons reason, all you have to do is to shoot a hole through it from a man o' war's deck or a soaring airplane and down it comes, just as a toy balloon goes pop and is gone when you touch your lighted cigarette to it. This isn't true.

The airship is amphibian, indifferent to whether it flies over land or water. It is not compelled to stop at land's ends or coast lines, as are surface men of war and armored land-going tanks and army weapons. But its principal job in the navy is not to bomb fortified points over land. Its business is at sea as a unit of the fleet.

Bombing raids were only an incidental use for Zeppelins during the war. Intended to slow up the manufacture and shipment of war supplies and to hold large forces in England for home defense, these ends they indisputably accomplished. Furthermore, it is conceivable that had Germany held its hands until it had accumulated a sufficient number of submarines and Zeppelins it might have struck a decisive blow with them, might have won the war.

The main employment of German Zeppelins during the war was in the field where they are contemplated to be used by the American Navy—in long range scouting and reconnaissance. On more than one occasion the timely warning of a Zeppelin scout saved the German fleet from being cut off by superior forces. The naval airship should be more useful to America than it was to Germany.

Even waiving the tremendous advantage the American airships have in helium gas which renders them immune to inflammable bullets; waiving, too, the fact that American ships are better built than the hastily constructed wartime Zeppelins, America still has greater need for airships than Germany had. The answer is written on the map.

The airship comes into fullest usefulness only where great oceanic distance must be covered. There its speed—twice that of the fastest surface cruiser, three times that of the battleship—gives it specialized value, while its cruising radius is measured in days as against the hours of a somewhat faster bombing airplane, greater by thousands of miles than that of fighting planes.

Useful to Guard Coastline.

Germany is relatively close geographically to her enemies of 1914-18, as compared to any antagonist whom America would ever face overseas. The airship, a fast, long range craft, has particular usefulness to a nation with tremendous coast lines to be guarded or to one having overseas possessions.

There remains the point of the airship as a huge target easy to knock down. But isn't the battleship a still easier target, being just as large and much slower? Certainly many bullets and bombs would glance harmlessly off the decks and armor of the battleships. It is just as true that even a lucky shot into the inwards of an airship wouldn't necessarily bring it down.

The diffusion of leaking gas and consequent loss of buoyancy would probably be very slow in an airship as large as the Akron or Macon. With even 100 bullet holes in it, the airship could stay afloat for hours without serious or even appreciable loss of lift. And patches can be slapped over the holes quickly in full flight.

Staying Afloat Under Fire.

Even hydrogen ships during the World War, riddled with bullets, were able in numerous cases to make their way home safely. A few airplanes attacking a modern helium filled airship are not by any means necessarily fatal to it.

The airship isn't invulnerable, but neither is any other naval vessel nor any military weapon.

In any case, the idea that the airship is useless because it presents a broad target is based on a wholly erroneous conception of what naval warfare and naval defense are like. You don't put an airship in one corner of a squared circle, and a battleship or airplane in the other, to wait for the referee's bell. Naval battles are not fought that way.

Airplanes in numbers and types capable of serious attack on a seagoing scouting airship are not to be found thousands of miles out at sea by themselves. Let's picture a hostile fleet moving toward our coast line some 2000 miles long. Where is the enemy? How fast

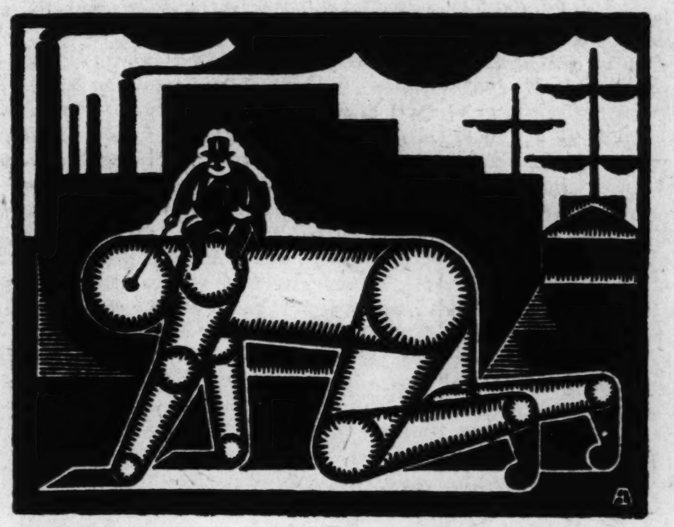
THE GREAT GOD WASTE

By JOHN HODGSON

British Engineer Who, in Common With Others of His Profession, for Years Devised Labor-Saving Processes for Industry, Now Turns His Attention to the Tragic Problem of Unemployment Which Was Thus Created.



"Finance"

The Money Power is here represented by the artist as riding on the neck of a crawling man whom he has compelled to function as a mere machine.

—Wood cut by Albert Daenens.

By CARLOS F. HURD,

Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

JOHN HODGSON, British engineer, worked for 22 years to introduce economies into industry. He was successful, and estimates, after the round-figure manner of his kind, that he enabled his clients to save more than $10,000,000 a year.

Studying economic and social conditions in the many countries to which his work took him, Hodgson found that the industrial saving effected by his work, and that of other engineers and inventors, was being nullified by processes of waste. He reached the conclusion that, as he now says:

"At least nine-tenths of our activities are at present wasted."

This waste, he decided, is not all mere accident or stupidity. In large part, it is a matter of design, and part of a system, to which his own work has contributed. Mass - unemployment is one of the great factors of communal waste, and, Hodgson now says:

"It is the job of the efficient engineer to create unemployment. Instead of contemplating with joy the prosperous community that an increase in industrial efficiency should have brought into being, I am haunted by a wan army of unemployed from whom my eficiencies have filched away their life purpose and their means of livelihood."

Moreover, he believes unemployment to be a vital element in a system, operated more or less consciously and purposefully, which he calls "Control by Impoverishment." Ruling classes, he says, have found that men are most easily controlled when they have lost their economic independence. He connects this method of control with the system of banking, which, he says, gives socially irresponsible groups, by the credit system, vast power over the whole community.

"The Great God Waste" is the title of the thought-provoking book in which this British efficiency expert has stated his conclusions. The principal part of the book, and the part to be outlined here, was read as a paper before the Royal Society of Arts, and was discussed on the floor of the society by Prof. H. S. Jevons, Sir Robert Hadfield, Kilburn Scott, Lionel Britton, Sir Felix Brunner and others.

The reader may be reminded of the book of an American engineer, Charles Whiting Baker, whose "Pathways Back to Prosperity" was reviewed in a special article in the Post-Dispatch more than a year ago. Baker also, as an engineer, and editor for 22 years of the Engineering News, expressed his personal feeling of responsibility for the state which industry had reached. The engineering profession, Baker said, by its work in developing labor-saving machinery and organizing industry, had been at least partly responsible for unemployment and surplus of goods.

In "The Great God Waste," Hodgson gives a recital so inclusive as to make the reader wonder whether his estimate of 90 per cent wastage was not too low.

The whole industrial process, Hodgson suggests, may be compared to "a leaky tank, into which one group of people endeavors to pump water unceasingly, and at ever-increasing rate, while another group, hidden in the background, throttles the inflow and creates new leaks on the outflow, so that the level of the water shall not rise."

List of the Leaks in Industrial Tank.

The author's definition of communal waste is:

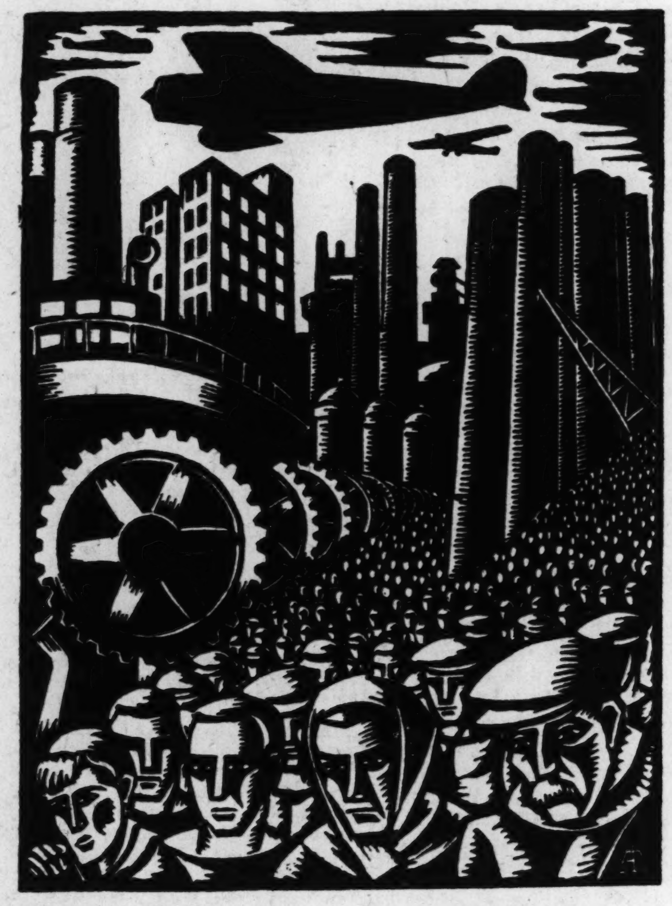
"Human effort spent without adequate satisfaction to the individual or benefit to the community."

With this definition, he proceeds to enumerate the leaks in the economic tank. He is speaking of Great Britain, but most of his details are of general application. Here is the list of leaks:

Expenditures for war preparation, for Great Britain more than $400,000,000 a year.

Support of millions of hopeless unemployed.

Support of insane, subnormal and defective class, in Great Britain 10 per cent of the whole, the growth of which might be, but is not, checked by birth-control methods.



"Servitude"

—Wood cut by Albert Daenens.

Bad housing and smoke-filled air in cities, lowering human vitality.

Land areas subject to recurrent and preventable floods.

Tubercular cows, in England 10 per cent of the whole number, causing the death of 3000 children annually from contaminated milk.

Expenditures of activity in "betting, sweepstakes, dog racing, public games, religious exercises, romantic novels and other soporifics."

Transportation delays from traffic congestion in town and city streets.

Unnecessary and ostentatious spending, as on superfluous domestic service and on funerals.

Vast losses in foreign loans.

Export of arms and munitions to nations which may use them against the exporting nation.

"Expulsion of trained and skilled citizens by immigration."

Export bounties, which may make it possible to buy English steel more cheaply in Brussels than in Sheffield.

Tariff barriers.

Expenditure of "vast skill and ingenuity in digging up, refining, insuring, transporting, assaying and again burying gold."

Abandonment of factory plants and industrial towns, still serviceable, for new ones.

Ruining of agricultural land by "ribbon" development.

Expenditures for "advertising useless and objectionable articles," and "high power" methods in selling them.

Losses from strikes, lockouts, and carelessness of workers.

Sabotage of surplus products, and restriction of production while community needs are unsatisfied.

Depredations of rats, insects and fungi—rats alone cost Great Britain $300,000,000 a year.

Supression of new invention which would disturb manufacturers' profits.

Distress and Unemployment in the Midst of Wealth.

Like other writers on present and recent economic conditions, Hodgson bears down on the contrast between the abundant communal wealth and the individual poverty of great bodies of people. After reciting the developments of agriculture, transport and mining, the riches produced by industrial chemistry, and the increase in water and air speeds, Hodgson gives the other side of the picture:

"To our astonishment we find ourselves individuals in a poverty-stricken world. Economy in every direction is forced upon us. In spite of the squalor of our towns—in London alone 100,000 people live in artificially lit, overcrowded and unhealthy basements, where fresh air never enters, and which are liable to floods from the Fleet River and

Lloyd George Wonders Whether Bee Hive Activity in America Spells Honey or Just Hum

Distinguished Briton Wishes Roosevelt Well in His Recovery Experiment (Which He Doesn't Quite Understand)—Says Failure of London Conference Was to Have Been Expected, Due to Nationalism of the Times.

By DAVID LLOYD GEORGE,

Former Prime Minister of Britain.

By Special Cable.

LONDON, July 29.

BEFORE I come to the unhappy conference I should like to make one appeal to my friends in America.

I wish someone there would tell us in Europe what America is really doing. It is clear to us there is something going on of great interest, but what is it?

It's just like watching a bee hive stirred into action by the exchange of a fertile for a futile queen. You can see great excitement in and around the hive, a coming and going outside, and there's a tremendous hum within; but you cannot see what is going on in the combs.

Does this abnormal activity mean honey, or is it all hum?

On this side of the Atlantic we are watching expectantly—many of us hopefully. If the Roosevelt experiment succeeds—not in every particular but as a whole—then it will spread to every civilized country and there will in reality be a new earth.

If it fails, then not only America but the world will have to begin all over gain.

Too Big a Flight.

As to the conference, writers and talkers of all sorts are busy trying to answer the old question: "Who killed Cock-Robin?" What does it matter? He was doomed, anyhow. It was too big a flight for the little fellow to attempt and there were so many cross-currents he could never have landed anywhere.

Had the conference succeeded in stabilizing currencies—an inconceivable conjecture under present conditions—there was the still more stubborn problem of tariffs and quotas to be dealt with. In trade restrictions, no country could have proposed anything worth having which would have been acceptable to any other country.

The short-lived 10 per cent cut of the American delegation would not have found a seconder in the conference and had it been carried unanimously it would not have appreciably eased the stranglehold on international commerce.

But the wretched infant lived long enough to enable us to judge the attitude of the assembled nations towards any attempt, however inadequate, to reduce tariffs.

"Farmer" MacDonald.

The whole conference was a bad blunder and worse and worse blunder. I cannot understand why it was ever held under present conditions. No one really wanted it except Prime Minister MacDonald. He's the kind of farmer who has a passion for fairs and markets, not because he has anything in particular he wants to sell or buy, but that he likes putting on his best clothes and riding his high horse and curvetting and caracolling about amongst the booths and, from his saddle, telling his neighbors what he thinks about the weather and the world. Meanwhile he leaves the farm to a foreman.

But when he drags important people from their pressing duties on 66 other farms to meet him, there it becomes a nuisance. Had he anything to propose which he had any reason to believe would be accepted by the others, it might have been worth while. But he had nothing to suggest except topics for conversation.

What puzzles us hereabouts is why when MacDonald visited America President Roosevelt ever encouraged him to go on with this conference—unless he wanted to get rid of him pleasantly so as to get on with his work. I have known adroit politicians to do that sort of thing.

The President was clearly not ready to talk business with Europe. He is too busy spring-cleaning in a house which had been allowed to get very much out of order.

A Complete Failure.

There is one thing on which the world can congratulate itself over this conference. It has been a clear and unmistakable palpable failure. A make-believe success would have been misleading. It would have created an illusion of something done.

It has been possible with other conferences which settled nothing to produce a lath and plaster structure which gave the temporary impression of substantial achievement. There was nothing behind and in due course the plaster failed to stand the weather and peeled off. But it had answered its purpose of deluding the world into a dangerous state of complacency.

Will there be another conference in the autumn? I sincerely hope there won't—unless conditions have completely changed by then. I cannot believe that, in the absence of such change, the nations can be cajoled into making another attempt at reaching international agreement. What can they agree about in the autumn where they conspicuously failed in the summer?

A conference that fails produces misunderstandings, recriminations, and a measure of ill-will among Governments whom it is important to keep on good terms with each other. A perusal of the press of the conferring countries shows that process is going on today. Another conference like this would deepen and accentuate suspicions which might fester into antagonisms.

Nationalism in Saddle.

It is far better that the nations should frankly recognize that for some time the domestic policies they each and all pursue will make an international agreement on a large scale impossible of attainment.

They seem to go on cultivating their garden in their own way. The time will come when they will discover that there is a limit to what can be accomplished in that direction. They will then be eager to negotiate, interchange, and cooperate on a basis of these limitations to economic nationalism. Until that time arrives I cannot see much hope for another world economic conference.

President Roosevelt is engaged in the most audacious economic readjustment and reorganization ever attempted by a great industrial country. He has scarcely more than started on his bold career of construction. On the way he might find it necessary to alter, divert, or recast his plans. Obstinate adherence to any detail which had proved impracticable would be a proof of weakness not strength.

How can he at this stage be expected to enter into an international understanding which might fetter his freedom of action? If he tells the world quite openly that such is his view, no one will take it amiss in any other country.

But this country is in very much the same plight. It isn't really free to negotiate. It has just committed itself to a double experiment which deprives it of any effective negotiating power.

It has itself given a pledge to its own industries at home to protect

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Argues Against Swanson Naval Policy.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

SECRETARY SWANSON gave us his arguments for a larger navy. Some of these have been used by leaders of other nations. However, somebody will have to pay for this larger navy. This somebody will be the taxpayer. With rising prices and falling wages, should we place another burden on the taxpayer and break his back? If he could pay, would it not be better to pay the back salaries of the teachers and the bonuses of the ex-soldiers before building up a navy?

The navy, we are told, would help the unemployed. But the number employed would not outweigh the expense. In warfare, as in industry, machinery is displacing human workers. It is the machinery that costs, and the profits would go to the manufacturer rather than to the citizens in general. The wages paid to sailors and marines would be relatively insignificant.

We are told that American interests in foreign countries must be protected. A very small proportion of the American people have any interests in foreign countries. Besides, those countries have more than sufficient police power. If Japan should send a navy to California to protect Japanese interests, wouldn't the Californians suspect war and wouldn't it imply that the United States was not doing her duty in protecting her alien population? I know that Mr. Swanson does not mean to be jingoistic, but I do not think he realizes the amount of suspicion that an army or navy in a foreign country creates. I know he does not realize the financial burden that must be assumed to maintain a large navy.

Prophetic Prof. McCaskill.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

YOUR editorial on the changes in the Illinois Civil Practice Act mentioned the part played by Prof. O. L. McCaskill in shaping the new legislation. Prof. McCaskill came to the University of Illinois College of Law from Cornell University in 1926, taking over the courses taught by Judge O. L. Harker. The loss to the students in their contact with that lovable character, Judge Harker, was compensated for by the forward-looking attitude instilled by Prof. McCaskill.

That Prof. McCaskill was a prophet is now an established fact. He included in his courses on practice the subject of code pleading. Students wondered why this was necessary, since Illinois was not a code state. He replied that he was showing them how they would practice in Illinois courts 10 years from then. Seven years have passed, and his prediction has partly come true. Partly because it was not possible to pass a bill at this time including all the needed changes.

NATHAN T. ELLIFF,
State's Attorney, Tazewell County,

A Poor Crop Year.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

YOU close your excellent editorial, "Back to the Fire," with the sage remark that "recovery will be brought by the hand that swings the hammer and the hoe, not by the hand that rolls the dice." This deserves to rank with the historical sayings of the wise men of the past.

And yet, so far as swinging the hoe is concerned (meaning by this the essential operations in connection with agriculture), one may swing the hoe until one is blue in the face with little avail, unless nature is in a mood to co-operate. She has been in no such mood this season. Locally, it has been the worst in the writer's experience. Nationally, it has been the worst in 50 years, according to a Government crop report given out about a fortnight ago.

That the stock market should have continued to advance until the recent break, in the face of this report, shows the ignorance of the lambs. The seasoned trader knows that no nation can prosper unless it is well and cheaply fed. There can be no bull market on the heels of a poor crop year. The hoped-for beneficial effects from the New Deal are now quite likely to be slow in arriving, if they arrive at all, until another year brings the promise of a better crop.

ARTHUR JOBSON.
Marceline, Mo.

Limitation of Production.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IN AN editorial entitled "A Test of Wisdom," you state that "the value of what we produce is some three times the income of those who produce it." And farther on you say: "We must limit production and thus stop glutting the market with more things than the people can use."

Now will you please explain what good it would be to limit production, when you admit that those who produce this wealth receive only one-third of it in the form of wages? It stands to reason that they (the workers) could buy only one-third of the necessities also.

Under the profit system, without world markets, there will always be over-production, unless some day we discover another planet where we can ship our surplus.

FRED MUELLER.

NIRA's Long-Run Significance

Up to the present time, public comment on the policy embodied in NIRA has been confined almost exclusively to its significance as an emergency means of attacking depression. There has been little or no discussion of its broader implications. This is due, in part, to the fact that attention is necessarily centered on the drive for recovery. It is explained further by the fact that the act, on its face, is limited to a term of two years. NIRA, viewed solely as a temporary industrial stimulant, presents problems of enforcement which are serious enough, taken alone. But NIRA, considered as the prelude to a permanent program of public control of business, gives rise to still further questions to which the American people must some day find an answer.

It seems quite unlikely that we shall ever be able to recede completely from the measure of control which is set up by this act. Business will not readily relinquish its long-sought freedom from anti-trust prosecution. It will be reluctant to surrender the protection which the present policy affords it against cutthroat competition. Labor, likewise, will fight to preserve the prohibition of child labor, the maximum hours and minimum wages and the economic status granted it by the new legislation. Government, therefore, having established these rights, may be compelled to keep its restraining hand on industry in order to insure that they are exercised in the common interest.

NIRA, moreover, embodies a radically new plan of attack on depression. Always before, we have waited for the reduction of wages, the liquidation of debts, the deflation of prices and the resumption of investment to bring us out of hard times. Now, however, we have forsaken the defeatism of laissez-faire. We are undertaking deliberately to shape our economic destiny by increasing wage payments and spreading purchasing power among our people. We have invented a new mechanism of social control. If it works, our people will never again submit to the horrors of waiting for so-called "natural forces" to work themselves out. If conscious direction succeeds where chance has failed, we will never again be content to fall back on chance.

Seldom in our history have duties been imposed upon the state, later to be taken away. New functions, once assumed, usually come to be taken for granted. Out of NIRA, in this way, there may conceivably grow a permanent system of national economic planning. This system, if it follows the line of probable evolution, will be organized on the basis of trade associations in the various industries, carrying on under the close supervision of Federal authority. It is, therefore, in the issues presented by such an organization that we find the questions which the NIRA policy may eventually raise.

Comprehensive trade organization with anti-trust exemption aims to insure profit-making operation through binding agreements which will so restrict output as to preserve profitable prices. This purpose can be successfully served so long as no new producer is permitted to enter the field. But with profits attractive and enterprise free, new firms may enter into competition. They, then, must be included in the arrangement to establish quotas and fix prices. But this will spread profits more thinly among the firms in the industry. If carried far enough, it may even eliminate profit and lead again to the over-capacity and unemployment which the whole plan was designed to eliminate.

This is the weakness of the trade code method of protecting profits. The German cartels have long operated on this basis. And more than once, the effort to prevent over-capacity and costly competition has been defeated by the entrance of new capital into the field. A possible method of meeting the situation would be, of course, to increase prices as new units enter into competition so that all the concerns in the industry, no matter how numerous they may be, will be assured a profit. Such a policy, however, would involve an extravagant waste of capital and an intolerable exploitation of consumers. The only alternative is to permit the state to control the introduction of new capital.

This is exactly the point to which NIRA may ultimately bring us. The act now permits the Government to require trade association membership of all existing firms. But it does not forbid the creation of new firms. Unrestricted multiplication of industrial units, however, might defeat the whole plan. It follows, therefore, that the Government may be driven to supervise the flow of investment funds.

This means, concretely, that some Federal agency will be empowered to permit or forbid the sale of corporate securities. It will be compelled to make a detailed statistical study of market demand and productive capacity. It will use the information so obtained to prevent the further expansion of already over-expanded industry. It will determine which industries will, and which will not, be allowed to grow. It will direct investment into the channels of greatest demonstrated social need.

If and when this is done, economic individualism will have given way completely to authoritative control. Freedom of enterprise, in the sense in which it was celebrated by the classical economics, will be a thing of the past. Comprehensive economic planning will be the order of the new day.

Many and difficult will be the problems of the central planners. How far will they restrain the introduction of new machines and methods in order to preserve employment? How far will they restrict production in order to make prices cover costs? How far will they go in keeping less efficient enterprises alive in order to protect the labor and the capital invested in them? How, that is, will they compromise the conflict between efficiency and security?

Economic planning has elements both of strength and of weakness. It presents both a threat and a promise. No one can say, with certainty, where the balance will usually lie. NIRA, we believe, has placed our feet on the road which leads to planning. We may retrace our steps. We may find that we are either unable or unwilling to do so.

We cannot today permit the long-run implications of NIRA to affect our support of its immediate program. We know that disaster yawns behind us. We must go forward. But as we proceed, we will be wise if we keep our eyes on the signposts along the way. It will be an adventurous journey.

What Will Kansas Say?

And now Kansas. Gov. Landon has spoken. He will call a special session of the Legislature to set up machinery for voting on the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Other matters of varying importance will be submitted to the body, but the item of repeal necessarily commands acute attention.

Kansas has occupied a unique position with respect to prohibition. She has been professedly the dryest Roman of them all. She has worn the hair shirt of reputed abstinence, not quite so long as Maine, but with a fiercer pride, a more eloquent righteousness, with a swank and a showmanship that eclipsed, obscured and practically extinguished the virtue of the diffident, tongue-tied Pine Tree State. With Kansas, prohibition has never been merely a question of public policy; it has been a badge of superiority, a patent of nobility, a quasi-religion.

What word will come from Kansas in pensive September, when the leaves are turning, when the cottonwoods, shamelessly quick to shed their verdure, are flaunting their naked ugliness, and the sun beats down on ripening corn and the stubbled remnants of those acres that in June were leagues of waving wheat? We shall not anticipate the verdict. But it must be remembered, joyously or sadly, as the case may be, that in the last, prophetic canvass of the Literary Digest, Kansas reported as still pro-eighteenth, but only by a fragile, disconsolate percentage. Morally, the verdict was a disavowal. Mathematically dry, Kansas was, spiritually, disposed to look upon the wine when legally red, as it had long been quaffing of the "mule" illicitly white. And since then, the army of repeal, with drums rolling and bugles blowing and banners flying, has been swinging along in irresistible tempo to victory. And since then, be it recorded, William Allen White, paladin of prohibition and Kansas oracle, has waved a rather blithe farewell to Bishop Cannon, Dr. McBride and the whole tribe of sumptuary law-givers.

Will Kansas halt the march? By way of answer, it may be ventured that no state can be wrong all the time—not even Kansas.

The War Upon Individualism

Few living men have had so vast an experience in human affairs as David Lloyd George. Premier of Great Britain in the World War, and one of the "Big Three" at the Versailles conference, the Welsh statesman looks out upon the ultimate consequences of the great holocaust.

He sees a new world displacing the old world torn asunder by the titanic struggle at Armageddon. Three great experiments in government arrest his attention—one in Russia, another in Italy, a third in the United States. He thinks the American experiment the most interesting, perhaps the most promising. He reminds us that ours is the richest of all nations, and he thinks the people of the United States are the most highly trained.

What is the American experiment? We call it the New Deal, but this is only a political term. What we are witnessing is a war upon individualism. This is the import of the industrial control laws, as it is the implication of the accomplished acts of the special session of Congress and the contemplated program of the session to come. A too rugged individualism, as Prof. John Dewey has designated it, is incompatible with modern life. Modern life dangles before the nose of the individual too many wants; too many fascinating things that money can buy; too much opportunity for ostentation and display; too much consolidation of power; too great an opportunity to get something for nothing. The automobile alone is a greater revolutionary than we commonly realize. It is disintegrating the city and putting people in a species of pastoral seclusion. This is expensive. One must somehow get money to do it.

The blandishments of modern life have been too much for the individual. They have overcome his resistance, beaten down his scruples, swept away his moral precepts. Samuel Insull, enjoying sanctuary in Greece, is the symbol of man's apostasy in the presence of the new siren. For Ulysses to pass the isle of the enchantress was no harder than for Mr. Insull to resist when beckoned by wealth without end. Otto Kahn, in the thick of American finance, admitted before the Senate Banking and Currency Committee that it had become necessary for the Federal Government to exercise control over practices which had got so far out of hand that bankers themselves were aghast. "It was a game," said one of the apologists for the era in which individualism ran amuck.

Exactly. It was a game which society can no longer afford. Science postulates a state of well-being for the masses. If it were not so, she would not have given us gunpowder to make the least man equal to the greatest. The whole story of human progress argues a commonalty of interest. Electricity, the discoveries of Pasteur, the automobile, the airplane, the wireless, the conquest of ocean, education, are for all the people—the means by which men, little by little, are lifted up. Thus it is that what Carl Sandburg calls "the little joker, man" has become that marvel of all time which Maxim Gorky says he is. Modern life presupposes an enlightened man. How else could it hope to market its artifacts, its aids to comfort and luxury?

The tempo of life in the United States has been far more rapid than most of us realize. There is nothing else like it in history. It speedily brought the individual into conflict with the mass. The owner of the machine, for instance, took from a mechanism the profit he once enjoyed from the labor of a hundred men. The utility magnate overcharged the people with the one hand and over-bonded the property with the other. As millionaires multiplied, the unemployed increased. It at last came to a stalemate in which the factory could not run and the worker had to be fed. We endured this situation for almost four years. The followers of Micawber said the depression would cure itself. The naive sons of Col. Mulberry Sellers assured us that nothing was wrong.

But there was something wrong. The individual had overreached himself. Like Icarus, the individual flew so high the sun melted his wings and he so plunged to destruction. Sadly enough, he dragged all the rest of us down with him. It was impossible to start the great American nation again at the old pace. There was but one thing we could do. That was to take the individual in hand, to put him in leading strings, to restrain his excesses. This is what we are doing. We will never turn back. That is not the way the world turns. Before we get done, we will learn how to live at peace with the machine, how to keep the speculator in bounds, how to make the banker honest, how to chastise the scalawag, and how to adapt ourselves to the necessities of modern life. The predatory man is done.

It is not a nice lesson, but we will learn it.

A Rare Find

TWENTY YEARS A-GROWING. By Maurice O'Sullivan. (The Viking Press, New York City.)

THOSE readers who sometimes grow weary of conventional literature and long for the artless utterance of some unspoiled consciousness, still richly aware of the wonder and mystery of living, will find what they desire in "Twenty Years A-Growing."

The author, Maurice O'Sullivan, now a member of the Dublin police force, is a native of the island of Great Blasket, which lies five miles from the extreme southwest point of Ireland. There, where the Irish language is spoken and English is seldom heard, he spent the first 20 years of his life.

It was a happy life, if at times a hard one; but by 1926, when the author went forth into the larger world, a great change had come over the island, for "the fishing was gone under foot," and all the young people were leaving for America, where everyone was prosperous and happy and money was to be picked up in the streets. Soon only the old folk would be left, with their memories of the good old days. Maurice chose to remain an Irishman, but the difference between the little world he was compelled to leave and the larger world he entered was as great as that between the Middle Ages and the twentieth century.

In "Twenty Years A-Growing," written in the Irish language with no thought of publication, we are told, and with no public in mind save the dwindling few back home who might hear the record read aloud, Maurice O'Sullivan has relived his childhood and youth.

"Relived" is the proper word, for he has not written as one who remembers with sadness, but rather as though by some magic he had turned time back and all was taking place in order as before, with nothing of the bloom of the passing moment lost. As he proceeds with his story, a whole community comes alive, with all its little doings in happiness and sorrow, and the landscape and the sea become as vivid as though one reading also remembered them with love.

But what sets the book apart from the great mass of literature is the unsophisticated sense of wonder in almost every page. It is that which our time has lost; and have we very good reason to be sure that what we may have gained is sufficient compensation for the loss? Have we any justification for assuming that the world of which this Irish youth was so vividly conscious was falsely conceived and that our much duller-seeming world is true? In this connection, some will recall an old saying with a heightened sense of its possible meaning: "Unless ye become as little children—." How much, one wonders, have we come to "know" that isn't so at all?

The book is full of essential poetry in the unliterary sense of the term; but if, at times, there is a notable eloquence in the utterance, it is never of the self-conscious sort, but grows naturally out of a joyful clear-seeing of beauty. The following passage is perhaps typical:

"Away we went down the roads, leaping now as light as goats, we were so fresh after the meal. The sun had gone down in the west after bidding farewell to the big world, sheep-shearings in the sky overhead, the old men of the parish stretched out on the top of the cliff giving their breasts to the fragrant sea air and talking together after the day, a heat-haze here and there in the bosom of the hills moving slowly among the valleys, a colt whinnying now and then and asses braying."

We are told that the manuscript fell by chance into the hands of a young Oxford man acquainted with the Irish tongue, who had it translated into English by Moya Llewelyn Davies and George Thomson. It was chosen for publication by the Book Society in London, and seems to have created a sensation in England. In Ireland, it has been hailed as "the first piece of literature in Irish since the scattering of the poets in the eighteenth century." The Book-of-the-Month Club sponsors it in America.

FATAL GESTURE. By John Taintor Foote. (D. Appleton-Century Co., New York City.)

AN AMUSING yarn about a collector-husband, whose specialty is rare old fishing rods, and an equally acquisitive wife, whose hobby is antique furniture. Each regards the other's weakness with slight sympathy, and a tense situation develops when the husband, entrusted to buy a rare old cupboard at an auction, is lured from the path of rectitude by the finest collection of rods he ever saw, and buys the wrong piece of furniture.

BARRO COLORADO ISLAND, situated in Gatun Lake, Canal Zone, Panama, has a jungle laboratory, maintained by the Institute for Research in Tropical America, under the auspices of the National Research Council. Phil Rau, an entomologist living in Kirkwood, spent five weeks on that island during August and September, 1928, his purpose being to compare the behavior of tropical bees and wasps with those of our temperate regions. The volume here noted is the result.

"Heretofore," he remarks, "my entomological escapades have been dooryard adventures. . . . But to be picked up bodily from city lot entomologizing and transported to a primeval jungle which bore every evidence of being the cradle of evolution was, by contrast, a never-to-be-forgotten experience."

It would require an entomologist to appraise the scientific value of Mr. Rau's contribution; but any lay reader, who appreciates good writing and is at all interested in the mystery of life, may attest, without presumption, the fascinating character of the author's discussion. This lay reader does so.

STOP THAT SMOKE! By Henry Obermeyer. (Harper & Bros., New York City.)

ANYONE who has supposed the poisonous artificial nights and twilights that cling about great cities through so many winter days are a part of the necessary price that must be paid for "progress," has a revelation awaiting him in this exhaustive discussion of the smoke nuisance by an expert. The author considers the problem in its various social and economic aspects, describes the methods by which the very costly nuisance may be abated and tells of the progress that has been made here and abroad by anti-smoke campaigners.

Anyone who is at all interested in intelligent discussions of social problems should find the volume interesting at least; and surely everyone who is influential in civic affairs would do well to read it.

A CALL TO THE TEACHERS OF THE NATION. By the Committee of the Progressive Education Association on Social and Economic Problems. (John Day & Co., New York City.)

THIS is the latest of the John Day pamphlets on current social problems, and it is very much worth reading. As a statement of the problem presented by the present economic chaos, it is altogether admirable, and there is no pussy-footing as to the solution of that problem. George S. Counts, chairman of the Committee of Nine that formulated the statement, is well known as author of "The Soviet Challenge to America" and as co-translator of "New Russia's Primer."

This "Call to the Teachers" is frankly radical, in the original and only intelligent sense of the term. Incidentally, it would be well if the term were understood by those who use it most. "Too radical" is a common expression; and it is funny. For to be radical is to realize that the root of any troublesome matter is the vital point for consideration, that if effects are to be altered, the cause must be attacked. Naturally, if the stems and leaves of a poisonous plant could speak, they would disapprove of radical gardeners.

The message is admirably formulated and time will prove it luminously sane; but there is something saddening about the implied assumption that teachers, as a national force, can be expected to accept this radical message, and, by virtue of an alleged spiritual and intellectual leadership, turn the tide of social persuasion toward collectivism.

In social matters, institutionalized education is bound to be a reactionary force, being created and supported by the going order. There will always be exceptions, and no doubt there are more now than formerly, but institutionalized education as a social force can change its allegiance only with a change of masters.

Furthermore, we should re-examine the curious notion that human beings in the aggregate are to be moved by some better reason because it is better. In the complex affairs of men, the better reason is chiefly prophetic. It is the greater need that moves the human mass.

FEDERAL SURVEY OF LOCAL RELIEF WORK ORDERED

Caused by Unwillingness of Citizens' Committee to Abandon Plan Used Here Thus Far.

ARRANGED THROUGH SENATOR CLARK

Meantime Order Barring U. S. Aid Except Through Public Agencies Is Suspended for Two Weeks.

A survey of the work and organization of the Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment will be made by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration as a result of the unwillingness of the committee to surrender the relief plan which has functioned here through the depression.

Harry Hopkins, director of the Federal Relief Administration, has established the policy that after Aug. 1, Federal relief funds may not be expended except through public agencies. The Citizens' Committee, a quasi-public organization which functions through private agencies, has obtained a suspension of that order for two weeks, so far as St. Louis is concerned, and has arranged for a survey of the situation here.

The survey will be made by Hopkins' assistant, C. M. Bookman, who expects to be in St. Louis Aug. 10. Senator Clark, at the request of Mayor Dickmann, arranged for the survey. In ordering it, Hopkins said reports reaching him were that relief agencies in St. Louis were doing excellent work. He had no criticism to make of the organization, except that it conflicted with the principle established that public money must be spent by public officers.

How Plan Would Work Out.

E. G. Steger, director of Citizens' Committee, said if that principle were put into effect here, it would mean that the committee would be designated a public body and would have a complete staff of relief workers of its own.

Since it was established, late in 1930, the chief purpose of the committee has been to co-ordinate the work of the private agencies and obtain money to meet the extraordinary demands on them. There are 10 affiliated agencies, the Provident Association, St. Vincent de Paul Society, Jewish Social Service Bureau, Salvation Army, St. Louis and Webster Groves chapters of the Red Cross, Bureau for homeless Men, Bureau for Women, County Welfare Association, and Children's Aid Society.

Direct contact with those in need of relief is made through these agencies, and, to a lesser degree, through the clothing, employment and application bureaus maintained by the committee. Expenditures of the agencies each month beyond their own resources, are met by the Citizens' Committee.

$3,313,326 In Federal Relief.

Since last October, when the committee first obtained Federal relief funds from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the total spent for relief in St. Louis and the County has been $4,871,500 of which $3,313,326, or 68 per cent, has been obtained from the Federal Government.

The committee plans to ask Gov. Park to call a special session of the Legislature to provide funds for relief. The State's only appropriation, regarded by some as its constitutional limit, is $250,000 and that has not yet been touched. Hopkins does not intend to make Federal funds available readily to states regarded as not having done their full share, and places Missouri in that category. He has tentatively approved an appropriation of $600,000 for the Citizens' Committee for July, August and September expenditures. That is about half the amount the committee asked for.

THE GREAT GOD WASTE—By JOHN HODGSON

other sewers—we have vast steel works and millions of people paralyzed into immobility.

"In the great centers of population there are insufficient laundries. The people are lousy and their clothes stink. Their houses are bug-ridden.

"We have a surplus of trained doctors, architects and artists. In Germany the surplus of doctors is so great in comparison with the poverty of the people that medical students have to wait some 10 years between qualification and obtaining practice; yet the medical services, and the comfort and craftsmanship of our homes and public buildings are wholly inadequate.

"In the middle and upper classes of society, security of income and status of all kinds is rapidly diminishing—for most manual workers it has already vanished. The previously 'secure' classes are being ruthlessly taxed, their savings vanish like smoke, their jobs collapse and leave them stranded. It becomes more and more difficult for them to educate and to place their sons; more and more difficult to hand on to them economic independence. There is no longer security.

"Outside the erstwhile secure classes, we see millions of people, about a quarter of our workers, living without work or hope, in helpless poverty. These appalling conditions repeat themselves in all industrial countries. There are 2,700,000 unemployed in England, 6,000,000 in Germany, 15,000,000 in the United States; about 30,000,000 in all industrial countries.

Waste in Investments and in Education.

Discussing some details of Great Britain's waste, with some reference to the United States and other nations, Hodgson says:

"From the time of the South Sea Bubble until now, the loss to the community for foreign investments has been immense. Thus, we were never paid for the interstate railways which we constructed in America before the Civil War. Toward the end of the last century (1891) the Baring crisis lost us millions in the Argentine. We lost £150,000,000 when Czarist Russia collapsed. France is paying interest in depreciated currency on the sums loaned to her during the war. Brazilian and Argentine payments are at present held up. Australian securities have depreciated some £45,000,000 since the war.

"German repayments are probably impossible. Our recent loans to that country have rebuilt the slums of Frankfort, while our own slums, underground dwellings and water-invaded cities remain.

"The value of the foreign investments which we held after 200 years of conquest and exploitation was about four billion pounds, but has been reduced by depreciation and default to less than £2,600,000,000, which sum is comparable with the value of the war material produced during the last year of the war, when we were, for the only time in our history, organized for production.

"Our educational system is wasteful in itself, and is the cause of great communal wastes. Its main objective is the inculcation of habits and the memorizing of details, not the trained understanding of the great generalizations that summarize a man's thought and knowledge. The fact that we see fit to represent the 40 sounds of our language, and their 400 possible modifications, by 26 letters only, is just jam to it. Few of us in a lifetime ever learn to read aloud or to spell with accuracy. Even the cultural value of science is neglected.

"The rigidity of our education, and the suppression of free discussion in our newspapers and on the wireless (radio) makes social and national readjustments violent, exaggerated and dangerous, instead of foreseen and smooth."

Method in Robbing People of Economic Independence.

Expounding his doctrine of "Control by Impoverishment," the author writes:

"The proximate cause of the communal wastes would seem to be the age-old and world-wide experience of every ruling class, that men are most easy to control when they have lost their economic independence. Even a British Government had to toe the line to American finance, and to cut down the dole by 10 per cent, when it lost its economic independence.

"The squeeze of finance, the squandering of savings, the crushing taxation, including death duties, the ceaseless propaganda that no communally owned undertaking can be profitably run—as if anything that even a floundering Bolshevik could do would be as inefficient as our present 'leaky tank' system—the enforced trustification, the deflationary policy, the bankruptcies, all are part of a sinister activity that affects every industrial country outside Russia; an activity that is obviously enforcing privation and poverty on us when incomparable riches are clearly within our sight.

"When the gold city of Johannesburg was established, it was found that before the native could be induced to work underground amid the death-dealing quartz dust of the gold mines, his economic freedom had to be taken from him by the imposition of hut taxes and other payments which had to be met in money. Betting was introduced into the mine compounds, the resulted in most of the natives losing their earnings and running into debt. Thus a docile and permanent labor force became available as soon as economic freedom was eliminated.

"In Johannesburg the natives were enticed to buy many unnecessary luxuries so that they should earn to spend, and lose economic freedom.

"Adding unnecessary complications to life does not necessarily raise the standard of living, though it may raise the standard of wealth. In our own country we have worthless cinema shows, gigantic football matches, greyhound races, newspapers which encourage betting, and many customary and ceremonial activities which exist for the same end. Similarly, insurance companies, building societies, deferred payment shops and money lenders, boons as they may appear to many, mortgage the future of the individual, and reduce his economic freedom."

Credit Power in Hands of "Socially Irresponsible."

To bring banking into the picture, the author goes back to the early fifteenth century, when, because of geological changes, the herrings of the Baltic Sea moved their spawning grounds to the coast of Holland. This caused the Hanseatic traders of Northern Germany, who were in the herring trade and the banking business, to transfer their activities to Holland, Portugal, France and England.

Hodgson outlines the development of English banking, first in the form, beneficient as he holds, in which private individuals granted credit through the issue of bank notes; then the development, in the last 90 years, of the "credit-overdraft-discount" system of banking, and the "gradual transference of credit-power from the merchant to the industrialist, and from the industrialist to the politically-minded financier."

"I will be obvious," he says, "that once it is permitted to one class of persons to issue money at high rates of interest to some 10 times the value of the wealth of securities they hold (97 per cent of the world's money is now bank-credit money) it is inevitable, given time, that this class will be able to assume credit-power—the right to grant or withhold permission do and to use things—over the whole community.

"Here, in this right of groups of socially irresponsible persons to create money, a right which is backed by all the powers which the State has evolved for protection of property, is, any rate, the immediate cause of our world-wide poverty and paralysis. This highly centralized and socially irresponsible credit-power constitutes an invisible government which deeply influences every aspect of our actions and our lives, even when we think that we are acting without coercion and according to the dictates of the most obvious common sense.

"The industrialist finds that he must conserve his bank credit by earning money profit; go out of business, or become mortgaged to his bank. This compels him to five main courses of action. He must endeavor to maintain the ratio of wages to output at the minimum value that his employes can be forced or tricked into accepting. He must strive unceasingly to increase the efficiency of his productive processes. He must form vertical, horizontal and international trusts in an attempt to reduce the capital, and so the interest charges, required for a given output. He must strive to keep cheap foreign goods out of his home market, by persuading his Government to impose tariffs; or, if he engages in foreign trade, he must resist tariffs so as to secure cheap labor. Lastly, until his market is so glutted with his products that he has to sabotage them, restrict production and combine with his fellow-industrialists, he must compete with them in every direction where a money profit seems possible."

The author takes cognizance of the idea, held by some persons, that the great waste described is perhaps inevitable; that "the major social changes can only be made catastrophically, and when the discomfort becomes intolerable." He sets this theory forth in several phases, but rejects it, saying. "It is only the young child who knocks down his tower of bricks; older children desire more permanence for their handiwork."

For Control of Credit in Interest of Society at Large.

Coming to the question of what to do, Hodgson says:

"It cannot be too strongly emphasized that in order to put things right economically, it is not necessary to 'change human nature,' but only to modify the system under which the mass of us are compelled to function. The financial interests that now hold such immense and world-wide power by means of the system will, of course, resist to the utmost any such modification.

"If we desire to amend the system so that the communal wastes may be eliminated and our immense productive powers adequately made use of for the enjoyment and benefit of all members of the community, it seems obvious that control by means of money power—keeping the mass of the people without reserves against starvation or loss of status—must be modified or replaced by some less primitive form of control. Also, that credit power—the right to grant or withhold permission and encouragement to do and to see things—must be widely diffused throughout the community."

Schemes for "tinkering with the present system" are mentioned, such as inflation of currency or extension of bank credits, which "would leave us in the hands of the banks," and nationalization of the banks, which also "would not alter the situation. What is required," the writer says, "is control of credit by individuals and bodies who will use it in socially valuable ways, and not for piling up debts and mortgage obligations against their fellow men."

Competent Planning, Pegged Prices His Remedies.

He then puts forth his own plan, based on his conclusion that "two main things are necessary." These are:

"Purchasing power must be distributed as a gift without debt charges to consumers—not to producers—and prices must be pegged.

Further, in order that this distribution shall be carried out in ways beneficial to the community, competent planning bodies, which in some cases might consist of only a few individuals, must be brought into existence. The planning bodies would have to have the bankers as their servants, either by compulsion or persuasion."

The community, Hodgson says, must organize two types of activity, routine jobs and skilled work. Every person, he holds, should do his part of the routine work, which if efficiently organized, would take the person only a few weeks each year, with possibly an annual variation from one form of work to another.

The community, having taken from the bankers the power of creating and placing money, would issue credits for goods and services, and distribute these credits as wages or endowment, giving no individual less than he needed for a normal life, and placing no limit on remuneration for the more valuable services.

"There would be no taxation of individuals, as the credits necessary to cover all national services, including health insurance and financing of the leisure time activities, would be held back from distribution. Taxation of individuals is necessary only when the community is prevented from undertaking productive activities sufficient to cover the cost of the services provided.

Visions Society Prospering On Two Months' Work a Year.

"It is not unreasonable to suppose that in a society in which communal wastes were largely eliminated, the maintenance work could be done by the contribution of at most two months' work every year by every individual between the ages of 20 and 45. Probably many old people would desire to carry on with the routine occupations to which they were accustomed, especially if they had not to keep pace with younger people or drop out, as at present. Probably also it would be found desirable to excuse many individuals entirely from routine occupations. After the various adjustments and allowances as to the service demanded were made, the members of such a society would find themselves with nine or 10 months' leisure to enjoy, each year."

Hodgson's book of 126 pages includes, besides his factual discussion, chapters of an allegorical nature, dealing with the present and future social states, and an article on Soviet Russia. He terms Russia "the midwife of the emergent order," and says that, "though we may respect and sympathize with her achievement, it would seem most undersirable to adopt either her organization or her philosophy."

The book is illustrated with wood cuts by Albert Daenens, a Dutch artist, whose work the author compares to that of Peter Brueghel, a painter, who took his themes from the political and economic life of Holland four centuries ago. The book was printed by Gibbs, Bamforth & Co., Luton, Bedfordshire. The author's home is in Eggington, Bedfordshire, and the copyright is strictly reserved by John L. Hodgson in all countries.

Rejects the Beehive As Model for Happy Busy Human Society

THE beehive, long held to be a model for a busy and happy human society, is rejected by John Hodgson, author of "The Great God Waste." In the same passage of his work, Hodgson gives his view of President Roosevelt. He writes:

"Almost all the forms of social organization, such as capitalism, Communism and Fascism, aim at elevating the State into an all-powerful God, and depressing the individual to a mere cog in the wheels of his machinery. This is partly because we set ourselves objectives which have to be realized in mad haste—to strike oil or to occupy territory before our neighbors, to make ourselves secure before we are attacked.

"The world's ideal is apparently a beehive, full of specialized and full-time workers. The alternative system which I have outlined is the exact reverse of this. There would be little specialization except of machines and hobbies, and instead of full-time work, there would be ample and endowed leisure.

"If organization of the type which I have outlined ever came into existence, the memory of an English Labor Minister (J. H. Thomas, Secretary of State for Dominions) solemnly perambulating the world in order to provide employment, when the only true solution of his problem was to organize endowed leisure, is one that will not be easily forgotten.

"But President Roosevelt follows Thomas, Mussolini and Hitler. His initial proclamation states that 'our greatest task is to put people to work.' In a country where the existing productive capacity is ample to yield each family at least $3000 worth of goods and services a year, he calls for 'sacrifices' and 'discipline.' As a faithful supporter of the leaky tank system, he cuts down governmental expenses and pensions by $150,000,000. He aids and abets the destruction of the independent banks, and encourages the concentration of credit power. Like ourselves (the British), he aims at reducing purchasing power at home in order to increase ability to sell abroad. Meanwhile his 17,000,000 unemployed, to whom machines should have brought joyous wealth, linger on hopelessly."

Lighter-Than-Air Craft Vital, Says Naval Expert

and in what direction is he moving? How many ships and what types does he have? Will he strike the north coast, the south or at the center? Is his fleet concentrated or moving in two or more units, or spread out over a considerable area? Answers to these questions, if accurate and timely, may decide a naval battle, may win a war.

Practical Tests.

Those of us who have flown through many storms in many latitudes aboard the Los Angeles have come to have a deep affection for her. Those of us who crossed our continental plains and mountains aboard the Akron, or watched her battle through a winter Atlantic storm that piled many tons of ice on her broad back, came to think of her as equal to any task imposed.

Last Winter the Akron, flying over New England with the late Commander McCord in command, noted a low-pressure area moving in from the southwest, cutting them off from Lakehurst. They swung west, caught the northern side of the disturbance, rode it. Riding easily, with reduced power, the ship progressively changed course around the perimeter of the storm area as it moved off to the northeast. It was to take them as far west as Cleveland and Lake Erie, and to cover 500 miles, but they landed easily that evening at Lakehurst, with ample fuel left and not even a sign of strain on the ship.

Thinks Airship Essential.

I have no idea that the airship will ever totally displace any other craft in the fleet. I know that the airship can do certain things that no other naval vessel can do; it is my belief that an airship unit is a necessary and integral part of any well rounded system of naval defense such as ours must be.

The airship might go out and get the information concerning the enemy fleet and radio it back without its presence even being suspected. With a break of weather it might hide in the clouds and heave to, and send its own planes out for further detailed information.

It might fly away and return on another bearing to check its observations. If its presence were detected by the enemy it would have a good chance of getting away safely when its work was done, even though numbers of shorter-range and slower-climbing planes were sent out to attack it.

If overtaken, it would have its own fighting planes to send against the enemy and large-caliber machine guns of its own capable of putting up a stout resistance from the steadier gun platform of the airship's back.

And if the airship were accidentally overwhelmed by a multiplicity of planes sent out from an enemy carrier, the loss might be fully justified by the value of the information sent in long before. Surprise still may win battles. The airship can help maintain this element, even in our modern time.

Facing Hostile Planes.

The use of airplanes from naval vessels has made the airship also a naval necessity in our case. They are not today, or legitimately within our vision, heavier-than-air craft that can come by themselves from over the thousands of miles of oceanic expanse to our shore with military loads of bombs or gas in any serious quantity.

But air attacks by planes are certainly a menace. Airplanes desiring to present our coastal cities with such cargoes must come borne on surface vessels to within a distance measured in hundreds rather than thousands of miles before making the attack. Once launched, a percentage of them will surely reach their objective in spite of the most modern shore defenses.

The place to destroy these hornets is in their surface-borne nests—airplane carriers—before they can be loosed into the air. But first these nests must be found. And that is where airships come into play.

With their high speed, wide radius of vision, ability to cover great areas at great distances off shore, they will search out such enemies thousands of miles out at sea and send such vital information to the commander of defensive naval forces cruising in compact, powerful striking units. He can then engage and destroy with his guns and his own airplanes these approaching swarms as they still lie harmless in their floating homes.

In my opinion, the airship possesses the ability to seek and obtain such vital advance information better than any other type.

Scouting is as old as warfare itself. Viewed purely as a scouting vessel, the airship unquestionably is superior to any other. It can search several times the area that the fastest surface ship can do in the same period. I don't believe that the hazards involved are disproportionate to the importance of the task.

them from foreign competition if they launch out in a spirit of enterprise. It cannot recall or substantially recast these protective duties until the exepriment has had a fair trial.

Its Ottawa agreement with the Dominions and dependencies of the Empire is even more fettering in its application. Here is a written bond with countries over which we have no control. It was a very bad bargain. Nevertheless, it was a bargain. We have sworn to our own hurt, and I fear we must abide by it unless some catastrophe releases us.

What other countries are prepared to remove or release their protective duties, quotas, or restrictions? I am not thinking of small mercies, but of real clearance of obstacles in the path of international commerce. I can see no country anywhere in any continent prepared to take the lead.

The League's Position.

What is there then to confer about? I predict that the committees set up to investigate a variety of interesting monetary, commercial, and economic perplexities will find it necessary to subject their problems to a searching and protracted investigation.

The silver countries have been given a task which must take considerable time to accomplish satisfactorily.

The League of Nations, which is quite accustomed to avoiding final challenges on any troublesome topic, will, I am convinced, prove itself quite equal to putting off the autumnal conference on international economy.

If the Bureau of the League experiences any difficulty in doing so, it has only to peruse the annals of its disarmament transactions. It will find plenty of precedents and expedients there for indefinite postponement.

ICKES STUDIES PROPOSED CANAL ON PACIFIC COAST

Project Considered by Public Works Board Would Cost $33,500,000.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Secretary Ickes is making a study of the proposed all-American canal on the Pacific Coast prior to its consideration by the Public Works Advisory Board.

Dr. Elwood Mead, reclamation commissioner, has submitted a special report on the project, which would cost approximately $33,500,000.

The canal, long urged by the reclamation service, would provide irrigation for the Imperial and Coachella Valleys in California.

The present irrigation canal runs through Mexico, and has been a subject of controversy from time to time regarding the respective rights to water between the two countries.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

DRAMA-MUSIC-MOVIES

ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY MORNING, JULY 30, 1933.

'My Maryland' New to Park

Romberg-Donnelly Operetta Based on the Story of Barbara Frietchie and Her Flag, But With Her Gray Hair Turned to Brown, to Be Sung by Municipal Opera Company for First Time Tomorrow Night.

MUNICIPAL OPERA brings to the stage in Forest Park tomorrow night for the first time "My Maryland," a musical romance of the Civil War by Sigmund Romberg and Dorothy Donnelly, the composer and librettist responsible for "Blossom Time" and "The Student Prince." It is a dramatic version of the incident in which Barbara Frietchie is said to have flung Old Glory to the breeze as the Confederate troops occupied the town of Frederick, Maryland, a version in which many of Romberg's melodies are based upon favorite airs of the Civil War period.

Barbara Frietchie, much younger than the historic Barbara, is the heroine of the story which is woven around the skirmishing of the Union and Confederate forces for possession of Frederick. Love wears no uniform and Barbara loses her heart to a gallant Union officer, although her brother is a wearer of the gray and her father's heart and the sympathy of her neighbors is all with the South.

Marion Claire is to be the Barbara and, strangely enough, it is the first time this American prima donna, famous in Italy and Germany, as well as throughout this country, has ever been cast in the role of an American girl. She has sung the great roles of grand opera, here and abroad, but grand opera has, with one or two exceptions—notably "The Girl of the Golden West"—forsworn American heroines. In operetta, in which she made her debut with Municipal company, Miss Claire has appeared only as an English girl, a Peruvian senorita, and a Swedish nightingale.

Surrounding her in the role of Barbara Frietchie will be a cast including Leonard Ceeley, as the young Union officer to whom the Southern belle has lost her heart, Joseph Macaulay as the half-crazed Jack Negly—the third member of the love triangle—Doris Patston, Clifford Newdahl, Hannah Toback, John Barclay, Hope Emerson, Charles Lawrence, Elizabeth Crandall, Larry Rich, and other Municipal Opera favorites.

THREE of those who were responsible for the original success of "My Maryland," which ran for a year at the Jolson Theater, New York, and then scored on tour, are associated in the Municipal Opera production. They are Watson Barratt, art director, who designed the original settings; Ernest R. Schrapps, costume designer, who created the costumes for New York; and Edward J. Scanlon, associate stage director, who was associated with the original production in like capacity and who was stage director in charge of the preparation of the companies for touring.

After the triumphs of "Blossom Time" and "The Student Prince," Sigmund Romberg and Dorothy Donnelly conceived an operetta which would be truly and typically American. Clyde Fitch had written one of his greatest hits in a drama of that period, "Barbara Frietchie," which used the name and the incident of Barbara's defiance of the Confederate troops, as pegs, as it were, on which to hang a sympathetic study of the Civil War period. Julia Marlowe had achieved one of her most brilliant successes in the role, which she played at the old Olympic Theater here.

INCIDENTALLY several of the most popular tunes of the Civil War period were used by Romberg in the development of his score, which contains "Your Land and My Land," "Strolling With the One That I Love Best," "Mr. Cupid," "Won't You Marry Me?" "The Same Silver Moon," "The Mocking Bird" and many other unforgetable melodies.

The story is said to move amid military pageantry through much dramatic action. As told upon the stage the Union troops have been quartered upon the little town of Frederick, where the men in blue are shunned by the women whose sons and fathers, brothers, husbands and lovers, are at the front with troops which wear the gray. Motherless Barbara Frietchie is the sweetest of Frederick's belles, but has lost her heart to the Union officer, Captain Trumbull. She has been ostracized by her girlish companions. Her stern father scorns the Yankee officer when Captain Trumbull asks for Barbara's hand. They plan to elope to the Hagerstown manse to be married next morning.

But before the lovers can meet at the manse Captain Trumbull is called to lead his troops in an effort to halt the Confederate advance through Hagerstown. Barbara arrives for the wedding and finds the Union forces retiring. Two renegade Yankees, who have deserted Captain Trumbull's company, partly in hope of loot, partly because he disciplined them severely when they were caught stealing, appear at the manse to serve as snipers, seeking to kill Trumbull as he rides through town. Barbara's woman's wit comes into play and she seeks to get them intoxicated. But in the end she is compelled to shoot to kill to save her lover's life.

The Confederates take Hagerstown and Frederick. Barbara's brother helps her hide the wounded Trumbull in their home where he lies between life and death while Barbara watches seeking to shield him from excitement which may prove fatal. Jack Negly, who has loved her from childhood, half-crazed by jealousy and his first experience under fire plans to betray the presence of the Union officer in the Frietchie home. It is then Barbara in a dramatic climax flings Old Glory from her window, and Stonewall Jackson orders his soldiers to "Ride on."

LOUIS CASAVANT, former St. Louisan, who created the role of Colonel Negly—a delightful Southern gentleman about whom, and whose relations with the home-spun Zeke, much of the fun of "My Maryland" develops—has come especially from New York to appear in Municipal Opera's production. His is a fine characterization, which at once made a great hit when "My Maryland" was presented at the Shubert-Rialto Theater here some four years ago.

Following "My Maryland" Municipal Opera will present on Monday, Aug. 7, Harry Tierney's newest musical romance "Beau Brummell," in its world premiere. Tierney, familiar to St. Louis as the composer of "Irene," "Rio Rita" and other big musical hits, has collaborated with Gladys Unger in a musical romance based upon Clyde Fitch's comedy "Beau Brummell," in which Richard Mansfield won one of the greatest successes of his brilliant career. The new version is presented by special arrangement with the great actor's widow.

To Leonard Ceeley will fall the honor of creating the role of the brilliant fop, who by ruling society really ruled Great Britain's actual ruler until a clash about a lady brought him banishment.

"Garden of Roses" For the Highlands

Featuring melodies and songs with titles about roses, Harry Lange's Musical Merrymakers call their free entertainment offering at Forest Park Highlands this week "A Garden of Roses." There will be half a dozen vocal solos with the usual amount of slapstick comedy between numbers. The second part of the bill, to be presented by Johnny Hanley, is entitled "A Bit of China" and will feature Harriet and J. G. Lee, American-born of Chinese parents, who are announced as versatile child entertainers.

Adrian W. Ketchum, manager, announces he has booked Noble Sissle, writer and co-star of "Shuffle Along," and his International Orchestra for a ballroom engagement, Thursday night, Aug. 10.

School Players in "Queen's Husband"

As their second play of the summer season, the Burroughs Open Air players, composed of picked members of the dramatic clubs of five St. Louis schools, will produce Robert E. Sherwood's satirical comedy, "The Queen's Husband." The play will be given at the John Burroughs Amphitheatre, at Price road and the Clayton car tracks, Wednesday and Thursday nights. This production is under the direction of Mary Jane Roach, Washington University, who also directed the Open Air Players' production of George Kaufman and Marc Connelly's "To the Ladies," at the Amphitheatre early this month.

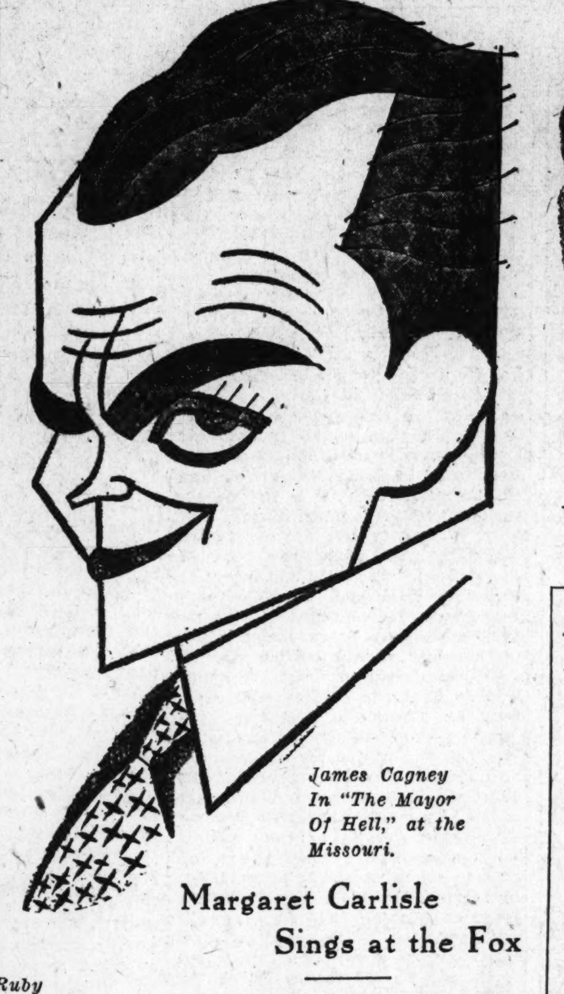
Work has also begun on John Millington Synge's "Playboy of the Western World," which will be the third performance of the group, late in August.

Charles Laughton to Be 'Humpty Dumpty'

Charles Laughton will play Humpty Dumpty in Paramount's forthcoming production of "Alice in Wonderland." The part is Laughton's favorite, and was given him at his own request. Director Norman McLeod reveals that he has been besieged by applicants for other characters in the story, practically every well-known Hollywood star having some favorite "Wonderland" or "Looking Glass" character they would like to play.

Outdoor Operetta.

The Ladies' Chorus of the Liederkranz Club will present the operetta "The Japanese Girl," in the garden at Grand and Flad avenues on Saturday, Aug. 5.



James Cagney In "The Mayor Of Hell," at the Missouri.

Victory Jory in "The Devil's in Love," at the Fox Theater.

From Keystone Ranks.

Wesley Ruggles, who will direct Mae West's new film, "I'm No Angel," was a Keystone Komedy Kop.

Margaret Carlisle Sings at the Fox

Margaret Carlisle, former prima donna of the Municipal Opera and wife of Leonard Ceeley of that organization, is making her appearance on the stage at the Fox Theater this week in a cycle of songs. Miss Carlisle, who has just returned from London, plays her own accompaniments on the piano.

During the past season, Mr. Ceeley himself sang on the Fox stage as did Allan Jones, Municipal Opera tenor, and it is expected that other stars from Forest Park will be booked at the end of their engagements this summer.

THE WEEK'S NEW FILMS

By Nie

IN THE cycle of musical films which roll around once in a while there have been some interesting eye and ear entertainments but the best of all of them is "Gold Diggers of 1933," now at the Ambassador. This is the picture which caused the movie magnates to send out an S. O. S. from Hollywood for musicians and brought about another rush of piano players, lyric writers and hoofers to the Gold Coast. Even Sigmund Romberg and Otto Harbach, two of our leading light opera outputters, have listened to the tinkle of the Californian pieces of eight and for the next few months underworld mellers and domestic triangles will be buried deep under a heavy snow storm of do, re, mi's. Like most of its predecessors, "Gold Diggers" is a back stage story set to jigs and jingles relating, as it does, the ups and downs of a musical comedy producer who puts on shows without even a shoe string and gets a real hit when he least expects it. There are complications, battles between chorus girls, little affairs with deputy Sheriffs and things like that but the tale is pretty consistent and the music is right down to present day demands. The cast, too, is above the average. Warren William, Guy Kibbee, Aline MacMahon and Ned Sparks take good care of whatever acting is called for while Joan Blondell, Ginger Rogers, Ruby Keeler and Dick Powell head the singing and dancing contingent. Ruby and Dick, incidentally, supply the mush interest for, like all musical comedies, "Gold Diggers of 1933" has a love story tangled up in its plot. Its a something more than worth while picture for the fans who like modern jazz on a grand scale.

Busy Loretta.

LOVELY Loretta Young has her hands full this week getting into all kinds of excitement in a couple of the cinemas. Down at Loew's she is "Midnight Mary" in the picture of that name and has to divide her time between gangsters and a fine young lawyer who wants to make a respectable woman of her. In the end she decides upon the straight and narrow and shoots herself into a position where she can marry into one of our best families and settle down. Ricardo Cortez is the gangster who wants to keep Loretta dodging the police and Franchot Tone is the good man-about-town whose honest heart beats under his stiffly starched evening shirt at all times. "Midnight Mary" is exciting drama cut along conventional lines.

Desert Sands.

AND while Miss Young is midnighting down at Loew's she is warming up on the Sahara with Victor Jory at the Fox in a piece called "The Devil's in Love." Vic, it seems, was a rising young surgeon with the French Foreign Legion. There is a hint that he joined the outfit because of some trouble back home but it never develops what that trouble was. It couldn't have been a wife because, after all the shooting with, and at, the Riffs is over he and Loretta decide to get married. A slight complication in the way of another officer who loves Loretta is removed by a tribesman's bullet and, about the same time, Victor is cleared of a murder charge so that everything ends just as might be expected.

Reforming Reformers.

"THE MAYOR OF HELL," at the Missouri, shows up the conditions in a boys reformatory and tells how James Cagney stepped in and made it a good all the year around resort for youths. Jimmy was a ward politician who got appointed to the prison board just for the sake of the salary attached. Then he became interested in the job mainly because Madge Evans was a nurse there and the next thing you know he had cleaned up the place, established the young inmates as a self-governing body and furnished them with ham and eggs and ice cream instead of the usual prison fare. Cagney is perfect as the man who does things and the film is made rather distinctive by the performances of several of the reform school boys, notably that of Frankie Darrow, the toughest lad in the outfit. The Missouri's second feature is "Disgraced" in which Helen Twelvetrees finds out that thorns grow along the Primrose Path.

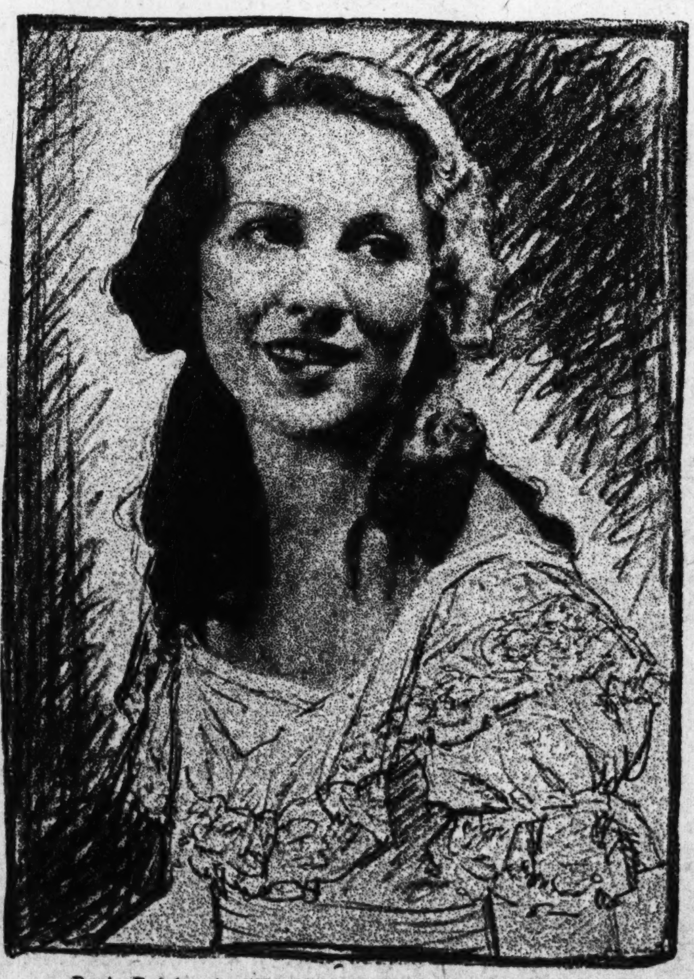
South Sea Stuff.

THE best things about "The Narrow Corner," at the Grand Central, are some storms at sea and Patricia Ellis. The storms are pretty real and Patricia is real pretty and that is about all there is to an impossible and dull story which tells how Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., found love and happiness and some little excitement south of the equator. It winds up with Doug and Patricia sailing away together headed heaven only knows where and the cash customers caring even less. Eddie Cantor's old film, "Whoopee," has been resurrected to make the Grand Central's No. 2 picture.

Lowe and McLaglen Reunited.

Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen, starring partners of "What Price Glory," will be reunited for the only time this season in "No More Women." The story, an original by E. Richard Schayer, will bring the pair together as deep-sea divers. Last season Lowe and McLaglen made "Guilty as Hell."



Doris Patston in "My Maryland," at Municipal Opera.

Please Call Him 'Fran-show'

Franchot Tone Is Not Very Finicky About Most Things, but He Does Like to Hear His First Name Pronounced Right—Made Good in Hollywood From The Jump, and Pretty Soon This Young Cornell Instructor Will Be a Star in the Cinemas.

By H. H. NIEMEYER.

FRANCHOT TONE, the up-and-coming young leading man of the movies, has pretty well convinced Hollywood and the cinema fans that he is a real actor. Remember him as the President's secretary in "Gabriel Over the White House"? Or as Joan Crawford's boy friend in "Today We live"? A little closer was his part with Lionel Barrymore last week in "Stranger's Return" at Loew's and now he is back at the same house in "Midnight Mary" with Loretta Young and Ricardo Cortez. For Franchot is not yet a star although after one or two more films his name will be up there in electric lights. Hollywood has him headed in that general direction.

Franchot Tone is really a very remarkable young man. He was born at Niagara Falls. Not that this is any bid to greatness, only most people end up there instead of making it their starting point. There are other and more interesting facts about the screen's newest leading man, that stamp him as a welcome and worthy citizen of Hollywood.

When he started out on his career, Franchot made up his mind that actual work—and plenty of it—was the means of becoming a successful actor. There would be no kidding himself, no false ideals or exaggerated opinions of his ability as an actor. He promised himself that he would give himself just as readily to the disappointments as he would the breaks. For Franchot feels definitely that a person can only grow by experience, making mistakes and profiting by them.

HE MIGHT have saved himself the humility of warming the benches in agent's offices. The disheartening "nothing today," might have been an unknown phrase, had he followed in his father's footsteps and become an industrial executive. The chance to be a permanent instructor at Cornell University, where he graduated and where he assisted the head of the Romance Language department might have saved him the long years of struggle to become a successful actor. But Franchot chose the way closest to his heart, disregarding the knowledge that it was far from being the easiest.

The fact that he was an original member of the Group Theater in New York, failed to impress Hollywood. That he had scored tremendous hits in such plays as "Cross Roads," "Uncle Vanya," "A Thousand Summers," "Success Story," "Green Grow the Lilacs" and many others with the New York Theater Guild made little difference to the natives of the film city. Hollywood doesn't know, or care, very much about New York, being fairly well wrapped up in itself.

So at first, Franchot was regarded as a very charming and likable young actor—who showed signs of promise. After the preview of his first picture, "Gabriel Over the White House," the signs of promise became deeds of talent. People asked for photographs, autograph hounds took up the scent, fan mail arrived, fan magazines wanted interviews. Generally speaking, all the things that happen to people who suddenly ring the bell in Hollywood, happened to Franchot.

His success in "Gabriel" brought him a better role in the production of "Midnight Mary." Joan Crawford picked him for her leading man in "Today We Live" and called him right back for the lead in her present picture, "Dancing Lady."

WHEN Fanchot first went to Hollywood he rented a house on Santa Monica Beach. With a pal from New York and "Mata Hari," his pet Dachshund, he found this new mode of living an enjoyable one. But the hot summer months—and perhaps his contract with M. G. M.—inspired his landlord to raise his rent. So Franchot deserted the sad sea waves for a home in Brentwood Heights. As an inducement to get his mother to live with him in California, he furnished a special all-white and powder blue bedroom for her. Had it photographed and air mailed the picture to his mother in New York. She immediately wired back and said that she was tempted but being a confirmed New Yorker, she asked for time to make up her mind.

The first thing that impresses one upon meeting Franchot Tone, is his broad, frank smile. It isn't always there, but when he does turn it on, it flashes like a searchlight. When he is amused, he has a way of chuckling to himself and smiling from the corner of his mouth. His hair is light brown and his eyes are usually hazel—unless he is emotionally moved. Then they appear to be a dark brown or green.

Franchot does not have a great deal to say to people. And usually gives careful thought to what he does want to express. He believes there is more to be learned by being a good listener. He is inclined to be self-analytical, almost to the extreme.

Gen. Wolfe Tone, a fiery Irish Revolutionist of 1790, was an ancestor of Franchot's. He is very proud of this lineage and shows a definite quality that was part of the makeup of the vital Gen. Wolfe. They found this out at the studio when they advised him on how to improve his makeup and warned him about bad camera angles.

"I hate to use makeup unless it's for character," said Franchot. "It isn't how good looking you are, it's how good an actor you are. As far as camera angles are concerned, I don't give a hang about them. I'm convinced that if your performance is sincere, it doesn't matter which way you turn. You can't fool that camera. You can't concentrate on remembering whether you head is too much to the left or right and be a sincere character on the screen. At first I tried to do this. I was new on the screen and more than willing to take the advice of those who were more experienced. Now after several pictures, I have proven to myself that my best work is done when I am not worrying if my neck has an extra wrinkle."

If Franchot Tone had failed to register in Hollywood, he would have blamed no one but himself. He is quite surprised at the serious way people take their careers in pictures. Stories of the gay abandon and fly-by-night existence that float out of Hollywood, amaze him, now that he is a part of it.

FRANCHOT has a wide book knowledge and can converse on almost any subject intelligently. He has no particular hobby but enjoys playing cards or backgammon.

Tone is definitely a product of the new school of acting. While his ideas are definite he does not waste time talking about them. He's doing something about it instead. He has had every advantage that education, a wealthy background and opportunity can give one. Plus an overpowering ambition to make good and a love for work, he feels that the upward grade is just as difficult as though he had struggled up from poverty. But he imagines he might be better copy for magazine writers, could he tell a tale of hunger, privation and strife.

There are very few things that get him upset. And while it doesn't rile him, he would appreciate it, if people would pronounce his name right. It's been called almost everything but what it is. If you spelled it the way it is pronounced, it would read "Fran-show." Make a mental note of this. It is a name you are going to see often.

REASSESSMENT OF COUNTY REALTY GETS UNDER WAY

wners Asked for Information on Which Worth of Their Property May Be Estimated.

VOLUNTARY PLAN TO SAVE EXPENSE

Reductions Ordered by Equalizers Send Taxes Up 15 Cents on the $100 for 1933.

Blanks for descriptive data on eal estate are being distributed mong property owners in St. Louis County by Assessor Neaf as means for a general reassessment for taxation purposes.

Asking taxpayers to co-operate filling out and returning the anks, Neaf asserts he is seeking make good on a campaign ledge for lower tax costs. The lank must be filed with the Assessor if reductions of assessments re to be granted, it is explained. There is nothing, however, to prevent the Assessor from using the replies to increase valuations in ases where assessments have been w, and the replies indicate a igher levy is justified.

Return of the blanks is not com- ory. There is provision for nowledging them before a notary public or at the Assessor's ffice, but this is not required. If property owner does not reply, Neaf pointed out, an arbitrary as- essment might be made. The blanks call for data of the kind commonly used by real estate men appraising property, but have o space for the property owner set down his own idea of the lue of his holdings.

Seeks to Avoid Heavy Expense.

While estimates have not been ade, Neaf thinks increases and ecreases of assessments as a re- lt of this endeavor might bal- nce each other. It is his desire make as thorough and rational reassessment of realty in the unty as possible without spend- a great deal of money in the rk. He studied various modern essment systems and concluded would cost $40,000 for a scien- fic official reassessment. The luntary system, he concluded, s the best substitute.

Many buildings have been as- ssed in the past on the basis of lues started in building permits, hich frequently are misleading. sually builders do not state the ll value in permits.

The blanks are being delivered Deputy Assessors on their an- calls to leave the official rms for yearly returns on per- nal property. They inquire at ach home or business establish- ent as to ownership, leaving a ank if the owner is there or ob- ining an address if the owner is sewhere.

For Future Use.

The voluntary assessment now der way is for values as of last ne 1, for 1934 taxes. Neaf in- ds it to be a permanent basis future years, subject to allow- ces for depreciation or apprecia- n. Included in the data sought ll be the dimensions of buildings, m which construction costs may calculated. The forms also call information about the type of struction, date of erection, num- of rooms and other details.

es due next autumn for 1933 be based on the assessment de as of June 1, 1932. The total y on real estate has not been mpiled, but it was said at the sessor's office to be about $230,- 0,000, after the deduction of 10 r cent ordered by the State ard of Equalization early this ar. The assessment for last ar's taxes on realty was $253,- 7,236 after the deduction of a evious 5 per cent cut made by State board.

County Tax Up 15 Cents.

It was announced yesterday that county tax rate for 1933 would 97 cents on the $100 assessed luation, an increase of 15 cents mpared with that of last year. will be divided as follows. Gen- l county tax, 35 cents, and road , 25 cents, both the same as t year; road construction tax, sinking fund for a $3,000,000 nd issue of 1916, 8 cents, an in- ease of 4 cents; road bond issue x, the sinking fund for a $10,- 0,000 bond issue of 1928, 25 cents, increase of 9 cents; hospital nd sinking fund, 4 cents, an in- ease of 2 cents.

The increases were made neces- ry by the reduction in the assess- ent ordered by the State, county ficials assert. The State tax will 15 cents. School taxes in the rious school districts of the nty vary from 15 cents to $2.40 here is an additional varying in the incorporated towns.

REPORTS OF STRIKE VIOLENCE INCREASE HOLLYWOOD GUARDS

Police Fail to Get Complete Facts; Union Heads Deny There Have Been Outbreaks.

By the Associated Press.

HOLLYWOOD, July 29.—Incipient clashes between striking film technicians and those who refused to go out in the general strike of union workers in the motion picture studios brought an increase in police and private guards over the week-end. Producers expressed apprehension because of the growing unrest of the striking employes, some of whom have not worked for three weeks.

Lieut. Fred Stevens, directing police activities in the strike, confirmed reports of violence and threats, but said he had been unable to establish the complete facts. Stevens said he had been informed a messenger for Consolidated Film Industries laboratory was attacked by two men when he stopped his motor car for a traffic signal. They accused him of "working for a scab outfit."

From union headquarters came denials there had been outbreaks.

Leaders of the stage employes asserted producers brought about the strike by refusing to consider a request for shorter hours and better wages and then hiring non-union workers.

SALEM, Mass., July 29.—Operation of the Pequot Mills at full capacity beginning Monday, was announced by officials today. One hundred operators will be added and an additional 500 later.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 29. — Eighteen thousand employes of the Aluminum Co. of America will get an 11 per cent wage and salary increase, effective Aug. 1, a statement said today. This returns to employes part of the 20 per cent reductions imposed in 1931 and 1932.

SAYS FORMER FAIR SECRETARY CHARGED CANARY TO STATE

Auditor's Report Criticises Expenditures of W. O. Smith of Sedalia.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 29. — Purchase of a canary and other personal expenditures by W. O. Smith of Sedalia, former secretary of the Missouri State Fair at Sedalia, which are alleged to have been charged against State Fair funds, are criticised in a report of an audit, completed today by auditors under State Auditor Smith. Smith, a Republican, was replaced by a Democrat early this year.

The auditor's report, to be transmitted to Gov. Park, singles out for criticism:

Purchase of a canary for the secretary's home and "feed therefor." The auditors said $3.50 was paid for the bird.

Installation of an electric lighter on the State-owned automobile used by Smith.

Sending an electrician to the secretary's home to install electric wiring on a Christmas tree. Auditors said cost of service and material was about $9.

The auditors also charged Smith's expense accounts were excessive and that some of the hotel bills listed in travel accounts were not properly accounted for.

Presence of the name of William Woods, a nephew of Smith, on the payroll of the fair and of names of relatives of members of the State Fair Board were listed as alleged violations of the anti-nepotism provisions of the State constitution.

A net operating loss of $3397 was incurred from Jan. 1, 1932, to last May 15, the period covered by the audit, the report said. The audit was made by Cecil Ponds and H. F Scofield.

LOCAL AUTO PAINTING CO. LEASES 4437-39 MANCHESTER

The Apex Realty Co. announce having leased the large showroom and garage building at 4437-39 Manchester avenue to the Local Auto Painting Co.

This company, which is headed by Joseph Neis, has been in business at 3958 Laclede avenue for the last 12 years. The building leased is a modern concrete and brick structure, especially built for the handling of automobiles and automobile trucks and contains approximately 14,000 square feet. The local Auto Painting Co. will occupy the new quarters Aug. 1.

The Apex Realty Co. represented all parties in the transaction.

HUNGARIAN PLOT EXPOSED

Three Held for Conspiracy to Assassinate Premier.

By the Associated Press.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, July 29.—The arrest of three persons charged with plotting to assassinate Premier Goemboes on his return from his visit to Rome, where he held discussions with Premier Mussolini, was announced tonight by the police.

It was recalled here that today was the first anniversary of the execution of the two Communist leaders, Emmerich Sallai-Hollander and Alexander Fuerst. The alleged assassination plot was said to have been discovered last night but the announcement was withheld until tonight.

$500,000 IN STOLEN BONDS TRACED TO SAN ANTONIO

Seven Men, Some of Them Prominent, Are Under Surveillance of Texas Rangers.

By the Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., July 29.—Texas Rangers said tonight seven men in and near San Antonio were under surveillance in connection with the investigation into the disposal of $500,000 worth of stolen bonds and kindred cases here. Rangers said some of them were prominent in San Antonio affairs.

The disposal of five $100,000 bonds stolen from the Continental Bank & Trust Co., New York, Nov. 29, 1932, is only one item, it was learned in the various activities of a group of men in four states which Rangers and other officers are investigating. Activities have been traced to Kansas City, St. Louis and Chicago, but investigators said every trail seemed to lead eventually to San Antonio.

Arrests in San Antonio are waiting, officers said, word from other parts of the country as to the availability of certain suspects so that the arrests might be made simultaneously.

Officers here received information that recent indictments in Chicago involving prominent men there in racketeering had a strong bearing on the San Antonio cases.

The five bonds which are the principal points in the investigation here were taken from a teller's cage in the Continental Bank by two well dressed men who were thought to have used gum on the end of a cane to lift the bonds from the shelf in the cage. The securities have never been recovered. Disposal of the bonds through financial channels here is thought to have brought the investigation to a head.

10 DIE IN CALIFORNIA DESERT, HEAT GOING TO 122 DEGREES

Most of Victims Came From Cooler Places to Get Work on River Aqueduct.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, July 29. — Sweltering heat on the desert wastes of Southeastern California, where 110 degrees is considered only ordinary summer weather, took the lives of three men today, bringing the death toll to 10 for the current torrid wave.

Sebastian Gutirez was found dead in front of his corrugated iron shack at Imperial, Cal. Emil Wick died from heat when picking grapes on a ranch between Calexico and Holtville. Tom Hammond, Blythe, Cal., Carpenter, was stricken at work.

The seven other victims, for the most part, were men who had come from cooler regions into the desert, seeking work on the Colorado River aqueduct, which is being built across the desert by a group of Southern California cities.

From Indio, northern capital of the desert, to the Colorado River, some 100 miles, the heat normally averages between 108 and 110 degrees in the summer. The average climbed to 112 to 115 degrees for the last week. The highest reading reported was 122 degrees in the Coxcomb Mountains.

Outside the desert it has been hot, too. At Riverside, east of Los Angeles, a high mark of 111 degrees was reached during the week. The all-time high there is 118 degrees, set in 1925. In Los Angeles and suburbs the thermometer has ranged between 90 and 100 degrees.

BELLS RING IN FRANCE FOR BOURBON HEIR

Royalists by Ruse Get in Notre Dame Cathedral to Celebrate Event.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 29.—Beacon lights and the unexpected ringing of church bells have heralded in republican France the birth and baptism of a new prince in its exiled royal family.

When Prince Henri, the new heir to the non-existent French throne, was born near Brussels to Count Henri and Countess Isabelle of Paris, enthusiastic youths of the royalist movement, who call themselves "Henchmen of the King," invaded Notre Dame cathedral here.

Luring the bell-ringer from his post by a ruse, they locked him out of the historic towers and rang for 15 minutes the largest of the bells, one which had not sounded since the funeral of Marshal Foch.

Fires Lighted Too.

Further bell-ringing in the cathedrals of Rennes, Toulouse and Perpignan, as well as churches elsewhere, while colored fires were lighted around Sacre Coeur on Montmartre hill, signaled the baptism of the prince.

French royalists already are referring to the baby as the "little dauphin," implying the persistent hope of an eventful restoration of the monarchy.

Happiest of all seems to be his 56-year-old grandfather, the Duke of Guise, pretender to the throne. The duke performed a quaint old ceremony by rubbing a bit of garlic on the baby's lips and feeding him a few drops of wine from a spoon immediately after the baptism.

"Now," said the duke, "he never will hate wine."

Count's Second Child.

The prince is the second child of the Count of Paris, also named Henri, and the countess, the former Princess Isabelle of Orleans and Bragance. He is third in line of succession, supplanting his 15-months-old sister, Princess Isabelle. His father, who is 25 years old, is crown prince to the royalists.

The baby Henri was born at Anjou manor, Belgian residence of his exiled grandfather, on June 14, and christened Henri Philippe Pierre Marie by Monsignor Harscouet, bishop of Chartres.

He is great-grandson of King Louis Philippe. The head of his family, the House of Bourbon Orleans, has been pretender to the throne since the renunciation by King Philip V of Spain of his claim to the French crown when an elder line of the House of Bourbon became extinct in 1883.

DEEP BREATHING SUGGESTED AS CURE FOR SMOKING HABIT

Vienna Physician Says Exercise of Respiratory Centers Produces Same Sensation as Tobacco.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

VIENNA.—That the best way for breaking the smoking habit is to take a deep breath is announced by the Viennese physician, Dr. H. Robicsek.

"Whenever you feel a longing to smoke," says the doctor, "just take a very deep breath, hold it for about four seconds, expel the air forcibly, and after a prolonged pause repeat this sequence four or five times. You will find that the craving for tobacco disappears entirely."

The explanation according to Dr. Robicsek is that habitual smoking leads to intoxication of the respiratory center, and with it to a disturbance of the gas metabolism.

Breathing becomes shallow, with hasty and incompleted inspirations and protracted respiratory pauses. The subjective sensations of the smoker are to a large extent the result of this disturbance.

By the breathing exercise, he says, these sensations are produced artificially. Thus the desire for tobacco is overcome in most cases within forty-eight hours.

BANKS AGREE TO AID CREDIT EXPANSION

11 Make Pledge to Lend Where "Credit of Borrower Justifies It."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Eleven of New York City's biggest banks have given their pledge to the National Recovery Administration to do their part in expanding credit to finance an increase in trade in President Roosevelt's re-employment program.

In a letter to Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, the recovery administrator, the heads of these banking concerns aid the objectives of the President's recovery program "justify all the support that can be given to them by the banks."

The letter outlined the biggest contribution that banks could make to recovery as readiness to make commercial loans to finance "the production of inventory, the liquidation of which the success of the President's plan would insure."

The letter was signed by the heads of the following institutions: Chase National Bank, Guaranty Trust Company, Central Hanover Bank and Trust Company, First National Bank, Bank of Manhattan Company, New York Trust Company, National City Bank of New York, Banker's Trust Company, Irving Trust Company, Chemical Bank and Trust Company and the Manufacturers' Trust Company.

"Loans made in connection with the industrial recovery program may be likened to seasonal loans," the letter said. "They will be made for the financing of the production of inventory, the liquidation of which the success of the President's plan would insure.

"Such loans should be granted, of course, only where the credit of the borrower justifies it, and such a loan must be considered on its own merits, but all loan applications which pass this ordinary banking requirement should, and undoubtedly will have, sympathetic consideration from banks."

WILLIAM HIRTH UNDECIDED ON ACCEPTING ADVISORY POST

Missouri Farm Leader Says He Hasn't Found Whether Board Is Ornamental or Real.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., July 29.—William Hirth, president of the Missouri Farmers' Association, returned from Washington today still in the dark as to whether the Missouri Advisory Board of the Federal Public Works Administration is "ornamental or with some real authority."

He said it was doubtful that he would be able to serve as one of the Missouri members but added that his decision would await receipt of information from Washington which he was unable to obtain while there.

"With elevators and plants in 400 Missouri towns and scores of closed banks complicating the situation, I've got a pretty big recovery job on my hands now," Hirth said. "Then there is this matter of wheat acreage reduction which will require a lot of attention."

The others appointed, former Gov. Henry S. Caulfield and Harry Scullin of St. Louis, have advised Secretary of the Interior Ickes, administrator of the $3,300,000 public works program, that they would serve. The Missouri Advisory Board will pass on federally financed public works projects in Missouri.

HOW CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY HELPS MOTHERLESS FAMILIES

Housekeepers Provided in Seven Instances, Thus Reducing Cost of Relief.

Housekeepers for seven motherless families in which the father is unemployed are being provided by the Children's Aid Society with promising results, according to Herschel Alt, secretary.

The cost of relief, Alt said, has been less than it would have been had the home been broken up and the children placed in institutions, while there has been further gain in strengthening the morale of the families.

The housekeepers seek to train the children in the care of their homes and proper preparation of food. In three homes there are full-time housekeepers, and in the others, housekeepers work a half a day several days a week.

ACID NOT TO DESTROY SIGHT

Missouri Woman Attacked by Another Is Reported to Be Recovering.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MARYVILLE, Mo. — Physicians believe that they have succeeded in saving the sight of Mrs. Mabel Burris Higgins, 22-year-old farm woman, who was sprayed with acid by a jealous woman neighbor. Mrs. John Thompson, daughter of a well-to-do farmer, has been arrested on an assault warrant and has been released on bond.

Mrs. Thompson said that her husband had been gone a part of the previous night and that she thought he had been in St. Joseph, where he had met Mrs. Higgins. Mrs. Higgins had returned the day before the attack.

COMMERCIAL BUILDING ON GRAVOIS AVE. SOLD

Trust Fund Is Invested in Property — Reported Price, $85,000.

The sale of a commercial building at 5207-17½ Gravois avenue, consisting of seven stores and flats above, is reported by Harry Newman, Inc. The price is said to have been $85,000.

It was a cash transaction representing the investment of a trust fund of which Judge Thomas L. Anderson is trustee. The seller was Fred Houska, proprietor of the New Cherokee Market, Cherokee street and Iowa avenue. It was the first sale of substantial size in the Gravois district for more than two years.

The property has a 117-foot frontage on Gravois avenue and a depth of 135 feet. The stores are all occupied. Among the tenants are the Singer Sewing Machine Co. branch, Allen Radio Co., Mirror Hosiery branch, and Gravois Paint Distributing Co. All the flats are occupied.

All parties in the transaction were represented by Harry Newman, Inc., and by the Chauncey P. Heath Real Estate Co.

WOMAN WHO SHOT COMPANION DEAD FREED ON DEFENSE PLEA

Tulsa Divorcee Said Married Man Threatened to Kill Her for Refusing Use of Auto.

By the Associated Press.

GALENA, Mo., July 29. — Iverrene Clayton, Tulsa divorcee, was acquitted today after a preliminary hearing on a charge that she killed John Wormington of Kansas City, her companion on a camping trip. Miss Clayton, who admitted shooting Wormington, a married man, but pleaded self-defense, fainted after hearing the verdict. She was revived at a hotel. The judge ruled the evidence was insufficient to warrant holding her for trial.

During her testimony of an hour and a half, Miss Clayton said she and Wormington quarreled over her refusal to permit him to use her automobile.

"If you don't let me have this car I'll kill you," she quoted Wormington as saying while he cocked a shotgun he had borrowed for wolf hunting. It later developed the gun was unloaded.

"I took my gun from near a gatepost and fired to save my life," she said.

"John said 'what did you do that for?' and then died."

The shooting occurred near Reed Spring.

Wormington's widow, Mrs. Mabel Wormington, Kansas City beauty shop operator, was in the court room.

OUR RETAIL CENTERS are crowded with buyers indicating a conviction that commodity prices are to advance shortly. Shrewd investors are turning their attention to real estate. Prices will advance as money is poured into the market to liquidate distressed situations. Supply and demand always dictates price and real estate values will surely rise rapidly. Rents will advance and many will look back with regret on opportunities they failed to exercise. Inspect the 5-room brick bungalow at 869 Newport ave., or the 9-room frame residence at 35 South Rock Hill road. Write for my complete list.

ANOTHER BIG SAVING!
License Fee Is Now Only Half Price!

ALSO A FINE SELECTION OF RECONDITIONED TRUCKS

Due to the tremendous sale of new 1933 Dodge Brothers Passenger Cars, Dodge Brothers Trucks and New 1933 Plymouth Automobiles, which by all odds are the biggest value in Automobile History, we find ourselves with an accumulation of high grade used cars, and instead of storing and holding them for the usual price, we are going to slaughter the prices and sell them out. We are going to take our loss to do this, as we think it's the only sensible thing to do. Included in this sale also we have for your approval a few New Dodge Brothers Demonstrators (used very little). Now is your chance to trade that old car for a late model closed car at a bargain.

$15 SECURES YOUR CHOICE!

Your Old Car in Trade and "A Year to Pay"

Payments to Fit Everyone's Pocketbook and Earnings.

The first to come to this great exhibit of automobile bargains will save from $100 to $300 on some of the finest used cars ever offered the people of St. Louis.

CARS WORTH $600 NOW $300 TO $400
CARS WORTH $400 NOW $200 TO $300
CARS WORTH $300 NOW $100 TO $200

HONESTLY REPRESENTED TO YOU. Dependable Cars, New Battery, New Duco, New Tires, fine mechanical condition, backed by a Dodge Dealer who has tried to serve you honestly for the past 17 years. Also by Dodge's Famous Nationally Advertised Dependability.

IN MEMORIAM

ESENBEIS, REGINA—In loving memory of our dear stepmother who passed away July 30, 1932.
Sadly missed by
SONS, SON-IN-LAW, DAUGHTER AND DAUGHTER-IN-LAW.

GERLACH, LOUISE—In memory of our dear mother, who passed away July 28, 1932:
Sleep on, dear mother. It has been one long year since you left our hearts in sadness and tears. Yours was a heart that was blithesome and gay, scattering sunshine all along the way. You know how we loved you, and yet we love you still, though God took you from us, we cannot forget.
Sadly missed by
CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

HEINRICH, WILLIAM C.—In memory of my beloved husband, who passed away one year ago today, July 30, 1932:
Loving and kind in all his ways,
Upright and just to the end of his days;
Sincere and true in his heart and mind,
Beautiful memories he left behind.
Lovingly remembered by his WIFE, FATHER, SISTERS, BROTHERS and all who loved him.

KRILL, MARIE ANNA—In loving remembrance of our darling daughter and sister, who died July 29, 1928:
We cannot say, and we will not say
That Marie is dead. She is just away.
With a cheery smile and wave of the hand
She has wandered into an unknown land,
And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be, since she lingers there.
And you—Oh, you, who the wildest yearn
For the old-time step and the glad return.
Think of her faring on, as dear,
In the love of There, as the love of HERE.
Think of her still as the same, we say—
Marie is not dead—she is just away.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER, FATHER, SISTERS and all who loved her.

LEIBINGER, AGNES—In loving memory of our dearly beloved mother whom God called to her heavenly home, Aug. 1, 1932:
A broken heart, our God, our King,
Is all the sacrifice her children bring
The God of grace will ne'er despise
A broken heart for sacrifice.
Sadly missed by her
DEVOTED CHILDREN.

LUDWIG, AMELIA—In memory of gentle Melie, humble sister, kind aunt and true friend. A life of service and purity.

MUHLKE, CAROLINE—In memory of our dear mother, who departed this life seven years ago, July 31, 1926:
And while she lies in peaceful sleep
Her memory we shall always keep.
Sadly missed by
DAUGHTERS, SONS and GRANDCHILDREN.

POPPE-KEIMER, MARGARET M.—July 30, 1931.
Your memory is as dear today
As in the hour you passed away.
CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

RIEMER, MARY ESTHER — In loving memory of our darling, who died July 30, 1932.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER, FATHER AND BROTHER.

SCHWENGER, CECILIA—In loving memory of dear sister, who departed from us July 31, 1932:
Surrounded by friends I am lonesome
In the midst of my joys I am blue
With a smile on my face I have a
Heartache longing, dear Celia, for you.
Sadly missed by your SISTERS.

STACHEL, WILLIAM B.—In memory of my beloved son, who passed away July 28, 1928:
The heavenly gates were opened,
A gentle voice said come.
With farewell unspoken
He gently entered home.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER AND FAMILY.

VOGT, NAN—In loving memory of, who died July 29, 1932.
God knows how much we miss her,
Never shall her memory fade.
Loving thoughts shall ever wander
To the spot where she is laid.
Sadly missed by
BROTHER AND SISTER.

WALKER, JAMES H.—Passed away July 30, 1932.
There is a link death cannot sever;
Love and remembrance last forever.
Sadly missed by
WIFE, MRS. CATHERINE A. WALKER.

WEATHERS, DR. JOSEPH—In loving memory of our father, who died Aug. 3, 1927.
His daughters,
PARTHENA AND DALLAS.

SALESMEN WANTED

MEN

The majority who read this advertisement have no doubt scanned the advertising section of numerous papers hundreds of times, seeking something in their particular line or hoping for a chance that they will get something for nothing.

Men, there is no such things as "something for nothing" these days, and if we continue to center our thoughts on just doing nothing but the things we are accustomed to, isn't it the truth that we get very little out of life? This is no time for a man to want to do the same old thing when there is no opportunity for him to advance himself. If you are not making $40, $50, $75 or more per week, and you have been in that business any length of time and diligently and honestly applied yourself, ask yourself whether that job affords you any opportunity. Then, I suggest that you come and talk with me. It costs you nothing to do this.

I have had the pleasure in the last few months of employing dozens of men all through Missouri, Iowa and Eastern Nebraska, who today are making real money, every week.

We are in the finest business in the world, doing business with the finest people. Our company is the largest business of its kind in the world. This company has had practically these same offices for over two years, and when this new product of ours was introduced these men welcomed it with overwhelming joy and enthusiasm, and they are today making more money than ever before in St. Louis and vicinity.

These men are happy and contented, not because they have to work hard, but because, while they have work and do work hard, they get well paid—also a number of men in our organization in nearby cities, Springfield, Ill., Des Moines, Davenport, Kansas City, Omaha, etc.

We have something that is unique in construction, marvelous in performance and was never heard of until recently manufactured and introduced by our company. Our men are making $40 to as high as $125 per week and up, and I want 15 good men, who can furnish good references, to come and talk with me, also talk with our men. Let them tell you about our business—meet them; watch them do their work. See them make money every day, and the kind of money you would be happy to make.

Bring your wife or anyone interested in your success. Meet the men of this organization. Go to their homes and meet their families, if you care to, and find out for yourself the real truth and opportunity of our business. It costs you nothing.

If you are sincere of purpose, interested in permanent success, willing to work hard, can furnish good references, I welcome you to call at this office between the hours of 9 and 1 on Monday morning, at Suite 562, 818 Olive st.
A. J. SCOBIE.

SALESMEN WANTED

MEN

The majority who read this advertisement have no doubt scanned the advertising section of numerous papers hundreds of times, seeking something in their particular line or hoping for a chance that they will get something for nothing.

Men, there is no such things as "something for nothing" these days, and if we continue to center our thoughts on just doing nothing but the things we are accustomed to, isn't it the truth that we get very little out of life? This is no time for a man to want to do the same old thing when there is no opportunity for him to advance himself. If you are not making $40, $50, $75 or more per week, and you have been in that business any length of time, and diligently and honestly applied yourself, ask yourself whether that job affords you any opportunity. Then, I suggest that you come and talk with me. It costs you nothing to do this.

I have had the pleasure in the last few months of employing dozens of men all through Missouri, Iowa and Eastern Nebraska, who today are making real money, every week.

We are in the finest business in the world, doing business with the finest people. Our company is the largest business of its kind in the world. This company has had practically these same offices for over two years, and when this new product of ours was introduced these men welcomed it with overwhelming joy and enthusiasm, and they are today making more money than ever before in St. Louis and vicinity.

$2 mutuels paid: Far Star, $3.38, $2.52, $2.28; Hadagal, $6.98, $3.60; Singing Wood, $2.64.

Far Star, away fast but taken a bit wide when assuming the lead in the final turn, drew clear when straightened and held Hadagal safe after a mild drive. Hadagal broke fast from the outside, disposed of Mata Hari at the stretch turn and continued strongly, but could not seriously threaten the winner. Singing Wood was in a jam soon after the start, raced clear at the far turn and closed strongest of all. Mata Hari appeared to be under pressure after wearing herself out at the post and gave way badly in the final three-sixteenths. First Minstrel broke a bit slowly and could not reach a contending position. Discovery was always far back. Imacount suffered from crowding going to the far turn.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 29—The sensational Mata Hari failed to win the $47,000 Arlington Futurity today, but she had a little girl friend in the race to courageously come along and save the day for her.

The winner was Far Star, by her performance the best two-year-old in 1933—at least until a better one comes along. The chestnut daughter of North Star 3rd-Miss Jemima, carrying the silks of Charles T. Fisher of Detroit, and entered as a running mate with Mata Hari, came down the stretch to win the Futurity, richest two-year-old race in the West, with most of the two-year-olds that triumphed in earlier stakes strung out behind her.

Wins By More Than Length.

Far Star won by a length and half with the Calumet Farm's Hadagal, second. Six lengths back in third place came Mrs. John Hay Whitney's highly regarded Singing Wood. In fourth place was Mata Hari, the filly that had been regarded so certain to win. She made the Dixiana entry the odds on favorite.

Far Star sprinted the six furlongs in 1:11 1-5, the same time made by Ladysman in winning the 1932 Futurity, and brought her owner $31,020. The race had a gross value of $47,020. The Dixiana entry paid $3.38 to win, $2.25 to place, and $2.28 to show. The place price on Hadagal was $6.98 and $3.60 to show, while Singing Wood returned $2.64 to show.

The race, witnessed by 25,000 fans, closed a brilliant 30-day meeting at Arlington Park. On Monday Hawthorne opens for 30 days.

Mata Hari's defeat was her first in four starts. She was highly nervous at the post, causing most of the five minutes delay. When the barrier was sprung, Far Star was away well, just back of Hadagal, which shot into the lead, with Mata Hari close up on the inside. This trio drew away from the others with Ima Count, a son of Reigh Count, in close pursuit.

After the field had raced a quarter of a mile, Mata Hari suddenly shot to the front and the crowd gave a cheer. Far Star was in second place, with Hadagal third. Mata Hari found the pace too blistering and tiring quickly, faltered

BUFFALO CLUB WINS 10 OF 24 REGATTA EVENTS

By the Associated Press.

PORT DALHOUSIE, Ont., July 29.—Stroking their way to victories in 10 of the 25 championship events, the Buffalo West Sides today captured team honors in the Royal Canadian Henley Regatta for the second year in succession.

Adding the senior fours, senior 140-pound fours and senior 140-pound eights today to the seven national crowns they had won on the first two days, the West Sides wound up with a total of 38 points against 24 for their nearest rivals. The Toronto Argonauts.

All told, the United States accounted for 13 titles but Canada consoled itself by winning the two most coveted championships—the senior eights and championship singles.

The Hamilton Leanders, Canadian Olympic representatives, fended off the strong threat of the black-barbed Detroit Wyandottes, to take the Hanlan Memorial Trophy, emblematic of the senior eights crown, by a length.

Reg McMillen of Toronto Argonauts won the championship singles from Johnny Durnan of the Toronto Dons after Joe Wright Jr., Argonaut coach, and P. L. Brower of Washington, D. C., had scratched. Brower won the Association singles yesterday.

WRAY'S COLUMN

On the Downgrade.

THERE may be plenty of good tennis left in the wiry body of Henri Cochet of France, but that he is nearing the close of his Davis Cup career is evident from the happenings of the last 12 months—and of the last few days in particular.

COCHET.

In that time Cochet, from being practically unbeatable on his home courts of red clay composition, has suffered defeats by Vines (three times), Crawford and Perry. His downfall at the hands of Perry Friday was the convincing factor.

Suzanne Lenglen, who saw the last mentioned match, is quoted as follows: "Although Cochet's mind is still functioning brilliantly and his strategic play is unimpaired, his reflexes are visibly not so swift as formerly and his arms and legs are unable to keep pace with his brainwork.

"Cochet tried to force the play at the net, where he is supreme; but Perry's passing shots and drives forced him back to the baseline until the veteran was worn out and winded."

Cochet had trained carefully and long for this year's Davis cup defense, because he realized that he would get no aid in singles from his teammates. That he failed to win indicates he has passed his peak and is on the downward trend.

Great Cup Team Wrecked.

THE collapse of the great French Davis cup team is complete, with the defeat of Cochet. Lacoste, Cochet, Borotra and Brugnon once formed an invincible quartet of racqueteers. Lacoste, the first to reach his peak, was also the first to pass out of the picture.

Borotra stood up in singles until this year, when he refused to

HORSES IN 200 RACES DOPED, U. S. CHARGES, MAKING ARRESTS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 29.—Doping of race horses on a nation-wide scale was charged by the Government today as its narcotic squads struck with lightning force against a band of seven horse handlers at Arlington Park, Chicago's palatial North Side track.

Swooping down on the rich track, where close to half a million dollars in purses have been distributed during its month's meeting, Federal agents arrested the seven men and then made the stunning announcement that the Government had conclusive proof that at least 200 horses, competing in as many races during the last eight months, had been doped at various American racing strips.

As an upshot of the arrests and revelation of the Government's sweeping investigation of narcotic law violations at various tracks, leading officials of Arlington Park, which closed its rich meeting today, and a score of jockeys, trainers and owners will be ordered to testify before a Federal grand jury here next week, probably on Monday. H. J. Anslinger, Commissioner of Narcotics at Washington, emphasized, however, that Arlington Park officials had volunteered and given excellent co-operation in the investigation at their track during the past month and would testify voluntarily.

Two Horses Named.

Commissioner Anslinger refused to discuss reports and rumors of doping at Arlington but the names of two horses, Louie Dear, owned by Jack Howard of turf fame, and Timorous, property of Mrs. A. M. Creech, mother-in-law of Ivan Parke, one of the seven men arrested, were mentioned by agents. One agent said he had seen Louie Dear "doped" three times during the Arlington Park meeting and that yesterday a hypodermic needle was removed from the horse's neck. Owner Jack Howard denied this. Parke, however, admitted that Louie Dear had been given a drug but only to cure the animal of a bad cold so he could race. In the races yesterday, Timorous won his race as a slightly better than 3 to 2 favorite but Louie Dear, after leading half way around the track, was beaten by Fiddler, a 16 to 1 shot in the betting. Rusty, a 6 to 1 shot, finished second with a nose advantage over Louie Dear. Officials said there was no doubt but that both Timorous and Louie Dear had attempted to win as much as possible. Both received excellent rides, from F. Springer and C. Corbett, respectively.

Christopher Fitzgerald, presiding steward at Arlington Park, one of the richest race tracks in the world, said he and other park officials had given full co-operation to the Federal agents but that he had no definite proof that any of the horses were doped. Beyond that, he and other Arlington officials refused to comment except to say they always were out to stop doping of race horses wherever possible.

Names of Men Arrested.

The seven men, arrested last night, all pleaded not guilty before Commissioner Edwin K. Walker, who set their bonds at $2500 each and continued their cases without hearing. Each was charged with violation of the Harrison narcotic law, forbidding illegal possession and transportation of narcotics. Only Parke was able to furnish bond. The six others, all held, were Dr. Nelson Edward Southard, a veterinarian, who said his home was in Louisville, Ky.; and Stable Grooms Williams Payne, Hinton "Georgie Boy" Parks, William "Bottoms Up" Cooney, Charles Mitchell and William Jones. Parke, one of the most famous of American jockeys a decade ago, was denied a license to train horses at Arlington and acted in an unofficial capacity, track stewards said tonight.

Between 400 and 500 grains of narcotics were found in possession of the seized men, Ralph Oyler, chief of the Federal Narcotic Division in Chicago, said. Bottles of compound supposed to be a mixture of narcotics, syringes, hypodermic needles and other apparatus for administering "dope" also were found in their possession, he said.

Under the Harrison Act.

Commissioner Anslinger said that the Government, interested

Britons Favored to Win Davis Cup Today In Finals With French

By the Associated Press.

AUTEUIL, France, July 29.—The French veterans, Jacques Brugnon and Jean Borotra, pulled the doubles out of the Davis Cup fire today, with a straight set victory over H. G. N. Lee and George Patrick Hughes, but England remained confident of gaining the deciding victory in the singles tomorrow.

In order to have the British singles ace as fit and rested as possible, Frederick J. Perry was replaced by Lee in the doubles. England, relying upon her individual guns, was content to let today's play take the expected course and the result, decided by scores of 6—3, 8—6, 6—2 in favor of the Frenchmen, was foregone almost from the outset. The British pair threatened only in the second set.

Perry Fit Again, Takes Rest.

Perry, who delivered the vital thrust yesterday by conquering Henri Cochet in a five-set battle and then fainted in the clubhouse, was feeling fit again today but well satisfied to rest. The 24-year-old English No. 1 star is picked to settle the issue tomorrow against Andre Merlin, French newcomer to Davis Cup competition. Merlin was easily beaten by Henry W. (Bunny) Austin Friday.

France would have to sweep both singles matches tomorrow to keep the cup. There is still some hope the miracle of a double victory can be achieved but the experts feel England has the better chance to score another sweep. Austin's sensational tennis against America as well as France indicates he will have at least an even chance of overthrowing Cochet.

Borotra Below Par.

Merlin worked out for some time this afternoon, between the showers that delayed the doubles match. The French youngster ignored a bystander who asked jokingly if there was any chance he would fall ill over-night, referring thereby to the possibility of substituting Borotra for Merlin if the latter was physically unable to continue play. Only illness or injury can change the singles lineup.

Borotra was not sufficiently steady today, however, to warrant much hope that he could repeat his heroic come-back of 1932, even if he had the chance in the singles. The "Bounding Basque" was erratic and it was Brugnon's hard-

Schino hit a triple and a home run and Taylor a triple and two doubles. The series ended with the Saints winning two out of three.

KLEIN, LEADING ALL BIG LEAGUERS, ADDS 8 POINTS TO AVERAGE

By the Associated Press.

The "Big Six" membership was increased to eight yesterday as three players went into a tie for third place in the National League. Bill Terry of New York, who had two hits in as many official times at bat for a five-point gain, and Arky Vaughn of Pittsburgh, who hit four out of eight to gain four points, tied Chick Fullis at the .337 mark. Fullis held his average even with three hits in nine attempts.

Chuck Klein, the leader, registered a big gain over his rivals, shooting his mark up eight points to .378 with six hits in eight trips to the plate. The standing:

Miss Nuthall Wins Match.

MISS JACOBS LOSES SEABRIGHT TENNIS HONORS TO MISS PALFREY

By the Associated Press.

SEABRIGHT, N. J., July 29.—The classic invitation tennis tournament of the Seabright Cricket and Tennis Club—an event famed for the surprises it has brought forth in its 46 years of existence—saved the biggest upheaval of the 1933 renewal until near the last today, with a national champion the victim.

The upset came in the Women's singles final, in which demure Sarah Palfrey of Brookline, Mass., crushed Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, Cal., the 1932 national title winner, in a brilliant three-set encounter to climax a week of spectacular performances.

Miss Palfrey, ranked twelfth nationally and partner of the husky Californian in capturing the national doubles championship a year ago, won today by a score of 6—1, 2—6, 7—5, and thus accomplished what no American girl except Helen Wills Moody has been able to do in years.

Place On Cup Team.

The defeat, too, prevented Miss Jacobs from carrying off her fourth Seabright title and virtually clinched a place for the 20-year-old New Englander on the American Wightman Cup team.

In the men's doubles final Frankie Parker and Frank Shields, who won the men's singles bowl yesterday, smashed Sidney Wood and Gregory Mangin, in convincing fashion, 6—3, 6—1, 6—4, to succeed Robert "Lefty" Bryan of Chattanooga, and John McDiarmid, of Fort Worth, as holders of the twin bowls for that division.

Wood, who won the singles bowl here last year, was the victim of Bryan Grant of Atlanta, Ga., in the men's quarterfinals in what was the tourney's second biggest surprise, but even that result failed to rank with Miss Palfrey's stunning defeat of Miss Jacobs today.

Champion in Poor Condition.

Miss Jacobs, not in tip-top pysical condition following upon a fainting spell yesterday, was able to win her own service only once in the first set and was completely outclassed. She made error after

By J. Roy Stockton,

John Leonard Martin was the Wild Horse of Osage again yesterday afternoon, a rampant, rip-snorting, devastating force that crushed the Chicago Cubs of Charley Grimm, 9 to 6, for the Cardinals' fourth straight victory under their new manager, Frank Francis Frisch.

Martin played a dual role. He pulled a modified "Heine Zimmerman" in the ninth inning, to help the Cubs to tie the score, but when the contest went into overtime, Martin stepped into the hero role and made it a glorious afternoon for 15,000 spectators by knocking a home run into the left field seats in the tenth inning with two comrades on the bases.

James Otto Carleton, the slender son of Texas, was the only one who suffered in the scramble and there is compensating comfort for him in the fact that while he did not get the victory that he had so nearly in the records, the Redbirds went on to turn the contest into a triumph after all.

"Babe" Herman Hits Two Homers.

If it had not been for Floyd "Babe" Herman, the Cubs' comic cowboy, and the ninth inning blunders by Martin and Durocher, Carleton would have breezed to an easy victory. But Herman hit two homers, each with Kiki Cuyler on base and so when the Cubs went to bat in their ninth inning, they were trailing by only two runs, i. e., 6 to 4.

Cuyler singled to right, but Carleton seemed to have jumped the big hurdle when he made Herman force Cuyler at second. But then Demaree, helpless in three previous trips to the plate, walloped a double against the right field screen, Herman reaching third and there was a conference in the infield, for the situation was fraught with much peril and many potentialities.

Manager Frisch decided that Carleton had enough left to stay in there and stop the enemy and his decision seemed to be justified when the wild-swinging and therefore always-dangerous Hartnett, skipped a nice little grounder to Durocher. Leo had time to get Floyd Herman at the plate, but he conceded one run and threw to Martin, trapping Damaree between second and third.

Martin Does a 'Zimmerman.'

In a world series game years ago, Heine Zimmerman gained lasting left-handed fame by chasing Eddie Collins over the plate and Martin did a little bit of that sort of thing when he chased Demaree back to second, overestimating his own, or underestimating Demaree's speed.

RED BIRD NOTES

DIZZY DEAN will oppose the Cubs in one of the games of the doubleheader this afternoon, with Bill Hallahan due in the other if his shoulder continues to show improvement. Bush and Malone are likely to work for Chicago.

Pat Malone was scheduled to face the Cardinals in the opener, but Manager Grimm switched to Warneke when he saw Carleton was to be the St. Louis hurler, Carleton already having defeated Malone twice.

The series opened attracted a Ladies' Day crowd of 9200 women, a new high record for the season, and 4800 cash customers. There were 1250 girls in the upper deck of the left field stand, making the total 15,250.

Frisch walked in the first inning and when Crawford singled through short on a hit-and-run signal, Frisch tried to score from first, but was out on a close play, Cuyler to Jurges to Hartnett.

Durocher grabbed Grimm's drive on the first bounce near second, making a gloved-hand stop, and threw out the Cub manager. It was a fancy play.

Henshaw, who relieved Warneke in the fourth inning, was 22 years old yesterday. He is from Chicago University.

A short circuit in the electrical score board mechanism started a small fire in the third inning while Carleton was striking out Jurges and Warneke, but the score board boy put it out without having to call for help.

The Cubs didn't leave a man on the bases until the eighth inning when Koenig walked with two out and W. Herman lined to Medwick.

Crawford's ninth inning single caromed off Grimm's head and Charley fell to the ground in a groggy condition. He recovered quickly, however, and remained in the game.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, July 29. — Rogers Hornsby started his fourth managerial career today as leader of the St. Louis Browns and came through with a victory in a close, hard-fought battle with the White Sox. The count was 3 to 2 and when the end came, the Sox had the bases filled.

It was the kind of game that required ingenuity, this first one that Hornsby had to handle on his new job, and with a team that without a doubt was out there hustling and giving him 100 per cent, he was able to nose out the enemy. It was a pitching duel between Sam Gray and Walter Miller and Gray went into the ninth leading 3 to 2. After one was out, Swanson banged a single to left and so did Haas. Without a moment's hesitation, the Rajah arose from his seat on the bench and called a halt. It was a hot sultry day, Gray clearly was weary. He was waved out of the game and "Bump" Hadley came from the bull pen and saved it, making one man ground out weakly and then striking out the other.

Three Passes, No Runs.

After two were out in the first inning, the Browns had runners on first and third on hits by Reynolds and Campbell but Gullic rolled out. Gray was wild in the first, walking three men, but he made Simmons and Dykes die on fly balls and escaped trouble.

It was the third when the Sox broke through for the first tally. Swanson led off with a single to center and was on the go on the first pitch to Haas. The latter laid down a perfect sacrifice bunt and was thrown out by Scharein, but Swanson legged it clear to third. From there he cantered home on Webb's single to left. Simmons walked but was forced at second by Appling, and Dykes ended it with a foul to the catcher.

Sox Lead Second Time.

The Browns tied the count in the fourth when Reynolds singled and went to third on Campbell's single to right. Reynolds scored when Gullic slapped into a double play and Melillo's grounder ended the attack.

In the same inning the Sox took the lead again. Hayes led off with a triple to left center and got on home when Levey's bad relay to the plate went to the screen. Grube followed this with a single but Miller bunted into a double play and Swanson flied out.

The Browns had a chance in the sixth but a bad bit of base running spoiled it. Reynolds walked and with the call one and two on Campbell, he struck out and Reynolds was caught 15 feet trying to steal. After that Gullic doubled but the hit was wasted.

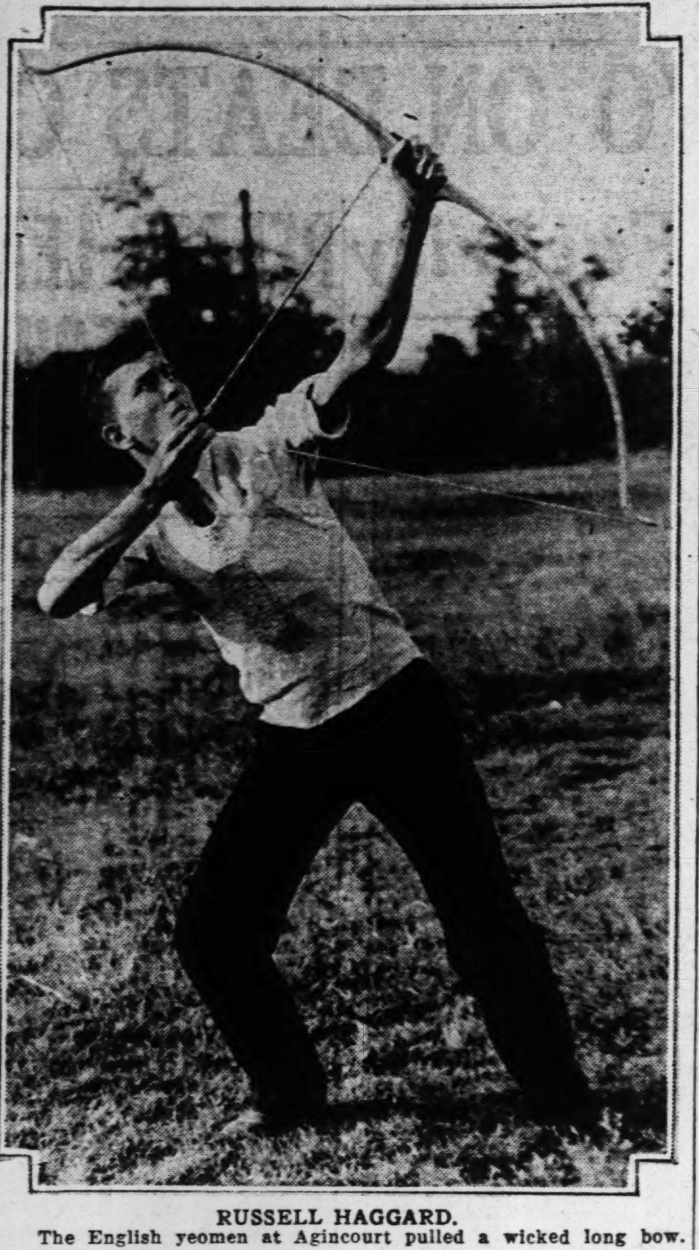
The Winning Rally.

However, in the eighth, after two were out, the Browns staked a vicious attack for two runs that put them in front, Campbell got hold of one for a triple off the wall in the corner of right field. Gullic followed with a bounder to Appling and was safe on the latter's low throw, Campbell scoring the tying run. Melillo then crashed a double down the left foul line and when the ball got through Simmons, Gullic got all the way home, though he had pulled up at third. Shea walked and Levey ended the spasm with a pop fly.

The Sox started something in the eighth when, with one out, Simmons scratched a hit and went to third on Dykes' double, after Appling had flied out. Hayes was purposely passed and Sullivan, batting for Grube, popped a foul to Shea.

In the ninth, with one out, Swanson and Haas singled and Hadley relieved Gray. Webb died on a weak grounder to Scharein. Simmons was purposely passed and then with the call three and two on Appling, he took a curve ball for a third strike, ending the game.

Seattle Youth Hopes to Shoot Arrow a Quarter of a Mile in U. S. Championship Tourney Here



RUSSELL HAGGARD.

The English yeomen at Agincourt pulled a wicked long bow. But it's hard to believe they had much on Russell Gardner, 20-year-old Seattle youth, who is now in St. Louis preparing for the National Archery tournament which will be held at the old aviation field in Forest Park, Aug. 7 to Aug. 11.

Russell, who drove here from his home city in order to become accustomed to the climate and wind conditions here, specializes in "flight" or distance shooting. In this event accuracy is not an essential, the victor being decided on distance alone.

Shows Amazing Skill.

Although just out of his teens, Haggard has shown amazing aptitude for this style of contest, having won both the Washington State and Northwestern tournament flight shoots for two years in succession. He also finished third in the national championship flight shoot.

This year, in winning the Washington State event, Haggard sent his shaft a distance of 416 yards—equivalent to about four and a half downtown blocks of 300 feet each.

In the Pacific Northwest tourney, he won with a flight of 433 yards 2 feet 5 inches. He declares he will clear at least 440 yards or a quarter of a mile with one of the six shots he is allowed under the rules of the national competition.

Although not a husky youth, Haggard's bows require considerable strength of arm to pull back. All of the bows are made of yew and are of the reflex type, with the tips bent backward. His stoutest bow has a "pull" or "draw" of 80 pounds. He also uses bows of lesser power one being of 70 and one of 50 pounds.

Strictly Amateur.

No expense money is provided for entries in national archery tournaments; the entrants, in addition to paying an entry fee of $8, defray all of their individual expenses.

Martin's Homer in the 10th With Two on Beats Cubs 9-6

At any rate, Herman scored, Damaree was safe at second, carrying the tying run, and Hartnett reached first.

Frisch then decided that Carleton had enough to be perturbed about and called on old Jess Haines. Haines struck out Manager Grimm to draw loud cheers from the crowd, but Woody English rapped a single to left and Demaree raced home to tie the score and eliminate Carleton's chances of making the day good for his fourteenth victory.

Martin Ends Game With Homer.

But everything turned out all right, after all. Haines turned back the Cubs in the tenth and Bob O'Farrell opened the Redbirds' half with a single to center. With Wilson running for O'Farrell, Durocher sacrificed neatly and after Ripper Collins was passed intentionally, Martin lambasted a home run into the left field seats, scoring behind Wilson and Collins to make the score 9 to 6.

Grimm used four pitchers in the struggle and three of them felt the sting of the awakened Cardinals' bats. Lonnie Warneke, the Arkansas humming bird, started, but his curve wasn't humming very well and the Cardinals turned it into a rataplan of base hits.

Medwick walked in the second and Orsatti doubled him to third. Medwick scored on O'Farrell's infield out and Orsatti on Durocher's single to right.

Warneke Batted Out.

Carleton walked with two out in the fourth and singles by Martin and Watkins scored Carleton and sent Warneke to the humming bird bath in the club house.

Henshaw stopped that rally and hurled a scoreless fifth, but retired for a pinch hitter and Malone yielded four hits and a run in two innings, doubles by Durocher and Martin producing a tally in the sixth.

Herman hit his first homer in the fourth after Koenig had singled and been forced by Cuyler, a line drive into the left field seats and in the seventh, after Cuyler walked, the Babe lofted a second four-bagger to the roof of the pavilion.

Despite the four straight victories, the Cardinals remained eight games behind the Giants, but they reduced the Cubs' margin over St. Louis to two games.

BRITONS FAVORED TO WIN DAVIS CUP IN FINALS WITH FRENCH

hitting steadiness that clinched the first French triumph. Nevertheless, French comment showed some bitterness over Borotra's previous decision not to play in the singles.

Sensitive of this, the Basque told the Associated Press after the match that he and Brugnon put on pressure to end the match quickly, explaining that he no longer felt himself able to play first-rate tennis over the five-set route.

Cochet to Play in U. S.

Cochet is understood to have been engaged to represent a wine company in the United States and expects to play in the American National singles championship at Forest Hills, this September, despite an avowal last fall that he would never return. Henri refused to discuss reports he would turn professional later and possibly join Big Bill Tilden in an exhibition tour.

Cochet was critical last September of the arrangements at Forest Hills that compelled him to play off the fifth set of his semifinal match with Wilmer Allison on Saturday morning and then face Ellsworth Vines in the final round that afternoon. Vines beat the Frenchman in straight sets.

TERRY'S HOMER GIVES GIANTS 6 TO 5 VICTORY OVER BRAVES

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 29.—Bill Terry put a dramatic finish to a close game today by walloping a home run with two out in the ninth inning to give the Giants a 6 to 5 victory over the Boston Braves. It was the Giants' fifth straight triumph.

Despite two costly errors by Pinky Whitney, the Braves overcame a three-run lead and managed to tie the score in the ninth inning as Terry juggled his pitching staff around in a vain effort to halt them. After Fred Fitzsimmons was knocked out in the seventh, Dolf Luque took the hill and then Watson Clark and Herman Bell were tossed into the fray in the ninth. Bell was credited with the victory.

Only two of the Giant runs were earned, the last and one which they made on three singles off Tom Zachary in the fourth.

Wally Berger pasted his nineteenth homer of the season in the fourth for the first Boston run and the Braves added three more in the seventh to tie the count.

The Giants went ahead again in the same inning on Whitney's error, a sacrifice and Joe Moore's pinch hit but the Braves came back to tie it up in the ninth.

SWIMATHON POSTPONED FOR ONE WEEK

The Swimathon, a 30-day endurance swimming contest which was scheduled to start at Creve Coeur Lake today, has been postponed for a week, it was announced last night.

Sixty-Day Duck Season Approved.

North America's supply of wild ducks, seriously depleted by a succession of drouths and the effects of drainage in their most important central prairies nesting areas, shows but slight increase of some species as compared with last year, according to a recent survey of the region. Field men recently found that breeding conditions in North Dakota were spotty, very poor in Southeastern Manitoba, Southern Saskatchewan and Alberta.

As a result of investigations by governmental experts and interested sportsmen's organizations, a waterfowl hunting season of 60 days, similar to that of 1932, was approved by the advisory board, Migratory Bird Act, called July 10 at Washington by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

A closed season on brant and an open season on cackling geese was also approved for this year. A decision on the recommendations will be made at an early date, Secretary Wallace advises sportsmen.

Quail Crop Promising.

A good quail crop is in sight, according to reports reaching the department from district game wardens. Dry weather is beneficial to young quail providing there is ample dew which provides the normal water supply for young birds. The quail shooting season does not open until Nov. 10.

Many Deer in Oregon County.

"Deer are plentiful in Oregon County this year," W. Lewis Lindley of Thayer, Mo., reported to the Game and Fish Department. In the "Irish Wilderness," located 15 miles east of Alton on Eleven Points River, the deer have been so numerous that the natives last winter made sausage out of the venison, it is claimed.

A shipment of four to five-inch trout soon will be placed in springs on Eleven Points River near the Lindley Ranch for future liberation.

Timber Wolves Large and Wild.

Dan McDonald, president of the Monett Chamber of Commerce, also a sportsman and banker, says prospects for quail hunting in Barry County, when the season opens Nov. 10, are most excellent. Many adult quail are to be seen now.

Mr. McDonald also states that large timber wolves are menacing livestock and poultry in his county. "The wolves are the largest I have ever seen this far south," he reports, "comparable to the Wisconsin timber wolf, averaging 60 to 100 pounds," we are informed. The wolves are distinguishable by their reddish backs and are very wild and difficult to kill, even with high powered rifles. Jackrabbits abound in prairie country in Barry County, it is reported.

"Dog Days" Are With Us.

The midsummer fishing season in Missouri is generally conceded to be the worst; and the dog days will soon be with us. However, this year reports of good fishing have persisted—and besides there is the fall fishing, always the best, in this State, just ahead. Veteran anglers have long known that the Ozarks' best fishing time is in late summer and early fall, especially for bass and jack salmon.

The small mouth bass, always a vigorous fighter, is then at his liveliest and even the more sluggish big mouth bass puts on a storm when hooked. Jack salmon start biting avidly late in September and continue active in deep waters for many weeks.

Floats are popular now and the outfitters at various points, especially the Current River guides, have had an unusually active season.

Deer Far From Home.

Two buck deer, their horns in velvet, were observed on U. S. Highway No. 50 near California, Mo., recently. The nearest recognized deer range is more than 30 miles southeast of where the animals were observed.

It has been suggested that the animals might have been escapes from a private game farm operated at Jefferson City until more than a year ago.

A glimpse of a private quail hatchery will be shown in the Missouri Game and Fish Department's exhibit at the Missouri State Fair (Aug. 12 to 19).

Birds and material from the E. E. Breisch Missouri Pheasantries at Windsor are to be used in the display. One pen will contain old birds laying eggs. Nearby a special-type incubator used in quail production will be in operation. The hatch will come off during the fair week. Adjacent to the incubator will be a brooder house filled with more than 100 baby birds.

Game Department Wants Help.

The Game and Fish Department is greatly interested in obtaining all possible information on game and particularly waterfowl. Such information is of great value to the departments in determining seasons and bag limits.

Reports on local conditions will be greatly appreciated and sportsmen are urged to send in information relative to population of game and in what localities the game is found and conditions. Nesting reports and sighting broods of small waterfowl are important.

Here is an opportunity for everyone to assist the Game and Fish Commission in their efforts to better the hunting and fishing conditions for you.

The capture of a young skunk kitten, colored yellow and striped in white, is reported to this department by Mr. Jewell A. Jones of Stewartsville, Mo. Most skunks known to exist in Missouri are black with white stripes or spotted.

A young pheasant hen with a brood of 20 baby pheasants was observed last week by P. H. Barbee, editor of the Clark Chronicle, on the Truesdell farm, northeast of Clark. Conditions for rearing pheasants in Randolph County are above the average, Mr. Barbee states.

Jugging on the Missouri.

The "jugging" season was successfully inaugurated last week on the Missouri River, near Jefferson City, when two fishermen caught some large catfish.

The sportsmen placed several cans in the river near the prison farm and followed them in an idling boat to the mouth of the Moreau. When the fish hit the can there was a loud thump and the can disappeared for a full minute.

One big fellow, a 62-pounder, could not carry the weight to the bottom, however, and after racing and churning about in the water for a time, exhausting himself, he was lifted into the boat. Jugging is among the popular Missouri River sports, starting usually in August.

only in the enforcement of the narcotic laws and with the co-operation of prominent racing officials, had been investigating all American tracks for the past year in secrecy, the agents posing as race track followers and gamblers out to spring a betting coup.

"We uncovered conclusive evidence that at least 200 horses, competing in as many races, have been doped during the past eight months," Commissioner Anslinger said. "There is no evidence of a dope ring on the various tracks but illegal doping of horses has been going on and must be stopped. The Federal Government is interested solely in enforcing the Harrison narcotic act and the abuse of narcotics."

Commissioner Anslinger said he would present all facts in each case reported by his agents to various state racing associations for whatever disciplinary action such associations deemed necessary. The racing associations in most cases have the power to end permanently the racing connections of those found guilty of illegal tactics.

Names of those to be called before the grand jury were not made public.

Today's Horseshoe Games.

Dixiana Stable Repeats.

Far Star's victory was of considerable significance. She revealed she can travel the extra distance required to run the six furlongs in excellent time.

Today's victory was the third important juvenile stake success for the Dixiana Stable in the Chicago district this year. Far Star won the Debutante Stakes at Lincoln Field, and ran second to Mata Hari in the Laesie Handicap at Arlington, three weeks ago.

PUBLIC PARKS GOLFERS TUNE UP AT PORTLAND FOR TOURNEY TUESDAY

By the Associated Press.

PORTLAND, Ore., July 29.—The Eastmoreland golf course, groomed for championship play, was paced by dozens of aspirants to a national title today as entrants in the national public links tournament, starting Tuesday, exercised their woods and their irons on the 18 holes.

Robert L. Miller of Jacksonville, Fla., the defending champion, reached Portland today and was soon surveying the tournament course. He was accompanied by Johnny Morris of Birmingham, Ala.

Charley Wilson, Honolulu public links star, was one of the most active, trying to better a 78 which he shot yesterday. Par is 72. Wilson said the course was "great."

BABE RUTH HITS 25TH HOME RUN BUT SENATORS BEAT YANKS, 11-5

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Washington's pennant hunting baseball club trimmed the second place Yanks again today and made it look easy, 11 to 5, but Al Crowder's hopes of handing the champions their first shutout in nearly two years sailed over the fence in the eighth, propelled by the still powerful bat of Babe Ruth.

As it was, Crowder let the New York sluggers down with six hits and blanked them for seven innings. It was his fifteenth victory and the ninth win for the Senators over the Yanks in 12 starts.

Twenty thousand Washington fans turned out on a perfect baseball day to see their favorites stretch their lead to three full games and make it impossible for the Yanks to catch them in the present series, the third and fourth games of which will be played tomorrow and Monday.

Brown Blanks Tigers, 1-0, Scores Winning Run.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, July 29. — Clint Brown not only blanked the Detroit Tigers with seven hits today but scampered home with the winning run on a single by Johnny Oulliber as the Cleveland Indians marked up their fifth straight victory today, 1 to 0.

The victory placed Cleveland in a virtual tie with the third-place Philadelphia Athletics, who lost to Boston, but it was a costly one. Shortstop Bill Knickenbocker of the Tribe was badly spiked by First Baseman Harry Davis of the Tigers in his haste to start a double play and will be out of the game at least two weeks, breaking up the Indians' best winning combination of the season.

Red Sox Pound Grove, Defeat Athletics, 8-1.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, July 29.—The Boston Red Sox handed Bob "Lefty" Grove his second straight defeat today in downing the Philadelphia Athletics, 8 to 1. Eight of the Sox 13 hits were made off Grove in the six innings he toiled under a blazing sun. He was removed for a pinch batter at this point and Cain, who took up the burden, allowed five hits and four runs in the last two sessions.

The Athletics' outfielders established some kind of a record when they failed to accept a single fielding chance during the game.

See where 138 new laws went into effect July 24. Now if we could get some of the old ones to function 100 per cent there would be a noticeable decrease in crime. Such for instance as shooting policemen in courtrooms.

Judging by the way the states are joining the wet parade, the next New Year's eve celebration ought to be a humdinger.

Frankie Frisch took charge of the Cardinals eight games from the lead and an equal number of games from the cellar. He can go in either direction with plenty of leeway.

It looks like a fight right down to the wire between the Senators and Yanks. A blanket could cover them. There must be a code.

"Geologist Says Man Originated in Africa."

And we learned about crap-shooting from him.

See where 138 new laws went into effect July 24. Now if we could get some of the old ones to function 100 per cent there would be a noticeable decrease in crime. Such for instance as shooting policemen in courtrooms.

Judging by the way the states are joining the wet parade, the next New Year's eve celebration ought to be a humdinger.

Frankie Frisch took charge of the Cardinals eight games from the lead and an equal number of games from the cellar. He can go in either direction with plenty of leeway.

It looks like a fight right down to the wire between the Senators and Yanks. A blanket could cover them. There must be a code.

VETERAN WILL MEET IMHOLTZ; BELL DEFAULTS IN SEMIFINALS

By Davison Obear

The twentieth annual Municipal tennis championship for men players will be completed this afternoon on the Jefferson Memorial courts in Forest Park. Ted Drewes, O'Fallon Park star and defending champion, will oppose August Imholtz, Marquette Park player, in the final round of the singles event, starting at 2 o'clock.

In the doubles final to follow Drewes and Elmer Dorfmont will oppose Harry Schaberg and Ted Heuermann.

In reaching the final round of the singles Drewes gained an easy victory over Harry Mendelson, Forest Park player and former junior star. Drewes won 6—0, 6—1, 6—1 and thereby gained a chance to win his thirteenth Municipal singles championship today.

Bell Loses by Default.

The other men's singles semi-final came to an unfortunate climax in the third set. Imholtz surprised by winning the first set, 6—0 from William Bell. The second set was closer, Imholtz winning 6—3 due to some good placements. It was evident, however, that Bell was not playing his usual forceful game. Imholtz continued and led 3 to 0 in the third set and had the advantage point in the next game. As Bell went toward the baseline for the next point he fainted. He did not recover sufficiently to continue and the match was awarded to Imholtz by Referee Carl Kamp.

Harry Schaberg and Ted Heuermann defeated Alfred Rothschild and William Krueger in one of the semi-final doubles matches which gave the spectators some very interesting tennis. Schaberg and Heuermann won the first two sets 6—2, 7—5 being a little more accurate, particularly in the second set. The new University City champions, however, came back to win the third set, 6—2. They led 4—2 in the fourth set but the veterans evened the score and ultimately won the set, 7—5 and the match.

Drewes Also In Doubles Final.

Ted Drewes and Elmer Dorfmont played well together to defeat Henry Freudenstein and Victor Sellers in the other doubles semi-finals. The score was 6—1, 6—3, 6—1. As a result of the victory Drewes and Dorfmont should give Schaberg and Heuermann plenty of competition in the doubles finals this afternoon. An admission fee of 25 cents will be charged for the finals.

First round matches were played in the Municipal Women's Class A singles. The entry in the women's doubles will remain open until 4 p. m. today.

WOMEN'S SINGLES RESULTS.

FIRST ROUND—Marjorie Dierberger defeated Natalie Keene, 6—0, 6—1; Virginia Lee Burch defeated Irene Borne, 6—4, 8—6; Eleanor Frederick defeated Olive Cinnater, 6—3, 6—2; Wilma Teak defeated Georgia Dexheimer, 7—5, 6—2; Ruth Mohr defeated Mary Logan, 8—6, 6—1; Mrs. Freda Konze defeated Doris Fruth, 6—2, 6—3; Billie Peer defeated Doris Anderson, 6—1, 6—0; Frances Maccubbin defeated Mrs. Beatrice Slater, 8—6, 5—all, default; Melita Howard defeated Mrs. Charles Borne, 6—4, 6—0; Sylvion Tibbeitts defeated Irma Beck 6—3, 6—0; Mrs. Lyda Humes defeated Ruth Anderson, 6—1, 6—1; Billie Peer defeated Doris Anderson, 6—1, 6—0.

HAGEN DEFEATS COTTON IN CHALLENGE MATCH 3 AND 2 IN 36 HOLES

BERKHAMSTED, Eng., July 29.—Trailing most of the way, Walter Hagen, veteran American professional, put on a sudden rally to defeat Henry Cotton, British pro of a Belgian club, 3 and 2, in a 36-hole exhibition match for £100 a side today.

The match was played on the Ashridge Club course which Hagen had never seen before and on which Cotton, generally regarded the best of British pros, had been practicing for several days.

From the ninth hole on, Hagen always was down but Cotton's putting touch deserted him suddenly and Hagen won the twenty-eighth, twenty-ninth and thirtieth holes in succession to square the match and then captured the thirty-first and thirty-third to go two up and the thirty-fourth to end the match.

Club officials made certain that there was no repetition of the incident of several years ago when Hagen absent-mindedly turned up several hours late for a match at St. George's Hill against Abe Mitchell. A club official routed the American out of bed this morning and escorted him to the course by motor.

The cards:

play. In his time he furnished the most spectacular matches of any of the French stars although he was not the best player.

Now it is Cochet who passes.

France henceforth will have to take a back seat, for several seasons, inasmuch as it has no really great prospects among the younger players. Merlin is two years at least away, while Boussus has been too many years in developing.

Cochet, probably the best player of any of the three, gained his supremacy through all-round ability and without the aid of the tremendous pace which elevated Tilden and Vines to the top.

Cochet's Great Record.

HE made his first Davis cup appearance in the doubles with Brugnon in 1926 and was defeated by R. Norris Williams and Vincent Richards.

In 1927 with Lacoste he helped France take the trophy away from America, winning one singles match from Little Bill Johnston but losing to Tilden, while Lacoste beat both his singles opponents.

In 1928 against Tilden and Hennessey, Cochet won both his matches in singles and paired with Jean Borotra to beat Tilden and Frank Hunter in the doubles.

In 1929 Cochet again won both singles for France, beating Tilden and George Lott; and in the next two years he was unbeaten in singles, winning from Lott and Tilden in 1930, and from Austin and Perry of England in the challenge round of 1931.

Won 11, Lost 2 Cup Matches.

THE first sign of a break came in 1932 when Vines defeated him on his home courts. In his career Cochet thus far has won 11 Davis Cup challenge round matches and lost only two. Tilden's record was 18 and 4.

The defeats that Cochet has suffered in recent months may prove costly to him financially. More than a year ago he was offered a sum reported to have been $100,000, for a professional tour of America.

But with his reputation considerably abated by the several defeats he has experienced, it is likely that his sacrifice in refusing to become a professional in 1932 will not be rewarded by a renewal of that offer.

100 Per Cent Amateur.

ONE HUNDRED per cent amateurism still exists, unlikely as this may seem to the critics of our present amateur system. In a world where some amateurs make a good living out of their skill in various sports, and others enjoy round-the-world-junkets at no cost to themselves and with big-hearted allowances for expenses, it is interesting to note that archery is one sport in which there is no such thing as "expenses."

The national championship will be held here early next month. More than 150 archers will assemble from all sections of the country. And each and every one of the entrants will pay every item of expense, transportation included, out of his own pocket.

In some of the events it even costs as much as $8 to enter. And a few of the enthusiasts think so little of costs that they are on the ground now getting acclimated and tuning up for the big show.

Try to hold a national or even a sectional championship tournament in tennis or almost anything else, except, perhaps, amateur golf, and see how many entries show up for the contests. Unless the offer is made gilt-edged and silk-lined, with all the hotel and expense trimmings guaranteed, tennis players will not be interested.

When the archers assemble there is absolutely no doubt that love of the sport is the only motive that brings them together. How many leading amateurs in other sports can say the same thing?

Snapping Out of It.

BILLY HOGAN, the "baby faced" young welterweight who is fighting under the direction of Gus Wilson, and whose budding fame was nipped by a heavy frost here in St. Louis, with Joe Huff in the role of Jack Frost, is "in again."

Hogan was almost buried under the verbal bouquets tossed at him, following his appearance in several fights on the Pacific Coast. According to columns of press praise, Hogan was just the finest specimen of championship material the ringsiders had looked over.

But in St. Louis, although showing very stylish form, Billy was knocked to the canvas once and outpointed twice by Huff. That cooled off the superheated ballyhoo.

But now Hogan is coming back again. Really he hasn't been away for he's still a mere youngster. He merely fought a little green against Huff. A letter from Billy's manager, Gus Wilson, intimates that he wants to bring back Hogan to St. Louis and wipe out the blot on his young "hope's" escutcheon. Wilson writes:

Hogan in Winning Form.

"SINCE Hogan's defeat in St. Louis he has won every match, beating fighters of class. In Montreal, he beat Bill Townsend in a hard 10-round battle. Then he whipped Sammy Goldman's good welterweight, Pete Culatto, who had 32 consecutive wins.

"That was at the Polo Grounds the night Billy Petrolle fought Van Klavern. The New York critics spoke very highly of Hogan after that fight, saying he had the makings of a champion.

"A week later Hogan beat Ray Napolitaine, rated in 'Ring' as New York's outstanding hope for the welterweight title. Hogan knocked him out in the sixth round.

"I would like to show St. Lousans that Hogan is a better fighter than he appeared to be when he last fought there."

That would probably suit local fans. Hogan showed he had some stuff even in being beaten here. Probably he has worn off his inexperience by this time.

Why, Mr Wilson!

GUS, by the way, has extended his sphere of activity. He is now mine host of an establishment he calls "Ringside Tavern," in which the orchestra is placed in a regulation ring, the one in which Dempsey knocked out Carpentier in 1921.

Smaller "rings," in lieu of tables, surround the main one and a dance floor is part of the setup. Every Saturday night a sport celebrity entertains the "ringsiders." Opening night Primo Carnera displayed his shape. The next Saturday, Benny Leonard, former champion lightweight, kidded the crowd.

But let Gus tell more about it: "I am fortunate and glad to say the place is a huge success, having three chefs, seven waiters, excellent food and St. Louis beer. I have at least 4000 pictures of fights, champion fighters and great champions of all sorts in sport and aviation which gives the place plenty of atmosphere, making its name, Ringside Tavern, stand out. Posters of outstanding fights and great bygone championships decorate the walls in place of wall paper."

Boy, that is unique. But it's nothing to Gus' idea of how to keep tab on your drinks. This is a knockout—especially if you try to pull a repeat on the number of rounds. Again let Gus tell it:

"Every ring (table) will have its bell or gong, as well as an electric indicator showing the rounds, like in a fight club. This will be for the waiters, pressing a button each time they bring a round of beer, with rounds up to 10. I'm sure if a fellow got up to seven, he wouldn't be yellow enough to stop but would keep on until he went the limit."

We gather, however, that if the fight with John Barleycorn became heated, there was no embargo on starting out on another 10-round bout.

And that could only end in a knockout!

Character Wins At Empire But Is Disqualified

By the Associated Press.

EMPIRE CITY RACE TRACK, N. Y., July 29.—The uncertainties of horse racing never was more aptly demonstrated than in the Yonkers Handicap here this afternoon. This mile and a sixteenth event, the oldest stake on the local calendar and last stake of the current meeting, narrowed down to a two-horse affair between C. V. Whitney's Clotho and James Butler's Star Fire when the latter's stablemate, Apprentice, and Pardee were withdrawn. Star Fire, held at 5 to 2, easily beat his lone rival, a 7 to 20 shot, to collect the winner's share of the purse, amounting to $3100. The time was 1:46 flat.

When Jockey Alfred Robertson came back to weigh out, a crowd rushed down to the judges' stand and gave the boy a round of boos that the Whitney rider has become accustomed to at the current meeting. Robbie has been beaten on frequent favorites lately, but he took the "razzing" in good humor, doffing his cap politely and smiling blandly.

The booing drowned out the cheers when the stewards disqualified Character, the 3 to 2 favorite, in the fifth race and gave the purse to Westy Junior. The latter backed down to 11-5 was beaten three lengths but the officials decided that Character interferred with Westy in the stretch. Condescend was awarded second money and Irish Wake the show. Character drew well clear after taking command just before the stretch was reached. Westy Junior was always second.

GILLESPIE NINE WINS IN LEGION BASEBALL

JACKSONVILLE, Ill., July 29.—Gillespie defeated Galesburg, 16 to 1, today in the downstate American Legion junior baseball championship. The Gillespie lineup was protested on account of lack of proper credentials, and a decision was deferred pending an investigation.

WHITLOW AFTER RETURN MATCH WITH DAVE ABAD

From Rushville, Ill., comes a letter from Billy Rittenhouse, trainer of Allen Withlow, asking a return match for his boy with Davey Abad. Abad recently gave Allen a trimming at Battery A but Withlow thinks he can do better.

"Withlow took the fight on short notice," Rittenhouse writes, "and wants to challenge Abad to a return go, winner take all, 15 rounds. Allen had no chance to be at his best as he had no time to train. He is sure he can beat Abad if Tippett will give him a return bout. Allen wants to redeem himself with St. Louis fans for his poor showing."

Withlow probably hasn't heard that Abad will be laid up for five or six weeks due to an injury to his knee. If that were not the case, however, Abad would probably welcome another match with Allen for Withlow didn't show anything to cause Abad any fear.

In the meantime, Tippett is planning to match Dave Barry and Harry Fierro, Chicago for his 10-round main event, Aug. 9. Fierro defeated Barry here two years ago. At present he is boxing in California and if he is unable to get away, Tippett plans to use Withlow against Howard Scott.

Joe Red, Joe Huff, Elmer Savage, Eddie Edson and Joe Parks are also under consideration for matches as are Chick Rains and Les Schulte.

STEINMANN WINS THREE OF EIGHT HORSESHOE GAMES AT CHICAGO

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, July 30. — Lefty Steinmann, St. Louis champion, won 3 and lost 5 games in the national horse shoe pitching championships, which opened today with 24 contestants in a round-robin schedule.

The St. Louisan lost three of his games to the three men that now lead the standings with 7 wins and but 1 loss each. They are Blair Nunamaker, defending national champion, from Cleveland, who beat Lefty, 50 to 14; Charles Davis, the Kansas City star who took Steinmann, 50 to 20, and Jimmy Risk, Montpelier, Ind., who beat Steinmann, 50 to 30. Lefty's other two losses were to Ted Allen, Alhambra, Cal., 50 to 8, and to Hansford Jackson, Blue Mound, Kan., 50 to 26.

Lefty took in Milton Tate, Knoxville, Ill., pitcher, 50 to 47, and Harold Scheets, the Waukesha, Wis., shoe man, 50 to 32, finishing his matches with a win over Alton Wood, Chicago veteran, 50 to 48.

BAER AND DEMPSEY SUSPENDED BY N. B. A.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LANSING, Mich., July 29.—Max Baer, heavyweight contender and Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, were suspended indefinitely by the National Boxing Association today, as a result of their failure to fulfil a contract to box Babe Hunt, at Wichita, Kan., July 12.

Others included in the suspension are Hunt, Ancil Hoffman, Baer's manager, and Frank Pacassi and Morris E. Cain, promoters.

The suspensions will be lifted when the men involved have made arrangements with the Kansas Boxing Commission to fulfill the contract, James M. "Bingo" Brown N. B. A. president, announced.

McLeod Secured by Phillies.

James McLeod, infielder, formerly the property of Washington, has been secured by the Phillies from the Albany club.

OAKLAND, Cal., July 29.

CHONG MATTOS, a lightweight fighter, apparently is not worth his weight in gold. Don Vierra, his manager, disposed of his contract to Algernon Broom for $1.50—which makes him worth, to Broom, at least, a little more than a cent a pound.

JACK MEDICA SETS NEW RECORD FOR 1000-YARD SWIM

By the Associated Press.

PORTLAND, July 29. — Jack Medica of the Washington Athletic Club bettered a national outdoor swimming record here today when he did the one thousand yards in 11:37 2-5, in the Pacific Northwest 1933 championships.

Medica who holds the national outdoor records in the 440 and 880-yard events, cut 47 3-5 seconds from the time of Buster Crabbe of Hollywood, who held the previous record of 12:25.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRL WINS GOLF TOURNEY

By the Associated Press.

ASHEVILLE N. C. July 29.—Miss Kathryn Hemphill a Columbia, S. C., high school girl, won the Biltmore Forest women's invitation golf tournament today by defeating Mrs. Katheryn Fryberger of Providence, R. I., 1 up on the nineteenth hole.

GAR WOOD HAVING SPEEDBOAT REBUILT FOR TITLE DEFENSE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, July 29.—Gar Wood, veteran American speedboat racer and holder of the Harmsworth trophy for a decade, is having his Miss America X reconditioned and rebuilt in anticipation of a stronger challenge this fall. He stated today that the boat in which he set a world's speed record of 124.91 miles per hour last year, was being made more reliable.

Reconstruction centers on the hull, the engines and the gear box. The hull is being strengthened to withstand heavier shocks, while by rebuilding the gear box, he expects to eliminate trouble that developed in speed tests last year.

Wood said he expected the four engines after being rebuilt by Packard to develop approximately 7000 horsepower, or 200 more than before.

Miss America X will be re-assembled and ready for the water in a couple of weeks.

WEETAMOE RETAINS BOAT RACING TROPHY

By the Associated Press.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 29.—Weetamoe retained possession of the Constellation trophy, offered by Arthur Curtis James, by defeating Vanitie for the second time in two days today over a 29-mile course.

Weetamoe, owned by Frederick H. Prince of Boston and Newport, was skippered by Harold S. Vanderbilt, while Vanitil was sailed by its owner, Gerard B. Lambert of New York.

The triangular course sailed was from Brenton's reef light vessel, to Point Judith to 15 miles east and return to Newport. Weetamoe, which had a time allowance of three minutes, 32 seconds, won today in five minutes and four seconds actual time, and 8 minutes, 36 seconds corrected time.

CALUMET DESTROYED AFTER BREAKING LEG

By the Associated Press.

FITCHBURG, Mass., July 29.—Calumet, a thoroughbred bay stallion, owned by Peter T. Roche, Leominster trainer and breeder, fractured a leg today in a half-mile dash for runners at the Pearl Street Fairgrounds and had to be destroyed. He was ridden by Tom Barry of Leominster.

The horse was nine years old. It won the Saratoga Handicap in 1927 and later was purchased by C. V. B. Cushman of Pomfret, Conn., for a price reported to have been $7000. He was the sire of many promising young hunters. Roche purchased the animal four years ago.

It Depends on Robarts.

PHILADELPHIA, July 29.—Much of Temple's football success during the 1933 campaign depends on the performance of Jack Robarts, 135-pound halfback from Marblehead, Mass. Robarts, a substitute for two seasons, appeared to be Pop Warner's best ball carrier in spring practice.

WESTLAND PLAYS BLISS TODAY FOR WESTERN AMATEUR TITLE

By the Associated Press.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 29. — Rodney Bliss, a young college star from Omaha, and Jack Westland, Chicago veteran, today entered the 36-hole route for the Western Amateur Golf Title tomorrow.

Both were carried to the thirty-sixth green in tight battles, Bliss subduing Carl Dann Jr., of Orlando, the Florida champion, one up, while Westland whipped youthful Walter Emery, the intercollegiate golf king from Oklahoma City, two up.

Tonight Bliss found himself a challenger for a major golf championship for the second time within a month. Just four weeks ago the Nebraskan, who plays on Cornell's links team, was a finalist in the national intercollegiate tournament. His opponent and conqueror then was Emery.

Neither Bliss not Westland has been so near the Western championship before, although Westland fought Francis Ouimet for the national title two years ago and played last summer on America's Walker Cup team. Bliss, is the Nebraska State champion and earned fame last year by putting Johnny Goodman out of his State meet.

In three previous matches Emery had to fight uphill battles and came through with extra hole victories every time. Today he found himself well up on Westland through most of their contest, but could not stand prosperity, and although he fought gamely after the Chicagoan had pulled ahead his spurt fell short.

Emery can blame his defeat largely on an erratic putter, which cost him a half dozen three-putt greens in the afternoon round and several others in the morning. His iron approaches also were off line in the second round when Westland was playing his shots well toward the pins.

Scoring one under par for the first nine holes, Bliss had Dann three down, but the Floridan turned the second nine in perfect figures to wipe out the deficit. Dann turned to the last nine one up, after winning the twenty-sixth when Bliss' approach was wide.

MISS JACOBS LOSES SEABRIGHT TITLE TO MISS PALFREY

error to hurt her chances while Miss Palfrey, better known as a doubles player since her girl championship days, scored points regularly on placement shots that dusted off the lines.

Serving better in the second set, Miss Jacobs steadied down and forced Miss Palfrey into making errors, enough so that the champion, trailing 1-2 in games, won five in a row to deadlock the match.

The real battle was waged in the final set, with Miss Jacobs, playing vailiantly against her determined foe, staging a rally that almost carried her to victory. Trailing 1-4, she won the sixth game on her own service by a love score and finally managed to tie things up at five-all after Miss Palfrey had failed to win match point in the ninth game.

Titleholder's Service Broken.

Miss Palfrey, however, part holder of the national mixed doubles and national indoor doubles titles in addition to the throne she divides with Miss Jacobs, won the eleventh game on her own service by a love score and then broke through her opponent's service in the twelfth to take the match.

In the first set Miss Palfrey scored 31 points to 18 for Miss Jacobs, in the second Miss Jacobs led 27 to 16 and in the final Miss Palfrey's margin was 37 to 30, for a match total of 84 for the winner against 75 for Miss Jacobs.

Californians in Final

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 29.—A pair of stars from California, Gene Mako of Los Angeles, and Don Budge of San Francisco, will meet tomorrow for the Illinois State singles tennis title at the Chicago Town and Tennis Club. Budge, a tall, hard-hitting University of California sophomore, reached the final by defeating Eddie Lejeck of Chicago, 6—2, 6—0, 7—5. Mako, runner-up to Frankie Parker for the National clay courts championship, stowed away another Californian, Joseph Coughlin of Palo Alto, 7—5, 6—4, 6—0.

Fairmount's Race Meeting Will Run 31 Days, Starting Sept. 2

Fairmount track's fall race meeting will open Saturday, Sept. 2, and will continue through Saturday, Oct. 7, a total of 31 racing days, General Manager Robert S. Eddy announced to the Post-Dispatch from Chicago, yesterday.

The lowering of the daily track tax from $2500 to $1000 by the State of Illinois was in a major measure responsible for the Fairmount management's decision to run a fall meeting.

Last fall, burdened under the daily tax of $2500 a day, the meeting was a losing proposition. Before the meeting was well under way the books were a sea of red ink. And this was one Red Sea that couldn't be turned back—under conditions existing at that time. Fairmount was forced to put up the tax for the entire meeting—$62,500—before opening its gates to the public.

With the new tax in effect, and, they hope, more money in circulation as a result of the New Deal, Fairmount officials are hopeful of a successful meeting.

ESSEFF VICTOR IN OAKS, LATONIA CLOSING FEATURE

KNIGHT'S GAL SECOND, WITH BAMBOULA, THE CHOICE, THIRD

By the Associated Press.

LATONIA, Ky., July 29.—Esseff, speedy daughter of High Time-La Belle Helene, completed a perfect day for Charles T. Fisher, Detroit sportsman, and his Dixiana stables when she accounted for the thirty-seventh running of the Latonia Oaks, which stakes featured the closing day program. Less than a half hour before, Far Star, a stablemate, had added to Dixiana's far-flung fame by capturing the Arlington Futurity.

Esseff's victory was just another tribute to the master horsemanship of Little Clyde Van Dusen. Trained to the minute and capably handled by Jockey K. Horvath, the prepossessing chestnut came from behind in the mile and a quarter test to lead the Audley Farm's Knight's Gal to the wire by a half length. Mrs. A. A. Baroni's Bamboula saved third money.

Horvath was content to rate the Dixiana miss in third place as Knight's Gal and Bamboula cut out the early running. At the mile Esseff loomed menacingly as she passed Bamboula, which was showing signs of distress. Turning into the straightaway Horvath set sail for the flying Knight's Gal. The latter met the challenge stubbornly but succumbed in the last seventy yards. Edith A. and Bright, the only other starters, were never serious contenders.

Esseff was well supported in the mutuels, rewarding at a ratio of $6.32. She covered the ten furlongs in 2:04 2-5, fine time considering that the track was not at its best.

One of the largest crowds of the meeting gathered to bid the thoroughbreds farewell to Latonia until fall. Monday the racing scene in the Cincinnati area shifts to Coney Island.

WINOOKA, AUSTRALIAN HORSE, WINS MATCH RACE, FIRST IN U. S.

By the Associated Press.

SAN BRUNO, Cal., July 29.—Winooka, Australian sprinter, won its first race in America today at the Tanforan track, leading Hueu by a length and a half at the close of a five-furlong sprint. The horse was heavily played and started with the odds of one to 10. Time was 1 minute 2-5 seconds.

The race was a special $10,000 match event between the Australian champion and the American horse, from the stable of Charles Hartwell.

Winooka held the rail position at the end of the first quarter as the two raced head to head. The Australian thoroughbred had taken a short lead at the half way mark, but then O. Webster, riding Hueu, called on his mount and passed the other racer as the two entered the stretch.

Jockey Edgar Bitt urged Winooka and the Australian horse pulled up steadily, passed Hueu, went into a lead of a length and a half and finished going away.

The time was two-fifths of a second slower than the track record.

New Arrivals From St. Louis At Hyannisport

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Coit Day Join the Summer Colony — Judson S. Bemis Guest of Daughter.

HYANNISPORT, Mass., July 29.—MR. AND MRS. ROBERT COIT DAY of St. Louis have joined the summer colony at Hyannisport, being among the last to arrive for the summer season. They are settled in their white shingled cottage which has a superb ocean view on two sides, and which is particularly attractive now with rambler roses in bloom along the white fence. Mr. Day's sister, Miss Alice Coit Day, arrived from St. Louis a week ago to visit them, and their daughter, Miss Mary Coit Day, will come later. Miss Alice Day expects to go on later to the North Shore, for a stay at the Moorland Hotel in Bass Rocks.

Another Hyannisport resident, Mrs. Oliver J. Anderson of St. Louis, has been entertaining her father, Judson S. Bemis. Mrs. Anderson and her children are spending the summer at the McCreery cottage, a large gray house with shutters of Cape Cod blue, set on a rise of ground which faces the ocean front.

Mrs. Walter McCreery and her daughter, Virginia, have gone to Martha's Vineyard for the rest of the summer, after spending two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. McCreery in Fall River, and with Dr. and Mrs. C. C. McCreery in Touisset. Mr. McCreery is unable to join them this season, as he is at a camp in Colorado.

Mrs. Russell E. Gardner of St. Louis, who is passing her first season at Hyannisport, expects to remain until the middle of September. Mrs. Gardner is with her mother, Mrs. Allen T. Simpkins, and also has her three sons, David, John and Allen, with her.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hudson Barstow of St. Louis arrived this past Friday in Hyannisport, to spend the month of August with Dunham B. Dodge, Mrs. Barstow's brother. Later in August Mr. Dodge is expecting a visit from his friend, William M. Byrne of St. Louis. Mr. Dodge is chairman of the social committee of the Hyannisport Club, and is responsible for much of the impromptu entertaining in the summer colony.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Foster Bixby of St. Louis, who have spent the month of July in Hyannisport, are leaving the first of August to pass the rest of the season at Lake George, N. Y. Mrs. Bixby's mother, Mrs. Henry S. Butler, whose cottage they have been occupying, is coming on from St. Louis the first of August to be at Hyannisport until the middle of September. She will have Mrs. Stuart Butler and the latter's children with her.

Mrs. Mary Wright Day of St. Louis is another recent arrival in Hyannisport. She is the guest of her brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. George Cutler of Boston, who have a summer place there.

At Wianno, new arrivals include Mr. and Mrs. Oscar L. Biebinger of St. Louis, who have come to spend the rest of the summer at the Wianno Club, where Francis Seward has been for some weeks. Mrs. Marion Clifford Blossom, who is a summer resident of Wianno, has been entertaining her twin nephews, John and Clifford Saxton of St. Louis. The former left a week ago and Clifford has just returned. Mrs. Blossom's sons, Howard and Bradford, are with her for the season. The latter is returning in September to Amherst College, where he will be a senior. He is a member of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity, and one of the most expert golfers there. He spends much time playing golf in Wianno, while his brother sails a starboat in the weekly races at the Wianno Yacht Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Dana have arrived from St. Louis and are at their Wianno home for the rest of the summer. Their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ward Thorne of Chicago, have been occupying the house for the past month.

On the other side of the Cape, at Marion, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nagel of St. Louis have opened their summer home for the season, and have their daughter, Mrs. Homer Sweetser, and her children with them. Mr. Sweetser comes down from New York for the week-ends.

New Arrivals From St. Louis At Hyannisport

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Coit Day Join the Summer Colony — Judson S. Bemis Guest of Daughter.

HYANNISPORT, Mass., July 29.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT COIT DAY of St. Louis have joined the summer colony at Hyannisport, being among the last to arrive for the summer season. They are settled in their white shingled cottage which has a superb ocean view on two sides, and which is particularly attractive now with rambler roses in bloom along the white fence. Mr. Day's sister, Miss Alice Coit Day, arrived from St. Louis a week ago to visit them, and their daughter, Miss Mary Coit Day, will come later. Miss Alice Day expects to go on later to the North Shore, for a stay at the Moorland Hotel in Bass Rocks.

Another Hyannisport resident, Mrs. Oliver J. Anderson of St. Louis, has been entertaining her father, Judson S. Bemis. Mrs. Anderson and her children are spending the summer at the McCreery cottage, a large gray house with shutters of Cape Cod blue, set on a rise of ground which faces the ocean front.

Mrs. Walter McCreery and her daughter, Virginia, have gone to Martha's Vineyard for the rest of the summer, after spending two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. McCreery in Fall River, and with Dr. and Mrs. C. C. McCreery in Touisset. Mr. McCreery is unable to join them this season, as he is at a camp in Colorado.

Mrs. Russell E. Gardner of St. Louis, who is passing her first season at Hyannisport, expects to remain until the middle of September. Mrs. Gardner is with her mother, Mrs. Allen T. Simpkins, and also has her three sons, David, John and Allen, with her.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hudson Barstow of St. Louis arrived this past Friday in Hyannisport, to spend the month of August with Dunham B. Dodge, Mrs. Barstow's brother. Later in August Mr. Dodge is expecting a visit from his friend, William M. Byrne of St. Louis. Mr. Dodge is chairman of the social committee of the Hyannisport Club, and is responsible for much of the impromptu entertaining in the summer colony.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Foster Bixby of St. Louis, who have spent the month of July in Hyannisport, are leaving the first of August to pass the rest of the season at Lake George, N. Y. Mrs. Bixby's mother, Mrs. Henry S. Butler, whose cottage they have been occupying, is coming on from St. Louis the first of August to be at Hyannisport until the middle of September. She will have Mrs. Stuart Butler and the latter's children with her.

Mrs. Mary Wright Day of St. Louis is another recent arrival in Hyannisport. She is the guest of her brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. George Cutler of Boston, who have a summer place there.

At Wianno, new arrivals include Mr. and Mrs. Oscar L. Biebinger of St. Louis, who have come to spend the rest of the summer at the Wianno Club, where Francis Seward has been for some weeks. Mrs. Marion Clifford Blossom, who is a summer resident of Wianno, has been entertaining her twin nephews, John and Clifford Saxton of St. Louis. The former left a week ago and Clifford has just returned. Mrs. Blossom's sons, Howard and Bradford, are with her for the season. The latter is returning in September to Amherst College, where he will be a senior. He is a member of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity, and one of the most expert golfers there. He spends much time playing golf in Wianno, while his brother sails a starboat in the weekly races at the Wianno Yacht Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Dana have arrived from St. Louis and are at their Wianno home for the rest of the summer. Their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ward Thorne of Chicago, have been occupying the house for the past month.

On the other side of the Cape, at Marion, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nagel of St. Louis have opened their summer home for the season, and have their daughter, Mrs. Homer Sweetser, and her children with them. Mr. Sweetser comes down from New York for the week-ends.

At Orleans, near the tip of the Cape, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kent of St. Louis and their son and daughter are established in their summer home for the season.

The summer colony at Falmouth and Woods' Hole has been busy with a variety of social activities. Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Plant of St. Louis, who are summering at Woods' Hole, returned Monday from a week's cruise on their yacht, the Cayonara, accompanied by their house-guests, Miss Vic-

Miss Elise More Is Engaged to Marlin Perkins

Announcement Made of Betrothal With Marriage to Be in September—He Is a Curator at Zoo.

ANNOUNCEMENT is made today of the engagement of Miss Katherine Elise More, daughter of Mrs. E. Anson More, 4756 Westminster place, and R. Marlin Perkins, son of Judge Joseph D. Perkins of Carthage, Mo., and curator of reptiles of the St. Louis Zoological Society. Miss More is a graduate of Mary Institute and Miss Beard's School in Orange, N. J. Later she studied journalism at Washington University, and has since continued the writing of short stories, some of which have been published. She is an accomplished musician. Her mother was Miss Katherine Tutt before her marriage. Her father, the late William J. Steinwender, died many years ago. Miss More is the granddaughter of Mrs. Edward G. Tutt, who is spending the summer with her daughter, Mrs. William Lee Graves, in Maplewood, N. J. In addition to Mrs. Graves, Miss More is the niece of Mrs. Chisholm Beach of New York and Gardner Tutt of Jackson Heights, N. Y. Mrs. John N. Booth of St. Louis, who will celebrate her eighty-eighth birthday in September, is her great-aunt.

Mr. Perkins is a graduate of the Wentworth Military Academy, and the University of Missouri, where he majored in zoology. He became associated with the St. Louis Zoo several years ago. He was placed in charge of the temporary reptile exhibit in the Ostrich House, and when that proved to be such a success that a $175,000 Reptile House was planned, Mr. Perkins was sent to New York to work for a few months under Dr. Raymond L. Ditmars, curator of mammals and reptiles at the New York Zoological Park, and the world's leading herpetologist. Following his return to St. Louis Mr. Perkins was placed in charge of the reptile building when it was erected, and later was named curator of reptiles.

He has made numerous collecting expeditions throughout the South, and with his assistant, Moody J. R. Lentz, went to Central American three years ago to collect rare snakes and lizards for the Zoo. The first widespread public notice he received was five years ago when he was bitten by a virulent gaboon viper from Africa, and in less than an hour, was pronounced dead by attending physicians. Rallying, he was in the hospital for many weeks and recovered completely after about two years.

The wedding will take place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. More the middle of September, and Mr. Perkins and his bride will live in St. Louis.

Gleam of Black Satin Enhanced by the Pure Lustre of

Bubble Pearls

Large, "frankly artificial" pearls are back again! Schiaparelli recently appeared deluged with large ones. Smart women are buying whole ensembles of them, to complement the Black Satin vogue and to enrich the loveliness of their sunburned skins.

King at Cowes as London Season Ends

LONDON, July 29.

THE London season is over, and King George and Queen Mary have departed for Cowes preparatory to the annual regatta. The King will sail his yacht Britannia, while the Queen visits friends ashore. Queen Mary has no love for the water. After Cowes the King and Queen will go to Holyrood for another court.

The World Economic Conference ended socially with three important dinner parties.

The Prince of Wales gave a party at St. James Palace, and American Ambassador and Mrs. Robert W. Bingham were the chief guests.

Sir John Simon, the Foreign Secretary, gave a party at Claridge's. Guests included Secretary of State and Mrs. Cordell Hull, the Belgian Ambassador, General Jan Smuts and Viscount Ishii of Japan.

Lady Bingham, American hostess, gave the third of these parties, at which the American Ambassador's wife was the guest of honor, Mr. Bingham being indisposed. Others were the Earl and Countess of Cromer, Sir Gomer and Lady Berry, and Lord and Lady Stanley.

Secretary Hull, Senator Pittman, Counsellor and Mrs. Ray Atherton and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, Sr., were guests of the English-Speaking Union reception at Dartmouth House, with Marquis and Marchioness Reading receiving.

Among the guests were Secretary for War Lord Hailsham and Lady Hailsham, the Marquis and Marchioness Londonderry, and Lord and Lady Fermoy.

toire and Mrs. Martha Conley of Maryland. They stopped at Newport and Block Island, R. I., and at New London, Conn. The week before Mr. and Mrs. Platt went on a shorter cruise to Edgartown, Martha's Vineyard. They have with them for the summer their daughter, Mrs. Leicester B. Faust of St. Louis, and her daughters, Lily Claire and Anne Wilhelmina. Mrs. Faust was a recent guest at a tea which Mrs. James P. Warbasse gave at her home in Woods Hole in honor of Mrs. Henry Dyer Warbasse of Arizona.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene D. Nims and Mrs. Thomas G. Ratcliffe of the St. Louis summer colony at Woods Hole were included in the audience at the invitation recital of the Washington String Quartet, given last week at the summer home of Mrs. Murray Crane of New York. This is the first in a series of musical events scheduled for the summer season.

Correction as to Miss Clark.

It was incorrectly stated in last Sunday's Post-Dispatch that Miss Barbara Lee Clark, who is to be married today to Robert E. Wallace, was the daughter of Charles Allen Clark, 405 Somerset avenue, Webster Groves. Miss Clark is the daughter of Charles A. Clark and is not related to Mrs. Charles Allen Clark, whose husband died two years ago.

JEFFERSON BARRACKS

Social Items From the Army Post

THE wedding of Miss Helen Elizabeth Hild, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emile A. Hild, 7223 Pennsylvania avenue, and Capt. Charles Hayes Henry of the Quartermaster Corps took place at 10 a. m. Wednesday at the home of the bride's parents. A breakfast for the immediate family followed.

The bride's aunt, Mrs. Walter Jordan, was her only attendant, and Lieut. John de Lorn Eason was best man for Capt. Henry. The bride was attired in a tailored white crepe suit, a small white cloche hat and bag and gloves to match.

The young pair departed Wednesday afternoon for a month's honeymoon to be spent in Chicago and on a boat trip on Lake Michigan. Capt. Henry's home is in Boston. He and his bride will reside next winter in Chicago, where he will be a student at the Subsistence School.

Congressman John D. Dingell of Michigan and Mrs. Dingell were the house guests of Col. and Mrs. Walter Krueger Friday, July 21. Congressman and Mrs. Dingell were on the way from Washington, D. C., to China.

Col. Robert C. Cotton was the dinner guest last Sunday to Col. and Mrs. Walter Krueger.

Mrs. Waldon B. Coffey departed Friday for Presque Isle Camp, Onaway, Mich., to join Lieut. Coffey, who is on duty there with the Civilian Conservation Corps. She was accompanied as far as Chicago by Miss Dorothy Krueger. Miss Krueger will be the guest of Mrs. Robert L. Hostetler for a few days.

Miss Eunice Denholm, daughter of Major Charles B. Denholm of the Army War College in Washington, and Mrs. Denholm will arrive today to be the house guest for several weeks of Miss Clara Reagan.

Lieut. and Mrs. John T. Westermier entertained informally at dinner Saturday night, July 22, for Miss Dorothy Krueger and Lieut. Aubrey Smith.

The Smart Set In New York

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 29.

THE aviation motif predominated in the New York and Long Island summer social pattern last week.

Functions and fashions, alike, reflected the arrival in New York of Wiley Post and Gen. Italo Balbo and his officers.

The Italian General was the center of attention among hostesses who feted him with series of luncheons, dinners and balls.

It must be said, however, that the debutante ranks were plunged in disappointment because the dashing Air Minister did not dance.

Gen. Balbo's favorite expression, "multo bello," was capitalized by designers, who quickly devised the multo bello hat—of rakish design modeled after the smart bit of headgear worn by the Italian air officers.

Another piece of advance millinery emerged from the week, the "flighty"—a black velvet affair with wingspread lines and a crystal propeller ornament. It will be seen this fall.

Tonight, the "aviation treasure hunt" of the dinner dance at the Clambake Club at Newport, put the finishing touch to an aerial social week. It was arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Lorillard Spencer.

The coming week will witness a series of parties at East Hampton in compliment to American and English tennis players participating next Friday and Saturday in the Wightman cup matches at Forest Hills and the national championships Aug. 14.

Occupying a prominent place on the social lists is the wedding next Tuesday of Miss Alice Fair McCulloch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David H. McCulloch and granddaughter of the late Robert M. Fair of Chicago, and Frederick H. Gillmore, son of Gen. and Mrs. Quincy A. Gillmore of New York and Philadelphia.

Party for Marchesa Carignani.

HOT SPRINGS, Va., July 29.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pope Day entertained at the Homestead last night in honor of the Marchese and Marchesa Carignani of Naples, who are spending the summer here with the Marchesa's mother, Mrs. Charles McLure Clark, of St. Louis. The Marchese arrived from New York this week, joining Marchesa Carignani, and their children, Ricardo and Miss Leonora, who had preceded him here by two weeks. The Marchesa was Miss Mary Denman Clark.

AID FOR SPANISH VETERANS

Must Be 55 Years Old, Disabled, in Need to Get $15.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—The veterans' administration received numerous inquiries today regarding benefits ordered paid to needy Spanish-American war veterans.

Under the new regulations a veteran of that war, 55 years old, 50 per cent disabled and in need will receive $15 monthly from the Government. An additional requirement is made that his military service must have been of 90 days duration.

102 TAKEN TO GOODWILL FARM

Open Air Play for Youngsters From Congested Districts.

The fresh air farm of the Goodwill Industries, on Rock Hill road, St. Louis County, is now caring for 102 children from congested sections of the city, R. W. Adair, superintendent, reported yesterday.

Medical inspection of the children is made and records of physical progress kept daily. Supervisors direct play activities in the open. Part of the expenses are borne by the women's auxiliary of the Goodwill Industries, which asks that additional subscriptions be sent to its office, 1730 North Thirteenth street.

HOME TOWN TO SEE CASSAVANT IN MUNICIPAL OPERA ROLE

Group From Jerseyville to Hold Reception After "My Maryland" Performance.

A backstage reception for Louis Cassavant, who is taking the role of Col. Negley in this week's production, "My Maryland," at the Municipal Opera, will be held Friday evening at the Municipal Theater by residents of Jerseyville, Ill., Cassavant's former home.

The gathering is sponsored by the Jersey County Society of St. Louis. A block of seats has been set aside for the Jerseyville party.

Cassavant, a nephew of Mrs. Nellie Porter of Jerseyville, took the role of Col. Negly in the original production of the operetta and had the same part at the Shubert-Rialto Theater in 1929.

MIDDAY BARGAIN CARFARE CONTINUED FOURTH WEEK

Company Considers Results of Trial Justify Its Continuance Temporarily.

Trial of the midday bargain carfare will be continued by the Public Service Co. for a fourth week, starting tomorrow. The rate is two rides for 10 cents between 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. The company considers results in the first three weeks of the experiment justify further test of the plan but do not yet warrant its permanent adoption.

The company's records show the number of passengers during the midday period has been increased more than 30 per cent over the daily average just before the trial was started, while there has been little change in the total of receipts in that period. There has been a corresponding increase in the number of passengers for the 24-hour day with no material change in total revenue.

FAIRY TALE PAGEANTS AT 46 PLAYGROUNDS

Productions Starting Tuesday to Be Given Five Days a Week Until Aug. 15.

Pageants of fairy tales and other stories for children will be presented at 46 public school playgrounds beginning Tuesday and continuing daily, except Saturdays and Sundays, until Aug. 15.

About 6000 children will take part in the pageants to be staked as one of the features of school playground summer activities, which will end with the pageants. Doll shows, pet shows, games, and parties have been included in the summer program.

The pageants will consist mainly of pantomime and dancing, portraying favorite stories among children. Among the themes adopted are "Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp," "The Snow Queen," "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," "Alice in Wonderland," "The Wizard of Oz," "Beauty and the Beast," "Raggedy Ann," and others.

More than 125 children will take part in each of the local playground pageants. All participating also will appear in the pageant "Robin Hood," which will be held Aug. 26 at the Public Schools Stadium, as part of the annual festival which brings the school playground season to a close.

The steps and routines to be used in presenting the local pageants have been taught to the children day by day in their dancing classes. In order to make each pageant completely a children's presentation, the children have been allowed to make their own costumes and to plan their own staging.

Settings have been devised by the children and at several play centers, it is planned to use the terraced lawn of the school as a stage. The first pageants will be presented 8 p. m. Tuesday at the Elliot and Fanning Schools.

The playgrounds are under the general direction of Rodowe H. Abeken, supervisor of recreation for the Board of Education. Miss Corinne Hachtman is in charge of the dancing and pageantry activities.

GROUP TO SELL SEASON BOXES FOR OPERA IN AUDITORIUM

Business Men Announce Price of $5 a Seat for Each Performance.

A group of men has been formed to sell season subscriptions for boxes at the new Municipal Auditorium for a proposed season of grand opera next year. It consists of L. W. Baldwin, Edward A. Faust, Henry W. Kiel, F. B. Eiseman, Frank M. Mayfield and Daniel G. Taylor.

There are to be 20 boxes in the music hall of the auditorium building. The price per box seat for the opera season will be $5 for each performance. After disposal of the box seats, another group will sell "patron's circle" orchestra seats. The season of 10 performances is being promoted by Guy Golterman.

The Symphony Society has been invited to have its orchestra participate in the productions. Golterman has announced that a chorus of 100 voices and a ballet of 60 persons would be recruited locally. He said Claudia Muzio, dramatic soprano, is under option to sing and that the leading tenor would be Beniamino Gigli or Mario Chamlee. The auditorium is expected to be finished early next year.

FUNERAL OF T. S. WILLIAMS

Services for Retired Manager of Candy Company.

Funeral services for Thomas S. Williams, 76 years old, former executive and sales manager of the old Blanke-Wenneker Candy Co., will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at his home, 5135 Maple avenue. Burial will take place in Valhalla Cemetery. Mr. Williams died of pneumonia Friday night. He had been ill for six months. Born at Kimmswick, Mo., he came to St. Louis when a young man and for two years conducted a grocery on the site where Hotel Statler now stands. He with with the Blanke-Wenneker Co. for 22 years and retired 15 years ago.

FOUR LECTURES AT Y. M. H. A.

Dr. A. L. Sachar to Speak on "Society's Changing Skyline."

Under the title, "Society's Changing Skyline," Dr. A. L. Sachar, formerly professor of history at the University of Illinois, and at present national director of Hillel Foundations, will deliver a course of four lectures on the roof garden of the Y. M.-Y. W. H. A., Union and Enright, beginning Monday at 8:30 p. m. The subject for the first discussion is "Our Mistakes of Yesterday."

The other lectures to take place on the following three Monday evenings are: "Some Contemporary Immortals," "Shrines of the Mighty" and "The Cardboard Napoleons of Europe."

Elliott Roosevelts Start West.
By the Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Tex., July 29.—Elliott Roosevelt and his bride left at noon today in a motor car for their new home in California. Before leaving, the President's son signed a consumer's card and placed an N. R. A. sticker on the windshield of his car. Roosevelt said he expected to enter the manufacturing business.

HUMANE SOCIETY IN PLEA FOR FUNDS

Less Than $4000 of $20,000 Needed to Carry on Work Pledged.

Claude E. Vrooman, general chairman of the Humane Society's Emergency Fund Solicitation, has issued an appeal for contributions on the premise that curtailment in the more important services of the organization would be necessary unless funds were forthcoming. He mentioned specifically the work of the society in protecting the public from rabid animals.

"A drawback to the success of our emergency campaign seems to be a general popular impression that the Humane Society is supported by the city," Vrooman said. "Many have replied to our appeal by saying they saw no reason to give to the society, 'now that it has the dog licensing and city dog pound work.' This erroneous impression apparently is due to the stories published shortly after the inauguration of Mayor Dickmann, when the Mayor issued a statement, in which he graciously offered to help the Humane Society by giving us this work.

"Legal obstacles, however, prevented this admirable plan from going into effect. Consequently we were thrown back on our own limited resources, and we should like to emphasize that the Humane Society does not receive any support, whatever, from the City of St. Louis, the State of Missouri or any of the relief agencies; but is supported wholly by a small group of kindly disposed persons.

"Our campaign has been fully under way now for six weeks, but contributions do not even total $4000. We need $20,000 to carry us through this emergency. We appeal to those able to do so to contribute, so that we might carry on our work, which is a necessary service to the public as well as to animals. Many families would be sorrowing over the loss of a departed member were it not for the prompt service rendered by the Humane Society in calling for rabid animals. We do not want to curtail this important service to the public; but may be forced to do so unless financial assistance is forthcoming."

SUIT TO CONSTRUE WILL OF GEORGE WARREN BROWN

Shoe Company Directors Seek Ruling on Pension Fund Provisions.

Members of the Board of Directors of the Brown Shoe Co. filed a petition yesterday in Circuit Court seeking construction of the section of the will of George Warren Brown, founder of the firm, establishing a pension fund for infirm and needy employes of the organization.

Brown, who died in 1921, left 500 shares of company stock in trust with the directors of the firm as a foundation for the pension fund, proceeds of which were to be devoted to employes "in need" after 30 years' service.

Alleging the section of the will establishing the trust is "indefinite and ambiguous" as to their powers, the directors ask that the terms of the will pertaining to administration of the fund be construed by the court with a view to determining their powers and duties as trustees; to determine the interest of possible beneficiaries, and to affirm acts already taken by the trustees.

An inventory of the fund, included in the petition, shows it now includes 1900 shares of Brown Shoe common stock and $3209 in cash. The largest beneficiary listed is Emil Haas, Dade City, Fla., who has received $10,000 in pension. Suit of Achille Regna, 1416 Hogan street, for participation in the fund, has been settled, the petition sets forth, Regna having received $500 for his attorneys and to date $700 in pension.

RETAILERS TO MEET AUG. 7

Fashion Show to Be Given Three Evenings.

Retailers from every state will gather in St. Louis next week for the twentieth semi-annual convention of the American Retailers' Association, Aug. 7 to 14, at Hotel Jefferson.

A fashion show managed by Major Levy will be produced on the evenings of Aug. 7, 9 and 11. Members will attend the Municipal Opera performance of "Beau Brummell" on the night of Aug. 10. Local arrangements are being handled by Michael Levy, chairman of the Program Committee, and Scott R. DeKins, secretary of the association.

RED CROSS WAREHOUSE LOOTED

Orderly Crowd in Mississippi Takes $1,000 in Supplies.
By the Associated Press.

LAUREL, MISS., July 29.—Breaking through doors and windows, a crowd estimated at 100 persons looted the Smith County Red Cross warehouse at Taylorsville of $1,000 in relief supplies yesterday, Red Cross officials were advised today.

The raid, without violence, was caused, said county Red Cross authorities, by a false report that a distribution of flour, overalls, sheeting and other supplies would be made.

Urges Boycott by Club Women.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, today urged all members not to patronize as far as possible establishments "who seek a temporary advantage by failing to sign the President's re-employment agreement."

150 IN INDIAN PAGEANT AT SCOUT CAMP TODAY

Event Will Close Two-Week Section at Irondale Reservation.

The annual Indian pageant, which has become a feature of the boy scout summer camp at the Irondale scout reservation, will be held today at 2 p. m. with more than 150 scouts and adult leaders participating.

The pageant will close a special two-week section of the camp during which the scouts have devoted their entire time to a study of Indian lore and customs. The Indian section has become the most popular division of the camp.

The pageant, directed by Morton Pareira, has been adapted from John Joseph Mathews' "Wahkontah," which pictures the life of Maj. Laban J. Miles, a former Government agent of the Pawhuska Reservation and an uncle of former President Herbert Hoover.

Mathews, an Osage Indian and a holder of degrees from the University of Oklahoma and Oxford, shows in his book the doomed culture of the Osages and what Maj. Miles did to preserve it. Scouts will dramatize this in six scenes and five interludes.

The role of Maj. Miles will be played by Ernest N. Birge, field executive of the West District. Others in the cast are: H. Max Nusser, field executive of the North District; Scouts J. C. Strauss II, Sidney Prince, Robert Morath, Robert Mueller, Robert Fifield, Don Huey, Edward Marshall, Don Lorenz, Charles Lorenz, Pete White and Harry Siemer. Clare Tallman, camp chaplain, will take the part of the Oracle, announcing and explaining the various scenes.

The scouts have been better trained for their pageant this year than ever before. Last spring Ralph Hubbard, son of Elbert Hubbard, and a student of Indian lore, came to St. Louis and instructed the scouts for four weeks in Indian dances just before the annual circus.

The fourth section of the camp will start tomorrow when more than 100 boys will go there from St. Louis. Some will stay over from the previous section. For the two weeks beginning tomorrow, scouts will concentrate on pioneering features and will practice the building of log cabins, huts and towers to be used in the merit badge show and circus.

Troop Notes

Scouts from Troop 17, First United Presbyterian Church, are attending the camp at the Irondale Reservation in a body, accompanied by their scoutmaster, James S. Butler Jr. The following scouts are in the groups: Jim Hodge, Harry Jones, Jon Bonner, Frank Edwards, Charles Hamlin, Bob Maack, Richard Stoughton, Charles Shaffner and George Geissing.

Troop 219, St. Marcus 'Church, was presented with an American flag last Sunday night by the Hassendeubel and Ransom posts of the Women's Relief Corps, an auxiliary of the G. A. R. The presentation commemorated the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the corps.

Last Saturday the Girl Scouts at Mount Pleasant School entertained Boy Scout Troop 68, also connected with the school, at a wiener roast. This week-end the troop is on a hike to Falling Springs, Ill. Seven of the troop's scouts worked for a day at the International Lions convention.

Frederick See of Troop 174, Zion Methodist Episcopal Church, received commendation at a recent troop court of honor for his promptness in applying a tourniquet to the injured foot of his friend, William Prichard. A letter from Mrs. Prichard was read expressing gratitude for the boy's work.

William had cut his foot on a piece of glass in a swimming pool. Frederick applied a towel tourniquet, ran for his first aid kit, dressed the wound, and applied a more efficent tourniquet. Frederick is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer L. See, 309 West Ripa avenue, St. Louis County.

East St. Louis Boy Scout executives met last week to discuss the opening of their scout camp, Camp Vandeventer, near Waterloo, the week of Aug. 9. The fall and winter scout program was also mapped out. Twenty-two boys have already signed up for the camp.

World Jamboree Troop.

The St. Louis scout contingent going to the World Jamboree was met in Venice, Italy, last Friday by Col. H. D. McBride, scout commissioner of the St. Louis Council and head of the entire American encampment at the Jamboree. From Venice the troop proceeded to Vienna and Budapest and Tuesday it will encamp at Godollo, 17 miles out of Budapest.

Both the National Broadcasting Co. and the Columbia Broadcasting System have announced that they will broadcast the opening ceremonies of the Jamboree on Wednesday morning. The broadcast is scheduled to come through at 9:30 a. m. St. Louis time, probably over KWK and KMOX.

Reindeer as Draft Animals.

EX-ST. LOUISAN HEADS VINCENTIAN FATHERS

Father Souvay, Formerly of Kenrick Seminary, First American to Hold Post.

The Very Rev. Charles L. Souvay, former president of Kenrick Seminary, has been elected General of the Vincentian Fathers throughout the world, the Rev. S. P. Hueber, pastor of St. Vincent de Paul Church, was informed in a cablegram received yesterday from Paris.

Father Souvay went to Paris a year ago, after 29 years at Kenrick Seminary, during the last six of which he was its president. Although born in France, he is a naturalized citizen of the United States, and is the first American to head the order in the 315 years of its history.

As its General, he will have supervision over its 4000 priests, 2000 brothers and 40,000 Sisters of Charity, with whom the Congregation of the Missions, as the Vincentian Fathers are properly known, is affiliated.

After leaving Kenrick Seminary, Father Souvay became assistant to the General of the Order, representing its English-speaking communities throughout the world.

THE GREATEST ART SHOW EVER ASSEMBLED IN AMERICA

The Extraordinary Means That Were Used in Collecting the Exhibit Now Running in Connection With Chicago's "Century of Progress Exposition" and the Equally Extraordinary Precautions Being Taken to Guard the Treasures Contained Therein.

By M. W. CHILDS

Of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

CHICAGO.

IF Chicago's world's fair were to close up tomorrow, there would remain a show such as America has never seen before nor very likely soon will see again.

It is housed, this extraordinary show, in the Art Institute on Michigan avenue. Technically it is a part of "A Century of Progress Exposition," the fine arts division. But really it is the work of one man, Robert B. Harshe, director of the Art Institute. It was Harshe who put together this collection of works of art—the greatest that America has ever seen.

It was Harshe's genius and profound knowledge that assembled the paintings—representing a comprehensive history of art over five centuries—from every corner of the United States, from more than 200 private collections and 31 museums. He was ably assisted by Daniel C. Rich, curator of paintings and many others on the museum's staff, and by Chauncey McCormick, official chairman of the art committee of the fair, who again and again pulled wires to get pictures from private collectors.

The show is proof that America need no longer depend upon Europe either for the art of the past or the art of the present. It is in effect America's artistic declaration of independence. Four years ago promoters for the fair went to Europe and asked the directors of the principal European galleries for the loan of pictures for the Chicago exposition. There was an almost unanimous no, a very high-hat no. Send pictures, valuable pictures, to Chicago? To Chicago where the air is thick with bullets? Never, said the museum directors of Europe.

In the face of this refusal, Chicago has demonstrated that there can be put together from wholly American sources such a comprehensive art show as Paris or London might be proud to claim. Of the 1227 pictures and works of sculpture there is hardly a one—always excluding contemporary work, of course—which the authorities of the Louvre might not be willing to hang in that world famed gallery. The only painting borrowed from Europe is Whistler's portrait of his mother, from the Louvre, and that is the work of an American artist. This picture was shown in St. Louis during April.

The museum directors in Europe had good grounds for their apprehensions. Chicago is a city of spectacular crimes and spectacular criminals. The great treasure that has been gathered under the roof of the Art Institute is an overwhelming responsibility. The value of the works loaned by private individuals and museums is estimated at between $75,000,000 and $100,000,000. And that is a conservative, post-boom estimate. There are a number of pictures which are insured for a half million each.

ABOUT the time the collection was being assembled, there occurred, as though in warning, the Brooklyn Museum theft in which 10 valuable paintings were stolen without a clew left behind by the thieves. To avoid any such calamity, Harshe has taken the most elaborate precautions. The number of guards has been doubled and they are all armed with pistols and tear gas bombs. For the regular guards, who have never carried pistols before, there is routine target practice. Each night when the last visitor has gone and the doors are barred and locked, German shepherd dogs, more commonly called police dogs, are turned loose to make sure that no person has concealed himself in any part of the museum. These dogs do police duty through the night, supplementing the regular force of guards. Many private collectors, whose pictures are on public display for the first time in this show, loaned their art treasures on condition that such special measures be taken.

Behind the present exhibit is the determination of a few men in Chicago to put on a first-class art exhibit. In previous world's fairs art has come off rather badly. It was the custom, followed in Chicago in 1893 and in St. Louis in 1904, to ask the individual governments participating to supply their own fine arts sections in their own buildings. The result was sad. Those artists who had the best political connections were the ones whose work was chosen for exhibition. This, it is scarcely necessary to add, did not make for the highest standards.

The directors of the present fair were determined at the outset to avoid that mistake. They began with the grandiose idea of bringing most of the finest paintings from the chief European galleries to Chicago for a colossal show. But that idea ran up against many obstacles.

Then the directors decided to turn the problem of an art exhibit over to Harshe. Born in Salisbury, Missouri, in 1879, a graduate of the University of Missouri and teacher there of fine arts in 1905 and '06, Harshe has been director of the Art Institute since 1922. Under his direction it has increased every phase of its activity. In the late summer of 1929 Harshe went abroad to arrange the details of an exhibition, the central plan of which had long been taking shape in his mind.

THE concept was as bold in its scope as that of the directors. Director Harshe proposed to build a permanent new wing to the Art Institute and in this new wing he would place the best contemporary art of each nation. He went from country to country in Europe, interviewing the leading mural painters, designers and architects. He proposed to bring them to Chicago and to pay them for executing their work.

Director Harshe worked out this plan down to small details. It was to be not only a great exhibit for the fair, but when the fair was over and forgotten, the new wing of the Institute was to stand as a Bad dreams are usually related to fancied dangers which are visualized in this trick photograph made by Lynnwood Chace. The insects shown are magnified locusts.

SCIENCE LOOKS INTO THE FEARS AND HOPES OF CHILDHOOD

Experts believe that the mind of a sleeping child is filled with all the material of a child's waking life, including all of the child's fantastic imaginings.

What a Questionnaire, Submitted to 400 Children Between the Ages of Five and Twelve, Revealed to the Child Development Institute of Columbia University.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

A NEW exploration of the child mind has been carried out by Dr. Arthur J. Jersild of the Child Development Institute of Teachers College, Columbia University, New York, assisted by Miss Frances V. Markey and Mrs. Catherine L. Jersild. Four hundred boys and girls between the ages of 5 and 12 were questioned, individually and privately, about such things as what they wanted most, what they feared, what they dreamed about and what ambitions they had. The answers give an interesting insight into how a youngster regards the world.

One of the questions was: "If you had a wish, and your wish could come true, what would you wish?" Some of the more mature children wished for money or ability. But the best thing one little fellow could imagine happening to him was to have a whole turkey leg to eat. Another little boy reluctantly admitted that he wished to be a girl—"because Mother'd rather I was a girl." He was the only boy who wanted to change his sex, although 23 girls wanted to be boys.

These New York children feared many things, but there was little mention of the common dangers of city life such as being struck by automobiles, getting lost or having to fight the young toughs of the streets. They feared lions, alligators, gorillas, sharks, tigers, giraffes, bees and "spooky" things—ghosts, witches, devils, skeletons. They mentioned in this connection mystery movies and stories dealing with murders and the supernatural. A surprisingly large number told of apparently deliberate attempts to frighten them. "Mother puts a sheet over her head and comes at me," said one child. Another said, "Mother says bogey would get me." A third told of being scared when someone opened eyes wide and made clawing motions.

Of the 400, only three said they were afraid of particular people or objects, only 15 of traffic accidents, six of rough games and children, five of falling off high places.

Children's fears seem to be born chiefly of imagination or of the yarns told to them and seen by them in the movies. They have very little relation to the previous unpleasant experiences of the youngsters. This is shown by the "worst happenings" described.

Almost three-fourths of the children named physical injury, accident, or illness and narrow escape from these as the worst thing that ever happened to them. Pulled teeth were mentioned, and being dragged by a horse, broken bones, cuts, automobile accidents, appendix operations, and falling. But no lions or tigers. In fact, only seven had ever been attacked by animals at all, or "almost" attacked by them. Eight mentioned severe beatings, whippings, or other corporal punishments. Only four youngsters were so impressed by school failure and bad reports.

Apparently children do not worry about unfortunate social situations that embarrass their parents. Although many had felt the pinch of poverty very severely, very few mentioneed fear of it or listed ridicule, lack of proper clothing, hunger, or other such situations born of deprivation among either their fears or their worst happenings.

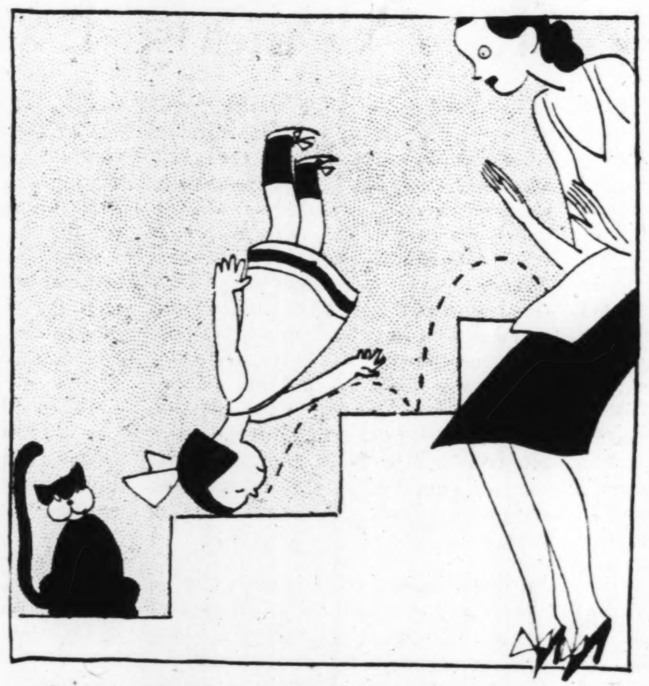
Neither do they worry about scoldings, or lack of ability. The children who wish for mental ability are those who already have more than the average.

What is the stuff that dreams are made of? Apparently, for children at least, they are built up from anything that may happen to the child in his waking hours. The common, everyday occurrences are represented, and so also are his fancies, fears, and all those things he imagines.

Dreams told of by a great number of children were those picturing amusements, sports, games and play. Such accounts as "I was to a Christmas tree," "I had a party in the kitchen," "I went to a circus," or "I was riding on a horse," were numerous.

Movie characters and those of the comic strip of the newspaper, people the dreams of a number of children. "Peter Pan came in the window," one youngster dreamed. Others told of seeing cowboys, Joe E. Brown and Rip Van Winkle.

In dreams children view again movies of mystery and violence. The "Galloping Ghost" chases them, shooting and fighting is going on all around them as they lie asleep. Many told of dreaming of the commonplace happenings of everyday life: "I'm getting up in the morning and getting dressed," "Mother was setting the table," and so on.



Comical incongruities often creep into childish dreams as in the case of a little girl who dreamed she walked on her nose.

The youngest ones see fairies dancing, Santa Claus, snow men and Easter bunnies. And those comical incongruities that nearly every adult can remember as creeping into his dreams once in a while are also known to children. Here are a few samples:

"I walked on my nose."

"Yellow pillow case was walking."

Children, too, are familiar with that nightmare of feeling powerless, or unable to move.

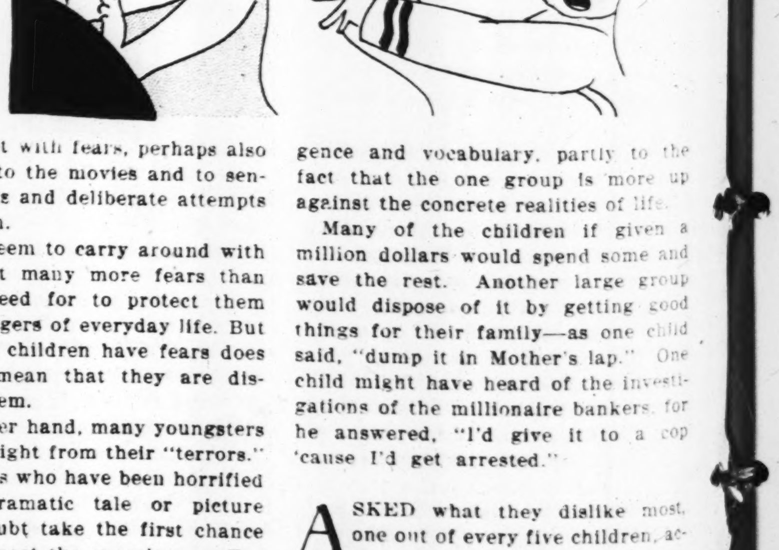
"I couldn't run away when the red train came after me," one related. "I'm on the track, train comes and I can't get away," another said.

No evidence was found for any particular theory of dreams. The theory is held by some psychologists that in dreams a person fulfills his hidden wishes. Some of the dreams of the children questioned were of a character that would fit in with this idea—those which dealt with finding things, having possessions, having adventures and being heroic, and enjoying amusements and pleasures. But the total number of such dreams was a good deal less than half of those reported.

Bad dreams far outnumber good dreams in the descriptions given by the children, and the bad dreams, like the children's fears, are related more to fancied dangers and imaginary experiences than to any actual experiences.

When asked whether they had more unpleasant dreams than pleasant ones, the children said the pleasant ones predominated. But still a great number of them insisted that they did not want to dream any more. It would seem that a bad dream is often so horrifying that many children would gladly forfeit any number of good dreams if they could be free from the whole business of dreaming.

Poor children seemed to have more dreams than did the children in better circumstances. This was due, it appeared, to the facts that the poor children attend exciting moving pictures oftener and sleep in more disturbed, crowded and noisy surroundings.



For some children the pulling of teeth was their worst experience.

Poor children likewise are apt to be more beset with fears, perhaps also attributable to the movies and to sensational yarns and deliberate attempts to scare them.

Children seem to carry around with them a great many more fears than they have need for to protect them from the dangers of everyday life. But the fact that children have fears does not always mean that they are distressed by them.

On the other hand, many youngsters get a real delight from their "terrors." Boys and girls who have been horrified by a melodramatic tale or picture would no doubt take the first chance offered to repeat the experience. For that matter, there are adults who shriek with terror in the swift descent of a roller-coaster, but willingly hand over another dime for the thrill of a second trip. Even little children in a nursery school will make up games in which they take turns scaring each other by playing "bogey man" or "lions" and "tigers." Each will shriek with terror when he is scared, but will keep right on with the game.

The poorer children differ from those better off financially in wishes, also. Those from the poorer neighborhoods wish for specific objects, while the wishes of the wealthier ones are more comprehensive. This seems to be due partly to a difference in intelligence and vocabulary, partly to the fact that the one group is more up against the concrete realities of life.

Many of the children if given a million dollars would spend some and save the rest. Another large group would dispose of it by getting good things for their family—as one child said, "dump it in Mother's lap." One child might have heard of the investigations of the millionaire bankers, for he answered, "I'd give it to a cop 'cause I'd get arrested."

ASKED what they dislike most, one out of every five children, according to Dr. Jersild's findings, will reply with the name of some food or taste, such as spinach, or castor oil, or liver. If he is a very bright child, he is more likely to indicate that he dislikes inactivity or having his own activities interrupted. He doesn't want to be bothered, and doesn't want to go to bed early.

Most of the others will mention individuals or groups of individuals. One child in this New York group disliked twins. "They call you names and they are dumb," he said. Cousins were mentioned and the "person who keeps on telling you the same thing all the time." Other aversions were fresh people, bullies, snobs, stubborn teachers and children who say "Shut up."

IF EVER someone publishes a case book of the depression to illustrate the grotesque and fantastic effects of enforced poverty upon the relations of people normally industrious and reasonably honest, he might do worse than scan the bare facts of a case that was settled in Family Court here a few days ago, in which a young married woman, with the consent of her jobless husband, lived with another man who promised to provide for her and her skinny, undernourished 4-year-old child.

The man and wife were faced, not with a fine theory, but with a blunt, primitive condition — hunger. They had turned to relatives and relief agencies for aid without getting it. Judge Carl Duveneck, considering these circumstances, patched up the tear in the marital fabric without putting anyone in jail and without waxing moralistic for the benefit of the tabloids. His solution of the problem was made possible by the fact that a job for the husband had come along, paying all of $8 a week.

Raymond Parks met his wife, Lillian, in a macaroni factory in Jersey City five years ago. After their marriage she continued to work until the time came for her to go home and await the arrival of her child. Raymond plugged along at the macaroni factory, feeling secure in his $18-a-week job and the future of the country. The couple moved to Newark and there Raymond Jr. was born.

WHEN the market took its high dive in 1929—and missed the tank—the Parks family started sitting out with the rest of the country and waiting for the day, which, they were assured, was not far off, when business would pick up and, as the macaroni king said, all those who had been laid off would get their jobs back. The Parks bank account for the baby's education was kept intact—it wouldn't have paid for a semester at a barber college—and Raymond Parks began scouting around for a temporary job. Raymond Parks found that a lot of other fellows were scouting around for temporary jobs, too, and this made his task difficult. But with much walking and much patience and much ironing of trousers and cleaning of neckties, he finally landed something—a job as short-order cook in what, in this section, is known as a "coffee pot." He learned the trick of flipping eggs in the skillet without the use of a flipping instrument and cooking four orders of toast on a two-order toaster. He didn't get a lot of money, but was encouraged by the belief his job was waiting for him at the factory as soon as the country turned the corner.

Presently the regular short-order cook came back and Parks had to go. To trace the fortunes of the family from this point would be to record a maze of discouragement, hunger and desperation, with no pattern to it whatever. There were temporary jobs in other coffee pots and then long periods of unemployment and it at last got to a point in July a year ago where the money in the bank ran out completely. Lillian went to her mother and her brothers and sisters in Jersey City, but they had been hit hard, too, and were unable or unwilling to help. With the youngster losing weight from lack of nourishing food, Parks swallowed the last vestige of pride that was left and applied for food tickets at a public agency. The agency reported, after a thorough investigation, that it was sorry, but it could not grant relie to a family which had been residen less than five years. The agency reported, after a thorough investigation, that it was sorry, but it could not grant relief to a family which had been resident less than five years. Parks left the furnished room one morning and said he was going across to New York and stay until he got a job.

His wife didn't hear from him for several days and began looking for work herself. She, too, landed in a Newark coffee pot, at 50 cents a day and tips. As she tied her apron in preparation for the first day's work she glanced at the salad counter and beheld the smiling face of an old beau, Frank Coffey. Frank was 37 years old, Lillian was 24 and her husband 26. Frank was friendly and glad to see her again after all these years. What had she been doing with herself and all that?

He began calling in the evenings and soon developed a fondness for the boy, now 4 years old. Kept talking about what a kid ought to have and what he would do for him if he were the father. And no word came from Raymond Parks, who was tramping New York's famed sidewalks by day and sleeping on benches and in the subway by night. As the days dragged on, Coffey abandoned pretentions of philanthropy and made an active bid for Mrs. Parks' affections. He told her what his $14 a week would do for her and the boy and said if she didn't come and live with him for her own sake, she ought to do it for the boy's sake. By October she gave in.

Explaining it to Judge Duveneck, she said: "I wouldn't do it again, even if we had to starve. I love my husband and I would never go with anyone else. But last fall conditions were very bad for us. The baby was starving. He hadn't had milk for days and I didn't know which way to turn. I appealed to my mother and my brothers and sisters in Jersey City, but they would not help. The city would not put us on the poor list because we hadn't lived here for five years. The only way to save the baby that I could see was to go to live with Frank Coffey for a while."

A few days after she moved to Coffey's quarters, her husband returned from New York, still jobless. Tracing her to Coffey's place during the afternoon, he was told what had been done. Shocked at first, he departed, agreeing that his wife had taken the only avenue left open to her.

"We talked over what to do and he agreed to let me stay there," Mrs. Parks told the Court. "It was difficult for us, in love with each other, to be separated, but, for the baby's sake, we did it."

Prosperity hit Parks this spring, though, and with $8 a week he started making clandestine calls on his own wife in the other man's home.

THE Broadway humor of this situation did not appeal to the serious young pair, who were only too happy to see each other, even furtively. Parks left as much money as he could spare and he told her to buy something for the baby with it.

It was this pittance he left each week that led to the uncovering of the secret dates of the legally married persons. For instead of buying something for the child, Mrs. Parks bought a suit for her husband. And Frank Coffey found the strange suit in his closet and demanded to know about it.

"I know," he said, with his lip curling at the duplicity, "you've been seeing your husband when I was not at home."

There was nothing to do but plead guilty, and for some time there was bad blood in the Coffey menage. A week later the woman told him that she and her husband had decided to return to each other. They could get a room for $4 a week and live on the other $4. And when Coffey came home one night he found the place empty.

Enraged, Coffey strode grimly to the nearest police station.

"I want a man and a woman arrested," he said.

"Who?" asked the Lieutenant.

"Raymond Parks and his wife."

"What for?"

"He took her away from me."

"He took his wife?"——

"Yes. She said she'd live with me if I took care of her kid, and Parks said it was all right. And here I come home tonight and she's gone back to him. That's prett lousy, ain't it?"

The Lieutenant scratched his head

"It's pretty lousy," he said, "but maybe not the way you think. Say, let me tell you, fellow, if you have them pinched you'll have to be pinched, too. You've all violated the law."

"O K," Coffey said. "I want justice."

So the Parkses and Coffey spent a night in the jail, Parks charged with violation of the child welfare act and Mrs. Parks and Coffey with a statutory offense.

Judge Duveneck put them all on probation and told Coffey to stay away from the Parks door.

He Writes "Sweetheart" Songs While Awaiting Execution

How Paul Kauffman Found a New Vocation After Being Convicted of the Murder of a Young Girl.

KANSAS CITY, Missouri.

BEFORE Paul Kauffman goes to the gallows—and he is condemned to go there pretty soon for the murder of a young girl—he hopes to write enough "sweetheart" songs to provide an income for his mother for the balance of her life. He is in the Jackson County Jail here waiting for his execution and is putting in his time in a manner most extraordinary for a condemned criminal, turning out one sentimental love song after another. The walls of his cell are covered with music staffs, where he has worked out a bar of this tune or that as it has come into his mind. He has been at this task since last winter and has turned out lyrics and music for 10 or a dozen songs, five of which are considered good enough for publication. These are now in the hands of a New York publisher and are expected to be on the market in a short time.

With his record as a vicious criminal on the one hand and his tender lyrics on the other, Paul Kauffman is an anomaly that the authorities here can't quite make out. How the same man could murder a young girl without provocation and then turn out tear-jerking ballads and lyrics about home and mother and sweethearts and kisses and moonlight is a poser for them. Kauffman himself explains it and it is not such a bad explanation, either. He says it was the same sentimentality, the same emotional instability, at work in both cases. It was an emotional storm that led him to kill Avis Woolery two years ago, he relates. Now other emotional storms provide the urge that expresses itself in these dripping lyrics.

"I have always been too emotional and too sentimental," the prisoner declares. "That is mostly to blame for the trouble I'm in now."

The murder of Avis Woolery, for which Kauffman is to be hanged in September, unless the Supreme Court again sets aside his conviction, occurred in August of 1930. It was a murder of the most fiendish type. Kauffman lured the 17-year-old high school girl here from her home in Webb City, Missouri, through an advertisement asking for a nursemaid to care for his "little brother." He met her at Union Station, took her to a secluded section of Swope Park and there attacked and strangled her, burying her body in a shallow grave under the roots of a fallen tree.

On the day after her disappearance, Kauffman was arrested on a charge of attacking another girl, 15 years old. He was convicted and was already under sentence of two years in prison when, about the middle of October, Avis Woolery's body was found and suspicion, which had rested on him throughout the search for the missing girl, was confirmed. He confessed the crime, was indicted and brought to trial within two weeks. His conviction and sentence of death, however, were set aside by the State Supreme Court on the ground that the defense had not been allowed sufficient time to prepare a case.

HIS second trial took place in May of last year, and again he drew the death penalty. A second appeal has been filed with the Supreme Court, but Kauffman's chances for another reversal are considered small. At any rate, they are not great enough to explain his recent burst into song as the expression of a rising hope.

It was not until last Christmas that Kauffman undertook song writing. He knew something of music. He had sung in a choir in his youth back in Columbia, Pennsylvania, had learned to play the organ and had had some band experience, but the idea of composing his own tunes and writing them down had not occurred to him. Just before Christmas he was discovered trying to escape through a hole he had punched in the ceiling of the cell house and was put in solitary confinement. In solitary he got his inspiration for song writing and turned to that activity in an effort to forget himself. He first tried snappy "hotcha" numbers, but when he found he couldn't work himself into a suitable frame of mind for anything so lively he turned to songs of sentiment, and since then his output has been heavy.

"The first few weeks of solitary confinement were terrible," he relates now. "I thought of a lot of things I hadn't thought of for years. For one thing, I began to think about my mother back in Columbia, Pennsylvania. I knew she was having a hard time making a living and that I ought to be helping her, especially in this time of depression, when everybody in the family is out of a job. I decided then and there to try to get a few songs published so she might have the royalties. I would try to hit upon new tunes and would write down snatches of them on the cell wall as they came to me. My first song was worked out that way entirely."

In keeping with the impulse to be of some belated assistance to his mother, Kauffman's first attempt was a "mother song," filled with tears and sadness. The title was, "It's You, Dear Old Mother (I'm Calling for You)." The words are:

I called to you out of my cradle.
You heeded with love and care;
Through the years of my youth 'twas just the same;
When I called you were always there.
And now, though I've grown into manhood,
And tussled with life in her lair,
The call of a child is still in my heart,
For I call to you now in despair.

CHORUS.

Oh, mother; oh, mother, I'm needing you now;
My heart breaks from heartaches as fate makes it bow;
The friends who I thought would stand by my side
Have drifted away like weeds with the tide;
So I call once again to the only one true.
It's you, dear old mother; I'm calling for you.

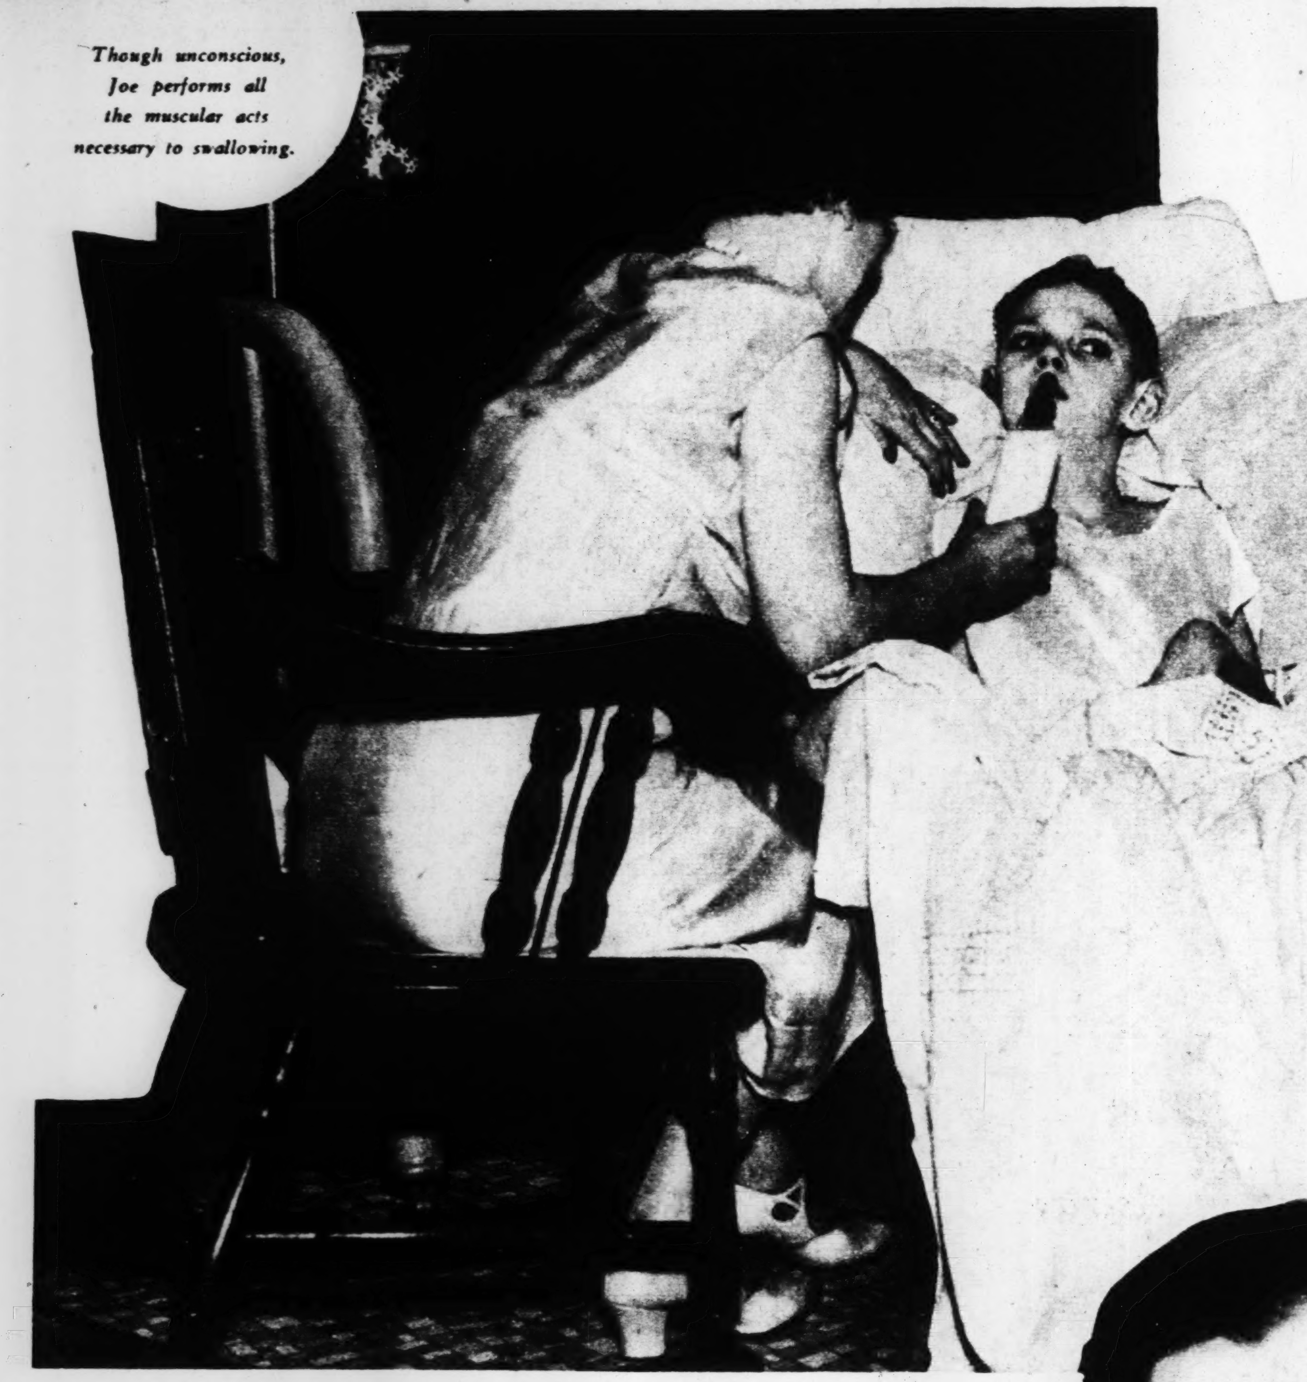
Kauffman sent a copy of this song to Judge Ben Terte, who presided at one of his trials for the Woolery murder, and the Judge, after engaging the services of a professional composer to judge it, sent it to a New York publisher, who agreed to take it on a contract which will provide a royalty of 3 cents a copy for Kauffman or his estate.

SEVERAL other songs of a sentimental nature, most of them having to do with sweethearts and romance, are now in the hands of this same publisher. One caled "Until Then, Sweetheart Mine" is rated as possibly his best composition so far, and "Just Another Kiss Before You Go" has also had favorable mention. Part of this song is reproduced on this page. The love songs, Kauffman says, were mostly inspired by girls he had known before he met Avis Woolery.

"Most of the tunes came to me at night," he relates, "when I couldn't sleep and lay tossing on my bunk. I can think of my best tunes at night, when the jail is quiet and the other prisoners have stopped their talking and yelling. Writing them helps me pass away the time, and that is something, but my main idea is to make a little money. Every cent I get for them will go to my mother. I have caused her enough grief. I am making an effort now to lighten some of her financial troubles in her old age."

ASLEEP FOR TWENTY MONTHS

The Unconscious Existence of Little Joe Huggins Who Has Resisted the Efforts of an Array of Doctors to Wake Him Up.



Though unconscious, Joe performs all the muscular acts necessary to swallowing.

MEMPHIS, Tennessee.

NINE-YEAR-OLD Joe Huggins has been asleep for 20 months. His last two birthdays, the last two Christmases, the last two July Fourths and, for nearly two years, all the other festive occasions so important to small boys, he has missed, wrapped in the unconsciousness of lethargic encephalitis, or sleeping sickness. An imposing array of doctors has been unable to rescue him from the disease.

Joe's coma began on October 21, 1931. He became drowsy that day, and his family thought he had a fever. He was taken to the General Hospital here. But even after he became unconscious no great alarm was felt. Doctors thought he would come out of the stupor in a few hours, or a few days at the most.

But days became weeks and weeks became months, and the youngster failed to waken. Every medical authority in the city was called in to diagnose the case. Physicians from other cities came, too—from Chicago, St. Louis, and even one from Los Angeles. X-ray pictures of the boy's brain and vital organs were taken. None showed any abnormality. But it was established that he was a victim of the dread disease, sleeping sickness. And none of the local or visiting medical men could offer an effective remedy

Several months after entering the hospital Joe was moved to the home of Mrs. W. J. Rider. His father, an invalid, was unable to look after him. A young aunt, Miss Sue Bidwell, had given the boy devoted attention, spending most of her time at his bedside; but her health had begun to fail and doctors had ordered her to remain at home. Mrs. Rider, her sympathy aroused by the child's plight, welcomed the opportunity to take care of him.

When Mrs. Rider took Joe into her home she believed he would eventually recover. She still believes it. "Joe will wake up one of these days," she says, "and everything will be all right." And she has continued to seek the best of medical aid for him.

In the hope that the boy might understand and rouse himself, Mrs. Rider decorated a Christmas tree for him last year. It was laden with gifts which had come from people in all parts of the country who had read of the youngster's illness. But Joe slumbered through Christmas day as he had through the 400-odd days preceding it, oblivious of the celebration prepared for him. And on his ninth birthday, February 15, 1933, which his benefactor was ready to make a memorable occasion for him, he remained sunk in his strange pathological sleep.

Joe's eyes are not closed all the time. They are often open in the daytime, but they are vacant and apparently unseeing. Mrs. Rider talks to the boy and she says he sometimes seems to hear her, but to be unable to emerge sufficiently from his stupor to answer.

At first it was necessary to feed Joe through a tube, but shortly after Mrs. Rider assumed the care of him he regained enough control of his throat muscles to swallow. She feeds him four pints of goat milk daily. He drinks it from a bottle fitted with a nipple—drinks it without interrupting his sleep. He has not lost much weight. He weighed 70 pounds when his coma began, and now weighs 64.

"SLEEPING sickness can never be really cured," says Dr. B. F. Turner, professor of neurology at the University of Tennessee. "It is a disease of the brain and spinal cord. We know no way to restore nerve centers that have degenerated. The condition of the victim can be improved considerably, but we cannot effect a real cure.

"We used to think that when the patient was awakened from his sleep his troubles were over, but now we know better. There is always a chronic after-effect, although sometimes the patient himself does not realize it at first. He does not have full control of his muscles, which often results in a stooping posture, shuffling gait and generally clumsy movement."

There seems to be nothing that medical science can do to thwart the disease. About all there is to treatment is to give the patient general good care and nourishment. If the disease reaches vital brain or nerve centers the patient usually dies quickly.

There is a theory in medical circles—a theory that is not universally accepted, however—that sleeping sickness is an outgrowth of influenza. It was known as far back as the eighteenth century, but not until about 15 years ago did it attain importance in the United States. It usually attacks its victims in the winter, and it seems to attack males more frequently than it does females.

Doctors think little Joe Huggins will awaken from his sleep some time, but they do not venture an opinion as to what his condition will be then or how long he will live. They fear that, at the best, he will emerge from his coma with a body permanently impaired.

Still Mrs. Rider does not despair. She continues to attend Joe and waits patiently for the day of his awakening.

So Nature palmed off on her a pair of hands that would fumble and wiggle and get in the way on every conceivable occasion. Nature then went about her other business satisfied it would be a long time before Zasu noticed it, if she ever did. It was a good while, but when eventually the peculiarity was noticed by Zasu and other people, such as motion picture directors, steps were taken to make the most of it. And that is how the screen came to lose a first-rate tragedienne and gain the most popular woman comedian, with the possible exception of Marie Dressler, in its entire history. This statement as to her poularity, it may be said, is not based alone upon the opinon of experts. It is more or less a matter of statistics compiled from recent surveys of fan mail and box office receipts.

Even without statistics on the matter, everybody knows pretty well how Zasu Pitts rates as a comedian right now. Probably not many know, or remember if they ever did know, that she started out playing serious drama and rose to a fairly respectable height before her natural comic endowments began to drag her down—down to contracts ranging around $20,000 for a single picture. But she did have her fling at serious drama. Unlike Charles Chaplin, who always played comedy and always wanted to play Hamlet, she reversed the procedure and got the flair for tragedy out of her system first. She did it very well, too. In 1924, after she had played the lead (at $300 a week) in Von Stroheim's picture, "Greed," he characterized her as "one of the greatest tragediennes of the screen." Photoplay Magazine, in February, 1925, selected her performance as one of the six best of the previous year, and Paul Rotha, international film critic, wrote in his book on the movies: "Her acting under the control of Von Stroheim has never been equaled by any other American actress at any time."

But then her humorous hands and her funny name and her blank stare could be concealed no longer. Directors began to observe that she had a talent for making people laugh, a talent which, they figured, ought to be made to pay dividends via the box office route. So Zasu was tried out in a few small comic parts—roles such as frightened housemaids and blundering telephone operators—and her wiggling hands were pushed to the fore. Because spectators enjoyed and laughed at her in her new parts, producers refused to take her for any more serious roles.

Then along came the talkies and uncovered a third comic element in her makeup. That was her voice, her quaint, hesitating manner of speech. It was entirely in character with her hands. When she would say, "Well, I suppose," in that puzzled manner of hers, the audiences roared. She didn't need gags or jokes. She could say anything at all and be sure of a laugh. Her reputation as a comedian grew to such an extent that when she was at last given a chance to portray a serious role the result was little short of disastrous.

She was engaged to take the part of the mother in the popular war movie, "All Quiet on the Western Front," produced in 1930. The picture was given a preview in the studios. Unluckily for Zasu, another picture, in which she had taken a comedy part, had been filmed just ahead of this. The spectators had laughed at her in the first picture, and naturally when she appeared in the second, they laughed again, even though she wasn't playing comedy at all this time, but the part of a dangerously ill mother. "I was supposed to have cancer and they roared with laughter," Zasu remarks concerning this incident. The upshot of it all was that an emergency meeting was hurriedly called and the part of the story showing Zasu was shot over again with another actress playing the sad role. Zasu never again appeared in a serious movie except as comic relief.

After the "All Quiet" episode, Zasu continued for several years to play comic relief roles and to work with Thelma Todd in slapstick shorts, which proved to be immensely popular.

THEN came that complete success—a full length starring picture. That came within the last year. It was a contract to take a leading part in a feature comedy, co-starring with Slim Summerville. Since then she has completed one more full length picture with him and is working on a third, a risque farce tentatively called, "Love, Honor and Oh, Baby." Now at the crest of her popularity, she is so busy with full length pictures that she has had to drop out of the two-reelers with Thelma Todd. Besides other films with Slim Summerville, she is under contract to do one with Will Rogers and is quite set up at the prospect of working with him. She has great admiration for Rogers. Also for Marie Dressler.

Having carried the name Zasu around for some 35 years now (she was born in Parsons, Kansas, in 1898), she can't see anything funny about it, but other people seem to, and somehow expect the owner of it to be funny, too.

The name Zasu, it may be explained, came to her as a result of her father's attempt to be diplomatic. He had two sisters, Eliza and Susan. When a daughter arrived he tried to give the two equal representation.

Altogether, Miss Pitts' professional career has been a happy one, considerably happier than her domestic role. Her marriage to Tom Gallery several years ago ended in divorce. She has two children. In private life she is almost as retiring as Great Garbo.

ENTY MONTHS

The Unconscious Existence of Little Joe Huggins Who Has Resisted Efforts of an Array s to Wake Him Up.

In the hope that the boy might understand and rouse himself, Mrs. Rider decorated a Christmas tree for him last year. It was laden with gifts which had come from people in all parts of the country who had read of the youngster's illness. But Joe slumbered through Christmas day as he had through the 400-odd days preceding it, oblivious of the celebration prepared for him. And on his ninth birthday, February 15, 1933, which his benefactor was ready to make a memorable occasion for him, he remained sunk in his strange pathological sleep.

Joe's eyes are not closed all the time. They are often open in the daytime, but they are vacant and apparently unseeing. Mrs. Rider talks to the boy and she says he sometimes seems to hear her, but to be unable to emerge sufficiently from his stupor to answer.

At first it was necessary to feed Joe through a tube, but shortly after Mrs. Rider assumed the care of him he regained enough control of his throat muscles to swallow. She feeds him four pints of goat milk daily. He drinks it from a bottle fitted with a nipple—drinks it without interrupting his sleep. He has not lost much weight. He weighed 70 pounds when his coma began, and now weighs 64.

"SLEEPING sickness can never be really cured," says Dr. B. F. Turner, professor of neurology at the University of Tennessee. "It is a disease of the brain and spinal cord. We know no way to restore nerve centers that have degenerated. The condition of the victim can be improved considerably, but we cannot effect a real cure.

"We used to think that when the patient was awakened from his sleep his troubles were over, but now we know better. There is always a chronic after-effect, although sometimes the patient himself does not realize it at first. He does not have full control of his muscles, which often results in a stooping posture, shuffling gait and generally clumsy movement."

There seems to be nothing that medical science can do to thwart the disease. About all there is to treatment is to give the patient general good care and nourishment. If the disease reaches vital brain or nerve centers the patient usually dies quickly.

There is a theory in medical circles —a theory that is not universally accepted, however—that sleeping sickness is an outgrowth of influenza. It was known as far back as the eighteenth century, but not until about 15 years ago did it attain importance in the United States. It usually attacks its victims in the winter, and it seems to attack males more frequently than it does females.

Doctors think little Joe Huggins will awaken from his sleep some time, but they do not venture an opinion as to what his condition will be then or how long he will live. They fear that, at the best, he will emerge from his coma with a body permanently impaired.

Still Mrs. Rider does not despair. She continues to attend Joe and wait patiently for the day of his awakening.

When Lottie Coll Tried to Carry On the Family Crime Tradition

The Widow of Vincent Coll—Reputed "Baby Killer" Who Fell Under the Machine Guns of Rival Gangsters—Now Under the Threat of the Electric Chair Because of a Bullet That Went Astray.

By JACK ALEXANDER

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

NEW YORK.

IN a mushroom kind of way, there's such a thing as family tradition in the gang world. If your brother or companion had blazed his way to fingerprints and testimonial banquets and then unhappily run afoul of hot lead poisoning, you have to pick up the torch and light a few fires yourself, or lose caste. Vincent Coll, for instance, was once just a cheap thug in the army of Dutch Schultz, the big beer merchant of the Bronx. He was content to bash in his share of hesitant barkeepers' skulls and chuck his quota of grenades into the cabs of rival trucks and let someone else, his brother, Peter, perhaps, take the glory. All Vince asked was a decent living. He was young and he could wait. He was willing to work.

But when a police cruiser picked Peter up out of the gutter one night early in 1930, with his eyes still open from the abruptness of his demise, Vince swore oaths, set himself up as Schultz's rival (because he imagined Schultz had murdered Peter) and embarked on a career that made Peter's look a little lame. Adding lustre to the family shield (which was a bullet-proof vest), he became, in a few short months, the most talked-of criminal in the country. His name was heard even in the White House. Rival gangsters were deadly afraid of his boldness and daring, so frequently turned on them. Once there was a nation-wide hunt for him. This was when some of his boys killed a child by mistake. Acquitted of the murder, Coll thumbed his nose at the law and married Lottie Kriesberger to celebrate. Less than two months later, after bringing the family name out of obscurity to the front pages of America's newspapers, he was murdered, wholly unsuspecting, in a telephone booth, aged 25. The robe of the Colls fell upon Lottie. She was 24 then and had been places.

No newcomer to the rattle of bullets or the stares of the detectives in the police lineup, Lottie started out by getting a six-months' workhouse sentence for possession of a loaded revolver. THEN police began questioning her and her companions about another case and it soon developed that Lottie Coll had been booked on a murder charge by the same trick of fate that brought her late husband before the bars of justice—a stray bullet that killed a bystander. As a wild shot dropped 5-year-old Michael Vengali in 110th street, Harlem, almost two years before, so a misdirected bullet from a revolver in the shaky hand of one of Lottie's pals missed its intended target, a man they tried to take for a ride, and hit a girl in the head. Millie Schwartz, 22 years old, was the victim. She was out taking the evening air with her sister, arm in arm, when the slug struck, killing her instantly. It was not Lottie who broke under the questioning. It was one of her "punk" friends, Albert Guarino.

"I'm sorry," said the glib Guarino, fingering the crease in his pants. "I mean it. I'm sorry."

He was led before Lottie Coll. An Inspector asked Lottie what she had to say.

"So," she said, turning on Guarino contemptuously, "you talked, did you, you rat?"

She had nothing further to say except "See my lawyer." In the lineup, wearing a demure polka dot dress and a white hat, she said, in answer to the routine question as to occupation, "Housewife." It recalled to veteran detectives Vince Coll's "bricklayer, out of work" answer. Coll always grinned when he said that. It was his pet joke. It made such monkeys out of the police.

"What do you know about this murder?" asked the Inspector in charge of the lineup.

"I'll let my attorney speak for me," replied Lottie.

"How have you been making a living since your husband was killed?"

"Oh, he left a few dollars and I make out."

"How long have you known these two men (her companions)?"

"I'll let my attorney speak for me."

That was all they got out of her. She stood in the glare of the Klieg lights with one hand on her hip, perfectly at ease and not at all perturbed by the fact that she faced an unseen audience of detectives from every borough. Her face shone white. She never uses makeup. The large whites of her eyes gave her a questioning look that belied her arrogant posture. Lottie was living up to the Coll tradition. She continued to do so after the grand jury had returned a first degree murder indictment. And her plaint that she had been "framed by the police" was part of the tradition, too. To reporters who came in the Bronx County jail, she kept up the "frame-up" pose. Yes, they had pinned a murder "rap" on her. But it was wrong. She wouldn't burn for it. You watch. Sure, she knew Guarino and the other fellow, Joseph Ventre. They had loaned her money when hers had run out but she knew nothing about the Schwartz murder. The writers reported that Lottie was no beauty contest winner but that she was fairly good to look at. She made as good copy as Vince.

LOTTIE'S picture got into the papers and a psychiatrist was asked to say something about Lottie's chances to reform. They were pretty unfavorable.

"Lottie Coll has consorted with criminals too long," he said. "She has absorbed their traits and characteristics. She finds herself in a situation where she is looked down upon by the better element of society. She is in need of money. She has resolved to live up to the picture that has been painted of her. She will not change, now."

He blamed environment for her career, saying: "Nothing I have heard or read leads me to believe that she is of the abnormal type—what we psychiatrists call the constitutionally psychopathic inferior. If she had been brought up in the proper environment and hadn't lost her parents so early, she might have turned out differently. Several factors have contributed: the death of her father and mother when she was very young, the absence of proper parental supervision, the poor environment, and the effect of all these on a person whose moral sense is in a formative stage. When she was still a child, all available records show, she began to consort with persons of questionable character."

Lottie Coll wasn't born with two strikes on her but life threw her some awfully tricky curve balls almost as soon as she stepped to the plate and she has been swinging at wide ones ever since. Her biography is that of the child who had no chance, a familiar but none the less pitiful type to social workers and juvenile court judges.

She was born Lottie Demlinger, in Germany. When her father died, her mother packed up for the Land of Opportunity and settled in Hell's Kitchen, on New York's Tenth avenue. The child was three years old and had white skin and black eyes that became stormy when she got angry. The earliest childhood sounds she remembers are the racket of the elevated railroad, the cursing of drunken longshoremen, the rumbling of trucks on the cobbles and the occasional crash of gunfire.

If she didn't remember her father's death, she made the acquaintance of that phenomenon when very young. It was a summer day in 1916. A funeral procession moved out of Hell's Kitchen with a creaking of coach springs and a dull clicking of horses' hoofs.

IN THE coach behind the hearse was Lottie Demlinger. She was tall and dark and calm even then, as a child of eight. Her mother was dead and Lottie was on her own in a hard-bitten world.

At ten, Lottie was involved in a love affair with a neighborhood swain. At twelve, she was introduced to the underworld. At fourteen she was questioned by the Bronx police after Samuel Kriesberger, a fur thief, was arrested for stealing $1700 worth of furs. The fur thief was the first lover of Lottie's adult life, if fourteen is the beginning of adulthood. She must have thought a lot of him because she answered to his name in police lineup long after leaving him. At seventeen, she left Kriesberger's flat in the Bronx and began going with Terry Romano, a narcotic racketeer, and became Lottie Romano. While presiding over Romano's apartment, Lottie developed an interest in Sam Model, a pink-faced young man who wore horn-rim glasses and looked like a college student.

Friends warned Model to keep away from Terry Romano's girl but the situation never came to a head because while Romano was driving through a park one night he stopped a bullet with his skull. With true police empiricism, the detectives arrested Model and brought him to trial for murder. Lottie Romano was counted an important witness for the prosecution. But on the third day of the trial, the district attorney gave up the effort. His witnesses had all changed their minds. They weren't so sure the studious looking young man that fired the bullet was the same one sitting there with his lawyer. The judge ordered a verdict of acquittal. Lottie went to live with Sam Model.

Then Vincent Coll, well named "The Mad Dog," came into the picture. This was in 1930 when his deeds were beginning to attract attention from his betters. So murderous was Coll's reputation that when he began paying attention to Lottie Model, the chap with the horn-rim glasses and the pink cheeks discreetly withdrew from the field and Lottie became the running mate of the murderer. Coll had a black heart and was out to take his revenge on gangdom in general for the murder of his brother. Dutch Schultz, his erstwhile patron and a notoriously scary man, found it expedient to leave town for an extended vacation and get away from the Frankenstein he had created. Coll took a keen delight in potting Schultz's beer runners for a while but decided to go out for money instead of artistic and emotional expression. Money, he argued logically, was to be found plentifully in the safe deposit boxes of liquor racketeers. But safe deposit vaults were hard to "make." The conclusion of his syllogism was that it wasn't smart to break vaults. A corollary was that the shortest cut to that money was to kidnap the racketeers and hold them for ransom.

No one had thought of this before, or if anyone had, he abandoned it as an unholy thought and a violation of professional ethics. Or he just didn't have the "moxie," or nerve, for the job. Coll may have lacked ethics but he had plenty of "moxie" and he spread terror right and left in the Broadway belt with his exceptionally active promotion of the "snatch," or kidnaping racket. Big shot speakeasy and night club owners never knew when "The Mad Dog" would "put the snatch" on them in broad daylight and spirit them to a secluded apartment under the noses of the police. Here they were treated to all the fine tortures they had read about in the tabloids—sticking with pins, burning the soles of the feet with cigarettes, and others that the tabloids couldn't print, and they signed notes to "the boys" urging them to hurry that money.

A PROSPEROUS business man (what if he was in the beer game?) wasn't safe. It was an outrage, the victims said shakily when they got home. Unable to say anything to the police, they collected a fund of $50,000 and sent the word around that it would be dropped promptly in the hat of the man, or group of men, with enough "moxie" to eliminate Coll. The marked man heard of the offer and openly dared his enemies to get him.

Although the terror of the underworld at the time, Coll did not become a real public figure until the so-called "baby killing" in Harlem, in July, 1931, because his kidnaping of racketeers never had got into the papers. But when the Vengali boy became the accidental target for the bullet of one of the Coll mob, Coll became the target of police and public and he was eventually tracked and cornered and put on trial for the Vengali murder. Acquitted late in December, he celebrated by going through a marriage ceremony with Lottie. They spent the first part of their honeymoon in the Tombs, while police tried to find something else to pin on Coll. They found nothing substantial enough to base a jury case upon.

The Colls laughed when they were released and Vince once more rode up and down Broadway spreading greater terror than ever. The staid saloon

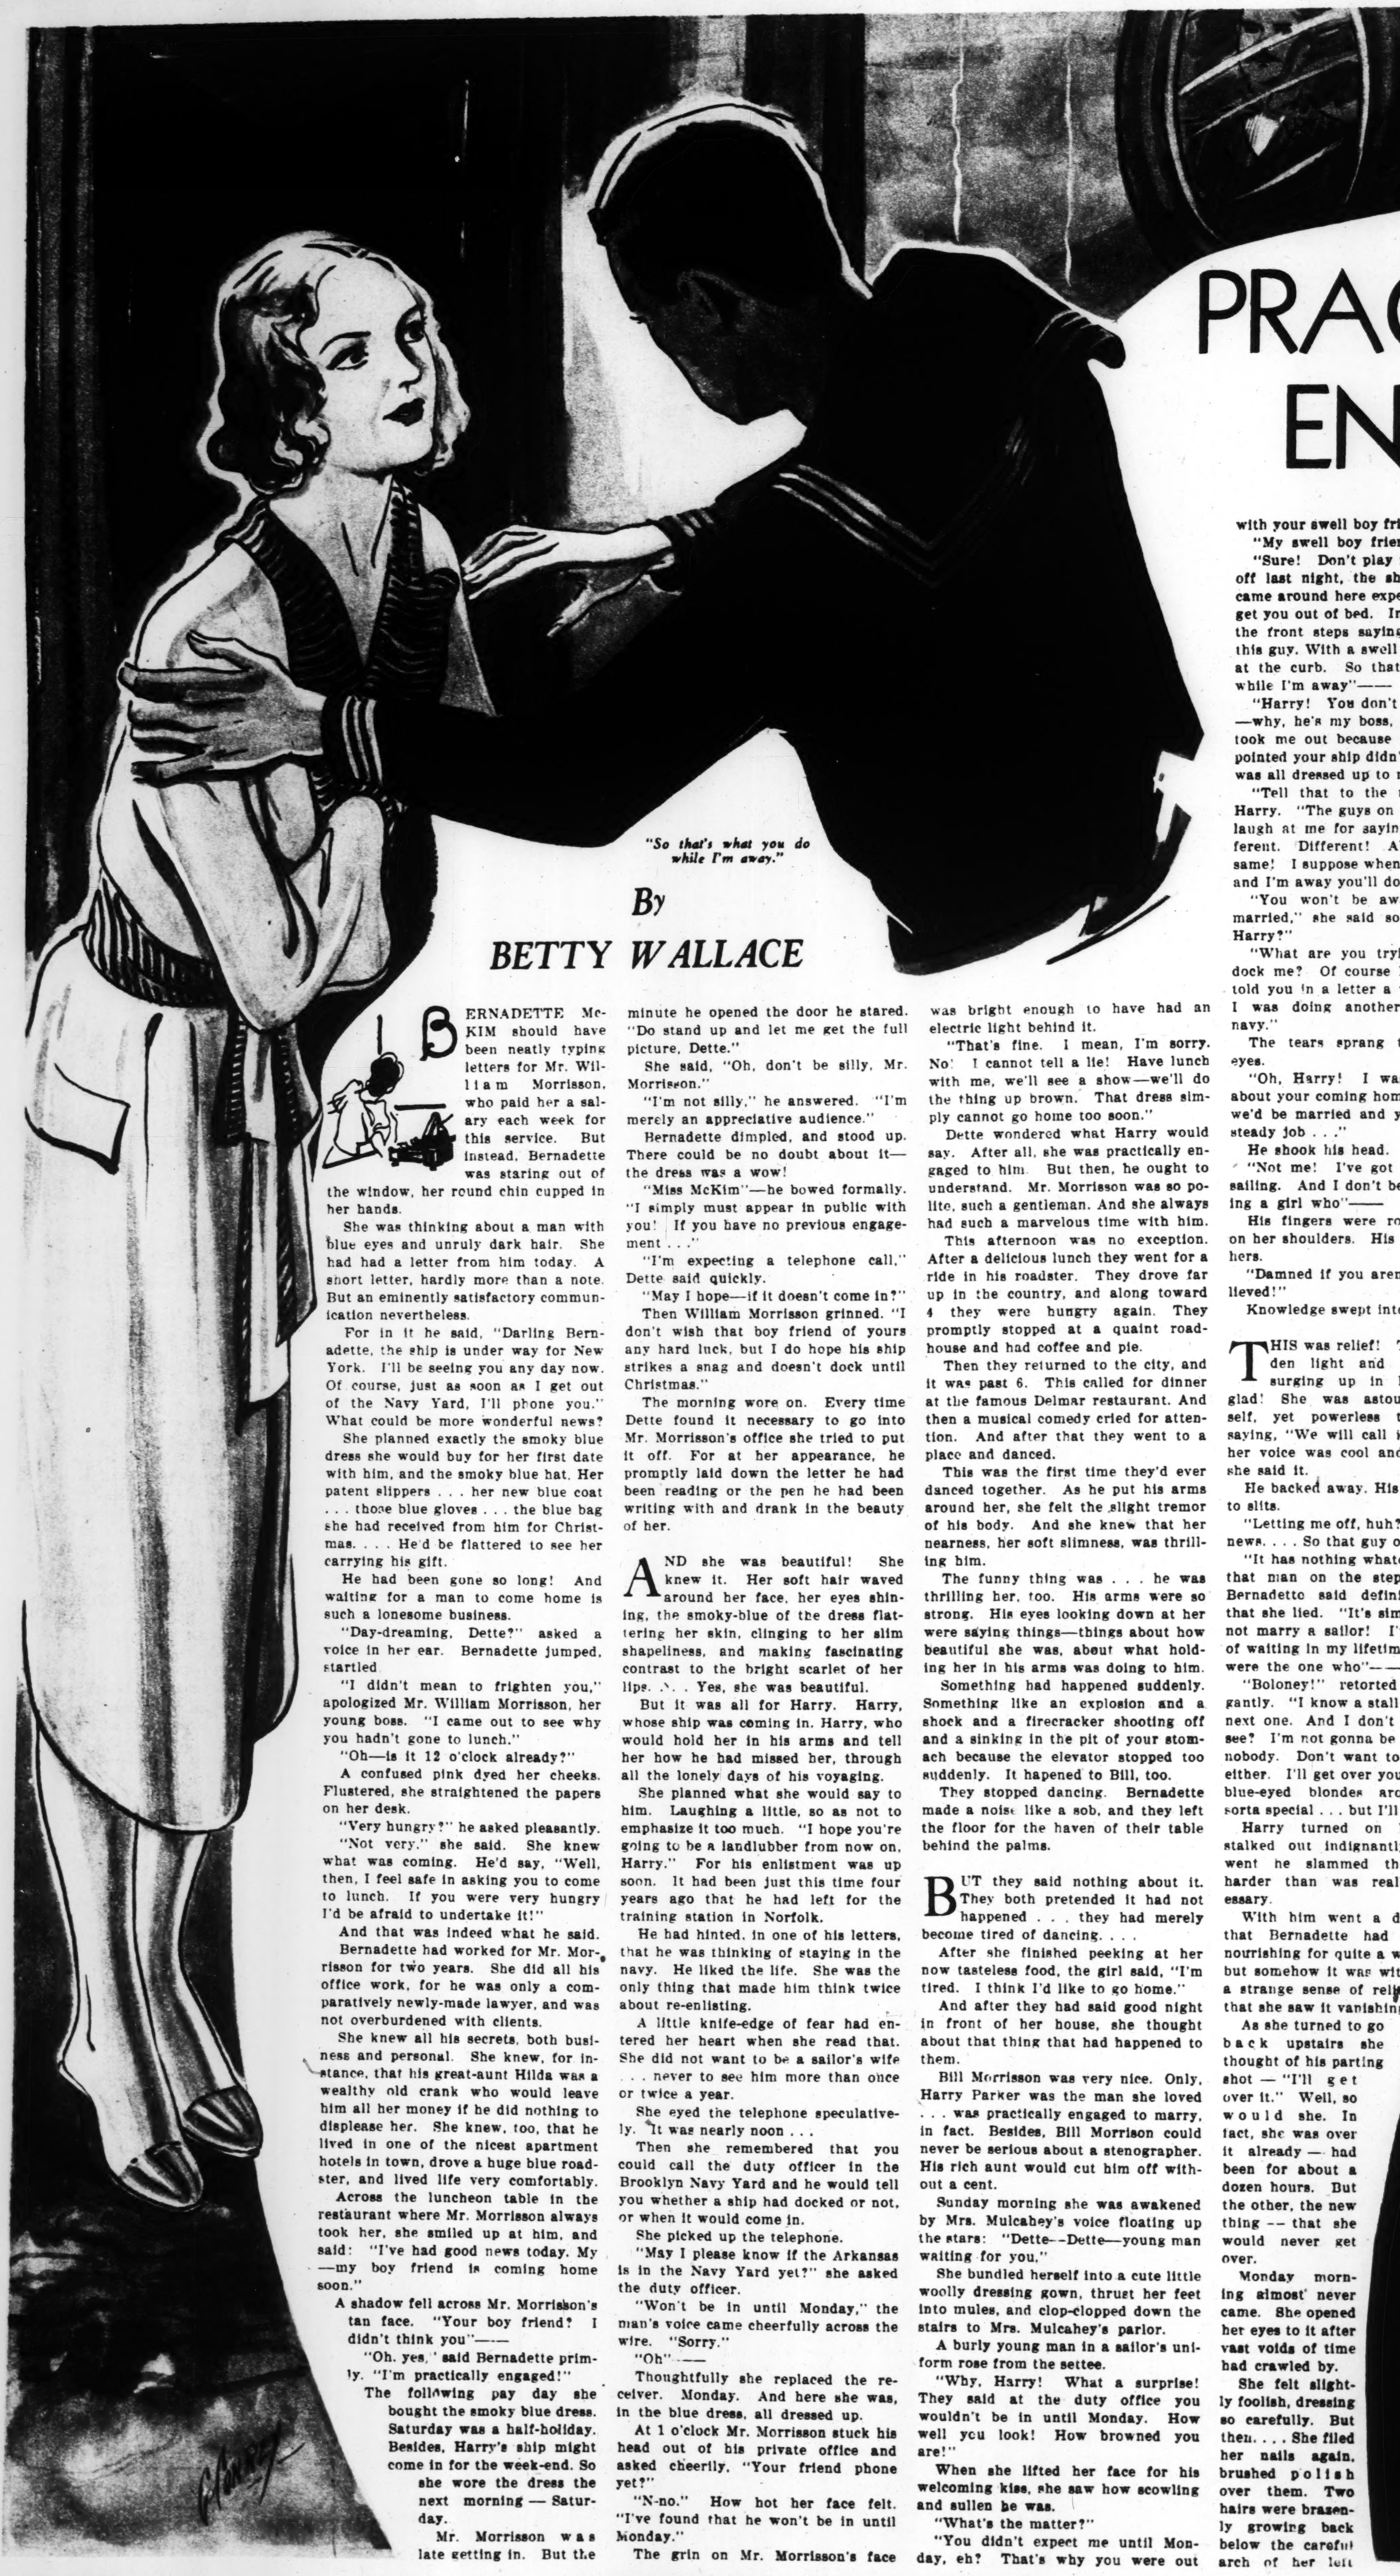
PRACTICALLY ENGAGED



"So that's what you do while I'm away."

By

BETTY WALLACE

BERNADETTE McKIM should have been neatly typing letters for Mr. William Morrisson, who paid her a salary each week for this service. But instead, Bernadette was staring out of the window, her round chin cupped in her hands.

She was thinking about a man with blue eyes and unruly dark hair. She had had a letter from him today. A short letter, hardly more than a note. But an eminently satisfactory communication nevertheless.

For in it he said, "Darling Bernadette, the ship is under way for New York. I'll be seeing you any day now. Of course, just as soon as I get out of the Navy Yard, I'll phone you." What could be more wonderful news?

She planned exactly the smoky blue dress she would buy for her first date with him, and the smoky blue hat. Her patent slippers . . . her new blue coat . . . those blue gloves . . . the blue bag she had received from him for Christmas. . . . He'd be flattered to see her carrying his gift.

He had been gone so long! And waiting for a man to come home is such a lonesome business.

"Day-dreaming, Dette?" asked a voice in her ear. Bernadette jumped, startled.

"I didn't mean to frighten you," apologized Mr. William Morrisson, her young boss. "I came out to see why you hadn't gone to lunch."

"Oh—is it 12 o'clock already?"

A confused pink dyed her cheeks. Flustered, she straightened the papers on her desk.

"Very hungry?" he asked pleasantly.

"Not very," she said. She knew what was coming. He'd say, "Well, then, I feel safe in asking you to come to lunch. If you were very hungry I'd be afraid to undertake it!"

And that was indeed what he said.

Bernadette had worked for Mr. Morrisson for two years. She did all his office work, for he was only a comparatively newly-made lawyer, and was not overburdened with clients.

She knew all his secrets, both business and personal. She knew, for instance, that his great-aunt Hilda was a wealthy old crank who would leave him all her money if he did nothing to displease her. She knew, too, that he lived in one of the nicest apartment hotels in town, drove a huge blue roadster, and lived life very comfortably.

Across the luncheon table in the restaurant where Mr. Morrisson always took her, she smiled up at him, and said: "I've had good news today. My—my boy friend is coming home soon."

A shadow fell across Mr. Morrisson's tan face. "Your boy friend? I didn't think you"——

"Oh, yes," said Bernadette primly. "I'm practically engaged!"

The following pay day she bought the smoky blue dress. Saturday was a half-holiday. Besides, Harry's ship might come in for the week-end. So she wore the dress the next morning — Saturday.

Mr. Morrisson was late getting in. But the minute he opened the door he stared. "Do stand up and let me get the full picture, Dette."

She said, "Oh, don't be silly, Mr. Morrisson."

"I'm not silly," he answered. "I'm merely an appreciative audience."

Bernadette dimpled, and stood up. There could be no doubt about it—the dress was a wow!

"Miss McKim"—he bowed formally. "I simply must appear in public with you! If you have no previous engagement . . ."

"I'm expecting a telephone call," Dette said quickly.

"May I hope—if it doesn't come in?"

Then William Morrisson grinned. "I don't wish that boy friend of yours any hard luck, but I do hope his ship strikes a snag and doesn't dock until Christmas."

The morning wore on. Every time Dette found it necessary to go into Mr. Morrisson's office she tried to put it off. For at her appearance, he promptly laid down the letter he had been reading or the pen he had been writing with and drank in the beauty of her.

AND she was beautiful! She knew it. Her soft hair waved around her face, her eyes shining, the smoky-blue of the dress flattering her skin, clinging to her slim shapeliness, and making fascinating contrast to the bright scarlet of her lips. . . . Yes, she was beautiful.

But it was all for Harry. Harry, whose ship was coming in. Harry, who would hold her in his arms and tell her how he had missed her, through all the lonely days of his voyaging.

She planned what she would say to him. Laughing a little, so as not to emphasize it too much. "I hope you're going to be a landlubber from now on, Harry." For his enlistment was up soon. It had been just this time four years ago that he had left for the training station in Norfolk.

He had hinted, in one of his letters, that he was thinking of staying in the navy. He liked the life. She was the only thing that made him think twice about re-enlisting.

A little knife-edge of fear had entered her heart when she read that. She did not want to be a sailor's wife . . . never to see him more than once or twice a year.

She eyed the telephone speculatively. It was nearly noon . . .

Then she remembered that you could call the duty officer in the Brooklyn Navy Yard and he would tell you whether a ship had docked or not, or when it would come in.

She picked up the telephone.

"May I please know if the Arkansas is in the Navy Yard yet?" she asked the duty officer.

"Won't be in until Monday," the man's voice came cheerfully across the wire. "Sorry."

"Oh"——

Thoughtfully she replaced the receiver. Monday. And here she was, in the blue dress, all dressed up.

At 1 o'clock Mr. Morrisson stuck his head out of his private office and asked cheerily, "Your friend phone yet?"

The grin on Mr. Morrisson's face was bright enough to have had an electric light behind it.

"That's fine. I mean, I'm sorry. No! I cannot tell a lie! Have lunch with me, we'll see a show—we'll do the thing up brown. That dress simply cannot go home too soon."

Dette wondered what Harry would say. After all, she was practically engaged to him. But then, he ought to understand. Mr. Morrisson was so polite, such a gentleman. And she always had such a marvelous time with him.

This afternoon was no exception. After a delicious lunch they went for a ride in his roadster. They drove far up in the country, and along toward 4 they were hungry again. They promptly stopped at a quaint roadhouse and had coffee and pie.

Then they returned to the city, and it was past 6. This called for dinner at the famous Delmar restaurant. And then a musical comedy cried for attention. And after that they went to a place and danced.

This was the first time they'd ever danced together. As he put his arms around her, she felt the slight tremor of his body. And she knew that her nearness, her soft slimness, was thrilling him.

The funny thing was . . . he was thrilling her, too. His arms were so strong. His eyes looking down at her were saying things—things about how beautiful she was, about what holding her in his arms was doing to him.

Something had happened suddenly. Something like an explosion and a shock and a firecracker shooting off and a sinking in the pit of your stomach because the elevator stopped too suddenly. It hapened to Bill, too.

They stopped dancing. Bernadette made a noise like a sob, and they left the floor for the haven of their table behind the palms.

BUT they said nothing about it. They both pretended it had not happened . . . they had merely become tired of dancing. . . .

After she finished peeking at her now tasteless food, the girl said, "I'm tired. I think I'd like to go home."

And after they had said good night in front of her house, she thought about that thing that had happened to them.

Bill Morrisson was very nice. Only, Harry Parker was the man she loved . . . was practically engaged to marry, in fact. Besides, Bill Morrison could never be serious about a stenographer. His rich aunt would cut him off without a cent.

Sunday morning she was awakened by Mrs. Mulcahey's voice floating up the stars: "Dette--Dette—young man waiting for you."

She bundled herself into a cute little woolly dressing gown, thrust her feet into mules, and clop-clopped down the stairs to Mrs. Mulcahey's parlor.

A burly young man in a sailor's uniform rose from the settee.

"Why, Harry! What a surprise! They said at the duty office you wouldn't be in until Monday. How well you look! How browned you are!"

When she lifted her face for his welcoming kiss, she saw how scowling and sullen he was.

"What's the matter?"

"You didn't expect me until Monday, eh? That's why you were out with your swell boy friend last night?"

"My swell boy friend?"

"Sure! Don't play innocent! I got off last night, the ship anchored. I came around here expecting to have to get you out of bed. Instead, you're on the front steps saying good night to this guy. With a swell roadster parked at the curb. So that's what you do while I'm away"——

"Harry! You don't understand! He—why, he's my boss, Harry! He only took me out because I was so disappointed your ship didn't get in! And I was all dressed up to meet you . . ."

"Tell that to the marines!" cried Harry. "The guys on the ship used to laugh at me for saying you were different. Different! All janes are the same! I suppose when we get married and I'm away you'll do the same."

"You won't be away when we're married," she said softly, "will you, Harry?"

"What are you trying to do, drydock me? Of course I'll be away. I told you in a letter a while back that I was doing another hitch in the navy."

The tears sprang to Bernadette's eyes.

"Oh, Harry! I was so h-h-happy about your coming home. I—I thought we'd be married and y-y-you'd find a steady job . . ."

He shook his head.

"Not me! I've got a steady job—sailing. And I don't believe in marrying a girl who"——

His fingers were rough and cruel on her shoulders. His eyes bored into hers.

"Damned if you aren't looking—relieved!"

Knowledge swept into her. . . .

THIS was relief! This was a sudden light and joyous feeling surging up in her. She was glad! She was astounded at herself, yet powerless to keep from saying, "We will call it quits." And her voice was cool and controlled as she said it.

He backed away. His eyes narrowed to slits.

"Letting me off, huh? Breaking the news. . . . So that guy on the steps . ."

"It has nothing whatever to do with that man on the steps last night," Bernadette said definitely, knowing that she lied. "It's simply that I will not marry a sailor! I've had enough of waiting in my lifetime. Besides, you were the one who"——

"Boloney!" retorted Harry inelegantly. "I know a stall as good as the next one. And I don't care so much, see? I'm not gonna be dry-docked for nobody. Don't want to be two-timed, either. I'll get over you, kid. Lots of blue-eyed blondes around. You're sorta special . . . but I'll get over it . ."

Harry turned on his heel and stalked out indignantly, and as he went he slammed the door harder than was really necessary.

With him went a dream that Bernadette had been nourishing for quite a while; but somehow it was with a strange sense of relief that she saw it vanishing.

As she turned to go back upstairs she thought of his parting shot — "I'll get over it." Well, so would she. In fact, she was over it already — had been for about a dozen hours. But the other, the new thing -- that she would never get over.

Monday morning almost never came. She opened her eyes to it after vast voids of time had crawled by.

She felt slightly foolish, dressing so carefully. But then. . . . She filed her nails again, brushed polish over them. Two hairs were brazenly growing back below the careful arch of her left eyebrow. She uprooted them savagely.

In the magnifying mirror she saw that she could not possibly improve on nature further.

When she opened the office door she was 30 minutes and 40 seconds late. Mr. Morrisson was at her desk.

"Good afternoon," said he. "That must have been a bang-up date last night."

"It wasn't," said Dette.

She laid aside hat and coat. He saw with gratification that she wore the smoky blue dress again.

"Every time I see that dress hereafter," said Bill, "I'll remember our Saturday. And the memory will embolden me to ask for another—or a Thursday—or a Tuesday—any day"—

BERNADETTE dropped her eyes and fooled with the papers on her desk.

"Which is it, Mr. Morrisson," she asked demurely, "Saturday or Tuesday or Thursday?"

He opened his mouth. "You can't mean it! Are you serious?"

She smiled down at the papers. "Of course. Why not?"

"But what about the boy friend? Won't he care? I'm hoping he won't . . . but I want to be fair. I—am—a very strong believer in fair play . . . and you warned me that you were practically engaged."

"Practically," said Bernadette. "But not quite. In other words . . . it's off."

"All off? But"——

"He wanted to be a sailor," she explained, as lightly as her pounding heart would let her. "And I wanted a husband I could be with every night of the week."

"Still want that kind?" Bill asked, his hands reaching for hers.

She raised her eyes, now, to his. And again it happened. That explosion. That bright Roman candle shooting off into the night. That twinkling of a million stars—that singing of a trillion love songs—that dizzy dipping of her heart into her low, small pumps.

"What kind?" she asked faintly.

"The kind that can be with you every night."

"Y-y-yes."

He grasped her shoulders very firmly. His eyes were laughing, his voice was a triumphant roar.

"Then get on your hat, Dette. From here to City Hall you are practically engaged!"

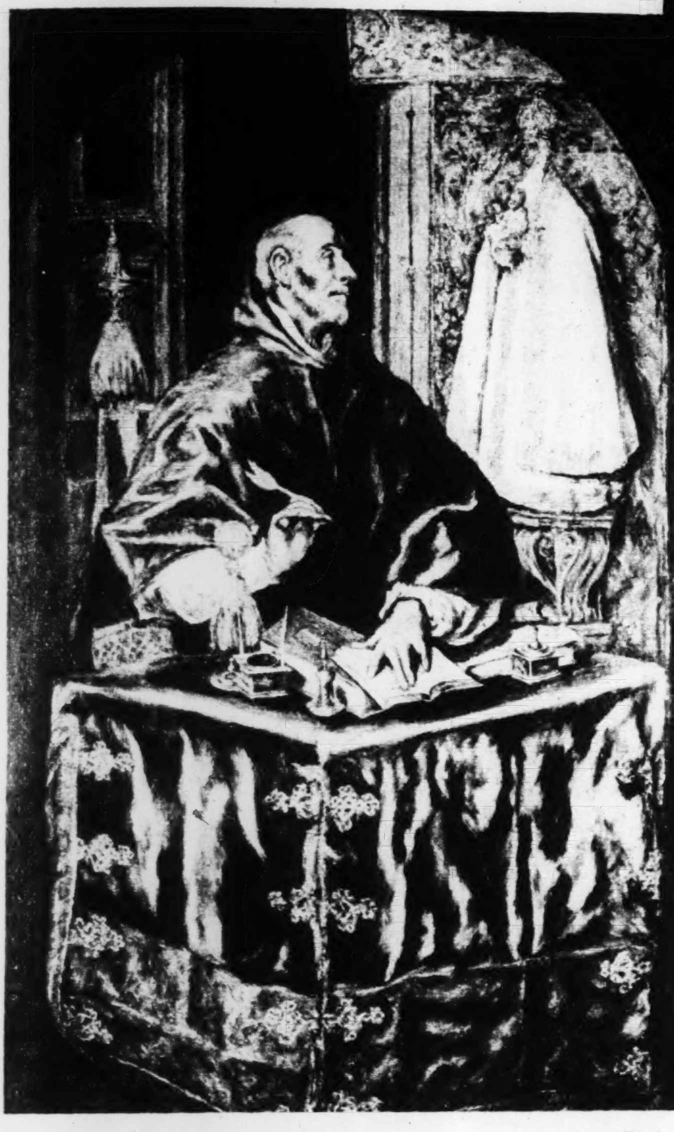
permanent display of the art of the nineteen-thirties. When Harshe returned from abroad, there was nothing lacking but the money necessary to carry out the plan. Harshe goes on with the story.

"We had a party for the directors of the fair and the trustees of the institute in the Goodman Theater (a part of the Art Institute). I got up and explained my plan to them. I told them after I had outlined the scheme that it would cost about $7,000,000. Well, they fainted away by rows, directors and trustees. I hadn't realized it, but that was about all they were prepared to spend on the whole fair."

After this the question of a Fine Arts exhibition passed for a time out of Harshe's hands. The directors of the fair had another idea. They were going to show the art that would appeal to the masses. To make absolutely certain what kind of art the masses wanted, they circulated questionnaires among various groups in Chicago to find out what were the 10 most popular paintings in the world. As the directors might have known without recourse to an expensive questionnaire, Rose Bonheur's "Horse Fair" stood high on the list. So did "September Morn," "Washington Crossing the Delaware" and Landseer's "Wounded Stag." The directors proposed to round up the 10 paintings and put them in a special world's fair building, one picture to a room. That was to be the fine arts building.

But among the directors themselves there was strong opposition. Chauncey McCormick was dead set against it, the very thought of it appalled him. It would have, in his opinion, made Chicago the laughing-stock of the world. Again and again McCormick went to the mat with those who favored a "popular" art exhibition that would attract the mob. McCormick is a member of a powerful Chicago family, wealthy, a collector of modern art, but it is doubtful if his influence would have carried the day against the business men who were for mass appeal. The plain fact was that the directors didn't have $100,000 to spend on a fine arts building.

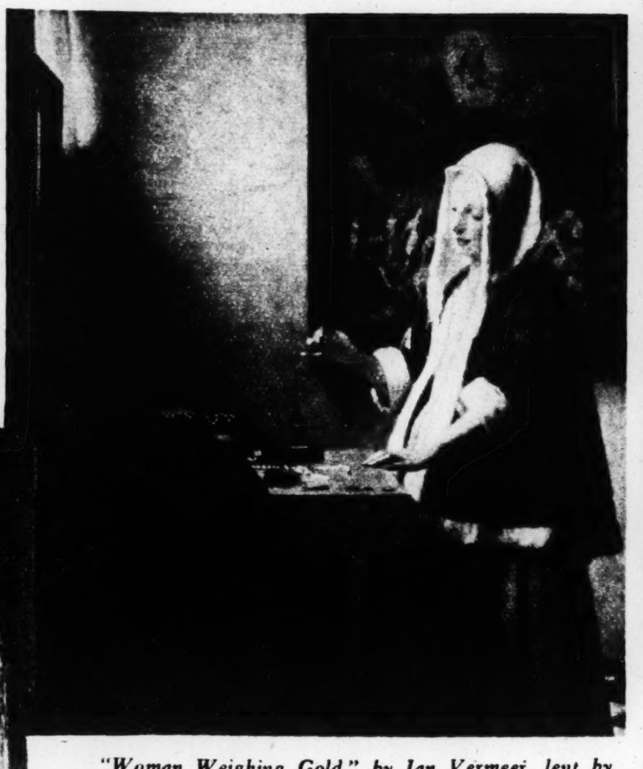
So again the chief responsibility for providing such an exhibit reverted to Harshe. He still had hope that he could co-operate with Europe, supplementing an American exhibition with European treasures. He asked the Louvre to lend da Vinci's "Mona Lisa," Ingres "The Bather" and Manet's "Olympia." Harshe explained to the Louvre authorities that these pictures would not be in a temporary building but in a permanent structure. The answer was no.



"St. Ildefonso, Writing," an El Greco lent by Andrew W. Mellon.

With this Harshe's pride was aroused. The directors of the fair could spare him no extra money. Europe had turned him down. But he was determined, nevertheless, to put on the greatest art show America had ever seen.

FROM Harshe's vast knowledge and from the museum's careful files was available the knowledge of where almost every important picture in America might be found, whether in museums, art schools, private collections or in the hands of dealers. The problem was to track those pictures down and get them for the exhibition. On his tentative list Harshe had about 800 paintings. The Art Institute's own amazingly rich collection would serve as the nucleus about which the exhibition would be built. The show was to complete a sequence in art, from the primitive of the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries to the moderns of the twentieth century. Each century, each school was to be represented by paintings of the first rank.



"Woman Weighing Gold," by Jan Vermeer, lent by Joseph Widener.

There was that very small canvas, "The Fisherman's Wife and Child" by Chasseriau in the museum of the Rhode Island School of Design. Director Harshe wanted that for the section devoted to French painting of the nineteenth century. There was the Vermeer in the collection of Joseph Widener of Philadelphia. That Director Harshe needed to complete the section given to Dutch and Flemish painters. There was the rare Daumier, "The Drinkers," in the possession of Adolph Lewisohn of New York. Director Harshe wanted that Daumier for his show.

Many of the paintings he wanted were shut away in private galleries to which the public had never been admitted. These sacrosanct treasures had never been looked upon, many of them, by the eyes of the public. Some of them had come directly from impoverished European noble families to rich American owners. Harshe first approached Widener. Widener said that he never allowed his pictures to go on loans. That was when McCormick interceded. He went in person to Philadelphia to talk with Widener. The latter was afraid the loan might establish a precedent. McCormick countered with an offer to send a private car to Philadelphia for the paintings. Then, he argued, Widener could in future refuse all borrowers who did not meet the same requirements.

This won over the Philadelphia collector and in due time three of Widener's rarest canvases came by private car over the Pennsylvania Railroad to the tracks behind the Art Institute. A special committee of trustees came to the car to receive the paintings. It was the name of Widener, whose collection is probably as important as any private collection in the world, that worked magic with other private individuals. They all—with two or three exceptions to be noted later—fell into line, the men of great wealth, for whom collecting art is ultimate luxury.

ANDREW MELLON, after some wavering, consented to send one of his El Grecos. Harshe had wanted at least four paintings from the Mellon collection, but Mellon would lend only one.

John D. Rockefeller lent a bust of himself done by Jo Davidson. Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr., whose collection of modern artists is one of the most important in America, lent several paintings, among them a stunning canvas by the Mexican painter, Diego Rivera. It was Rivera who quarreled with Mrs. Rockefeller's son, Nelson, over the use of a portrait of Lenin in the mural Rivera was doing for Radio City. Mrs. Rockefeller lent her Rivera and other paintings anonymously, but the New Yorker magazine disclosed the secret.

Many of the great names in business and society were represented: William R. Timken, Mrs. Payne Whitney and her son, "Jock" Whitney; Gov. Herbert Lehman of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Dale, whose modern collection is world renowned; Josef von Sternberg, the film director; John N. Willys, the automobile magnate; William A. Fisher, one of the motor body Fishers; Conger Goodyear, three of the Chicago McCormicks, the Potter Palmers, the John R. (restaurant chain) Thompsons, and many others. Too, a great many wealthy collectors lent paintings under the cloak of anonymity. For various reasons they did not want it known that they possessed works of art so valuable and important as to be borrowed for this greatest show of art in America.

Some rich men felt so strongly about this that they declined to loan their pictures under any condition. Edsel Ford was one. J. P. Morgan, smarting under the theft of a priceless manuscript which he had loaned to Columbia University for display, was another. Henry Clay Frick, Morgan partner, was another. The only museums to refuse loans were the Huntington Art Gallery in Pasadena and the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts in Philadelphia.

Critics and experts from Europe and all parts of America have pronounced the show a signal success. It shows the range of man's genius in the graphic arts for 500 years and more.

FOR the exhibition includes not only paintings but water colors and engravings and etchings. The collection of black-and-whites is as important in its way as the paintings. It was got together by Miss Mildred Prentiss, acting curator of prints. One of the assistants in Miss Prentiss' department was a former St. Louisan, Mrs. Clarissa Dyer Flint.

The exhibition of paintings will continue, along with the fair, through October. Then it will break up. The loan pictures will go back to their various owners. And it may be many years—another world's fair, perhaps—before such a wealth of art is shown in America again.

When Lottie Coll Tried to Carry On the Family Crime Tradition

impresarios rattled the bag of $50,000 in gold.

On the evening of February 1, 1932, a noisy crowd gathered about a well-laden table in the Bronx. Visible, pulling out chairs, were various members of the Coll mob and their friends. The doorbell rang. Five men shoved their way in, with revolvers drawn, and opened a withering fire on the celebrators. Men and women ducked behind tables and chairs. Some stood calmly where they were. Patsy del Greco, Fiore Basile and Emily Torrizella, all Coll adherents, didn't get up. Half a dozen others struggled to their feet holding hands, legs and shoulders. Five gunmen read with disappointment next day that Coll hadn't even attended the party.

On February 6, Walter Winchell wrote: "Five planes brought dozens of machine gats from Chicago Friday to combat The Town's Capone. Local banditti have made one hotel a virtual arsenal and several hotspots are ditto because Master Coll is giving them the headache. One of the better known Robin Hoods has a private phone in his cell. Haw!"

The next evening Vincent Coll violated a habit of long standing and went across the street from his hotel to telephone from a public station in a drug store without a bodyguard. He didn't even carry a weapon.

Apparently feeling secure, Coll entered a booth and, dialing a number, chatted for some minutes without once looking around. A car stopped at the curb. Three men got out, leaving a fourth at the wheel. Two stood carelessly against the machine and cast casual glances up and down the street. The other walked calmly into the drug store, pulling a sub-machine gun from under his coat.

Slowly walking toward the booth in the back of the store, he raised the weapon to firing position. Coll was laughing softly at a remark made from the other end of the line. He began to turn about. Flame spurted from the barrel of the machine gun, glass splintered and the door of the telephone booth swung open. Vincent Coll pitched out on the floor, literally weighted with lead and thoroughly rubbed out. That was the first time Lottie Coll became hysterical. Someone called and told her and when she got to the place she broke down and screamed. It was the last time she got hysterical, too.

TWO days later she was one of a small group of tight-lipped relatives who watched Vincent Coll lowered beside his brother Peter in a corner of St. Raymond's Cemetery. There was no religious ceremony. The priest had refused the church's auspices. Reporters were kept at a respectable distance by tough looking gentlemen who kept their hands in their coat pockets.

Coll had been the climax in Lottie's life and she had idolized his pre-eminent toughness and bravado. There has been much sentimentalizing about it that is absurd but there seems no reason to doubt that there was real admiration here, at least. And with Coll's death, Lottie tried in her best fashion to carry on his tradition of cool crime.

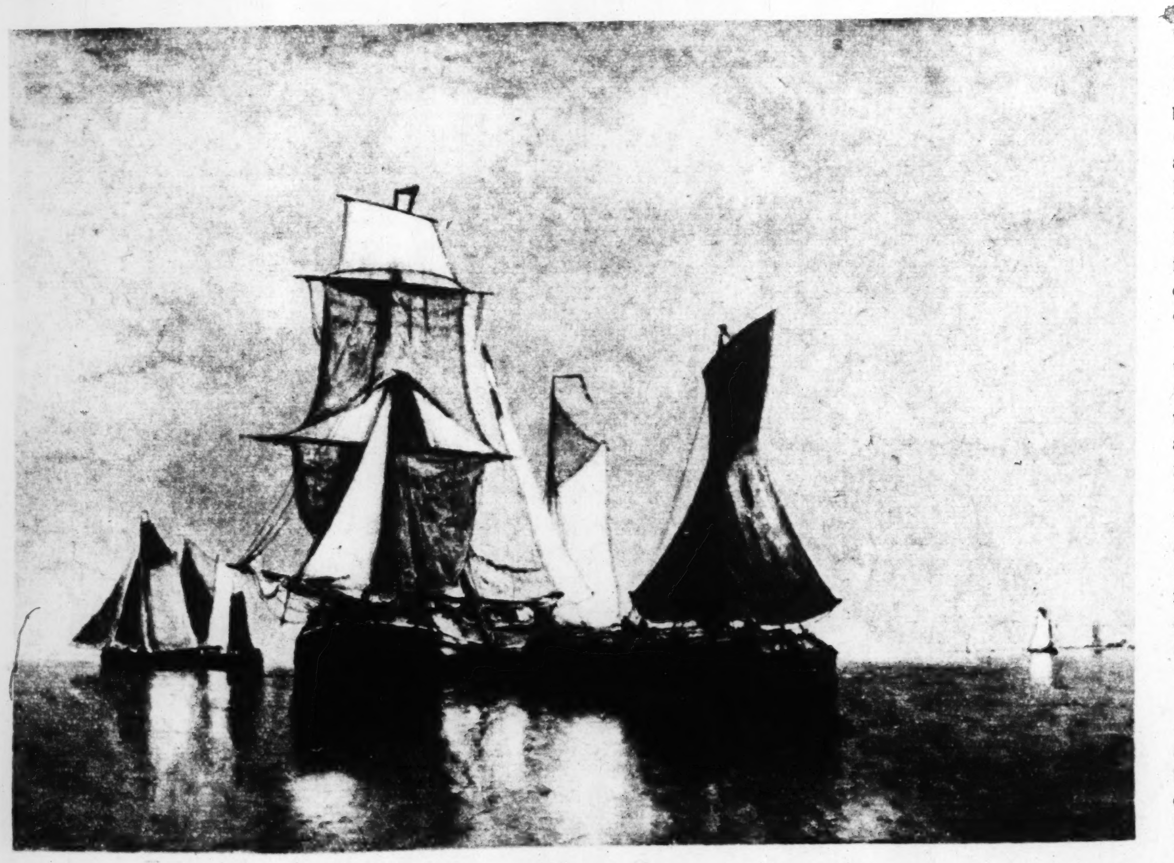
Ventre and Guarino, with whom she was arrested most recently, found her an efficient planner of robberies. They admitted without shame that she was "the brains of the mob." They said that after a dozen or so drug store holdups she said: "I'm tired of this five-and-ten-cent store stuff. You never get more than $50 and you have to work fast. Let's go out for something bigger."

Ventre knew an itinerant jeweler and money lender, Isador Moroh, who carried large sums of money and gems in his pockets. The three contacted him at his favorite corner. Guarino enticed Moroh to the machine by saying that he wanted to buy a ring for the girl in the car. Moroh haggled and questioned and Guarino said: "Let's take him for a ride." Moroh broke into a run and Guarino fired wildly at him. One of the shots killed Millie Schwartz.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Model's boy, Sammy, the former lover with the horn-rim glasses and the pink cheeks, had disappeared. He turned up in New Jersey a few months ago, quite dead. Nobody knew how it happened but a few recalled that after Coll's death, Sam had taken courage and tried to revive an old romance.

NINETEENTH CENTURY EUROPEAN PAINTINGS

THIS Gallery of Nineteenth Century European Paintings is the thirty-first in a series of exhibits being featured weekly at the City Art Museum in Forest Park. Each display in the "Gallery of the Week" presentation will be reproduced in the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine, with an accompanying description of the exhibit by museum authorities.



"On the Scheldt."

The paintings in this gallery mark, for the most part, the influence of the Barbizon and Impressionist movements on the work of French, Dutch, German and Spanish painters of the last quarter of the century.

The French group contains a delightful late sketch of the beach at Etretat by Camille Corot (1796-1875), which recalls both the classical simplicity of his early work and the silvery tones of his famous late period. A small portrait study of the poet, M. Fleury, illustrates the work of his great contemporary, J. F. Millet. The "Noonday Meal," by Veyrassat shows a later use of the subject matter if not the spirit of the latter master, while the beach scene by Guillimet continues the point of view of the earlier impressionism of Monet and Baudin. "The Sentry at the Sultan's Tomb" by Gerome is a skillful descriptive painting, typical in its photographic drawing and matter of fact color of the academic approach in contrast to the examples of impressionism hanging nearby.

The strong influence of the nature-loving Barbizon school is evident in the Dutch and German group as represented by a landscape of Theophile de Bock and "On the Scheldt" by Clays, which in its subject matter recalls the work of his seventeenth century predecessors. This influence of the past is even more apparent in the two delightful church interiors by Bosboom, who seems to have succeeded in regaining the earlier spirit without sacrificing his own individuality.

Less direct seventeenth century Dutch influence may be seen in the quiet descriptive character of "The Sewing Bee in Holland" by Von Uhde. "Behind the Mills" by Fritz Thaulow, both in subject and color, shows a more modern point of view in its clever analysis and ordering of the elusive reflections in moving water.

In the two portraits by Anders Zorn and the figure subject and landscape by Sorolla we have the stamp of two clearly defined artistic personalities who worked after impressionism had gained academic standing and international vogue. Both exhibit the strength and weakness of a literal interpretation and broad sketch-like technique, but show equal ability to secure a vivid statement of the appearance of the subject, whether it be a person or an effect of light.

A number of the paintings in this gallery are the property of Washington University.

And The Things They Do

By WALTER QUERMANN

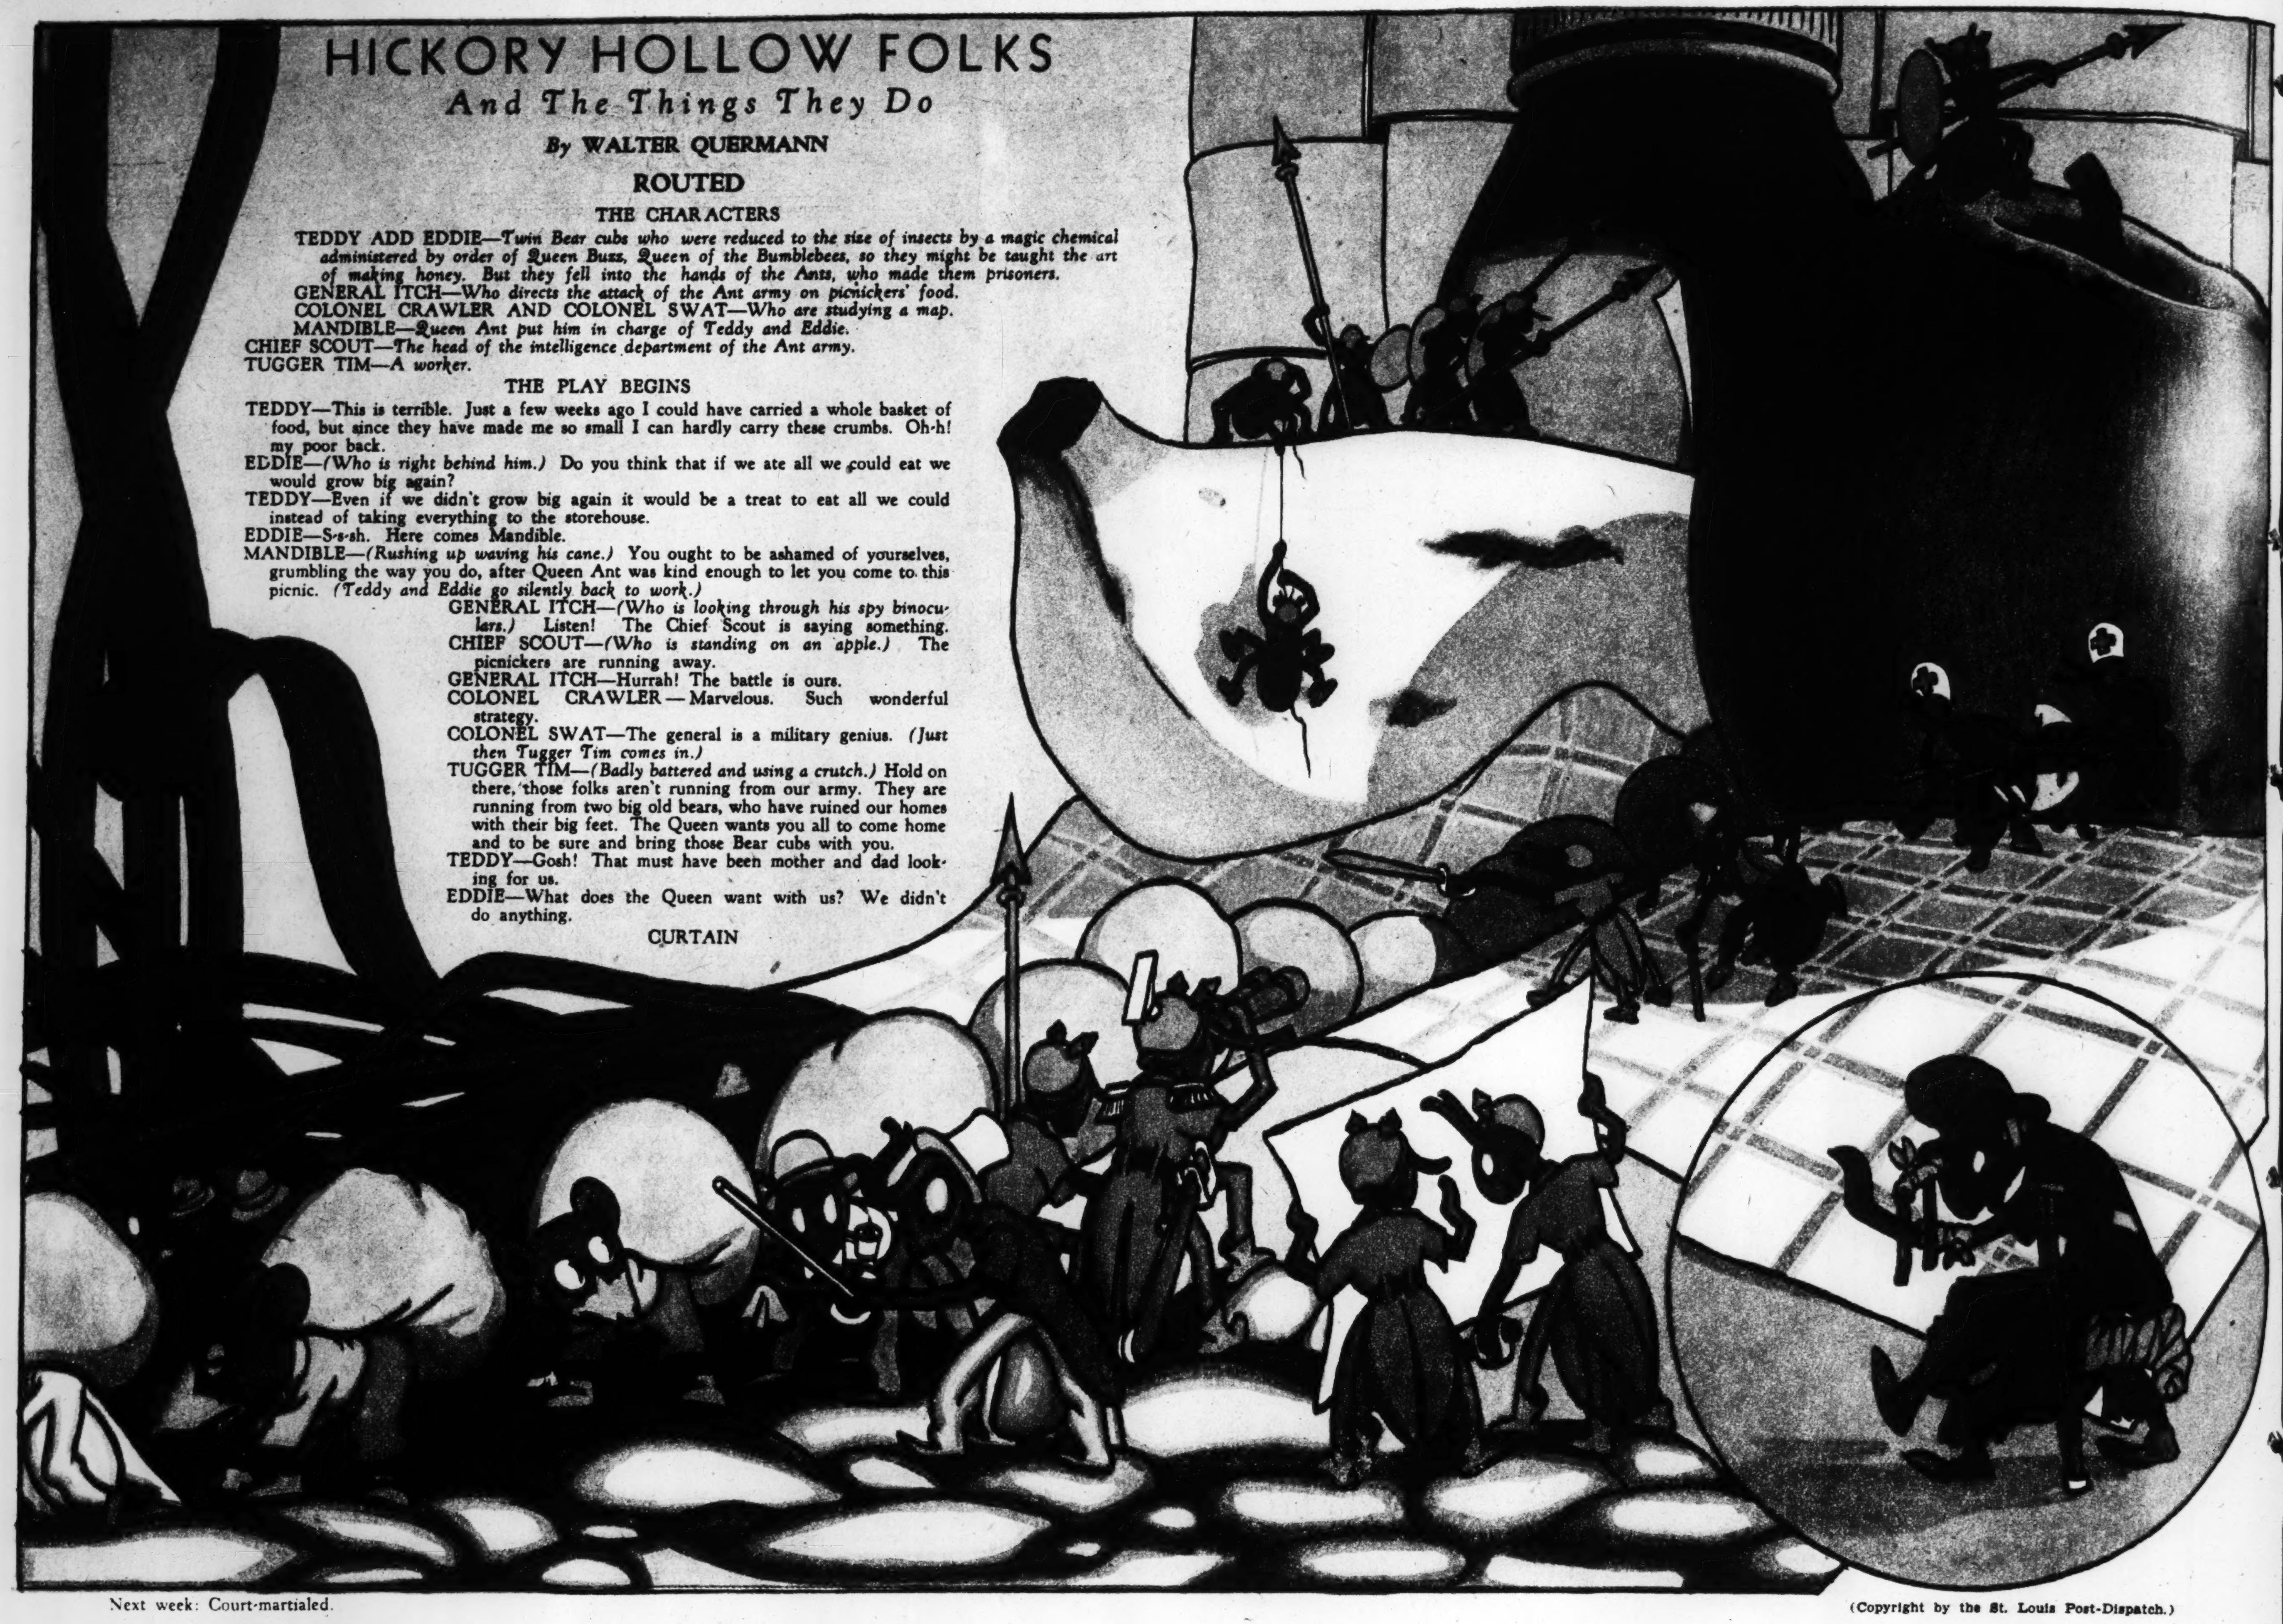
ROUTED



THE CHARACTERS

TEDDY ADD EDDIE—Twin Bear cubs who were reduced to the size of insects by a magic chemical administered by order of Queen Buzz, Queen of the Bumblebees, so they might be taught the art of making honey. But they fell into the hands of the Ants, who made them prisoners.

CHIEF SCOUT—The head of the intelligence department of the Ant army.

TUGGER TIM—A worker.

THE PLAY BEGINS

TEDDY—This is terrible. Just a few weeks ago I could have carried a whole basket of food, but since they have made me so small I can hardly carry these crumbs. Oh-h! my poor back.

EDDIE—(Who is right behind him.) Do you think that if we ate all we could eat we would grow big again?

TEDDY—Even if we didn't grow big again it would be a treat to eat all we could instead of taking everything to the storehouse.

EDDIE—S-s-sh. Here comes Mandible.

MANDIBLE—(Rushing up waving his cane.) You ought to be ashamed of yourselves, grumbling the way you do, after Queen Ant was kind enough to let you come to this picnic. (Teddy and Eddie go silently back to work.)

GENERAL ITCH—(Who is looking through his spy binoculars.) Listen! The Chief Scout is saying something.

CHIEF SCOUT—(Who is standing on an apple.) The picnickers are running away.

GENERAL ITCH—Hurrah! The battle is ours.

COLONEL CRAWLER—Marvelous. Such wonderful strategy.

COLONEL SWAT—The general is a military genius. (Just then Tugger Tim comes in.)

TUGGER TIM—(Badly battered and using a crutch.) Hold on there, those folks aren't running from our army. They are running from two big old bears, who have ruined our homes with their big feet. The Queen wants you all to come home and to be sure and bring those Bear cubs with you.

TEDDY—Gosh! That must have been mother and dad looking for us.

EDDIE—What does the Queen want with us? We didn't do anything.

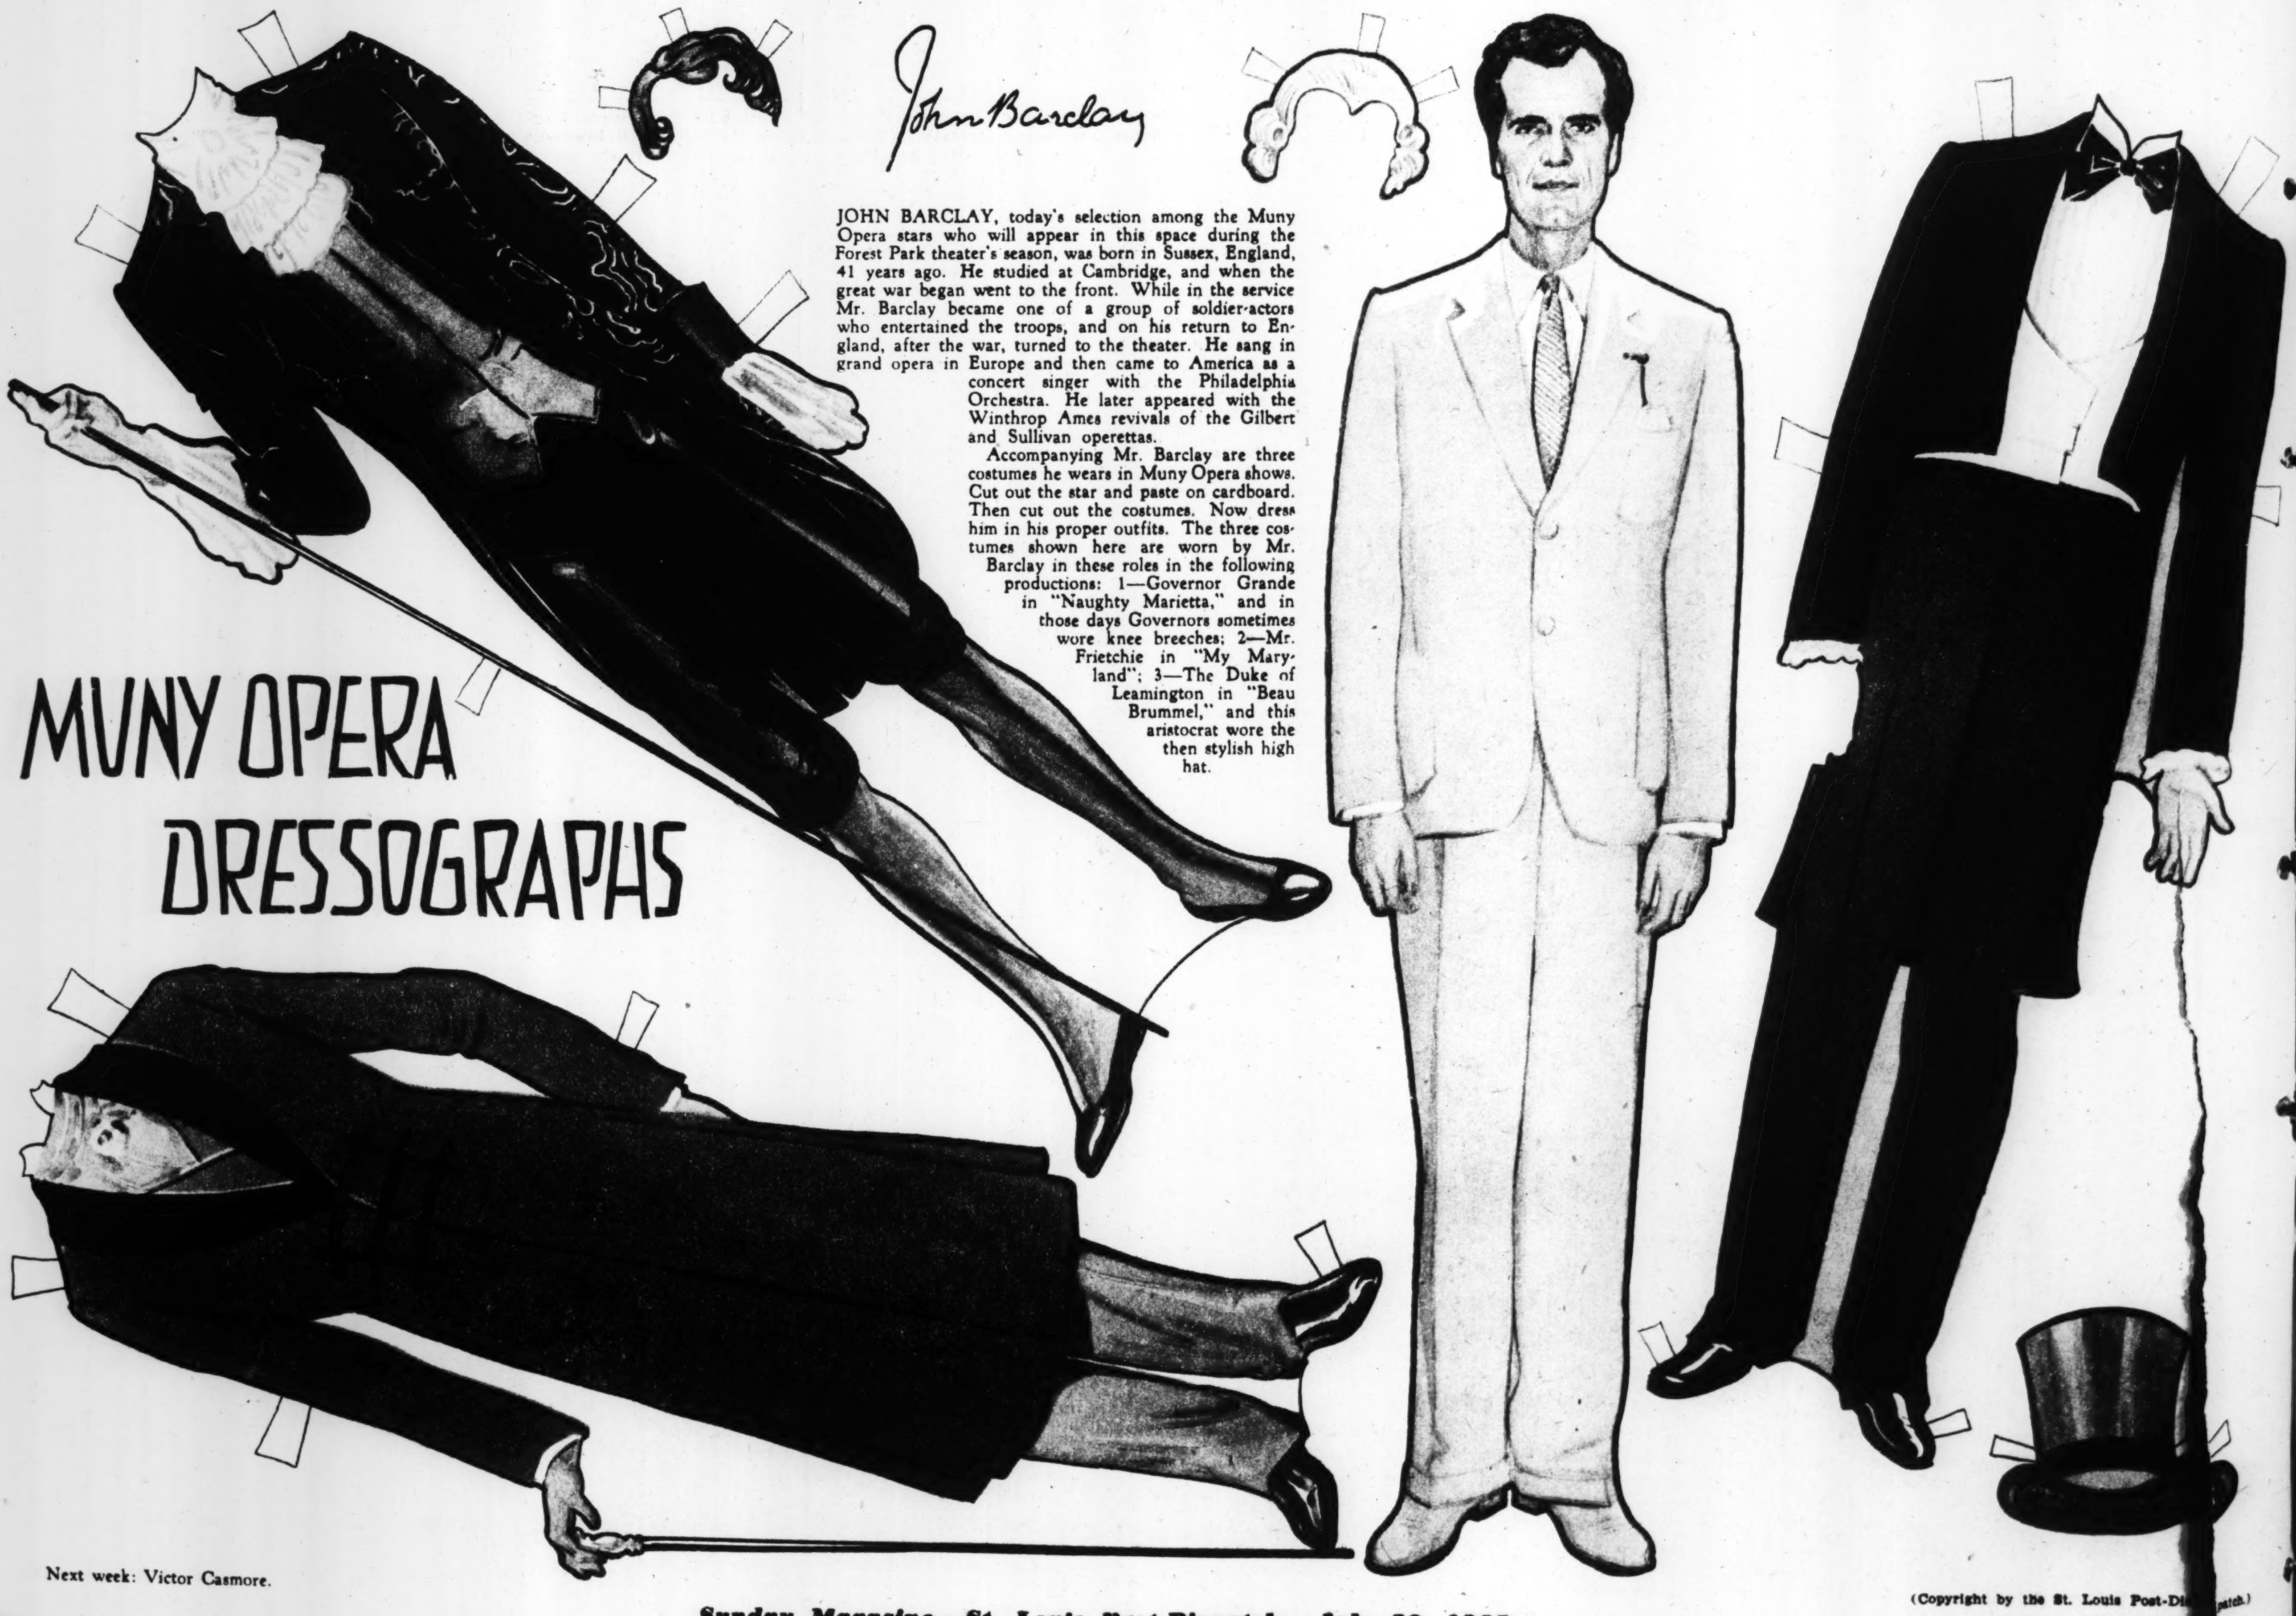
MUNY OPERA DRESSOGRAPHS



John Barclay

JOHN BARCLAY, today's selection among the Muny Opera stars who will appear in this space during the Forest Park theater's season, was born in Sussex, England, 41 years ago. He studied at Cambridge, and when the great war began went to the front. While in the service Mr. Barclay became one of a group of soldier-actors who entertained the troops, and on his return to England, after the war, turned to the theater. He sang in grand opera in Europe and then came to America as a concert singer with the Philadelphia Orchestra. He later appeared with the Winthrop Ames revivals of the Gilbert and Sullivan operettas.

Accompanying Mr. Barclay are three costumes he wears in Muny Opera shows. Cut out the star and paste on cardboard. Then cut out the costumes. Now dress him in his proper outfits. The three costumes shown here are worn by Mr. Barclay in these roles in the following productions: 1—Governor Grande in "Naughty Marietta," and in those days Governors sometimes wore knee breeches; 2—Mr. Frietchie in "My Maryland"; 3—The Duke of Leamington in "Beau Brummel," and this aristocrat wore the then stylish high hat.

Next week: Victor Casmore.

THE ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

JULY 30, 1933

HOMAGE TO KING BABY—Child dancers paying tribute to little Brian Gates after he had won first prize in the Camberwell Baby Show held recently in London.

EUROPEAN DANCE CELEBRITY

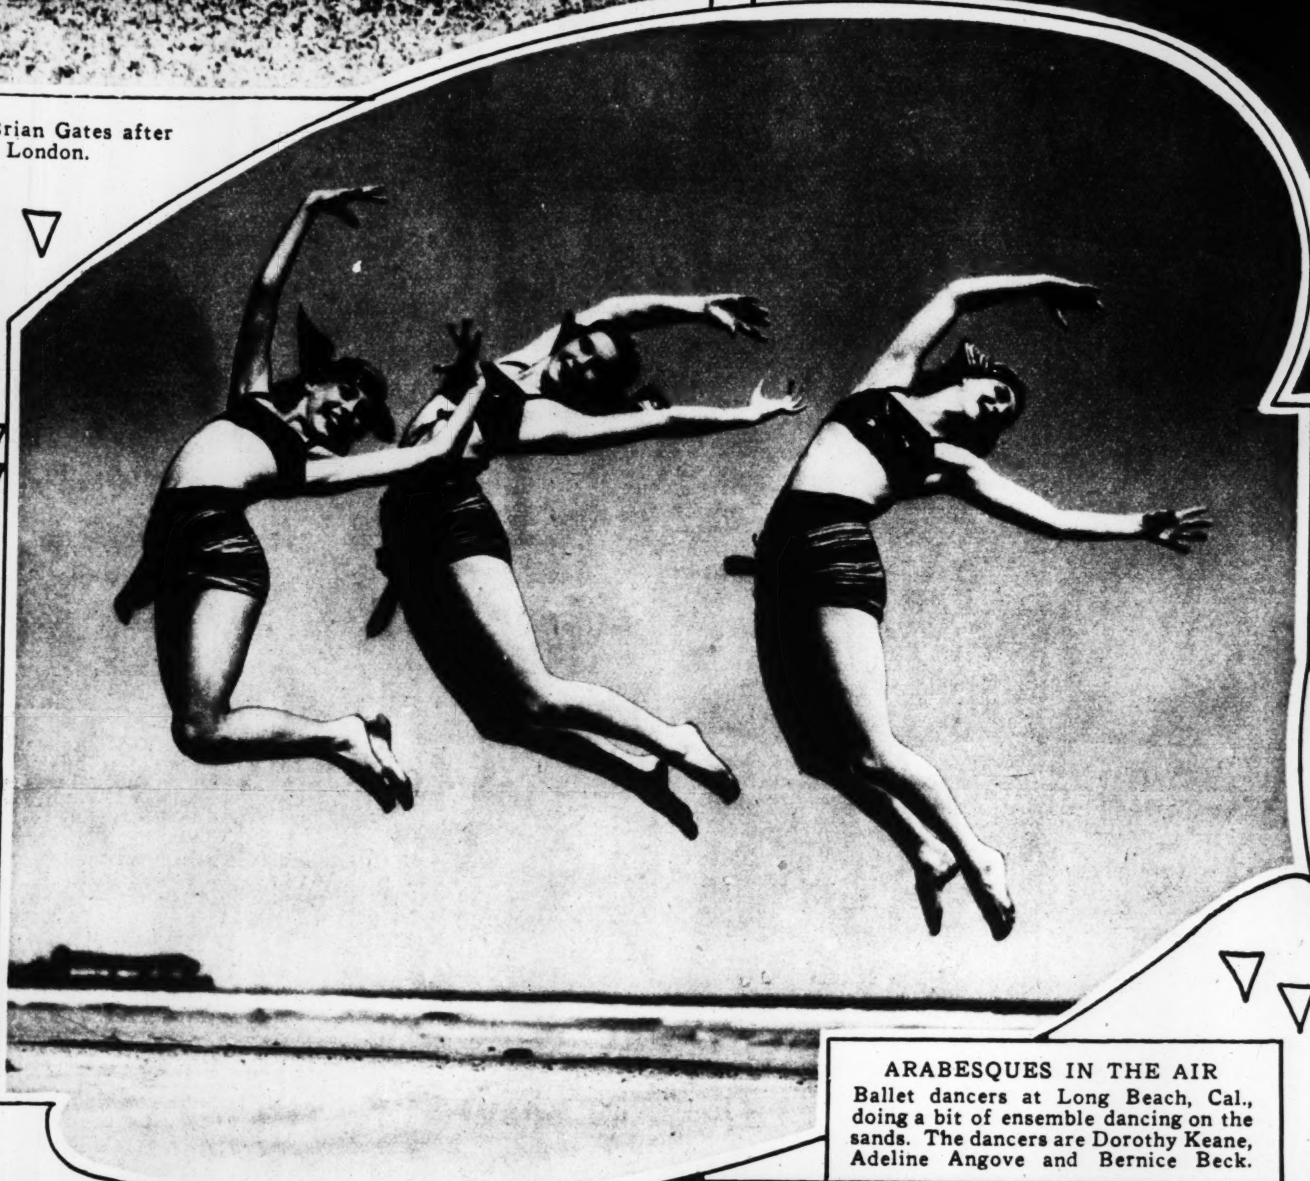
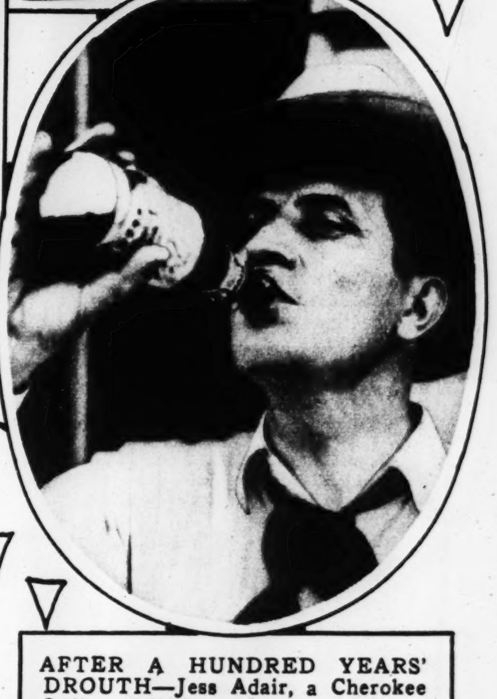
BACK IN THE SWIM

Eleanor Holm, back-stroke champion, left Hollywood to participate in the National Championship Swimming Meet at Jones' Beach, New York.



ARABESQUES IN THE AIR

Ballet dancers at Long Beach, Cal., doing a bit of ensemble dancing on the sands. The dancers are Dorothy Keane, Adeline Angove and Bernice Beck.



AFTER A HUNDRED YEARS' DROUTH—Jess Adair, a Cherokee Indian, drinking a bottle of beer at Muskogee, Ok., thereby celebrating the fact that alcoholic beverage may now be sold in what was once Indian territory. This is the first time in 100 years that an Indian could drink beer legally.

THREE BROTHERS WHO MARRIED THREE SISTERS

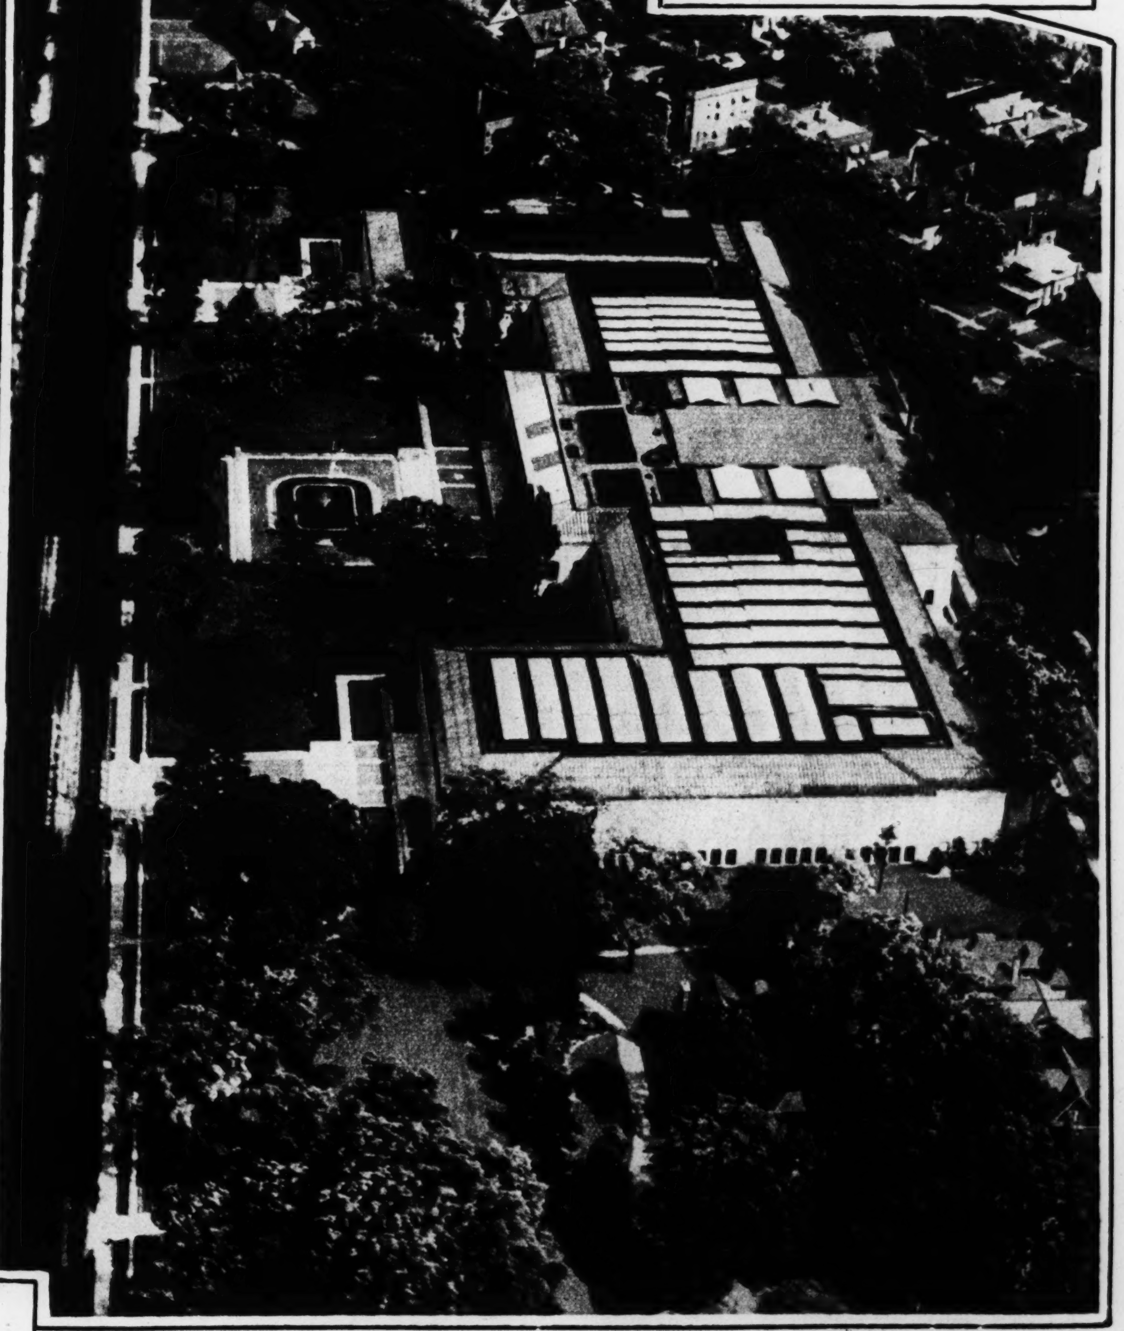
AN OLD WELSH CUSTOM

This is not a clothesline, but the result of a practice observed by the people of Wales to signalize the beginning of a honeymoon trip. The bride and groom are in the automobile and the articles strung across the road are the first household articles that could be found. The picture was made near Merioneth, Wales.



KEEPING COOL WITH WHITEWASH—The Museum of Art at Toledo, O. Each spring the glass skylights are whitewashed, with the result that not only is light intensity reduced but the temperature is lowered about 10 degrees.

MY STARS GEORGE, HAVE YOU BEEN CALMLY SITTING HERE WHILE THAT WOMAN NEXTDOOR WAS SQUEALING SO LOUDLY AND THROWING HERSELF AROUND IN THE HALL?
SQUEALING? OH I HEARD YOU TWO WOMEN TALKING BUT....
SHE BLUNTLY ACCUSED ME OF TAKING A BOTTLE OF HER BLUING OUT OF THE LAUNDRY, TO TRY AND KEEP ME FROM TELLING HER FLATLY THAT SHE GOT A BOTTLE OF BLUING THAT BELONGS TO ME.
AHEM! WELL JO, I'LL SPEAK TO OLD HOMER LATER ON AND..
OH SHE DIDN'T FORGET TO REMIND ME OF HOW FRIENDLY YOU ARE WITH HER HUSBAND. SHE REALIZES THAT I'VE LET HER WALK ALL OVER ME BECAUSE OF THE WAY YOU'D BLUSTER IF I DARED TO SAY ANYTHING TO HER.. SHE KNOWS...
I'LL SPEAK TO HOMER RIGHT NOW.
LISTEN HOMER, WHAT IS ALL THE SHOOTING ABOUT?...WHO REALLY GOT WHOSE BLUING AND..?
SH-H! NOT SO LOUD GEORGE...
THE LITTLE WOMAN IS BOILING. LET'S GO DOWN IN THE BASEMENT WHERE WE....HERE SHE IS NOW. LET'S GO!
P-SST! I HEAR HER AT THE DOOR, LISTENING. I'LL HAVE TO THREATEN YOU A LITTLE, GEORGE, FOR EFFECT.
YES THAT'S WHAT I SAID, BUNGLE, I WANT YOU TO COME DOWNSTAIRS LIKE A MAN WITH ME AND EXPLAIN ABOUT THAT BLUING!
SH-H! NOT SO LOUD OR MY WIFE WILL HEAR YOU.
LISTEN HOMER, THERE'S NO USE EVEN TRYING TO STRAIGHTEN THIS AFFAIR OUT. EACH WOMAN CLAIMS THAT THE OTHER ONE SHOULD HAND OVER A BOTTLE OF BLUING AND YOU KNOW THAT CAN'T BE...
GEORGE, WHY NOT LET ME RUN OUT AND BUY TWO BOTTLES OF BLUING THEN WE CAN HAND ONE BOTTLE TO EACH OF THE LADIES, GET THE IDEA?
WHAT AN IDEA! WHAT A WOW! AND TO LOOK AT HIM YOU'D THINK HE WAS JUST AN ORDINARY THINKER. HAND A BOTTLE OF BLUING TO BOTH WIVES! THAT'S PERFECT. A SURE-FIRE MILLION DOLLAR SOLUTION!
HOMER OLD MAN, ONCE MORE LET ME COMPLIMENT YOU ON YOUR IDEA. IT'S PERFECT! WELL LET'S TODDLE UPSTAIRS.
YOU GO FIRST, GEORGE. I- MY WIFE IS AT THE DOOR BE SURE AND KEEP HER FROM SEEING YOUR BOTTLE OF BLUING. ALSO LOOK DEJECTED BECAUSE YOU HAD TO GIVE UP THE BOTTLE OF BLUING. GET IT?
HOMER ARGUED AND ARGUED. FINALLY I GOT SORE AND TO AVOID MORE TROUBLE HE HANDED ME YOUR BOTTLE OF BLUING AND APOLOGIZED FOR HIS WIFE HAVING IT.
GOOD! NOW I'LL GO NEXTDOOR AND BY WAY OF NO HARM, THANK THAT SNIPPY WOMAN FOR ADMITTING SHE HAD MY......
YOU GO AND TALK TO HER? MY WORD JO, WE....THAT IS.. AH, HOMER AND I AGREED WE'D ALL JUST FORGET THE MATTER NOW AND...
WHAT! ME SAY NOTHING TO THAT WOMAN WHEN I'VE WAITED MONTHS FOR AN OPPORTUNITY LIKE THIS WHERE SHE HAD TO ADMIT SHE IS WRONG? NO SIR!
...AND SO DARLING, WHEN GEORGE GAVE ME THE BLUING AND EXPLAINED THAT YOUR HUSBAND ADMITTED YOU HAD MADE A "MISTAKE," I THOUGHT I'D JUST STEP OVER AND THANK YOU FOR......
MY HUSBAND ADMITS I WAS WRONG? WHY HONEY, YOUR HUSBAND ADMITTED TO HOMER THAT YOU WERE WRONG! AND HE SAID YOU GAVE ME BACK MY BOTTLE OF BLUING.
OH DARLING I'M SURE GEORGE WOULDN'T....
AND HONEY I'M EQUALLY POSITIVE HOMER WOULD NOT....
HA! THERE'S THE BABY WHO FIGURED OUT THIS BUST, LOOKING OVER HERE FOR SYMPATHY. SUCH CRUST!
ONE CONSOLATION IS THAT HE'S IN JUST AS TOUGH A SPOT AS I AM.

I'VE GOT TO WAIT FOR WORD FROM THAT CAR, JANE—EVERYTHING DEPENDS ON FINDING THAT WATCH!
IF IT'S THAT IMPORTANT, I'LL WAIT, TOO
WHILE JEFF—
WHAT LUCK, RANSOM? WAS THE THURMALINE FORMULA IN THE HAUL?
NO LUCK! AND YET I SEARCHED CARL THOROUGHLY—HE COULDN'T HAVE GOTTEN AWAY WITH A TOOTHPICK—
YET HE HAD IT WITH HIM—SAY—WHERE'S THAT TAXI? CARL IS LOOKING FOR IT—SAYS HE LEFT HIS WATCH IN IT—
THAT'S IT—HE MUST HAVE THE FORMULA IN THE WATCH—QUICK! I KNOW WHERE THE TAXI IS—

FREE TO BOYS AND GIRLS!

BOYS! GIRLS! How would you like to be able to step up to the plate and sock the old ball over the fence for a home run like Babe Ruth? If you would—send the coupon over at the right!

For the Mighty Babe—The Sultan of Swat—has arranged with the makers of Wheaties to give every boy and girl who eats Wheaties a wonderful, marvelous and amazing little book which, when you snap the pages on your thumb, SHOWS YOU exactly how to swing a bat—from start to finish—to hit a home run like the great Babe Ruth.

All you do is swing the same way he does. And then watch the old apple sail when you step up to the plate.

Remember—you get this wonderful Babe Ruth Moviebook, which shows you how to hit a home run, for eating Wheaties—the breakfast of champions. And you'll want to do that because as Babe Ruth himself says: "Eat lots of Wheaties for breakfast every morning like baseball players do . . . 'cause there's nothing like them to give you energy and pep." And these great big crispy flakes of whole wheat taste great with milk or cream and sugar.

Ask your mother to get you Wheaties from the grocery store right away. Start eating them. And send in One (1) Wheaties box top with the coupon at right for your FREE Babe Ruth Moviebook that shows you his secret of knocking out home runs. Send the coupon—and learn how to hit home runs like Babe Ruth.

TO MOTHERS AND DADS!

If you want your child to eat every morning a substantial breakfast of Whole Wheat—"The Staff of Life"—then serve Wheaties . . . crisped, golden brown flakes of real Whole Wheat. Wheat, as brought out at the time of the acceptance of Wheaties by the Committee on Foods of the American Medical Association, supplies nearly twice the body-building protein and a greater percentage of minerals than even such commonly used foods as corn and rice. Get Wheaties at any grocery store. You'll be glad you did.
